While the U.N. Assembly busies itself with the urgent problems of war, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Mrs. D. B. Sinclair, assistant to the deputy minister of welfare in Canada, discuss the humanitarian aspects of the United Nations. They are both delegates to the U.N.'s Third Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Committee. — Central Press Canadian.

HERO'S GRAVE

This lonely grave near the Ethiopia-Eritrea border is the resting place of Canada's first Victoria Cross winner, Col. Alexander Robert Dunn. Col. Dunn won the medal as a lieutenant with the 11th Hussars in the Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava in the Crimean War, Oct. 25, 1854. Born in Toronto, where he was educated at Upper Canada College, Col. Dunn was killed on a hunting trip after a punitive expedition to Ethiopia in 1864. Athabaskan Has U.S. Admiral's Flag as Souvenir Tokyo, Nov. 8 — (CP)—The Canadian destroyer Athabaskan, now at a Japanese naval base after a tour of duty in Korean waters, has the flag of a United States admiral as one of her wardroom souvenirs.

The flag, that of Vice - Admiral Arthur Struble, commander-of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, was flown from the destroyer's masthead in a recent landing operation in Korean waters.

The blue, three-starred flag was broken out when the Admiral stepped aboard the ship to take charge of the operation.

The U.S. officer was welcomed by Cmdr. Robert P. Welland of McHeary, Man., the destroyer's commanding officer.

Welland said the Admiral was "very interested" in the ship's history and he complimented us on our part in the operation."

Afterwards, Struble presented the Canadian ship with his flag as a memento.

The Athabaskan is one of three Canadian destroyers which have taken part in landing and bombardment operations off Korea as well as performing patrol duties and screening larger United Nations fleet units.

The other is in port with the Athabaskan while the Sioux still is at sea with Commonwealth units off Korea's west coast.

PEARSON TO REPORT

Ottawa, Nov. 8 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson will fly to Ottawa from New York tomorrow to report to the cabinet on the crisis raised by Chinese intervention in Korea.

It will be one of several trips he has made from the sessions of the United Nations General Assembly to put his cabinet colleagues in the picture on pressing problems.

Atlantic Pact Council to Meet On Re-Armament

London, Nov. 8 (Reuters) — A full meeting of the Atlantic pact council of foreign ministers is planned for the middle of December in Brussels to break the deadlock over German re-armament, an authoritative source said Tuesday.

The foreign ministers will then have before them reports of discussions on the German re-armament question by the military committee, their deputies council, and the defence ministers, who are expected to have another meeting in London at the end of this month.

The military committee already has had tentative discussions on the military aspects of including German contingents in the Atlantic pact army since the recent meeting of the defence ministers in Washington.

The foreign ministers deputies, some of whom were present at the Washington meetings, are to continue discussions of the political aspects when they meet in London next Monday.

Greeks Have Word For Stalin's Talent

London, Nov. 8 — (AP)—Even Stalin's most enthusiastic admirers in Moscow admit the ancient Greeks had a word for him which the Russians apparently lack.

This was the beginning of a message to the Soviet Prime Minister on the eve of the 33rd anniversary of the Russian Revolution as broadcast by the Moscow radio:

"Dear Joseph Vissarionovich (Stalin's first two names), you, great coryphaeus of science."

Dictionaries define coryphaeus as the "leader of the chorus or a school of thought," from Greek usage.

Noranda Stack Will be Replaced

Noranda, Que., Nov. 8—(CP)—One of northwestern Quebec's best-known landmarks, Noranda Mines' 425-foot smoke stack, is to be torn down because it is cracking. Since 1927 the stack has belched about 200 tons of sulphur daily combined with smoke gases from the huge copper and gold smelter.

However, it has been replaced by a new stack even higher, 500 feet. In conformity with air transport board regulations it has been painted in gaudy colors to guide low-flying planes.

Mother is Charged With Child's Murder

Owen Sound, Nov. 8—(CP)—Mrs. Joan Mary Marchello, wife of Steven Marchello of Owen Sound, was charged with murder when she appeared in court Tuesday.

The charge was laid by Crown Attorney C. C. Middlebro, K.C., following police investigation into the death of Mrs. Marchello's five-month old son, Edward. Police said the infant was found dead in the Marchello home Tuesday in a bucket of water.

Missing Woman Working in Restaurant

Welland, Ont., Nov. 8 (CP) — Mrs. Fred Jaworski, 22, reported to have disappeared in Toronto last Saturday night while on her way from Sudbury to visit her parents here, has been working as a waitress at Trench, Que., 300 miles north of Montreal, her brother said today.

Mrs. Everett Lauzon said she had received a telegram from the girl, who said she was on her way home.

The girl was married about three weeks ago to a man employed at Levack, near Sudbury. She previously worked as a waitress at a hydro project a few miles from Mattawa, Ont.

Woman Cop Gives Lessen in Judo

Detroit, Nov. 8—(CP)—Virgil Wilday, 29, chose the wrong woman for his attentions in a Detroit theatre Monday. He ended up with a lesson in judo from policewoman Kay Wells and a charge of assault and battery.

Miss Wells said the man snapped her garter through her dress.

The policewoman went into action, chased Wilday into the theatre lobby and sent him crashing to the floor with a judo hold.

Appeal Court Upholds Will

Toronto, Nov. 8 — (CP)—The Ontario Appeal Court Monday upheld a will in which $12,914 was left to Elsie Beal of Oshawa and $500 to Velma Poynter of Stratford.

It decided that Lawrence E. Hewitt, who died of burns in his garage at Whitby two years ago, was sane when he made his will in favor of his two women acquaintances and cut off his wife and two daughters. The family contested the will, claiming that at the time it was drawn up, Hewitt suffered from a delusion that he owned part of his wife's hairdressing business in Clinton.

Legion to Call For Conscription

Ottawa, Nov. 8 (CP) — An authoritative call for conscription will be placed on the government's doorstep this week.

It is expected to come in presentation of the Canadian Legion's annual brief to the cabinet Friday.

The Legion's executive council opens a four-day meeting here tomorrow under the new Dominion president, Group Capt. Air Watts of Vancouver.

Legion headquarters said the meeting will discuss the defence of Canada, pensions, veterans' allowances and the welfare of war widows and orphans.

There was no mention of conscription but the recent national convention in Winnipeg called for "total preparedness," including peacetime conscription of manpower, and that message is expected to be relayed to the cabinet Friday.

Moose Population On the Increase Says Department

Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP)—Ontario's moose population appears to be increasing, the Lands Department announced Tuesday.

The department has been making a moose survey for almost a year. Its research workers report that study of preliminary data indicates improvement in the numbers of moose but they still have to examine information coming in from many parts of the province.

"In carrying out the survey, field workers are assessing the local moose situation in every trapline and township across the entire range of the animal in Ontario," the department announcement said. "Annual questionnaires received from trappers, hunters, guides, outfitters and others are used by the department mammalogists to forecast future population trends.

"The most general improvement in the moose population has taken place in the far northern sections of the province. Biologists point out that the situation varies from place to place, with definite improvement appearing in some localities while others remain quite critical."

Presbytery Comments On Ministers Salary

Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP)—Rev. K. M. Glazier said today he doubted that a minister could support a family in Toronto on $3,000 a year. He told a meeting of the Presbyterian Church's Toronto East Presbytery that it wasn't right to invite a rural pastor to take a city charge at that salary.

Over his objection that no definite promise of housing accommodation had been promised, the Presbytery approved a call to Rev. Hugh MacDonald of Arthur, Ont., to take a charge at Fallingbrook Church here. One delegate replied that with a housing allowance the salary would be the same as $3,200 a year.

L. Ontario Water Levels

Ottawa, Nov. 8 — Water levels of Lake Ontario at Kingston as reported by the Federal Hydrographic and Map service are given as follows: 3½ inches lower than September, 1950; 11 inches higher than October, 1949; 21½ inches lower than the highest October; 30½ inches higher than the lowest October; and four inches higher than average.

REDMEN AWAY!

Coach Moe Gobeil's Redmen face a stiff test tonight when they take the Peterborough Eagles in their Littlock sarie. The Eagles have turned back the Kingston Nylons twice this season as against no defeats and the ex-Legionnaires will be tough birds of play to defeather in their own nest.

The Redmen went through a stiff workout last night when Gobeil put them through their paces after Monday's effort against the strong Peterborough Petes. There is a possibility he might shake up one or two of the lines for tonight's tussle since it is his method to experiment for the first two or three games in order to bring out the strongest front line combinations.

THREE IN A ROW!

Kingston Nylons ran wild in the third period against the Queen's University Combines in Kingston Monday night, scoring five goals in a driving effort. According to the Kingston report, the Combines are composed of seven students and eight Kingston players. They have lost their first three starts, two to the Petes and one to their city rivals.

BELLEVILLE IN T. V.

Tomorrow night Ronny Fralick and Harry Semark plus Johnny Whalen are spearheading a meeting of what is hoped to be a city entry in the Trent Valley Hockey League. Seems as though Freer Art Duncan, back for his fourth sentence as head of the loop, and his executive have lifted the ruling barring teams from centres with 5,000 plus population. Trenton it is reported has filed application for entry and with the Frankford - Bata Combines, Campbellford, Brighton, Norwood and Marmora should round out a good league.

Back to the Belleville entry, for the moment. Fralick informs us the team is being gathered together to provide hockey for players who cannot make the OHA requirements. And there should be quite a few of the lads including such people as Maurice LeFort, et al. The boys hope to get an outstanding bevy of puckchasers to perform under Belleville colors in the TVL, but they need assistance. Anyone desiring to help them, either as a sponsor or in any way, financial or otherwise, should get in touch with Fralick or attend the meeting tomorrow night. It is understood the squad will play its home games in Brighton. Movie power to 'em. The meeting is being held at the YMCA starting at 8 o'clock.

DOTS 'N' FLASHES . . .

Peter Jones did his hockeying from the sidelines Monday night . . . Dick Quinet, Peterborough sportsman, has applied for the position of arena manager in the new Kitchener Memorial Centre . . . Vern Goyer was named captain of the Redmen prior to Monday night's game with Lou Schmidt tabbed as one alternate captain . . . Another will be appointed . . . After years of freezing our tootsies, and duckling winter blasts in the ice-level press box in Memorial Arena, we have at last received the big break . . . From now on we'll be more or less comfortably ensconced in the radio-press box high above the scene of battle . . . Our sincere thanks to the Arena Commission for the installation of loudspeakers in the PB where we can receive the information on plays, penalties, direct from the penalty timekeepers doghouse . . . Toronto and Rangers Resume Hostilities While Detroit Meets Boston Bruins in NHL

(By The Canadian Press)

As a hockey player, Max Bentley has a reputation for being at his best when he feels off color.

Toronto's dipsy-doodle centre from Delisle, Sask., must indeed be feeling poorly this season, for he's at the top of the heap in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

The pearly lad's new to the 30-year-old Maple Leaf star—he led the league race in 1946-47. But in recent years he hasn't been up as high among the scorers as he used to be a few seasons back. He wasn't in the top 10 last season.

Max credits his line mates, plus a potent Leafs' power-play—with improving his scoring status this year. He says that Joe Klukay of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Danny Lewicki, from the Lakehead, have the second best line he's ever played with.

Still tops in Max's book over a period of seven ice hitch in NHL is the line he centred with Chicago Black Hawks before he was traded to Toronto in the 1947-48 season. His wings there were his brother Doug and Bill Mosienko.

The league-leading Leafs renew hostilities tonight with the hard-playing New York Rangers in New York, while the second-place Detroit Red Wings invade Boston for a tussle with the Juckless Bruins.

Thursday night's lone scheduled game will find the third-place Montreal Canadiens in Chicago for a joust with the Black Hawks, who hold down fourth place.

Toronto and New York tied 2-2 in the Ontario capital Saturday night. A loss for the Leafs tonight would mean the end of an unbeaten streak of 10 games—seven wins and three ties.

If you've been wondering whatever became of the Leafs' William (Wild Bill) Ezinicki, he's doing all right with Toronto's Pittsburgh farm club in the American League.

Asked yesterday about rumors that Ezinicki is on the trading block, Conny Smythe, Leafs general manager, said that if Bill is good enough to play in the NHL that's where he'll play.

"If I haven't a place for him, we'll find some club that has."

Ezinicki, who reported late this season on the grounds he wasn't in shape, was sent to Pittsburgh to get into form. He was told he'd be given a chance to move up again once he got into shape.

"But," asked Smythe, "where could I put him on my club today?"

CALUMETS NOW SECOND

Cornwall, Ont., Nov. 8 (CP)—Cornwall Calumets climbed into second place behind North Bay Black Hawks in the eastern Canada Senior Hockey League here Tuesday night defeating Ottawa Army 9-2 before 1,000 fans.

After a close checking first period Cornwall scored five goals in the second tilt to take a 6-1 lead.

Jim McEwen and Paul Laforiane shared scoring honors for Cals with two goals apiece. Other Cornwall scorers were Jean Paysette, Chieffie Garand, Bert Lilly, Jim Denneny and Mickey Flanigan.

Army was trailing 5-0 in the second when Pete Leichnitz, recently acquired Ottawa forward, notched the soldiers' first goal. Maynie Darch got the other for Army in the final period.

Big Walt Dropo Rookie of Year In American L.

New York, Nov. 8 (AP) —Big Walt Dropo, Boston Red Sox first-baseman, has been voted Rookie of the year for 1950 in the American League.

Dropo outdistanced the opposition with 15 votes from the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association. Ed (Whitey) Ford, New York Yankee southpaw pitcher, was second with six. Chico Carrasquel, Chicago White Sox shortstop sensation, was third with two votes. One writer failed to vote.

Boston recalled Dropo from Louisville in early season when Billy Goodman was injured. The hulking 27-year-old giant, who had flopped in a 1948 trial, came through in terrific fashion.

Dropo started hitting in sensational style and never stopped. His long distance power earned him the fans' vote as first-base starter on the league all-star team in July.

Playing in 126 games for the Red Sox, Dropo collected 180 hits for a .323 average. He slammed 34 home runs and tied teammate Vern Stephens for the league lead with 144 runs batted in.

Ford, the baby-faced Yankee lefthander who has been accepted by the army, came up in July from the Kansas City farm. He flashed to nine straight wins before he lost on relief in the final week of the season.

The youngster, then 21, pitched and won the final game of the World Series from the Phillies. Only an error by Gene Woodling kept him from going the route.

Carrasquel, purchased by the White Sox for $35,000 from Brooklyn's farm system, ousted the veteran Luke Appling from the shortstop job in spring training.

The spry, 22-year-old oldster from Venezuela hit .283 in 141 games. He played an outstanding game at shortstop, probably next to the Yanks' Phil Rizzuto in defensive ability.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—Now that peace has descended over the amateur hockey world (remember that fuss about the 1948 Olympics?) Tommy Lockhard is looking for a sponsor to help carry out the rest of his big idea...

Tommy, a persistent as well as a talkative gent, wants to develop a few first-class hockey players in the United States... They're not, coming from the "open" class teams, made up of imported players, nor from the "Senior U.S." group... The latter class has displayed a complete lack of professional prospects, even though the champion Bates Mill team of Lewiston, Me., is going to Europe to shoot for the world amateur title this winter...

Tommy's hopes lie in the "Peewees," the 12-14-year-old division he is plugging so hard... "We'll have four teams in New York this winter; nine in New Haven. They even have a fathers' organization there. Maybe I'll bring eight teams to New York—or Atlantic City—for the championship next spring," Tommy sputters.

"Any time anybody wants to organize a peewee team or league we'll help 'em." ... That's where the need of a sponsor comes in... Somebody must pay the expenses to bring the kids to that tournament, and the peewees don't make money.

Muhlenberg's football team devoted four hours to a drill on forward-pass defence one evening last week, working until long after dark preparing for Saturday's tussle with Lehigh... Next morning their press agent, Bill Brandt, encountered Karlton Ball, a defence halfback, and remarked: "You look as if you had tossed around a lot in your sleep last night."... Ball pried his eyelids apart and replied "No sir, it was Lehigh tossing. I was trying to get there and knock the ball down."

Frenchman Begins Road Back to Shot at Title

New York, Nov. 8 (AP) —The bitter memory of those 15 long seconds at Detroit has begun to fade from the mind of Laurent Dauthuille.

In two days the 26-year-old Frenchman begins the road back. And the path no longer appears thorny to the handsome lavader who now fights out of Montreal.

Just last Friday his wife gave birth to twins—a boy and a girl —and this Friday night Laurent takes on Teddy Young, 23-year-old idol of New York's Greenwich Village, in the main ten at Madison Square Garden.

It's a match that shapes up as a real thriller. The winner has a good chance to get a shot at Ilocky Grazlano in the Garden—fighting boxing's golden boy in the garden is like receiving an annuity.

But let's go back to the 15 seconds. Last Sept. 13 in Detroit, Dauthuille was just that many ticks of the clock away from winning the world's middleweight championship from Jake LaMotta. The Gallic gladiator was far ahead on points going into the 15th round, and only had to be on his feet at the end to carry away the crown.

But with foolish bravado he went out to nail Jake and the Bronx Bull caught him with a left hook. Out went Laurent and goodbye title.

Earning a second try is going to be much more difficult.

What would he do if he met Jake again?

"I'd be more careful, but I will win that title, yet," he said through an interpreter.

Dauthuille, a fine boxer as well as a puncher, has a 5-to-2 chance to win in his Garden debut. He will have to be in his best form, however, to beat the hard-hitting game New Yorker.

Manager of Year Award Given Eddie Sawyer

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)— Affable Eddie Sawyer, a former college professor who never played in inning in the big leagues, today was voted baseball's "Manager of the Year" in a country-wide poll conducted by The Associated Press.

The bold, eye-smiling Sawyer, who last season led Philadelphia Phillies to their first pennant in 35 years, edged out Casey Stengel of the World champion New York Yankees in a close battle.

Sawyer was named on 164 of the 321 ballots cast by sports writers and baseball Stengel who won the honor in 1949, received 134 votes to Ralph a close second.

Four other field leaders received recognition. Red Rolfe, who did a brilliant job in bringing the Detroit Tigers home second to the Yankees in the American League, was third with 81 votes. Lee Durocher's feat in directing the New York Giants to third place in the National League won him fourth place with 23 votes. Steve O'Neill, who replaced Joe McCarthy in June with Boston Red Sox, got five votes. Bucky Harris of Washington Senators received four.

Sawyer, often referred to as the Phillies "secret weapon," leaped into prominence practically overnight. His appointment from Toronto Maple Leafs in the middle of the 1948 season to succeed Ben Chapman as manager of the Phils created a stir among baseball men and baseball fans everywhere. Few persons had ever heard of him.

"Who is Sawyer?" the fans asked. Today they know. They know that the one-time Ithica College biology teacher is a sound manager who owns the respect of every one of his players.

Partly because he never became a major league player, Sawyer always has had sympathy and understanding for the minor-leaguers in his charge. The 1950 edition of the Phils are largely his own creation. They are, for the most part, the same fellows he had under his wing as Philly farm manager at Utica and Toronto, And despite his fatherly aspects with the play...rs whose destiny he molds, Sawyer is the second youngest manager in the majors. He is only 40.

St. Catharines Moves to Top In Junior Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Marlboros ran thank a crafty veteran and an upcoming youngster for their scanty two-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Major series.

Overtime goals by veteran Bus Wycherley and young Bobby Hassard gave Dukes a 7-6 win Tuesday night over Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen. That left Toronto in first place with eight points, two more than Toronto St. Michael's.

St. Mikes meet Hamilton Tigers in Hamilton tonight. Tigers and Dutchmen are tied for the cellar with four points each.

In the O.H.A. Junior 'A' series, St. Catharines Teepees blanked Guelph Biltmores 4-0 and moved into first place in the 10-team Junior circuit. It was the Teepees' fourth win in their last five starts.

The Senior game was a dingdong battle that saw Dutchmen shoot into an early 2-0 lead behind goals by Dinny Flanagan and Mickey Roth. Red Johnson, Jack MacKenzie and Al Buchanan then fired 16 straight to give Dukes a 3-2 lead by the end of the first period.

MacKenzie scored the lone goal of the second frame, but Dutchmen opened up in the third and Billy Flick scored two rapid-fire goals to knot the count. Bob Artiglieri for Dutchmen and Al Buchanan for Dukes counted before regulation time ended, and Wycherley and Hassard put the game in the bag.

Fine Goaltending

Shutout goaltending by Don Simmons and a two-goal burst by captain Wayne Brown gave St. Catharines their victory in the only junior game of the night.

Toronto's game was Toronto Marlboros facing Waterloo Hurricanes in Waterloo, and Windsor Spitfires meeting Stratford Kroehlers in Stratford. A Stratford victory can tie them with Teepees for first place.

Teepees held a wide edge over Biltmores, and gave Cliff Hicks a hot time. Hicks handled 41 shots, Simmons 24.

St. Kitts moved into the lead in the first period when Al Teal scored unassisted. Brown took a Teal pass to bang in the only goal of the middle period. A solo effort by Brown and a three-way ganging attack finished off by Buddy Boone produced the final two goals.

Teepees were playing under coach Leroy Goldsworthy of the parent Buffalo Bisons of the American League. Regular coach Rudy Pilous is under 10-game suspension for yanking his team from the ice in protest against a referee's decision.

Sacos Take Lead In Major "B" Loop

The lead in the Major "B" (Tuesday) Bowling League race changed Monday when the bestball's mind. Sacos extracted seven welcome points at the weekly session in Recreation Alleys last night from the Just Us team to nudge the Inkspots out of first place by a lone point.

Inkspots, however, won their tilt with Richards Electric by a 5-3 count.

Opticals came up with seven welcome points but they got them the easy way when the Maid Johnson team defaulted the game.

Dunlop of Sacos came through with the high three - string of 726 followed closely by Cec Hardwick of Inkspots who rolled a 783. Bert Hardwick was high singles kegler with a 323 with brother Cec rolling a 312. Dunlop got a 306.

Other high scorers were: B. Hardwick, 686; M. Moreau, 661; Peoples, 645; Al. Hitchon, 618; D. Batchelor, 644; J. Sills, 666; E. Cooney, 611.

The scores—

Sacos	7	3256
Just Us	3	2715
Inkspots	5	2251
Richards	3	2277
Opticals	7	3037

Ticket Scramble For Opening Game Hot at Hamilton

(By The Canadian Press)

The scramble for tickets to next Saturday's season opener of the Big Four football final in Hamilton between the Tiger-Cats and Toronto Argonauts is almost as hot as the annual battle for Grey Cup duckets.

Officials of the Hamilton club Tuesday night told would-be customers they were sorry but the park was sold out. Only tickets remaining are those reserved for season-ticket holders, an allotment reserved for Toronto fans and some rush seats.

However, the club said it is trying to have additional bleachers built for the game.

Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League have announced the signing of Joe Becker as manager for 1951. Becker, 41, manager of the Jersey City Giants in 1949 and 1950, was named after manager of the triple-A league the last two years. He is a former catcher with Montreal, Baltimore and Jersey City.

The Kitchener Sports Association has authorized its hockey committee to complete a deal with Montreal Canadiens whereby the National Hockey League club would sponsor a Junior 'A' hockey team in Kitchener.

Under the agreement, Canadiens will operate a new Junior 'A' team when Kitchener's municipal auditorium is available, and will give player and financial aid to the Kitchener club.

Montreal Canadiens announced Tuesday that Frank King, rookie forward, has been sent to Cincinnati of the American Hockey League. King may be recalled after a little more seasoning.

The Indianapolis Capitals of the American Hockey League have announced a swap of goalies with Omaha of the United States Hockey League. Cap manager Dick Miller said Sugar Jim Henry of Winnipeg, 30-year-old veteran of National and American league hockey since 1941, will replace Bill Brennan, 24, rookie who gained honors at Omaha last season as best goalie in the U. S. league.

Montreal's Notre Dame de Grace Maple Leafs Tuesday night defeated Verdun Shamrocks 36-6 in a sudden death playoff game at Montreal for the Quebec Rugby Football Union junior title. The Maple Leafs now play Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the Canada Junior title in Montreal Saturday.

U.S. Team Shows More Strength In Horse Show

New York, Nov. 8—AP—The 42nd National Horse Show ended early today, with winners in the three major championships of the eight-day program, and the United States team challenging Mexico for international jumping honors.

The U. S. team, trained only seven weeks in a bid for the 1952 Olympic games, closed the colorful show with a sparkling victory in the international perpetual challenge trophy.

The U. S. hadn't a team at the Madison Square Garden event since 1947. The U. S. army team disbanded after the 1948 Olympics, and a private corporation was organized to raise money and train riders and horses for the 1952 games at Helsinki.

Mexico, which won nine of 11 international events last year, took only six this time—more than any of the six countries competing.

In the final event, the U. S. had only eight faults, compared with 11 for Mexico. England, winners of two international events, was third and Ireland fourth. The Irish army team won two events. Canada and Chile didn't win an event.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There are times when I actually show signs of intelligence in bridge play. But it is never something clever. It is nothing but the result of rules that I happen to remember to use.

Here's a no-trump was my contract in this deal:

NORTH
♥10
♦A Q 8
♣A 6 5 3

WEST
♠7 5 4 2
♣9 8 7 4

EAST
♠Q J 8 6 3
♥8 6 5
♦K 7
♣K Q 10 8

SOUTH
♥K Q J 9
♦9 5 4 3
♣Q 7 4 2

The opening lead from west was a diamond jack. I hopped up with a dummy diamond ace and led a heart ten which my south player overtook. West won this with the king and returned diamond.

Dummy ducked and east had to go with the king. Having no more diamonds to lead back, it seemed not what east returned now. I cashed club ace and led a third club which east won with a king.

My opponents thus got a diamond in the east king, a club with the west king, a heart with the west ace. Nothing more. My contract of three no-trump was made in an extra trick for good measure.

There was nothing odd about playing first with the diamond ace. Advance planning probably course, to pursue. It foretold danger and the only expectancy of frustrated defense. My opponents will take two tricks in club king and heart ace. My third nine tricks will not come without giving them these two. They must be prevented from taking more than two diamonds.

The lead inside that east has diamond king and west has the most diamonds. For me to get three club tricks east must be found with club king. So the only west entry, if any, is heart ace.

Therefore, heart ace must be knocked out before diamonds are unblocked for west. And diamonds will not be freed as long as east has diamond king. So keep west blocking diamonds with the king. All of which is rule planning.

Take pride in your mental brilliance. Many bridge players often have seen what looks like behavior of brilliance is nothing but studied routine.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 8 —(AP)— Cats, cats, cats. Paramount is swarming with them—the four-legged kind.

The invasion is due to a future movie called "Rhubarb." As any student of contemporary literature knows, that is the H. Allen Smith novel about a cat who inherits a Major League baseball team.

Naturally, such a role calls for a cat of histrionic ability. Not any old cat will do. And so the studio is putting on a talent search which the publicity department hopes will be a feline version of the hunt for Scarlett O'Hara.

Producers William Perlberg and George Seaton and director Arthur Lubin explained what they were looking for.

"Rhubarb must be a typical alley cat—large and striped," said Lubin. "He has to be a good fighter and a great lover. It would help if he has a broken tail, but that's not essential."

Cats Are Dumb

Lubin is the man who directed Francis, the talking mule. He expects more trouble with Rhubarb, even though the cat doesn't have to talk or do anything else unfeline. "What's so difficult about cats?" I asked innocently.

"They're too dumb," volunteered Perlberg.

"Dumb — or independent?" I asked.

"Dumb', agreed Seaton. "Almost any other animal is easier to direct. We have people who come in and say their cats can do tricks —but only in their own living rooms!"

The movie makers said the studio's animal trainers were unable to supply a suitable Rhubarb. Hence the search. About 100 cats have been interviewed at the studio already and more are prowling in day by day.

Capsule Review

"Mad Wednesday" is pretty mad, all right, JI's the story of a mousey bookkeeper who gets fired from his job and goes on a binge. This may have been riotous when originally made four years ago, and indeed shows flashes of rare comedy. But a cruel cutting job and a phony ending do the picture harm. Harold Lloyd displays his wonderful comedy sense. But I wish, as he did, that he had done less talking and more action.

Impellitteri Wins Election as Mayor Of New York City

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—Vincent R. Impellitteri, an angry, insurgent Democrat, beat three many Hall single-handed yesterday and won election as Mayor of New York city.

Riding a wave of popular sympathy after he was denied his party's nomination, he defeated Judge Ferdinand Pecora, the Democratic-Liberal nominee with 1,156,597 votes to 977,000.

The Republican and American Labor Party candidates were in the running between the two major rivals and swamped.

Republican Edward Corso drew 382,795 votes, while Paul Ross, the leftwing A.L.P. candidate, got only 149,182.

The total vote in the bitter race was 2,625,574—a record.

It was a sweet victory for the 50-year-old Impellitteri, who was city council president until he succeeded as acting mayor when Mayor William O'Dwyer resigned last Sept. 2.

Not only did he triumph over the party bosses who brushed him off as a lightweight, but he became the first Italian-born mayor of New York—one of the largest Italian centres in the world.

Impellitteri was born in Isnello, Sicily, the son of an Italian shoemaker, and came to the United States with his parents as a child.

The job, the biggest elective position in the United States outside the presidency, pays $40,000 a year.

R.C.M.P. Seize $130,000 in Counterfeit Money

Toronto, Nov. 8—(CP)—Mounties said today that $250,000 in counterfeit Canadian currency was seized in a raid here last night. No arrests were made.

R.C.M.P. E. Anthony, RCMP superintendent, said it is believed another $20,000 in bogus money still is in circulation.

He said the money probably was made in Buffalo, N.Y.

United States treasury department agents had broken up a counterfeit ring there recently and a number of persons were convicted.

It was believed the money seized last night was cached here some time ago.

Although the R.C.M.P. declined to disclose details of the raid, it was believed the money was seized in an empty building.

Police warned banks and storekeepers to be on the watch for the $20,000 still in circulation, because it was felt there would be an attempt to get rid of it quickly.

In Buffalo last July three men were sentenced to jail and two put on probation in connection with what was described as a $1,000,000 counterfeit money scheme.

Bernard Neuner, 30, Buffalo lithographer who made the plates and Matthew Zdolinski of Depew, N.Y., who printed the money, each was sentenced to five years. They pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy and manufacturing counterfeit money.

Carman F. Sicurella, 29, was sentenced to four years for passing counterfeit money.

Charles Di Francisco, 31, pleaded no defence to a similar charge, was placed on probation for two years.

Watchman May Lose Sight of Eye, Boys Are Blamed

Toronto, Nov. 8 — (CP)—Conrad Powers, 70-year-old watchman at a building project, may lose the sight of one eye as a result of what police say was a stoning by two youths. He has been in hospital since Oct. 23 and doctors say his eye was pierced by glass splinters when he took shelter in a half-finished house.

John Johnson, 18, and Ivan Swire, 19, were charged with assault causing bodily harm.

Police quoted them as saying they threw bricks and stones "just to scare the old man."

WANTS OPPOSITION

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)—Mayor E. A. J. Busing of Papakura was unhappy when he could not find anyone to oppose him at the coming mayoral election. "If people can't take a bit of interest when an election comes round they deserve what they get," he said.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma started to shake her head to herself, saying to pop, Human nature is a funny thing, William.

There's nothing more peculiar than people, pop said, and ma said, If you want the clew to a person's character, just watch their reaction when they have been silly of dialing a wrong telefone number. Some will stammer and studder in imbarrisment as though they had just opened the door to a dressing room and discovered that it was intended for the opposite sex, while others will snap at you as though they thawt you had delibritly set a trap for them. Not one person in 50 will have the poize and self possession to just politely say they're sorry. Personly I practically never make a mistake in dialing, although I must admit I did this afternoon, she said.

Which catiegory did you find yourself in? pop said. Were you imbarrissed, or defiant, or politely self possessed? he said, and ma said, I did the polite thing, I assure you. I was so shaken aback when I heard a strange woman's voice instead of Maud Hews's, that I just sat there speechless without a word. I heard a click indicating that the woman had hung up, she said.

Well for Pet sake where did the polite thing come in on your part? pop said, and ma said, it came in about an hour later, I realized that I had dialed oh, instead of 7 oh, and naturelly I felt rather foolish, but there's no use crying over spilt milk when you can scoop it up again. So I called the woman back to settle the score in my favor by making a graceful apology, but this time it seemed I had called her out of a shower bath and she threatened to sue me if the telefone gave her wet body a shock before she had time to hang up. In fact she was quite vulgar about it, ma said.

Yee gods, pop said. Being the end of the subject.

"TOLERANCE, WISDOM AND HUMANITY"

The new king of Sweden, King Gustaf VI (arrow) addresses the Swedish parliament, cabinet and court dignitaries in Stockholm, after his enthronement to succeed his father, the late Gustaf V. The monarch appealed to each member of his administration to do his job not only with zeal and competence, but also "with tolerance, wisdom and humanity." The king's royal motto is "duty comes first." —Central Press Canadian.

PRAY FOR ASSASSIN FATHER

At their Bronx, New York home, Lydia, Iris and Carmen, the three daughters of Puerto Rican terrorist, Oscar Collazo, hold a Bible and prayer cards as they pray for their convicted father, who was shot while attempting to assassinate President Truman at the Blair House. Collazo, a veteran of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party and one-time commander of the organizations' "army of liberation," was today arraigned, from his hospital bed, on a charge of murdering Leslie Coffelt, White House policeman. — Central Press Canadian.

PACIFIC HOPS ARE ROUTINE NOW

Checking their U.S. combat troop load before take-off from McChord Air Force base at Tacoma, Wash., are two R.C.A.F. aircrew officers who fly the long United Nations airlift haul to Japan. The Canadian squadron is committed to one round trip flight per day across the Pacific. The two R.C.A.F. officers are, left, F.O. J. B. (Bert) Miller of Gainsborough, Sask., and (right) F.O. R. S. (Bob) Reid, Toronto. — Central Press Canadian.

Member Fought Long and Bitter Battle to Prevent Newfoundland From Becoming Canadian Province

London, Nov. 8 — (CP) Among all the rebuffs and triumphs Sir Alan Herbert experienced in the British House of Commons, none seems more fascinating in retrospect than his long and losing battle to prevent Newfoundland from becoming a province of Canada.

From the day he entered Parliament in 1935 "splendidly pregnant" with bills, until he bowed out 14 years later, there were many memorable moments, including the passage of marriage reforms he piloted as a private member. But Newfoundland stood alone, his most unhappy problem and his most severe defeat.

"If we are ever dug up," he wrote when he was enlisted accompanies in Punch and in Hansard, provided the music for West End plays, written more than 40 books, served in two World Wars and who claims to be the only man of letters to have been Thanes from Waterloo to Westminster.

Sprightly Battles

Sir Alan — better known as A. P. Herbert — has carried on some sprightly battles in the correspondence columns of the Times and the Daily Telegraph, succeeding once in silencing the late George Bernard Shaw; buoyed Britain's spirits in the blitz days with hard-hitting light verse; paid flying visits to the battle front quarters of his friend Field Marshal Montgomery; composed rhyming patriotic party bills and one which ended:

"This act shall apply to Northern Ireland. Why the hell not?"

Throughout the Second World War, as Petty Officer in command of a Thames River patrol boat — "I felt my old crew could not survive a war without me" — he watched the bombs and the rockets and the doodle bugs, finding himself to the deck a thousand times with the started cry: "By-election". But Sir Alan escaped uncrushed, and no by-election was needed as the Oxford University seat he represented.

Maiden speeches are supposed to be mild and inoffensive, but Sir Alan, ignoring all advice, "went mad and let loose in action on the second day." He never let up. As Independent member for Oxford, with eighty-per-cent highly-respectable Dons chief among his constituents, he caused a stir by crusing under three main heads—divorce, drink and betting.

Dominion "Murdered"

The Newfoundland episode started in 1943. Sir Alan, who visited what was then Britain's "oldest baby" as a member of parliamentary commission. He wrote these notes of the people he met:

"What charming folk these Newfoundlanders are! In all these dreary days I have not heard a word of wrath or seen a sign of fear . . . they are the best-dressed, best — mannered people walking."

Confederation with Canada came, despite everything, in April 1949, but Sir Alan still says "a dominion has been murdered" on that date. His claim is that Newfoundlanders voting the given a chance to settle their future in their own parliament.

Sir Alan's reputation as a humorist will always overshadow his efforts as a legislator. But anyone who has seen him in action, or who reads his speeches in the "Independent Member," will regret that the university franchise no longer operates.

President Says Not In Price War

Toronto, Nov. 8. (CP)—George M. Black, jr., president of Canadian Breweries, Limited, issued a statement Tuesday saying that his company is not engaged in a price war at present.

The statement was the latest development in the wake of reductions in wholesale prices announced at the weekend by Canadian Breweries and John Labatt, Limited.

Mr. Black said his company's aim was "to establish price spreads between wholesale and retail prices that will permit hotel owners to operate on a reasonable and profitable basis."

Saturday, Labatt informed the Ontario Hotelmen's Association it was cutting the price of draft beer $1 a half-barrel to $20.30 and bottled beer 15 cents a 24-pint case to $3.70. Monday, Canadian Breweries announced it had cut its wholesale price by $1 a half-barrel and 25 cents a case. This was followed by an announcement from Labatt's that it would match any price cut and it reduced its wholesale price for bottled beer by another 10 cents.

Premier Frost and Hon. Arthur Welsh, Provincial Police commissioner, immediately called a conference of brewers to discuss the situation. They were said to be concerned over the effect on smaller breweries of any competitive price-slashing.

Disputes Charge That Shelling Cassino Was Tragic Error

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand's chief war historian has replied strongly to the claim by Canadian Senator Wm. Ross Macdonald that the bombing of Monte Cassino Monastery in Italy was a tragic mistake. The United States general said it was the responsibility of Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Freyberg, V.C., commander of the New Zealand troops in the action.

Sir Bernard Freyberg, who led the New Zealanders throughout the Second World War and has become a legend in his lifetime, now is Governor-General of New Zealand and in view of his official position has not made any comment.

But Maj.-Gen. Sir Howard Kippenberger, the New Zealand divisional commander at Cassino and now chief New Zealand war historian, has strongly defended the bombing of the monastery. Sir Howard took over the New Zealand division when Sir Bernard became commander of the corps specially formed for the assault on Cassino, comprising the New Zealand division, the 78th British Division and the 4th Indian Division.

Military "Necessity"

Sir Howard said the bombing of the monastery was a military necessity and "is only right course in the circumstances. He quoted Gen. Eisenhower's instruction issued less than two months previously: "If we have to choose between destroying a famous building and sacrificing our own men, then our own men's lives count infinitely more and the buildings must go."

Sir Howard added: "It is immaterial whether the building was actually being occupied or not. There was a strong probability that it was being occupied and there was a certainty that when the storming troops reached the top of Monte Cassino they would find the Abbey occupied and impregnable. The bombing reduced it to a condition where it had no military value. Buildings which are demolished are often more defensible as a result, but this was not the case at Cassino."

In January, 1944, the American 5th Army, under General Clark's command, attempted to cross the Rapido river and thrust around Monte Cassino. They sustained a costly repulse. On Feb. 5, 1944, the American 34th Division reported that its troops were pinned down by machine-guns on the Abbey walls.

Two Reasons Cited

After General...Freyberg took over, he received a request from the Indian Division for the bombing of the Monastery. It was decided that it must be bombed for two reasons—it made an ideal observation post, and even if not manned by German troops after sending the hill would certainly use it for a final stand.

"I agreed with those views and I am certain that every soldier in the corps would have done the same thing," Sir Howard added.

"It was suggested to General Clark that a light warning bomb should be dropped, giving a hint of what was in store and an opportunity for any civilians to leave. General Clark ridiculed the idea.

"I would like to say that it is very uncommon for a commander who has to admit that he acquiesced in a course of action of which he did not approve to attempt afterward to throw the responsibility on a subordinate."

"Mythical" Watson Arises To Mystify Conan Doyle Fans

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

London (AP)—Remember Dr. Watson, who used to ask Sherlock Holmes foolish questions? Who was always so flabbergasted by the keenness of the master detective's deductive processes?

A lot of persons have thought Dr. Watson was just an invention of author Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

But if he isn't alive, and real, there is something suspicious about the letters-to-readers column of the Times. Because over the signature of Dr. Watson there was a protest recently about the unfeeling action of the Council of Marylebone, the London borough which manages Baker Street, where the detective repeatedly did his master-minding at No. 221B.

The council rejected a suggestion that some sort of a Sherlock Holmes museum be set up as an attraction of the Festival of Britain next year.

Dr. Watson, who gave no address, was indignant. He wrote that he hoped "second and better thoughts will prevail". He also declared Sherlock Holmes is still alive, but "so absorbed with beekeeping in Sussex" that he hasn't heard about the council's wretched behaviour.

Fun For Correspondents

The Watson communication brought a rash of other letters, one signed with the name of "Kate Whitney", who figured in the Sherlock Holmes thriller, "The Case of the Man Who Was Lost Up".

Then came a letter from a woman who said she had been Holmes' landlady at 221B. She suggested there must be a lot of worthy Holmes relics kicking about. She said there ought to be a search for his Cherrod clothes his cloak and his deerstalker, which is the sort of a hat a deerstalker wears.

And sure enough, relics are turning up. Robert H. Sharp, who is councillor on the very council which didn't like the museum idea said he has Holmes' famous violin.

Councillor Tom Vernon of Marylebone, who had chilled the museum suggestion, wrote to defend himself, and indicated the council may reconsider its action.

Holmes fans are not discouraged at all by the fact there is no such London address as No. 221B Baker Street.

Invalid Members Dragged Out To Record Votes

London, Nov. 8 (Reuters) — The Labor government Tuesday night defeated two parliamentary motions criticizing its policy in economic affairs.

First it turned back by a vote of 283 to 284 a Liberal party motion blaming it for taking no adequate steps to hold the cost of living.

Then it defeated 299 to 269, a Conservative motion attacking its proposals to make permanent its temporary powers to control the economy.

For the second day in a row all parties dragged out their invalids for the division in the House of Commons. One member arrived in a wheel chair. Another had a bandaged head. The Liberals sponsored Tuesday's first motion.

The chief Liberal speaker, Archibald MacDonald, urged that British workers work an extra half-hour a day without pay to bring down the living costs. He also suggested a profit-sharing partnership between employers and workers.

The government, which has a working majority of only six in the House of Commons, thus has weathered 62 attempts to unseat it since last February's general election.

A split among the nine Liberal party members was foreshadowed after three of them failed to support their party. They abstained in both Tuesday's votes and Monday night they supported the Labor party in the close vote on housing policy.

The three were Lady Megan Lloyd George, Deputy party leader and daughter of the late David George, Gwilym Roberts and Edgar Granville.

The emergence of two distinct groups within the tiny Liberal party—once Britain's most powerful—was seen as a possibility. Lady Megan Lloyd George and her two supporters would then sit towards the left of the House, while the other six veered to the right.

CHARTED NEW LINE

The granting of complete responsible self-government was urged in the famous Report of Lord Durham in 1839.

Britain Will be Asked to Buy Canadian Goods

Ottawa, Nov. 8. (CP)—Canadian exporters Tuesday got a picture of a much-recovered Britain, and heard a trade declaration that she will be asked to buy more Canadian goods.

In a luncheon address to the Canadian Exporters' Association, Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, High Commissioner to Canada, stated that as Britain's earnings have risen, increased purchases from Canada have already been set in motion, But he said also that Britain's dollar reserves must be built further before they are adequate.

Trade Minister Howe, responding to Sir Alexander's address, declared that, with Anglo-Canadian trade now in virtual balance, it is reasonable to expect that it will expand in both directions.

"I think the United Kingdom can sell more in Canada but we are also going to insist that she buy more in Canada," he said.

"Our efforts in helping Britain expand her sales here entitle us to make this as a firm demand rather than a light request."

IN CONSTANT DEMAND

Kingston, Nov. 8 — (CP)—The Hillbilly Boys, a quartet of western - ballad singers are in constant demand at children's hospitals and orphanages in this district, hospital officials say. The group have a 15-minute daily radio program and spend much of their spare time giving free concerts at hospitals and orphanages.

PROTEST ACTION

Brantford, Nov. 8 — (CP) The Silver Cross Mothers' Association has protested council action in giving precedence at the Remembrance Day parade to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. When council asked the Silver Cross Mothers to place a wreath at the Memorial during Friday's service, they said the I. O. D. E. would precede them in the ceremony.

WEST HUNTINGDON

United Church Holds Successful Fowl Supper

West Huntingdon—The United Church here held a successful fowl supper on Thursday evening. The ladies of the Eggleton church assisted with the supper and their kind co-operation was much appreciated by the W.A. ladies.

The program which followed was presided over by Rev. Merle Clarke and consisted of the showing of a film strip by Mr. Harvey Homan of Foxboro.

Selections Enjoyed

Selections by the string quartet were much enjoyed. Those in the quartet were, Rev. and Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Glen Vandervoort, and Mr. William Vandervoort.

Sheila and Sandra Wilson, Marilyn Fitchett, Shirley Pounder, Louis Cook and Eleanor Wright sang a song. Mrs. William Grant contributed a solo. Misses Donna Stapely and Louis Cook gave an instrumental number and Shirley Pounder and Marilyn Fitchett were heard in a duet. The procede of supper amounted to $183.

NATIVE LEADER

Sir Apirana Ngata, who died at 73, was the first New Zealand native Maori to receive a university degree.

RAWDON

Stirling Resident Describes Meteor

Rawdon—Mr. Harold While of Stirling R. R. 3 who resides on the fourth concession of Rawdon had a good view of the meteor or "fireball" that lit up the sky last Thursday evening about 7.30 p.m.

Like Northern Lights

Harold was taking a tractor to a neighbor when he saw the light coming from the southeast. At first it resembled Northern Lights and then the whole sky was lit like daylight. Every cloud could be seen distinctly and the varied colors were a picture to behold. When the brilliant light faded it left in the west a bluish tinge resembling a fluorescent ble light and then the blackout when the stars seemed darker than usual.

Another neighbor viewed the strange sight and thought it was a streak of lightning.

Reports say that the meteor was viewed near Springbrook and Lake Clear and a lady motorist reports being hit with the lighting and having the front of her car scorched.

NOT WORRIED ABOUT COLOR

Lindsay, Nov. 8 — (CP)—The color of the court room doesn't worry Mr. Justice Ivan Rand. Opening a Supreme Court sitting here, he wasn't particularly interested in a controversy over the color of the newly decorated room, described previously as "boudoir pink" by County Judge J. A. McClung. When Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan referred to the color change, Mr. Justice Rand was particularly artistic attainments I have nothing to say Spence merely remarked: "As I regarding the decorative scheme."

THIS AGREEMENT made the 6th day of November, A.D., 1950.
B E T W E E N:
EASTERN GAS SYNDICATE
Hereinafter called the Syndicate
— and —
OF THE FIRST PART
THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE
Hereinafter called the Corporation
OF THE SECOND PART

WHEREAS the Syndicate desires to purchase, construct, erect, lay, install, artificial or mixed, heretofore manufactured gas works in the City of Belleville upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth; and

WHEREAS by-law ..... passed by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville has been duly assented to by the Electors of the City of Belleville and the Council of the Corporation have been authorized by the said by-law to enter into and deliver this agreement on behalf of the Corporation;

NOW THEREFORE THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH that for valuable consideration each of the parties hereto mutually covenant and agree as follows:

1. The consent, permission and authority of the Corporation of the City of Belleville are hereby given to the Syndicate to enter upon the streets and highways in the City of Belleville and for this purpose to enter upon all streets, highways, lanes, alleys, bridges or other public places in the City of Belleville, subject to the restriction of the said City of Belleville, to construct, erect, lay, install, maintain, and supply such mains, pipes, valves, valve boxes, connections, services, meters, regulators and other things as are in and through the said City for the purpose of lighting the City and other purpose for which gas may now or hereafter be used, and to exercise the right to construct, operate, maintain, repair and renew gas manufacturing plants, works, curb boxes, service pipes, mains, pipes and appurtenances necessary for the manufacture, transportation and supply of gas.

2. The Syndicate shall well and sufficiently indemnify and save harmless the Corporation from and against all costs, damages, charges and expenses which the Corporation shall be liable for by reason of or through the construction, erection, laying, installation, operation, maintenance, repair or renewal of its works in the said City of Belleville, and the said Syndicate failing at any time to do so, the Corporation may cause the same to be done and charge the Syndicate with the cost thereof, and the Syndicate shall pay to the Corporation any account therefor certified by the Treasurer.

3. The Syndicate shall well and sufficiently indemnify and save harmless the Corporation from and against all costs, damages, charges and expenses which the Corporation shall be liable for by reason of or through the construction, erection, laying, installation, operation, maintenance, repair or renewal of its works in the said City of Belleville, and the said Syndicate failing at any time to do so, the Corporation may cause the same to be done and charge the Syndicate with the cost thereof, and the Syndicate shall pay to the Corporation any account therefor certified by the Treasurer.

4. The Syndicate, before engaged in a war with a foreign power the Syndicate shall have the option upon giving the commencement of the work of installation of the said mains, pipes and other things mentioned in Paragraph 1 hereof and before the completion of the terms of such agreement to purchase the said mains the franchise and assignment of this agreement and the Syndicate shall remain in full force and good standing.

5. All matters in connection with the purchase of the said mains, pipes and works proposed to be constructed shall be settled by mutual agreement between the Corporation and the Syndicate, and in the event that the Corporation and the Syndicate are unable to agree on any such matter, the provisions of Section 14 of the said by-law ..... shall apply.

It is hereby further agreed that the Corporation shall not during the currency of this agreement grant any franchise, right or privilege to any other person or body politic or corporate to enter upon the streets of the said City of Belleville for the purpose of supplying gas therein.

6. If the Syndicate fails to commence the work of installation of the said mains, pipes and works and installing the gas pipe system within the said City of Belleville as provided within sixty (60) days after the completion of the said by-law ..... authorizing the natural gas to the Corporation of the City of Belleville, or if the Syndicate fails to complete the said work to occur, this franchise and any rights or privileges hereunder granted shall be void and shall wholly terminate.

7. The Syndicate shall at its own expense, lay its mains and connect the same with the services to the houses of the customers of the Syndicate.

8. In the event of any disagreement or dispute from time to time arise under or out of this agreement, the matter shall be referred to the Natural Gas Referee, appointed under the Natural Gas Conservation Act, and his accessory decision shall be accepted as the determination which each party shall be bound to accept and abide by, and the Syndicate shall continue to perform its obligations under this agreement having the like jurisdiction and powers.

(b) If at any time any such matter is referred to the Board for determination between the parties, and the Syndicate shall refuse to accept the decision of the Board, then the whole matter shall be determined by the Ontario Fuel Board, and the parties lawfully constituted authority having jurisdiction in the premises and shall in all cases to such right of appeal as may be provided by the said Natural Gas Conservation Act.

9. The Syndicate shall not be relieved of its obligations in any of the provisions of the foregoing Paragraphs hereof by reason of the fact that this agreement may if it so desires refer to the Ontario Fuel Board or to the County of Hastings any question which may arise between the parties hereto.

10. In the event of the Syndicate being prevented from carrying out its obligations under this By-law by reason of any dispute as to the existence of such obligations, the Syndicate shall be relieved from such obligations while such disability continues, and in the event of a dispute as to the existence of such disability, the provisions of Section 8 hereinbefore provided, shall apply.

11. The Syndicate shall not assign this agreement or any part thereof without the consent of the Corporation first had and obtained, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, and the Syndicate shall not assign this agreement to any person or corporation other than a subsidiary or associated company of the Syndicate or its successors without the consent of the Corporation as aforesaid.

12. The Corporation shall not sell or dispose of its undertaking or any part thereof to any person or corporation other than a subsidiary or associated company of the Syndicate or its successors without the consent of the Syndicate, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, and the Corporation shall not assign this agreement to any person or corporation without the consent of the Syndicate.

13. Nothing contained in this agreement shall affect or prejudice the right of the said Corporation to enter into any agreement with any corporation to manufacture, produce, transmit, sell, supply or distribute gas, herein sometimes referred to as the right of the Corporation to enter into any agreement with any corporation to manufacture, produce, transmit, sell, supply or distribute gas, otherwise than by artificial or mixed gas, either in solid, liquid or gaseous form, to any person in the Corporation of the City of Belleville, but the Corporation shall not enter into any agreement or any of such matters with any person or corporation that shall not be subject to the terms of this agreement.

14. Wherever the word "engineer" is used in this agreement it shall mean the said By-law it shall mean and refer to the Engineer of the Corporation in charge of public works of the Corporation, or such other person or persons as may be designated from time to time by the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville.

15. Wherever the word "Syndicate" is used in this agreement it shall mean the said By-law, it shall mean and refer to the Syndicate hereinbefore named.

16. Upon the expiration of this franchise the Corporation and the Syndicate shall not have the right to renew the same, but the mains, pipes and works laid in the said streets, roads, highways, lanes, alleys, bridges and other public places in the said City of Belleville shall at that time become the property of the Corporation as may be required by the Corporation.

17. If the Syndicate is engaged in a war with a foreign power the Syndicate shall have the option upon giving the commencement of the work of installation of the said mains, pipes and other things mentioned in Paragraph 1 hereof and before the completion of the terms of such agreement to purchase the said mains the franchise and assignment of this agreement and the Syndicate shall remain in full force and good standing.

18. All matters in connection with the purchase of the said mains, pipes and works proposed to be constructed shall be settled by mutual agreement between the Corporation and the Syndicate, and in the event that the Corporation and the Syndicate are unable to agree on any such matter, the provisions of Section 14 of the said by-law ..... shall apply.

It is hereby further agreed that the Corporation shall not during the currency of this agreement grant any franchise, right or privilege to any other person or body politic or corporate to enter upon the streets of the said City of Belleville for the purpose of supplying gas therein.

19. If the Syndicate fails to commence the work of installation of the said mains, pipes and works and installing the gas pipe system within the said City of Belleville as provided within sixty (60) days after the completion of the said by-law ..... authorizing the natural gas to the Corporation of the City of Belleville, or if the Syndicate fails to complete the said work to occur, this franchise and any rights or privileges hereunder granted shall be void and shall wholly terminate.

20. The Syndicate shall at its own expense, lay its mains and connect the same with the services to the houses of the customers of the Syndicate.

21. In the event of any disagreement or dispute from time to time arise under or out of this agreement, the matter shall be referred to the Natural Gas Referee, appointed under the Natural Gas Conservation Act, and his accessory decision shall be accepted as the determination which each party shall be bound to accept and abide by, and the Syndicate shall continue to perform its obligations under this agreement having the like jurisdiction and powers.

(b) If at any time any such matter is referred to the Board for determination between the parties, and the Syndicate shall refuse to accept the decision of the Board, then the whole matter shall be determined by the Ontario Fuel Board, and the parties lawfully constituted authority having jurisdiction in the premises and shall in all cases to such right of appeal as may be provided by the said Natural Gas Conservation Act.

22. The Syndicate shall not be relieved of its obligations in any of the provisions of the foregoing Paragraphs hereof by reason of the fact that this agreement may if it so desires refer to the Ontario Fuel Board or to the County of Hastings any question which may arise between the parties hereto.

23. In the event of the Syndicate being prevented from carrying out its obligations under this By-law by reason of any dispute as to the existence of such obligations, the Syndicate shall be relieved from such obligations while such disability continues, and in the event of a dispute as to the existence of such disability, the provisions of Section 21 hereinbefore provided, shall apply.

24. The Syndicate shall not assign this agreement or any part thereof without the consent of the Corporation first had and obtained, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, and the Syndicate shall not assign this agreement to any person or corporation other than a subsidiary or associated company of the Syndicate or its successors without the consent of the Corporation as aforesaid.

25. The Corporation shall not sell or dispose of its undertaking or any part thereof to any person or corporation other than a subsidiary or associated company of the Syndicate or its successors without the consent of the Syndicate, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, and the Corporation shall not assign this agreement to any person or corporation without the consent of the Syndicate.

26. Nothing contained in this agreement shall affect or prejudice the right of the said Corporation to enter into any agreement with any corporation to manufacture, produce, transmit, sell, supply or distribute gas, herein sometimes referred to as the right of the Corporation to enter into any agreement with any corporation to manufacture, produce, transmit, sell, supply or distribute gas, otherwise than by artificial or mixed gas, either in solid, liquid or gaseous form, to any person in the Corporation of the City of Belleville, but the Corporation shall not enter into any agreement or any of such matters with any person or corporation that shall not be subject to the terms of this agreement.

27. Wherever the word "engineer" is used in this agreement it shall mean the said By-law it shall mean and refer to the Engineer of the Corporation in charge of public works of the Corporation, or such other person or persons as may be designated from time to time by the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville.

28. Wherever the word "Syndicate" is used in this agreement it shall mean the said By-law, it shall mean and refer to the Syndicate hereinbefore named.

29. Upon the expiration of this franchise the Corporation and the Syndicate shall not have the right to renew the same, but the mains, pipes and works laid in the said streets, roads, highways, lanes, alleys, bridges and other public places in the said City of Belleville shall at that time become the property of the Corporation as may be required by the Corporation.

30. If the Syndicate is engaged in a war with a foreign power the Syndicate shall have the option upon giving the commencement of the work of installation of the said mains, pipes and other things mentioned in Paragraph 1 hereof and before the completion of the terms of such agreement to purchase the said mains the franchise and assignment of this agreement and the Syndicate shall remain in full force and good standing.

31. All matters in connection with the purchase of the said mains, pipes and works proposed to be constructed shall be settled by mutual agreement between the Corporation and the Syndicate, and in the event that the Corporation and the Syndicate are unable to agree on any such matter, the provisions of Section 14 of the said by-law ..... shall apply.

It is hereby further agreed that the Corporation shall not during the currency of this agreement grant any franchise, right or privilege to any other person or body politic or corporate to enter upon the streets of the said City of Belleville for the purpose of supplying gas therein.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereto have hereunto caused to be affixed their corporate seals and these presents signed by the Mayor and Clerk.

OUR TOWN
By JACK SCOTT

TALE OF A FLY

Teensy the Fly came into our life in the city of Saint John, New Brunswick, and departed in the city of San Antonio, Texas, and while the whole thing is a little fuzzy, I think I will tell you about it. It will be cheaper that way than telling it to a psychiatrist.

One warm evening, about a month ago in Saint John I was sitting at my typewriter trying to concentrate on an idea. My daughter, Judy, who is 10, was sitting across the table from me. She had been doing her studying. I was absorbed in my own thoughts and so it took a few moments to realize what was happening. A fly—a common housefly—would light on her index finger, pause there a moment, arc away in a circle about the room and return once more to its roost.

"Judy caught my eye and said, "this is Teensy. I put sugar on my finger and he comes to me. I'm making him a sort of pet."

I snorted and turned my attention back to my work. But I kept one furtive eye on the performance. The fly was obviously taking a single grain of sugar on each of its landings, eating it in flight and returning for more. Once it landed, upside down, on the ceiling. Judy raised her finger higher. The fly accepted the invitation and flew back to her finger.

I shrugged and buried my nose in my work.

"He's been doing this for two days now," Judy said, as if it just occurred to her that I might be interested. "I made him a little box of cotton batten."

"Really," I said sarcastically. "And I suppose Teensy tucks himself in every night."

"Oh, no", Judy said. "That's just make-believe."

Too Cold

I thought no more about this until about a week later when we were driving up to the customs house on the border between New Brunswick and Maine. Judy giggled and said, "I wonder if we should declare Teensy? After all, he's a Canadian fly."

My wife looked at us in astonishment. I explained what it was all about. "Flies come up and take sugar from her finger," I said. "Judy is pretending it's just one fly."

"Oh, it is one fly," Judy said. "I can tell Teensy from the others now."

We spoke crossly to her and forgot it, but that night the performance went on again. There were a half dozen flies in the room. Only one ventured to the sugar on the finger. I noticed that the fly now flew across to our large wall map to do its eating. It invariably landed in the region of the southern states. When Judy had gone to bed I put sugar on the end of my finger and went from fly to fly offering it. None accepted.

It was a week or ten days later. The weather in Maine had turned sharply cold. Judy came to me one night and asked if she might have a drop or two from a bottle of rum in the refrigerator.

"Teensy is very sick," she said. "He's been in his box all day. I think he's dying from the cold weather."

She brought out the box with cotton batten in it. A house fly sat on the box, rubbing its rigid legs together, and making no attempt to escape.

I put a little Bacardi in a saucer. Judy put Teensy—or rather, this fly—beside it. The fly made no move to sip the liquid, which prompted me to observe that maybe a little Coke with it.

Judy put the saucer up above the stove. An hour later the fly was droning about the room with what seemed to me a real bun on. It zoomed up to Judy's finger when she offered him "dinner".

I decided I needed a little Bacardi, myself.

And Farewell

As we progressed south and the climate became more torrid I kept getting periodic reports on Teensy. On odd nights he would go through his act. The higher temperatures had apparently completely revived him. I wondered aloud, how earlier the fly had seemed to be studying the map of the southern states. My wife gave me a long, slow look.

Then Judy seemed to forget the fly and it was not until the other night here in San Antonio that I looked up from my work to see that she was once more going through the feeding routine.

It was a very warm night. Several times Teensy flew to the open door as if undecided about his route. A few San Antonio flies were hanging around. It was sure enough fly country and fly weather.

Finally Teensy seemed to have made up his mind. He took his last speck of sugar and flew out the door. Judy waited a long time with her finger in the air, but he never returned.

"He'll be happy down here", Judy said and giggled. I giggled too.

"If he'd stayed around I might have taught him some tricks," Judy said.

"Oh, well," I said, "There are always other flies."

FOXBORO

Farewell Party For Sidney Couple

Foxboro—Last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harold Longwell were pleasantly surprised when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at their home on the 5th concession of Sidney, to convey best wishes of them, before their departure for their new home, and business, in Marlbank.

Mr. George McCullough, chairman for the evening, after a few remarks called on Mrs. Burley for a piano solo. Mrs. W. Rombough sang "Irish Lullaby", to her own guitar accompaniment. Miss Ann Marie McCullough, delighted the gathering with 'a humorous reading.

An address of tribute and good wishes signed on behalf of their friends by Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbertson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gay, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rombough and Ann Marie McCullough, was read by Mrs. Hubert Gay.

A beautiful trilight was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Longwell. They each expressed sincere thanks for the gift and kindness of all, and extended an invitation to all to visit them in their new home.

Mrs. S. Haighton and Mr. S. Nicholson were called on for a few remarks after which Mrs. W. Rombough sang "My Best to You" dedicating it to Mr. and Mrs. Longwell.

Bounteous refreshments were served and the rest of the evening was spent in musical numbers.

97-Point Program Presented at Ont. Liberal Convention

Viewpoints Set Out on Wide List of Matters

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP) — Delegates to the Ontario Liberal leadership convention today studied a comprehensive policy its framers hope will help carry the party to victory in the next provincial general election.

The 5,000-word statement sets out the Liberal viewpoints on 15 subjects with the emphasis on such matters as welfare and social security, municipal affairs, education, agriculture, natural resources, fiscal policy, housing, hydro, labor and recreation.

fiscal policy, housing, hydro, labor and recreation.

It proposes, among other things, that Ontario negotiate a financial agreement with the federal government as has been done by all the provinces except Ontario and Quebec, and that the eligible voting age in provincial elections be lowered from 21 to 18.

The statement is contained in an 18-page printed booklet distributed to delegates today. Friday morning's session is for consideration. It is recommended by the Ontario Liberal Association's committee on policy, headed by Colin Campbell, former provincial minister of Public Works. It is endorsed by the Association's management committee.

Proposals of the 97-point statement include:

Registration immediately with the federal government of a fiscal agreement "which will result in substantially increased revenues for the province". Eight of the ten Canadian provinces have such agreement under which they lease certain tax fields to the federal government in return for grants.

Transfer monthly to the provincial treasury of liquor sale profits to reduce taxation requirements.

Utmost economy in controllable expenditures.

Presentation to the next session of the Ontario legislature of the report of the Royal Commission which has been studying the Ontario education system for the last 18½ years and thorough consideration of its recommendations.

A full-time Minister of Education. (The present minister, Hon. Dana Porter, is also provincial attorney-general.)

Greater financial assistance to urban and rural school boards.

An impartial commission to distribute government grants to universities.

Co-operation with other provinces in seeking more uniform education and teaching standards.

Provision for the free education of children as possible be taught English and French and that both languages be made requirements for senior matriculation.

A vigorous campaign to recruit and train teachers and to provide them with proper renumeration.

Municipal Affairs

A highly-qualified commission to investigate the whole into provincial - municipal relations and local government problems, the commission recommendations to be submitted within one year of its appointment.

33,000 Telephone Workers in U.S. Out on Strike

New York, Nov. 9 (AP) — A strike of telephone equipment workers, threatening a coast-to-coast work stoppage and seeing disruption in the United States, started officially at 6 a.m. EST today.

Federal mediators worked through the night and early morning seeking to beat the pre-dawn deadline with a peace pact.

The strike was scheduled to start at 6 a.m. local time across the United States.

The strike threat involves only 33,000 phone equipment employees in 44 states, but their CIO union and picket lines would keep 300,000 Bell system workers, including operators, off the job from coast to coast.

The union planned to throw picket lines around telephone exchanges and other Bell buildings the moment the strike started.

Russia Detains British Trawler

Moscow, Nov. 9 — (Reuters) — Russia notified the British Embassy today that a 347 - ton trawler Lacennia had been detained for fishing inside the three-mile limit.

The case has been passed to Soviet courts.

The Russian government was replying to a note of Oct. 31 by British Ambassador Sir Donald Kelly inquiring into the reported arrest of the vessel in the White Sea.

The Lacennia is the fourth British trawler detained by Russia on charges of illegal fishing in the White Sea in the last six months.

Acheson Does Not Intend to Resign

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP) — State Secretary Dean Acheson, — Republican target in the election campaign said today he has no intention of resigning.

That was his comment at press conference after being told that Republican leader Taft (Ohio) earlier had interpreted yesterday's election results as a vote of no confidence in Acheson and had called for his resignation.

MAY BE DELAYS

Montreal, Nov. 9. (CP)—A Bell Telephone Company of Canada spokesman said today that no disruption of telephone service between Canada and the United States was anticipated despite the country-wide American strike.

The spokesman said that there may be a few delays on long distance calls.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 9—(CP)— Synopsis—An extensive cold air mass has invaded the western half of southern Ontario, but this afternoon will have swept through the whole of the province.

Freezing or heavy rain the cold air is bringing strong wintry winds, overcast skies and snow; afternoon temperatures will likely tumble to the high 30s Friday.

Northern Ontario where winter has already set in will experience little temperature change. The storm centre over that part of the province will likely have passed into central Quebec by Friday leaving strong winds in its wake.

PRESIDENT FACES HOSTILE CONGRESS ON ALL ISSUES

Toughest Proposition Of Political Life

Washington, Nov. 9 (CP)— President Truman now faces the hard necessity of compromising a highly preponderantly-hostile congress on both domestic and foreign issues.

Although Democrats still hold numerical control of both houses of Congress after Tuesday's election, there is little remaining doubt that Truman is up against the toughest opposition he has been confronted with in the second session of the 80th Congress in 1946 — a congress which hamstrung many of his proposals.

A shifting coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats will make most of the major decisions in the newly-elected congress—the 82nd—which meets in January.

Heartened by the election results, the same group will have much to say about what happens in the final meeting of the present congress scheduled to resume sittings Nov. 27—or sooner if the president calls it back.

Numerically, the Democrats won the election.

In the new congress they will have 49 members in the Senate to 47 for the Republicans. Both parties elected 32 Senators in Tuesday's voting. There were 31 Democratic and 29 Republican Senators in the house, where one-third of the members are elected in each state every two years. In the 435-seat House of Representatives, which is elected every two years, the Democrats elected 234 members to 199 for the Republicans, with one independent. There still was one seat undecided.

Hunter Drowned In Wadsworth L. North of Madoc

Summer resort operator near Gilmour, Frederick F. Baldock, 60, was drowned Wednesday in Wadsworth Lake, 10 miles north of Madoc, while he and several others were returning from a hunting trip.

Baldock was with a party including Ernest Parker, Alan Parker, John and Frank, Jack Hawthorne of Peterborough and Howard Johnson of Whitby.

The party was returning home in a small motorboat when Baldock investigated mechanical trouble in their outboard motor. He was thrown overboard and the party lost the water.

The other hunters, Tom and Jim Dafoe of Whitby heard the group's cries and rowed to the spot. They managed to get to Baldock. Hawthorne swam ashore and Parker rowed back to the boat. Baldock's body was recovered from the lake in the afternoon.

NEW POTATO BRED

Belfast, Nov. 9—(Reuters)—A potato resistant to both frost and blight has been bred by John Clarke, a county Antrim farmer who has been studying the plant for 30 years. He is trying to raise the new strain in commercial quantities.

Russia Set on Destroying All Rival Systems, Archbishop Says"

York, Eng., Nov. 9 (CP) —The Archbishop of York said today that Russia is determined that all rival economic, political and social systems must be "utterly destroyed."

The Archbishop, Most Rev. Cyril F. Garbett, said communism-led outbreaks everywhere are "part of a world-wide conspiracy directed by the Kremlin against western civilization."

As examples, the Church of England's second-ranking prelate cited Red guerrilla warfare in Malaya and Indo-China, Communist agitation and communist China's invasion of Tibet.

He said communists, "inflamed with missionary zeal for their western civilization."

"If a hot war should break up on an unprepared Europe it would overwhelm us in a way far darker than that from which Christendom only slowly emerged after the fall of the Roman years ago."

The Archbishop called for "continuous propaganda of the ideals for which democracy stands" and said:

"It is vitally important that the peoples who are hesitating between communism and democracy should know what true democracy is. As opposed to the degradation and slavery which triumphant communism brings in its train."

The Christian "must take his part in saving the world from the threat of unprecedented horror."

Higher Taxes Only Answer To World Security Says Bank of Canada Governor

Toronto, Nov. 9. (CP)—Graham Towers suggested today that, fundamentally, only by higher taxes will Canada be able to meet the inflation threat and pay for an expanding defence program which may have to be maintained "for many years to come".

The governor of the Bank of Canada, looking over the broad general picture of recent domestic and foreign monetary developments, advocated a pay-as-you-go policy in a speech prepared for delivery before a joint meeting of the Empire Club of Canada and the Canadian Club of Toronto.

The increased taxation, he said, must be aimed at "reduction of spendable incomes "to the extent that the available supply of goods is being reduced by the demands of the defence program."

He made these other points:

1. Since Canada's rearmament program was still only in the initial stages, the amount of taxes should also include, as much as possible, sufficient funds to pay for part of future defence spending.

2. It did not necessarily follow that large-scale defence spending automatically meant inflation. Canada could defend herself against inflation with the weapons of higher taxes, specific credit controls and a strong monetary policy.

3. Since the problem of defence likely would form part of the life of free countries for many years to come, policies in the economic field had to be those which could endure, not stop-go measures. Above all, it called for pay-as-you-go financing and maximum production.

2,000 U.K. Workers Will be Flown to Canada to Work On Ontario Hydro Projects

Toronto, Nov. 9—(CP)— Two thousand British workers will be flown to Canada, probably starting in January, to work on Ontario Hydro Commission projects, Hydro chairman Robert H. Saunders announced today.

Mr. Saunders said the workers will be brought out at the rate of about 200 a month. The Hydro Commission will lend them their fare to the Dominion, which each worker will remain with the commission for about two years and will repay the loan from his money advanced.

Federal authorities have cleared the way for the arrangement. Immigration Minister Harris (Grey) federal representative in England, advising them of the commission's request for 2,000 workers and indicating the government's approval.

"We need men very badly and we foresee a serious labor shortage next year," Mr. Saunders said.

He had received assurance from James Armstrong, Ontario's agent general in London, that many workers in Britain were anxious to come to Canada. One or two men from the hydro commission will be sent to England to act in conjunction with the Liberal immigration men as a selection committee.

Investigation has shown that shipping space probably will be scarce until next April, Mr. Saunders said. That finding gave rise to the decision to bring the immigrants to Canada by air. Mr. Harris promised assistance in finding aircraft.

The workers are needed principally for the new $300,000,000 Niagara power development. Until they are ready for the project, they will be housed at several hydro camps throughout the province.

Milk Distribution 'Toughest Cartel' Says M. Robb

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 9 — (CP)—Malcolm Robb, Belleville lawyer, said yesterday that milk distribution in Ontario is controlled by the "roughest, toughest cartel" in the province.

He told the Ontario Chamber of Commerce there is no free enterprise in the distribution of milk in Ontario.

"Free enterprise is not going to survive as a doctrine of scarcity," he said. "Every time the price of milk goes up in this province, you are losing people to socialism."

Mr. Robb spoke as representative of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce."

Mr. Whittaker of the Guelph Chamber of Commerce said milk is the cheapest food on sale today.

"Mothers who complain about the price of milk give their children money to buy soft drinks without as much as a murmur."

P. M. Ross, former Ontario agriculture minister and the owner of a 350-acre dairy farm in the Ingersoll district, said he does not know how the cost of milk can be held down in view of the high cost of processing and distribution.

"I don't like the idea of a 40-hour week," he said, "when everything the farmer buys today is produced on the basis of a 48-hour week and he has to work 60 hours. I am not opposed to the good wages for labor and holidays with pay, but I am in favor of more efficient work and greater production."

RADIO INTERFERENCE

London, Nov. 9 — (Reuters) — Britain has asked Russia to stop radio interference and also is negotiating out home programs in parts of southeast England, Postmaster-General Ness Edwards told the House of Commons last night. This interference is apart from the radio war in which Britain is trying to jam broadcasts from the United States and Britain directed at Russian listeners.

Will Prevent Drinkers From Driving

Toronto, Nov. 9. (CP)—Representatives of 107 Toronto cocktail lounges and taverns announced today they will meet today to consider means of aiding a police drive against drinking drivers.

"We're going to see if there's anything further we can do to stop people from driving to bars," said Earl Rowe, president of the Toronto Hotel Proprietors' Association.

The police crackdown was announced Tuesday by traffic inspector Frederick Bell following disclosure that arrests of drinking drivers in the city area are up 22 per cent over last year. He said bars were not clearly to blame for the increase.

"It is up to the individual," he said. "It is not necessary to drink, drag me in, pour liquor down my throat and then force me to drive home."

Mr. Torno said the association is prepared to erect "signs, posters and more dollars" on a campaign to prevent drinkers from driving.

Warns Canadians As to Citizenship

Ottawa, Nov. 9 (CP)—Canadians were warned by the government today that a "false sense of security" is their citizenship if they acquire citizenship in a foreign country while in Canada.

The action was interpreted as a counter-measure to moves from several European countries to have natives of those countries renew their citizenship in Canada after becoming Canadian citizens.

A statement from the citizenship department drew attention to an amendment to the citizenship act adopted last July, under which the government may wipe out the Canadian citizenship of those who voluntarily take up foreign citizenship while in this country, except through marriage.

Previously, Canadian citizenship was automatically lost when Canadians adopted foreign citizenship while outside this country.

Reported Missing Bride Reunited With Husband

Welland, Nov. 9 — (CP) — Mrs. Fred Jaworski, 22-year-old bride reported missing for 10 days was reunited with her husband at her parents' home in Welland Junction today.

She arrived home from Trenche, Que., via bus from St. Catharines, late last night. Her husband met her there.

Levack, Ont., in response to a telegram from his father-in-law, Evarist Lauzon, notifying him his bride was expected home.

Mrs. Jaworski declined to give her reasons for travelling to Quebec.

She said, however, she had no indication she was reported missing when she wired her parents from Trenche that she was coming home.

Buzz Beurling Reburied at Foot Of Mt. Carmel

Haifa, Israel, Nov. 9 (Reuters) —Flt. Lt. George (Buzz) Beurling, Canada's top air ace of the Second World War, today was laid to his first resting place.

Beurling's remains were reburied at the foot of Mt. Carmel, near the cave of the Prophet Elijah, Pacific scion. There was his Jewish friend, Sqdn. Ldr. Leonard Cohen.

Beurling—a Christian — and RAF ace Cohen were killed in May, 1948, when a plane they were ferrying to Israel exploded in mid-air near Rome.

Beurling was credited with 31 enemy aircraft during the war. He fought at Malta when air battles over that island were fiercest.

At the funeral procession wound through Haifa's main streets Israel air force planes flew overhead in formation and flags were lowered to halfmast.

At the cemetery a crowd of hundreds heard Anglican and Jewish clergy recite last prayers.

Attending the funeral were members of the Canadian Jewish community and the Zionist organization of Canada. A wreath of red poppies and maple leafs from the Canadian Legion was one of many placed on Beurling's coffin.

Consider Night Court

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP) — Attorney-General Porter of Ontario said today he will consider a city request for establishment of a night court in that city still is before the legislature.

The request came from the Hamilton Automobile Club which said a night sitting would accommodate persons who wished to enter a defence in traffic cases but could not afford to lose time from work.

Mr. Porter said there had also been a proposal that a night court be set up in the Toronto suburban area of North York township. He did not know of any other requests in Ontario.

Gambling Habit on Increase In Canada Church Council Told

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP) — The pari-mutuel betting on Canadian race tracks has increased 43 per cent, the report continues. It is pointed out that during the last period, Canadians wagered $255,109,880.

Gambling practices of every kind are flourishing at an alarming rate, with the tacit consent of an apparently indifferent public," the department said in a report it will present to the seventh annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Churches Nov. 14 to 17.

"Gambling has become a public menace."

Ottawa Defence Officials Not Aware of Plan Change

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (CP) — Canada's part in the Korean airlift is scheduled to end shortly, but members of the R.C.A.F.'s Thunderbird Squadron predict they'll be back on the job soon.

The squadron of 12 North Star transports is slated to end its 2½-month ferry run from MacDord Field, Wash., to Tokyo after five more trips. But its members, who have been carrying troops and supplies for the United Nation's force in Korea, think they'll be performing similar duties for Canada's Special Brigade when it is dispatched to the Far East.

There is good reason here that the entire 11,000-man brigade will be committed to Korea, where a 350-man advance party arrived Monday to stake out a training area near Pusan.

It is believed here that a permanent-force army battalion also will be sent to Korea.

Ottawa — (CP)— Reports from Tokyo that the whole of Canada's 11,000-man Special Brigade might go to Korea was the first indication that stiffening communist resistance there had apparently brought another change of plans on destination of the force.

Defence officials here said they had heard nothing of the Tokyo report. So far as was known, the plan was still to send the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry to Korea late this month and the rest of the force to the United States for training.

An advance party of 345 officers and men of the force already is in Korea.

Have No Information

No information has been received here regarding Tokyo reports that the RCAF Thunderbird Squadron of 12 planes had ended its Korean air lift operation across the Pacific soon.

However, a defence spokesman said that the air lift operations, also participated in by United States transport command, was "cutting back" operations slightly as the need lessened. He presumed that Canada's squadron would be released from its job when the need for it no longer existed.

The spokesman emphasized, however, that if the stiffening of red resistance in Korea continued and made necessary further, extended action by the United Nations forces in Korea, it was probable there would be no cut in the air lift.

Pilotless Turbo-Jet 'Nippy Little Fighter'

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 9 — (Reuters) — A pilotless turbo-jet aircraft, designed and developed in Australia, made its first test flights, Supply Minister Howse said here today.

The aircraft, radio-controlled, is "a very nippy little fighter," Howse said.

Britain suggested the project when they visited here and had been one of the most closely-guarded secrets of defence research in Australia, he added.

Only one aircraft on a limited order has been produced, but bigger orders are expected.

Canada Detains Russian Ship

Ottawa, Nov. 9 (CP)—The Canadian government today detained the Russian ship Sverdlovsk in Montreal harbor pending investigation of a charge that she carried a stowaway when she left Montreal Oct. 31.

The ship was ordered detained by Immigration Minister Harris after a stowaway was found aboard her in Montreal harbor.

The stowaway, Vladimir Kuzmin, 23, was found in a lifeboat on the ship's deck. He was discovered by a crew member who was preparing the lifeboat for winter.

Kuzmin told immigration officials he had climbed into the lifeboat at Montreal and had remained there during the ship's voyage to Montreal.

He said he had left Russia because he disliked the Communist regime.

Kuzmin was ordered detained pending a hearing before a special board of inquiry.

RIDING OF BIKES ON FOOTBRIDGE CONTRARY TO LAW

Riding of bicycles on the footbridge gangway sidewalk is resulting in complaints from pedestrians using this walk. Yesterday police received a complaint from a resident in the west end of the city stating that he had been nearly struck by bicycles ridden by youthful riders.

A police officer watched the gangway and checked five young girls riding their bicycles on the walk. Department officials pointed out that riding bicycles on sidewalks was contrary to the city by-law.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE FOR THEFT OF MONEY

A two-year suspended sentence was handed out this morning to Elmer Huff, formerly of Picton, who appeared in Magistrate's Court for entering a plea of guilty last week to theft of money from a local barber. Costs of $40-20 were also ordered by Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Restitution of the $33 stolen by Huff from the barber had previously been made by the accused.

Teachers Given Special Place To See Procession

Two young teachers of the district, Miss Betty Redner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Redner, of Redpersville, and Miss Wilma Judge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Judge, of Mount Pleasant Road, who are exchange teachers to England, had the pleasure of viewing the state procession for the recent Royal opening of Parliament, London.

They occupied places in the fore court of Buckingham Palace on the invitation of the Lord Chamberlain, and witnessed a ceremony, both colorful and impressive, which was much enjoyed.

Later, they lunched at Ard, Marshall House, with other Canadian teachers, and visited Canada House where they signed the visitors' book.

Miss Redner teaches at Glasgow, and Miss Judge at Burnley, Lancashire.

Barber Shop Quartet Group Starts Practice

The local chapter of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.— for the uninitiated, that's the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing of America, Incorporated—has started to roll again this fall.

The Belleville barber shoppers organized themselves last year in spring, and applied to the international headquarters for membership and a charter which they could get. With the aid of the Peterborough chapter of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., the local program was launched.

Last night's harmonies were recorded on CJBQ's equipment.

Boys' Parliament Prepares for Annual Session

Don Rose has been appointed by the Ontario Council of Christian Education to the position of district returning officer for the constituency of Belleville in the Ontario Boys' Parliament session.

When the Boys' Parliament convenes in the Legislative Chambers at Queen's Park, Toronto, from December 26 to 30th it will be for the 30th consecutive session. It is emphasized that this is not a mock parliament, but one which deals with problems and plans pertinent to boys' work in the province.

Giving leadership to the government will be L. Val VanDeWall, of Barrie, Ontario, at present a student in the Ryerson Institute of Technology. The opposition will be led by Victor Shimizu, Toronto, a second-year student in the philosophy of Victoria College, University of Toronto, to celebrate its 30th anniversary a reunion is planned for all ex-members on December 30th.

Faraday Votes In Favor Liquor And Beer Store

Bancroft.—(Special)—Residents in the township of Faraday in north Hastings have voted in favor of a liquor and beer store in the township. A heavy vote was registered, the vote for the liquor and beer store being 256 with 107 voters opposing.

There were two polls in the township, the vote at the "tin" schoolhouse being 202 for, and 105 against, with 10 spoiled ballots. In lower Faraday ten voted for the liquor and beer store with four against, and one spoiled ballot.

It is expected that the liquor and beer store will be situated just west of the village limits on the Peterborough highway. In a separate plebiscite some time ago residents of Bancroft village voted against a liquor and beer store.

Variety Revue At Collegiate Well Received

A top ranking performance in high class entertainment was enjoyed by a large number of Belleville and district residents Tuesday evening at the Belleville Collegiate Institute, when an all-star variety revue was presented by George Taggard, well-known Toronto impresario.

Sponsors of the show were members of the Quinte Quintet Club. Proceeds are earmarked for the club's community work with another item on the list being the development of Zwicky Island as a picnic ground and park centre.

Star of the well-balanced show was native Canadian, Jack Haine, of Canadian Army Show fame, who wisecracked his way right into the hearts of his Belleville audience. His pantomime artistry was a screen with his impersonation of the singing voice of the late Al Jolson was superb.

Master of ceremonies for the show was Ken Lennox, who also doubled as a magician of no mean ability. Ron kept the show moving along at a good pace and had all the customers rolling in the aisles with his audience participation gags.

Proved Versatility

Albert Marson, 300-pound Negro tenor, proved his versatility as a singer by singing concert songs and then coming right back with catchy boogie-woogie numbers.

Rated as Canada's number one professional pianist Miss Zena Cheevers proved she was just that with her concert piano numbers in both military and night club style.

Pianist for the entire show was Dorothy Merrill. She also doubled as an accomplished accordian soloist for several numbers.

Optimist Club members stated that due to the splendid response given to the show efforts would be made to bring it the same show back to Belleville in the spring.

A draw at half time through the show saw Miss Marion Campbell, Miss Foster Avenue win a portable electric radio; Mrs. Fred Carscallen, 219 Bleecker, won an electric iron donated by Big-A, while Mrs. Leo Kennedy, Bayview Heights won a breakfast set donated by David's Electric.

One of Belleville's Oldest Buildings To be Demolished

Eddie Thomas Tobacco Emporium, well-known Front Street landmark, has been relegated to the limbo of departed relics of the city.

Too old for pension, the building which has clung around or less tenaciously to the south side of the Clark and Miles building for 125 years, was demolished and replaced by a modern two-storey structure.

In the interim, the "Thomas Boys" will conduct their business in the part time store adjacent to the Ontario Intelligencer main offices.

Removal of stock from the old store to the temporary quarters will start immediately.

'Split Second' Blasting Technique Used in Lifting Mass of Rock In Excavation For New Store

Four hundred sticks of dynamite in one blast represents a lot of "bang" but with new blasting technique it can be done with comparative safety for nearby buildings and with a minimum of fly rock.

It is all made possible by "split second" blasting through use of "short period" blasting caps developed recently by Canadian Industries Limited. The new technique was used for the first time in Belleville during excavation for the new Loblaw store on Pinnacle Street.

Old timers in the rock blasting game marvelled that such quantities of dynamite could be detonated in the one blast with safety for nearby buildings and without the use of a mat or log cover to prevent fly-rock.

Move 300 Tons in One Blast

During blasting operations as many as 300 sticks of dynamite in one blast, moves as much as 300 tons of rock. In all about 5,000 tons of rock will be moved during excavation of the basement. Contractors for the Loblaw store are the Holdcroft Construction Company of Kingston, with Eastwood Construction Company of Peterborough as the general contractor.

Split second blasting is just what the term implies. It means that drill holes are blasted in series with "short period" blasting caps. The firing period of such caps range from fractions-of-a-second intervals of between 25 thousand and 75 thousands of a second. To the casual observer the series of detonations sound as one single blast.

The action of "short period" caps is this: the rock broken by the firing of the first period has barely begun to move when it is struck by the force of the charges in a following period, which in turn is struck by the force of the next later period, and so on.

Rock Merely Lifted

The net result is that instead of hundreds of tons of rock being thrown far and wide by the terrific force of the entire blast it is merely lifted, shattered and broken into fragments and dropped back down into a pile, ready for removal. In no instance does the fly rock go higher than a few feet.

The split second blasting method is proved its advantage at the Loblaw excavation where blasting operations are close to other buildings and within five feet of the sidewalk without damage.

Father and Son Night

Live Right and Play the Game Honorably 'The Why' Tells Boys

Upwards of 100 city youngsters, from teen-agers right down to widespread interest had the time of their lives last night.

Guests of their dads at the father and son night held by the Lodge No. 323 A. F. and A. M. in the Masonic Temple, the boys had the evening's entertainment that was a distinct departure from their afternoon movies.

While their "pops" were busy at lodge ritual, the youngsters saw movies, heard and doubled as a magician of no mean ability. Ron kept the show moving along at a good pace and had all the customers rolling in the aisles with his audience participation gags.

Proved Versatility

Albert Marson, 300-pound Negro tenor, proved his versatility as a singer by singing concert songs and then coming right back with catchy boogie-woogie numbers.

Demonstrates Wrestling

They stared wide-eyed, as did a lot of their "pops" when the well-known wrestling champion demonstrated some of the holds that carried him to fame in rasslin' and Empire titles. Perhaps Bro. Ted Follwell did not enjoy this phase as much as spectators—much as the rest since he was selected as the object of Watson's "affections."

Watson, speaking directly to the boys, reminded them that were an important part of Canadian life. Future leaders of the country, he urged them to be tolerant, respectful and to respect all temptations.

"It is up to you to live right, and to be proud you are a Canadian. There are a lot of people in the world today who wish they were," he said.

Stresses Tolerance

He urged respect for boys and girls who were not as fortunate as his listeners. Others, no matter what race, creed or color are also good Canadians and should be treated as such, and "made to feel one of us".

Turning to safety, "Whipper" stressed rules for crossing streets. He reminded the boys to look left and right; not to dodge into the street from between parked cars, and always go to a corner before crossing. He illustrated his talk with stories of accidents which could have been avoided if the proper safety rules had been observed.

"Drivers," he said, "always slow down at a corner, not in the middle of a block. It won't hurt you to walk a few feet to the corner and be safe."

"Traffic signals", he said, "were put there for the protection of the public. "Watch them carefully and remember the red light means danger."

Dangerous Practice

Riding of bicycles on sidewalks is a dangerous practice and doubly so when the rider carries a friend on the crossbar, Watson pointed out. Bikes should be kept in good mechanical condition at all times.

"Police officers are your friends," he said. "Parents foolishly make them out to be bogey men for their children. This is not the case. The policeman is willing to help you at all times. In Belleville you will find the police department friendly and ready to protect you," the main Watson warned his young listeners against joining gangs of boys, who are intent on mischief. "You will be tempted," he said, "but do not let them say 'no'. Do something constructive, but don't try to be an individual star. Remember it is teamwork that makes champions."

Should Set Example

"Bigger boys have a responsibility of their own," he said. They should set an example to their younger brothers by observing safety rules and by practicing what they go to make good citizens. They should help smaller children and thus assist in preventing accidents.

He urged the boys to get all they could out of school; to respect their parents and heed the advice they give, for parents holds something for every youngster, but, he warned, there will be plenty of obstacles.

"If you fail at one thing, try another and if you fail again, keep on trying and eventually success will be yours."

Watson touched on wrestling briefly and its advantages in helping to develop the body, in sport, the greatest champion of all is a good loser. It is great to win but respect should be shown those on the losing end.

The speaker, who was introduced by Geo. H. Carver, ended his talk with demonstrations of wrestling holds.

Presented With Key to City

Appreciation of the boys and their dads for the fine address was voiced by Mayor Jack Allin, who presented Watson with a key to the city on behalf of the youngsters present.

Bro. Harry Dewberry acted as the toastmaster, and was the central figure in a post-prandial ceremony of a radio given to him by his son Billy.

The presentation was proposed by Lorne Vaughan and responded to by Don Rose. Bro. E. E. Follwell proposed the toast to the newly initiated candidate Bro. Les Lennox who responded. At this point Bro. H. A. Lennox spoke briefly mentioning the fact that he had put his four sons through the lodge, besides a brother.

Bro. Everett Wood toasted the visitors with Bro. Frank Pringle responding.

The candlelight memorial tribute to the war dead was impressive. Bro. Everett Liddle read the tribute as a light shone on a white cross in front of a purple-draped Union Jack. At the foot of the cross rested a wreath. Small white crosses adorned the altar. The "Last Post" and of "Reveille" was sounded by Jack Fenn.

Wor. Master Dewsberry paid tribute to all who assisted with the banquet with special mention of the outstanding efforts of Bros. Bram Humphrey and Clarence Arnott.

A draw for a pair of tickets to the Young Canada Night Hockey game in Maple Leaf Gardens was won by Doug Gurd. "Whipper" Watson drew the lucky ticket.

Y.M.C.A. Staffs Hold Conference

The staffs of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. headed by the general secretary, Charles D. Forsyth, is in the city today, holding a joint conference with the local staff. The purpose of the meeting is the organization of a study conference as part of the training program of Y.M.C.A. secretaries.

On the agenda are the main topics for consideration, (1) "The Personal Qualifications of a Attitude and Motive of a Y.M.C.A. Secretary", led by Al Darby and (2) "The Development of Competence in Working with Volunteer Groups" led by Mr. Forsyth.

Following today's conference the two staffs will pursue a course of study in their own associations for the next two months on these topics and in two additional areas, namely (1) "The Development of a World Mind and Perspective," (2) "The Development of Competence in Community Relationships." The "Development of Executive and Administrative Competence," and (4) "The Y.M.C.A. Secretaryship as a Profession."

Further collaboration of the two staffs on the findings of the conference in the Y.M.C.A. section is being served by the Workers' Council under the leadership of Mrs. W. Kempston and Mrs. F. V. Grandame.

"Going on Growing" Theme Of District Women's Institutes Meeting Being Held in City

Taking as their theme "Going on Growing" the Belleville Area of the Women's Institutes met in convention for a two-day session in the auditorium of the Collegiate on Wednesday morning. The area combines the districts of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland, and the proud display of banners was arranged across the drop curtain of the stage. Basket of mums reached all across the front of the platform. Registration took place in the hall, and literature was arranged there also with books and pamphlets on motherhood and family life.

Assembly singing opened the meeting led by Mrs. Roy Silks, Holloway, with Mrs. M. J. Parrott at the piano. Mrs. Parrott had selected a song "It's Good Old Convention Time" to the tune of the "In the Good Old Summertime" of which the assembled delegates sang. Mrs. M. Paul presided for the morning session, pointing out in her remarks that this was "The Friendly Convention" and that she hoped everyone would make it so.

The roll call for the district activities was

WEATHER AND DRIVING

How far off is the weather which may bring snow is not common to the motorists who realizes that this definite change in atmosphere and season calls on him to exercise more than ordinary care. Moist pavements or slight fall of snow on the roads may be invitation to mishap by a car. Such weather as has prevailed during the summer season and early autumn has become a familiar routine condition. With the definite turn in the conditions which is bound to come at any time new obligations rest upon the motoring public, for the new conditions bring a greater hazard.

In good weather, on dry pavements throughout the mild or warm spells of the season, there are enough hazards to force a lesson upon all who travel the highways. All motorists are familiar with the possibilities of a skid on wet, damp or slippery surface and their driving practices accord or should accord with the responsibilities of driving during such weather and especially from now on. Every driver knows that the time elapsing between now and winter's snowfall may be short and it is a fact that the responsibility on the driver of the motor vehicle becomes greater.

Slush, a thin skin of ice or snow on a road is an invitation to anyone who is unwary to plunge headlong into danger. Greasy conditions may be expected at times and whatever the change in condition of the surface of the travelled highway or roadway danger lurks for the unwary. Such would be a warning sometimes immediately too great and a really dangerous speed, in which anything may happen which is a terrible dilemma in which to find one self and the other occupants of the vehicle. Skids are very dangerous and in the prediction of time irreparable damage may result by reason of some driver finding no traction and being unable to control the immediate movements of the motor vehicle.

Only lighting vigilance and observation of conditions of road and traffic can guarantee safe driving.

Much may be said to the credit of the many good drivers who diligently observe the regulations and the conditions. These make driving as safe as it is.

OCTOBER WILL COME AGAIN

A little child not so long ago asked his father: "Will October ever come again?" says the Christian Science Monitor in an editorial, "Out of October," and notes that Thomas Hood would have sympathized with the impulse which prompted the six-year-old to ask this question. The lonitor's editor in the same strain says: "We are standing in the last bright remembered of autumn now — we who inhabit the northern latitudes. Before us the golden owers, even now falling into leafy ruin; ahead of us the aunt outlines of bare trees and a few lonely banners aging, one half defiant in a hostile wind.

"Hood let it get him down:

No sun — no moon — no morn — no noon,
No dawn — no dusk — no proper time of day . . .

"With these and a dozen other depressing negatives s disposed of November, or rather surrendered to the oomy aspect of the month."

The Monitor editor goes on: "To be sure, the month enlains a real dilemma, on the horns of which he cannot hang a hammock in the sun," and adds these ords of cheer:

"But when does the living room fireplace glow quite s rewardingly as in November? You really didn't need it efore and by December you'll be used to it. This week- nd's raking of the leaves may be the last you'll have to ickle this season. The snow shovel hangs impatiently in he garage, but you can pass it without shuddering uring the next week or two.

"All this and October's memories too. They are still ight, and — October will come again."

USE OF CRUDE MOLASSES

Canadians have been warned not to eat crude olasses imported for cattle feed. It contains impurities hat could be harmful to humans though, mixed with her fodder, quite all right for animals, says Windsor ar.

This calls attention to a change in eating habits mong people of Ontario. Many a middle-aged person will call when molasses was a favorite ingredient in homeking. The good housewife always had a jug of molasses n the pantry shelf.

Many a boy went to school with sandwiches spread ith molasses. And, of course, sulphur and molasses were spring tonic, albeit a rather distasteful one.

Now with prepared jams, marmalades, ets, and with ther baking ingredients, many housewives haven't had olasses on hand for years.

OFF THE RECORD

by ED. REED

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 9, 1930

Civic unemployment relief has started in Belleville and at least 40 families will benefit as the heads of the family secure work. Preference is being shown to married men and single men who are supporting widowed mothers. There are two gangs of 20 men each, working on two sewers, the one on Baldwin Street and the other on Dundas, Frank and Elmer Sis. The gangs will be given three days of work apiece and then 40 more men will be taken on for a three-day period. Thus, every man will get what may not look like a small sum to those on regular salary, but to those in need, it is welcome.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 9, 1920

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Embury of Niagara Falls, Ont., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Embury, Bridge Street.

Mayor Riggs and ex-Mayor Walmsley occupied the bench at the police court this morning and disposed of several cases.

T. S. Simms, manager of the Royal Cafe, has taken over the Newfoundland Cafe in this city. Mosier Lee, the late proprietor of the Newfoundland Cafe, is giving up business to attend Albert College.

The smoke stack on the building of the Belleville Soap and Door Factory burned out last evening. No damage resulted.

William Thomas Evans has been appointed a member of the Belleville Police Force. He has been a resident of Canada only a short time and since his arrival here he has been engaged in farming in Sidney Township. He is unmarried.

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 9, 1910

A by-law has been passed by the city council and published in the local papers, providing for the construction of an asphalt block pavement on Front Street from Bridge Street to the new bridge, on the basis of an additional assessment of 40 per cent for 20 years, of the cost on the property owners fronting on the said road. The bylaw contains a provision that this pavement is to be constructed on the principal of a general tax of 60 per cent on the whole rentable property in the city and an additional 40 per cent on Front Street property holders, unless the majority of the owners of the real property fronting, abutting or adjoining the said portion of the said street, petition the council against the construction of the pavement within one month after Nov. 11, 1910.

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 9, 1900

Mr. Edward Cummings, who was for some time a resident of Belleville and left here about 10 years ago to reside in Chicago, Ill., has been elected a member of the Illinois Legislature as a Democrat by a large majority.

It is pleasing to note that it is almost certain now that rubber tires will be soon obtained for the local ambulance. Miss de Pencier, Superintendent of the hospital, says that she has now in hand the sum of $39 toward this purpose, and as the entire cost will be $60, it would not take long to obtain the balance of money required.

Owing to a break at the power house the electric street cars were forced to stop running this morning. It will take two days to make the repairs at the power house.

MacKenzie's Column:

Tiny Himalayan Kingdom of Nepal Centre of Storm

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The ideological storm which is searching every nook and cranny of the Asian continent has one of the most inaccessible spots—the tiny Himalayan Kingdom of Nepal, which forms a cable in the towering "roof of the world."

Through long centuries Nepal has remained a land of mystery—a kingdom which has been a sanctua ca for the Hindu and Buddhist religions. Few Americans or Europeans ever have been permitted to visit this ancient link between the cities on the north and India on the south.

Now Nepal suddenly has experienced a political upheaval, the exact nature of which still is obscure. The known facts are that the 44-year-old king, Tribhuvana Bir Kikram, has taken refuge in the Indian embassy in his capital.

The monarch's three-year-old grandson, Gyandendra, has been placed on the throne by the hereditary Prime Minister, Mahareja Mohun Shamsher Jang Bahadur Rana, after a meeting of parliament and of the nobles. Here it is important, to note that the Prime Minister has been the real ruler of Nepal.

Under Pressure

One of the known facts back of this upheaval is that the king had been under pressure to democratize his government, which was an autocracy of the feudal type—controlled by the prime minister.

Next the question also arises whether communist China's intervention in Tibet had anything to do with the Nepal situation. However, there appears to be no connection between the holy city of Lhasa of Tibet and the quick shift in the Nepal monarchy. Communist agents have been expected to work in Nepal, but whether they had a hand in the crisis is among the mysteries of the moment.

Nepal is a land of towering mountains among which is Everest, highest in the world. The population is estimated at roughly 6,000,000 made up largely of Mongolian hill tribes. They pursue simple farming and pastoral lives.

Intensely Religious

The country is intensely religious. Not only in the villages but along the mountain trails there are thousands of shrines and memorials—statues of monkey and elephant gods, temples to Hindu deities, and great Buddhist mounds surmounted by pyramids.

However, Nepal has been dynamic in her pastoral pursuits and religions. She is noted for her Gurkha troops, famous and feared over as fierce fighters. Gurkhas served with British forces in several areas during the Second World War.

The progress of the political crisis in Nepal will be watched with special anxiety by India, for the development should take on a communist tinge, it would bring Chinese communist activities closer to India—much too close for comfort.

Operation on Esophagus

Toronto, Nov. 9—CP—An infant girl born with a faulty esophagus was brought to the Sick Children's Hospital here yesterday by plane from Ansonville, 140 miles from Toronto.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Trudel and will undergo an operation to correct the condition which prevents her from eating normally.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If you had a great big heavy box to deliver—a box full of cash or gold, say, you would certainly do what the truck drivers do. You would manoeuvre the car as close to the place you had to deliver it as possible.

The delivery of goods is becoming one of the desperate factors in the down town traffic problem of many cities, and in some communities, they are threatening darkly to pass bylaws obliging merchants and wholesalers to do their downtown delivery after twelve noon, between the p.m. and 8 a.m. But the question arises what is business? Business is the movement of goods from one place to another.

Nothing so infuriates a gentleman as to have his car held up through down town city streets as to have to wait one, two and even three minutes (a perfectly outrageous length of time,) while some truck driver, with no traffic sense whatever, manoeuvres to find a parking spot, or even —a situation pretty close to murder— double parks while he dashes into a store with a couple of packages.

Yet those of us who get reddest in the face with indignation at the behaviour of truck drivers would no more dream of parking half a block down the street or around the corner on a side street if we had so much as a four pound parcel to carry than we would dream of putting ourselves, for a couple of minutes, in the place of a truck driver with a fifty or seventy-five pound package to deliver.

Nobody any more in our world wants to carry burdens. The truck driver does not want to carry a fifty pound carton one foot farther than he has to. He belongs, with all the rest of us, to this age of "service." Service day goes by, but that some new device is created to ease the human burden. Trouble comes from the fact that our cities were laid out in the days when there was a large and hopelessly willing population whose comfort was the last consideration of all.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE VEHEMENT FLAME

Are you jealous? If you are, then you are to be pitied. The Bible calls jealousy a vehement flame. It burns happiness and purpose out of any life which is unfortunate enough to be ruled by it.

The sensible approach to this problem is the realization that jealousy is stupid. If a person surpasses you in one way, be quite sure that you excel him or her in some other way. Furthermore, when you look with envy upon the thing which someone else has and burn with jealousy because he possesses it, be sure that that flame will not get you the thing you want. Jealousy leads to every excess, and these excesses alienate people and line them up against you as enemies. The more jealous you are or any person and his achievements, the more conspicuous the more are you making it certain that the thing you covet continually escapes. Jealousy always defeats its own ends. Triumph is unknown to the jealous person.

This is a passion hard indeed to wrestle with. In the name of all the gods of Greece, deliver me from this cruel tyrant. It promises nothing but torture and delivers nothing but defeat.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BOOKS ARE MEDICINE

Nearly all of us have known times when we felt far below par, the victims of nervousness, but not to the heights again, and into normal activity. How many a time books have come to the rescue among us who love books.

I read an interesting comment along this line recently. Once, thinking that Petrarch was spending too much time with his books, his father, on his library, a friend led him away and kept the key. The first thing Petrarch did the second day he had a headache from missing his books. The second day he began to feel symptoms of fever, so his library was unlocked to him—and he instantly recovered!

You enter a new world the moment you open a book, second in a great book. It is medicine to the mind, to the heart, and to the body. It is true that I do not read something just before retiring each night. It is my "night cap". Nothing soothes like the pleasant memories of something that is fed to the mind at such a time.

It is said of Montaigne that he "read to be companionable to himself". A fine thought. Lawrence in Arabia" of a Bedouin Chief, who wore about his neck a small leather case-copy of the Koran, for which he had paid about a thousand dollars. (Published by Doubleday, Doran). He claimed it was his only protection against snake bites!

Books are, of ours, in its thoughts, influences this body of ours from the top of the head to the end touch of our toes. We have but to disengage its work during periods of amusement, or worry, by serving to it the pleasant and inspiring thoughts or some great writer of prose or poetry. It often works like magic!

No one can read the Sermon on the Mount, or the Twenty-Third Psalm, without immediately being conscious of one's mind or soul fusion into a new world of hope, comfort and faith. Books are truly medicine, always with happy after effects!

4. Trade restrictions by certain countries in the world are a barrier to efficiency and ability to compete. The time is long overdue, and now was the time for these countries to have a "fresh look" at restrictive policies.

In Trade Balance

5. It was an outstanding fact that the world, as a whole, had a trade balance with the United States, an achievement which for months ago would have dreamed was possible so soon. The great change had taken place "without serious economic disturbance to the rest of the world."

6. Canada's trade deficit with the United States in 1947 which had reached a peak of $1,135,000,000, this year likely would be about $200,000,000—just about what Canada's surplus with the sterling area and western Europe would be.

Reviewing the world's economic developments in the past-war years, Mr. Towers noted that by 1949 the United States, and, indeed, had worked its way through to a fair measure of recovery and stability.

But now this stability was being rocked by defence demands, transcending the particular requirements of the Korean war.

Fears of a deep depression were not justified by the facts of the post-war world, and, though the job before Canada and the free countries was unpleasant, it was a manageable one.

"That is not to say that it can be met in any complacent or hopeful sense of any financial sleight-of-hand.

"The situation calls for a number of dull things—things which we may have got tired of hearing about time and again during the last war, but which now are the less essential if we and our partners in the free world are to win through."

Truman Cheerful, Ponders Future

Aboard yacht My Mary Gall, Nov. 9—CP—President today cloaked his disappointment and possible surprise over Truman's Democratic election setbacks behind a cheerful appearance, and refused to talk politics.

Truman and his staff were not prepared to discuss the results except to point to the fact that the Democrats retained control of the senate, 49 to 47, and the House of Representatives which he described as a "comfortable" majority. It was whittled sharply from the present margin.

Queried by reporters as to Truman's explanation for the defeat of top-ranking party members, press secretary Charles G. Ross said tersely:

"The president has not expressed himself as to that."

Truman was not the farthest on the political limb of any election campaign he has made. He predicted a sweeping majority for the Democrats, but, unlike his predictions of 1948, this did not materialize.

Truman and his party, meanwhile continued their cruise aboard the presidential yacht. The brief outing on the Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay—not far from Washington—may well be the president's last vacation of the year.

With the election aftermath, the question naturally arose whether the president will seek his own re-election in 1952. Truman has never said he will or he won't again. And he never said he will. At the same time, there has been a big race had been torn to shreds Squirrels had used them to line their nests.

Personal Health Talks

Address: Dr. William Brady, 185 Wellington St. W., Toronto.)

INCREASED FEELING OF WELL-BEING

In a report of highly successful treatment of a patient who had coronary occlusion at the age of 43 years, Dr. Wm. Hall Lewis said (Jama 2-10-40):

"In addition to eating, exercise has consisted in occasional swimming and regular dancing, averaging perhaps three or four hours weekly."

Beginning about two years after the original attack of thrombosis (clotting which plugs or occludes a branch of the artery supplying the heart wall) "green vegetables and fruit were substituted for a substantial part of the usual concentrated 'carbohydrate' (white flour products, starch, sugar, syrup, white rice refined cereals) "and protein foods; green vegetables were usually substituted for meat at one meal a day and fresh fruits for deserts at the main meal." He has been a very large consumption of oysters and clams, averaging perhaps about a dozen per day five days a week. The oyster and clam diet was suggested by the patient. A marked increase in the feeling of well being was co-incident with the change in diet. Following each of the skiing holidays he has spent at Lake Placid, another in Switzerland. There was also a marked increase in the feeling of well-being.

Perhaps the intelligent use of exercise, graduated exercise, beginning with slow pace around the room and increasing a little day by day, week by week, was more effective than the elimination of the patient's habitual faulty diet in keeping about him the increased feeling of well-being. Be that as it may, there is no question in my mind about the value of graduated exercise (gradually increasing activity, under the supervision of the physician) in any kind of heart disease.

In the C V D booklet, for which send 25c and s. a. e., dealing with heart and artery troubles, you will find a 2200 calory menu under the title Corrective Protective Diet. Whether you have heart trouble or not, it will almost certainly help you toward increased feeling of well-being if you adopt the diet as a model or pattern for building your own everyday diet according to your own requirements. A diet yielding only 2200 or 2300 calories a day is unsatisfactory for an adult who is up and about every day. For the extra calories you need I recommend a tablespoon of plain wheat—not refined white flour products nor refined cereal products of any kind, but wheat from which nothing is removed. Practical ways of using wheat in the everyday meals of the well-fed family are suggested in a pamphlet titled "Wheat to Eat. You can not get it by using a clipping, but I'll be glad to send you a copy if you ask for it in writing and furnish a stamped self-addressed envelope. An adult who does light work, such as office work, light housework, walking two or three miles a day, may need 500 more calories than the pattern diet yields—say two or three whole wheat biscuits, slices of whole wheat bread or toast, or a generous dish of cracked wheat as a breakfast cereal.

If you have no heart trouble but wish to know how to enjoy increased vigor at one meal a day find the booklet The 7 Keys to Live which explains the method—outline of a basic health diet more to the purpose. Send for booklet send 25c and self-addressed stamped envelope. One thing that will surprise you is the revelation of the characteristics of youth"—and it is loss of well-being is not a characteristic of youth. I don't know youth that way.

Another thing that vits means don't look on the word in Webster, for it isn't there, perhaps because the old fellow is not in the know. Vits are an adequate fund of reserve power to the vitamin content of foods, and the resiliency of the untamed animal or the primitive savage."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Baby Teeth Neglected

Daughter, six, has very bad teeth. Can anything now be done to insure her second teeth against the same rapid decay? (Mrs. M. Toronto.)

Answer—Yes, see that she consumes not less than a quart (four glassfuls) of milk daily and gets an adequate daily ration of vitamins, particularly A, and proper dental treatment of cavities in the baby teeth. Otherwise this little child a much better chance to develop even, sound permanent teeth.

Honey

A food specialist says it is as good to sweeten the diet as to have gall-bladder trouble. (T. A.)

I need it forever—If I liked honey I'd eat it, gall-bladder trouble or no trouble.

PRESIDENT

But figures alone cannot tell the story. Many Democrats, particularly those from the "solid south", oppose much of Truman's program and often side with Republicans in voting. Indeed, so striking were the Republican gains, many at the expense of Truman stalwarts, that some Republicans claim it as a victory for their party and near-disaster for the Democrats.

Far Cry From Old One

At any rate, the new Congress is a far cry from the present one. In the 81st Congress, the Democrats have controlled both houses with imposing majorities. In the Senate there are 54 Democrats to 42 Republicans. In the House the Democrats have 250, Republicans 189, American Labor party 1 and six vacancies.

In the new and hostile Congress, Truman probably faces even stiffer opposition on foreign-policy questions than he encountered in 1947 and 1948 when the Republican-controlled 80th Congress was riding high.

In those days Congress was primarily concerned with a relatively-peaceful world—with such domestic issues as price control and the absence of the commodities on the post-war market.

But the Korean war and the moves to rearm Western Europe against possible Russian attack will lay emphasis on foreign policy in the new year's session. The Marshall plan, wind-up in Europe and a possible Pacific defence pact will vie for top attention.

Republicans seem convinced that they won major election laurels on the basis of their attack on what Guy G. Gabrielson, Republican National Chairman, has called "bungling" by the administration in handling foreign affairs—particularly in the Far East.

Will Renew Attack

They can be expected to renew their attack on State Secretary Dean Acheson, one of the prime targets for the communist-in-government charges of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.). McCarthy's charges were given a new lustre by defeat of Senator Millard E. Tydings, Maryland Democrat who headed the foreign relations sub-committee which dismissed them as unfounded.

Truman probably will pull a lot of the Republican punch against his investigation charges by firing Acheson. But Truman is a man noted for sticking by his appointive friends.

Of course, Truman dismissed Defence Secretary Louis Johnson during the campaign, Johnson left office on a wave of resentment against the strife reverses in the Korean campaign.

Some Republicans said at the time that the President fired the wrong man—that the vacant cabinet chair should have been Acheson's. But Truman had made his choice between the two men and there was every indication he would stick to it.

Generally Favor Program

If he is willing to compromise, the president may be able to keep partially intact his program for helping other countries to build their economic and military strength to resist communist aggression.

Southern Democrats who often leave his camp on domestic issues generally favor this program. Enough of them may rally with administration Democrats and some Republicans to put it across in modified form.

But the going won't be smooth. If Truman's foreign proposals are

Ottawa Willing To Help Find 15,000 Workers

Toronto, Nov. 8. (CP)—Immigration Minister Harris said Wednesday the federal government will be "delighted" to help Ontario find 15,000 skilled workers to meet the needs of expanding industry.

He referred to a statement Tuesday by Premier Frost that the province was asking federal authorities for assistance in bringing workers to Canada. Mr. Harris told the Ontario Young Liberal Association that he has already asked Canadian representatives abroad to try to obtain 2,000 workers for the Ontario Hydro's $300,000,000 Niagara Power development.

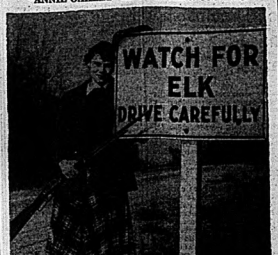
But he criticized Mr. Frost for taking credit for his party for recent development in Ontario. He said:

"While Ontario leads other provinces in industrial development it is quite as much due to the past record of the Liberal Party in this province and the present government at Ottawa."

In bad shape, his domestic "fair deal" program is in even worse condition from a legislative standpoint.

The farm-subsidy payment plan which he fostered turned up its frostbitten toes even before the election when administration supporters began shying away from it.

Chief Backer Defeated



One of the chief Senate backers of the president's compulsory health insurance plan was eliminated by the defeat of Senator Elbert D. Thomas (Dem. Utah).

Price and wage controls will come in for much attention. Republicans charged before the election that Truman failed to use all of his powers to curb inflation. It remains to be seen whether the Republicans now are as ardent on that score.

Any efforts to repeal what Truman has called the "union busting" sections of the Taft-Hartley Act apparently expired at the ballot boxes in Ohio with Republican Robert Taft's re-election to the Senate.

But with all of his troubles, the president can expect a fairly-friendly front in Congress on one issue—the building up of American military forces to meet the threat of communist aggression

"ANNIE OAKLEY" OF NORTHERN ONTARIO

The hunting season is in full swing at Temiskaming, Ont., with hundreds of would-be Daniel Boone's and "Annie Oakleys," such as Ronnie Larochelle, of Cloah, Ont., participating in 25-day-long event. To prevent illegal hunting a road block has been set up about 10 miles out of North Bay to check on all catches and equipment. Latest reports have indicated a definite shortage of targets. Perhaps, they too, have followed the fashion and gone south for the winter. — Central Press Canadian.

FRANKFORD Wanda Martin Wins First Prize In Public Speaking

Frankford—The annual Public Speaking Contest for the Frankford Public School was held Monday evening in the Community Hall, with a large audience present. In all, 13 young folks from the school gave talks on subjects ranging from history and science to household pets.

Wanda Martin took first prize, with her talk on "Our Dog Danny". She was presented with a silver cup on behalf of the Public School Board. Second prize went to Sheila Patrick, with her interesting autobiography of the great explorer, "La Salle." The School Board presented her with a book as her award. All participants received a silver dollar from the Frankford Lions Club.

One unfortunate point of the evening, was the fact that the non-participants in the audience did not remain as quiet as they could have, thus spoiling to some extent, the chances of the young speakers whose voices were not as strong as others. All in all, however, it was a most successful affair, and it is certainty that the winners will make a good showing when and if they enter into inter-school competition.

Accused Advised Not to Give Self Up After Crash

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP)—James Tuckaberry, 25, was quoted Wednesday as having told police when arrested following the traffic death of two children last spring: "I was going to give myself up but several people said not to."

Tuckaberry pleaded innocent to charges of dangerous driving and leaving the scene of an accident in which Lorraine Watson, 13, and her sister Barbara Jones, 5, were killed by a truck.

He was originally charged with manslaughter, as was a companion, Frank Wells, 20. The charge against Wells was withdrawn May 5. A grand jury decided in September that there was insufficient evidence to compel Tuckaberry to stand trial on the manslaughter count.

The children were struck down as they walked to a pre-Easter church service in suburban North York township. Tuckaberry and Wells were arrested 19 days later.

Detective Maurice Richardson read into the court record the statement police say Tuckaberry made when arrested. In it, he said he had been drinking before the accident.

"All of a sudden I heard two people. I wheeled her (the truck) to the left side of the road. There was a bump. I wasn't sure whether it was the people. I was scared. I had liquor on my breath so I kept on going. About two hours after the accident I felt sure I was responsible for the accident. I was going to give myself up but several people said not to."

The trial is continuing.

PRESENTS ARTHRITIC UNITS

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP)—Two models of physiotherapy units for treatment of arthritis were presented by Ontario Health Minister Phillips to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

The first in the province, they will be put into operation at Ottawa and Kingston. The society hopes soon to add a third unit for Toronto.

Fosbraey Wrote Eighty Letters In One Month

Picton, Nov. 9. (CP)—James Fosbraey wrote nearly 80 letters in one month to his wife whom he is accused of murdering, court was told Wednesday.

Written while he was in England with the R.A.F. ten of the letters were threatening, others were filled with expressions of love for his red-haired wife and their five-year-old daughter.

Five days after his wife was stabbed to death Nov. 28, 1949, Fosbraey wrote from jail to his wife's parents: "She told me about the weekend in Kingston—in tears—a few minutes before the murder." The letter was intercepted by the jail's governor, Stuart Gilbertt.

The letter, read in court on the third day of Fosbraey's second murder trial, hinted that his wife had gone to Kingston with Stanislaw Steinbach.

Sentenced to be hanged at his first trial in Napanee, Fosbraey won an appeal and a change of venue to this town, 15 miles southeast of Belleville. He pleaded innocent at the opening of his second trial Monday.

Fosbraey's father-in-law, John Curran, testified yesterday he had never heard a row of any kind in the Fosbraey home until after Steinbach had been introduced to Mrs. Fosbraey. Fosbraey later accused his wife of adultery with Steinbach.

FRANKFORD

Rev. A. E. Lussman Speaks on "Making Faith Contagious"

Frankford—Over a 100 members of the Cobourg Presbytery Young People's Union of the United Church, held their fall rally in the Betsea United Church Friday evening. The young people present represented many towns in central Ontario. A welcome to all was extended by Annabelle Parliament, president of the Batawa-Frankford Young People's Union. Greetings from National Y.P.U. were brought by Mr. Ken Simonds of Harwood Ontario. Mrs. Clinton Cox of Stockdale gave the Quin-Mo-Lac camp report, also the Quinte Br— report.

Special speaker of the eve— was Rev. A. E. Lussman, of Baltimore. His theme was "Making Our Faith Contagious." The Bethesda North Y.P.U. conducted the worship service. Roll call of the various unions followed. The new commissioners are as follows: Christian Fellowship, Miss Vera Arkles, Colborne; Christian Missions, Miss Phyllis

True Blue

Attractive daytime dress

By VERA WINSTON

DESPITE all the excitement about color, navy blue, that dependable old standby, is going all right, especially in top-flight collections. Navy blue woolen is the material for an attractive daytime dress. The neckline, bound in black velveteen, can be worn open or closed, as shown. A quartet of buttons at the bottom of the skirt matches those of the bodice closing. The pannier pockets is also velveteen bound, and it accentuates the slender lines of the neat skirt.

6TH SIDNEY

Bride-to-be Recipient of Many Gifts

6th Sidney—Mrs. Harold Frost was hostess at a linen shower recently held in honor of Miss Lyra Frost, bride of this week. There were 30 ladies present. The evening was spent in the making of a bride's book, a contest and readings. The hostess served refreshments.

A hilarious evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost on Wednesday when 11 of their daughter Lyra's school chums and two teachers of Belleville honored the bride-to-be with a cup and saucer shower.

Lyra thanked her friends for their gifts. Refreshments were served.

Parker, Port Hope; Christian Culture, Miss Shirly Drope, Harwood; Christian Citizenship, Rev. H. Lester, Warkworth, Ont.; Leadership Training, Rev. W. Fletcher, Wooler.

Following this part of the meeting, recreation was enjoyed in the recreation hall. Delicious refreshments were served by the W.A. ladies of Batawa United Church in the new cafeteria.

Dolls' "Garden of Dreams" Features St. Thomas' Parochial Tea, Bazaar

In spite of cloudy skies and the occasional drizzle, St. Thomas' parochial guild opened the doors of the parish hall with a Christmas flourish yesterday afternoon for their annual bazaar and tea. The never-ending stream of patrons and friends was welcomed by the receptionists, Mrs. Allen H. Ketcheson, president of the Guild, assisted by the rector's wife, Mrs. Arthur Smith.

On entering the outer door, the pleasing fragrance of a beautifully decorated Christmas tree, and the distant panorama of a "Garden of Dreams" were pleasingly inviting, both to the nose and to the eye. In this wonderful garden with its evergreen trees, little hillocks and flowering shrubs, lived the companion of childhood's years, the "Old Woman in the Shoe" with her many children; some were seated beside her in front of her fabled house, some busily playing on the hillside, while others trembled here and there, shyly and in pairs.

The Doll Bride

So many of them were recognized: bonnie Annie Laurie in her tartan, the Gold Dust Twins with their ebony faces; Goldilocks with her lovely curls; the Sleeping Beauty, who had been awakened by Prince Charming, was arrayed in white satin with bridal veil and flowers, ready to live happily ever after; and many, many more too many to mention.

In one corner of this garden were tiny cots in pink and blue, for those who might become sleepy, and at right angles to the garden was an emporium of dolls dressed and undressed, such as has never been seen before. Nothing was lacking, sweaters, slippers, berets, cloaks, dresses, lingerie, and aprons. The general convener was Mrs. J. E. Genet, assisted by a committee comprised of Mrs. R. E. Edwards, Mrs. J. Howard, Mrs. P. T. Selbert, and Mrs. S. Connolly. Those who assisted on the booth were, treasurer, Mrs. J. Watson, Mrs. W. J. Berry, Mrs. R. L. Brown and Mrs. R. G. Lanning, Mrs. W. Baldwin, Mrs. Ed. Porter, assisted by Miss Toni Porter, arranged the attractive background of the stage.

Profusion of Good Things

Wending the way around the hall to the right, the first booth was that of the homecooking, and was in charge of Mrs. R. Tanner; the treasurer, Mrs. H. Slinger, and Mrs. Davison, Mrs. Keel and Mrs. Hall. Here was a profusion of delectable pies, cakes, cookies, tarts, buns, dark fruit-filled Christmas puddings, angel cake, some iced and decorated with tiny yellow bunns, other plain, and one made in rainbow hues. Then there were grape jellies, apple jellies, orange marmalade, relishes, pickles. Everything delicious, and most tempting to the appetite.

The plant booth came next with its wealth of green things which seem to hold a little bit of summer in their green leaves; a tall, sword fern, nicely decorated with tinsel; trailing ivy; the Spider plant with its little spiders growing on long, pendant stems, the were many pretty and lovely articles of costume jewellery, centre pieces in frosted glass with silver deposit; a nice picture of St. Thomas Anglican Church; beads, ivory-colored salad forks; Chinese fruit plate, and several readable books including Winston Churchill's "Mission to Moscow," John Buchan's, "Memory Holds the Door," and a "Far Country."

In charge of the beautiful Christmas tree with its prettily wrapped gifts, were Mrs. T. T. Lanning and Mrs. J. E. Buchan.

The softly shaded lights with their hanging fringes of twisted red and white streamer, the decorated pillars with their branches of pine, topped with red bows, the curtained windows adorned with the same, and the little guest tables, each with its white cloth, and flat centre piece of evergreen and flowers made one of the tea room a charmingly inviting place.

Lovely Picture

The long tea table was centred with a bowl of feathery pine, dark-brown cones, and more flowers berries (Mountain ash) flanked with silver candelabra with tall, red candles. Silver service graced each end, and the snowy, hemstitched cloth with its white embroidery all combined to make an exceedingly lovely picture. Those presiding were: Mrs. J. Chant, Mrs. D. Fisher, Mrs. McColl, Mrs. F. S. Wilson, Miss Amy Wallbridge, Mrs. Van Blakelee, Mrs. C. L. Patterson and Mrs. R. Stafford. Those who served included Mrs. W. D. Saunders, Mrs. S. T. Legrott, Miss D. Penberthy, Mrs. J. Howes, Mrs. A. Gonin, Mrs. Fields, Mrs. Pittgibbon, Mrs. R. Pringle, Mrs. A. Purdy, Mrs. R. McBrien, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. Brown, Miss M. Blakelee, Mrs. T. Ross, Mrs. F. Kayser, Mrs. T. Crozier, Mrs. L. Keels, Mrs. G. Little, Mrs. H. Reed, Mrs. H. Murray and Miss J. Watson.

Those who replenished the plates were: Mrs. J. Mastine, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. K. Atwell, Mrs. T. Kelley, Mrs. P. Cook, Mrs. D. Jefferies and Mrs. B. Feather, while making tea and washing dishes were Mrs. McKenna, Mrs. E. Taylor, Mrs. R. Bogle, Mrs. Hutchison, Mrs. A. Denyes and Mrs. A. J. Briens. Convening the tea room, Mrs. A. Lewis, with her committee, Mrs. H. Alford, Mrs. Young-Leslie, Mrs. E. Bateman, Mrs. K. Griffiths, and Mrs. G. Hamish. Taking tickets at the tea room were Mrs. W. A. Vanest and Mrs. K. Roy Gibson. The treasurer was Mrs. Gordon Miller.

A charming bazaar and tea, most graciously convened.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ADVICE T OTHE LOVELORN

She married "on the rebound"... Now she's sorry.

"I got married on the rebound, and am sorry for it now," writes the young wife, who admits that "it's all my own fault that I have this problem."

She goes on to say: "I am not in love with my husband, but with one of his best friends, who says he loves me more than anything else in the world. The only thing is, my husband just worships me, and I don't want to hurt him. I have been married three months. Can you tell me what I should do?"

What this girl should do seems to me very clear. She should stay with the husband who worships her for at least a sufficiently long period to see whether or not things cannot be worked out. She owes this both to her husband and her marriage. I think she owes it to herself, too.

It is pretty mean business to any man to marry him "on the rebound." To do this is simply to use him for one's own purposes. It is even meaner, having used him once this way, to follow up the first kindness with the even greater one of throwing him aside at any moment it happens to suit one's later purposes. I wonder how this girl would feel if this whole thing were reversed and she had been used as she has used this man.

My advice to her, in case she really wants it, is that she have the character and common sense will power to put everything she has into a sincere attempt to make a success of the marriage she entered of her own free will. She can only do this if she is honest enough to tell this other man she intends to make such an effort and so they mustn't have anything to do with each other any more. She will never get anywhere if she simply stays with her husband and lonelges herself at the same time in constant thinking about the other man.

Since by her own admission she has been lucky enough to get a husband who is devoted to her, it would seem that there is a very good chance her marriage can eventually be happy. But it will entirely depend on whether or not she is willing to do her part.

HISTORIC CHAIR

Archbishops of Canterbury are enthroned in an early 13th century chair of Purbeck Marble.

BEAUTY

Fulchrude comes in many patterns

If a woman cannot be lovely in one way, she can be in another. The possibilities of beauty and charm are manifold. No woman need despair unless she has a one-track mind, a nasty disposition or scorns the ways and modes of the moment. She must, of course, keep stepping, so she won't be placed among the has beens and the dowdy. She must be observing. She must not only be aware of her defects but she must have a keen, eager desire to overcome them.

Successful business women are, as a rule, good looking, which shows that brains have a lot to do with the cultivation of chic. If a woman is smart enough to make a place for herself in the world of art or commerce, she is smart enough to know how to dress, arrange her hair, build a personality that is vivid and compelling.

There are women who do not change much with the years, being blessed with youthful spirits and gay memories. They do not gather mental mildew as do lazy, shiftless sisters whose aim it is to go through life doing as little as possible and who impose on the members of the family. Selfishness is a beauty wrecker.

What we are is expressed in face, figure and features as the years progress. A vulgar woman looks vulgar, showing her vulgarity in the conspicuous clothes she wears, the overpowering perfume she selects, the over-doing of complexion decorations. A bit too much rouge, a too vivid lipstick, too much mascara.

A cultured woman is never mistaken for any other type, no matter what she wears. She is a lady and she looks it. Her manners are charming. She is not given to unkind criticisms. She has tolerance and compassion for her fellow creatures.

Beauty—real beauty, that is—begins in the mind. The thoughts inside a woman's head have everything in the world to do with her appearance, her disposition, her speech. They also have much to do with the state of her health. Unpleasant emotions have a deplorable effect upon the physical machine. Envy, anger and jealousy can so interfere with the functions of this machine that actual pain can result. It happens again and again. The mind, the body and the nervous system have a close bond. What affects one unfavorably will affect the other.

If nature has short-changed a woman in the way of beautiful features, she should not be worried about her lack of physical loveliness. If she has an understanding nature, sparkling eyes and a nice smile, nobody will notice whether her nose is too long or too short.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

Cows don't care about the price of milk. When milking time comes busy isn't bothered by the fact that the government now owns 185 million pounds of surplus butter, bought as part of the price support program.

Cows individualy are giving more milk than heretofore, and the cow population has been going up. Creameries produced 750 million pounds of butter during the first half of 1950, an increase of 100 million pounds over the same period in previous years. While all this abundance may not trouble the cows, it must be causing concern in such states as Vermont and Wisconsin where there are more cows than people.

Fresh creamery butter can be put to good use in an old-fashioned dessert—cherry cobbler. This is a combination of stewed fruit baked with a biscuit crust on top.

The cherry juice should be slightly thickened with cornstarch. It should be sweet but not so cloying as to kill the tart cherry flavor. Fresh butter and even extract should be added to the juice.

Serve the cherry cobbler slightly warm or at room temperature. It should never be cold. Any other canned or cooked fruit may be substituted if desired.

Cherry Rum Cobbler. Serves 6.

1 No. 2 can sour pitted cherries
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon rum extract
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1-3 teaspoon baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
1-3 cup milk

Drain juice from cherries. Combine 1 cup sugar and cornstarch, mixing well. Gradually stir juice into sugar mixture. Heat over a moderate flame until liquid boils and thickens slightly. Remove from flame. Add 2 tablespoons butter and rum extract. Combine cherries and juice mixture. Turn into an 8-inch pie plate or baking dish.

Sift together the flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in 3 tablespoons butter until pieces of butter are the size of rice grains. Gradually add milk, stirring only until dough forms into one mass that follows fork around bowl.

Turn dough onto floured board. Roll out to fit top of dish. Place dough on fruit inside dish. Dough should not overlap edge of dish.

Bake in a preheated oven 400 degrees for 30 or 40 minutes. Serve warm.

Fashion Flashes

NEVER BETTER, say stores and customers about the new budget dresses. Black crepe for a nice dress with a criss-cross bodice that molds the figure through the midriff. High, dropy neckline, and set-in deep sleeves. Skirt is flared to one side with big, chartreuse-lined bow at one hip.

PLENTY OF CHOICE when it comes to belts this season. For dress-up, there is velvet with rhinestones; for every day, plain leather; and for separates, nice wool jobs, such as a gray flannel belt with a calf-covered buckle.

ALL THE WAY THROUGH, it's sunclothes. A handsome bag is of wideribbed velvet in square shallow box design with firm basket handles. With it are gloves of the same velvet.

SMART TRICKS add charm to new gloves. A shortie of black suede for afternoon wear, has a narrow triangular insert flanked by tiny jet buttons. For more dressy occasions, a flounce of Chantilly type lace is just buttoned on.

GREEN VELVET teams well with moleskin dyed to match for a smart series of separates. Skirt has front fullness. Bare-top bodice is very snug, and the moleskin jacket has a curved petal collar and basque portion with frog closing at collar and waist. It is lined with the green velvet and is reversible, making a nice daytime suit with the matching skirt.

A FAVORITE all over the country is the sheer suit with plaid or striped jacket and solid tone skirt. A smartly fitted jacket in plaided woollen—various tones of gray with a faint pink stripe—has four pockets that run fabric on the bias. With it a slim skirt in Oxford gray. Fabric is all wool worsted.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Today's afternoon wedding reception foods are very simple

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: . . . .

Concerning the menu for an afternoon wedding and reception —perhaps a three o'clock reception. How about cake, ice cream, sandwiches, coffee? Should cookies be added . . . perhaps chocolate cookies? Should pickles be added? Would a piece of wedding cake and a piece of chocolate cake be best, or would another light cake be best? If you approve of serving sandwiches, what kinds would you suggest?—S. M.

The two most important items to serve at the wedding reception are (1) the wedding cake and (2) a cold beverage (a fruit punch is often served) in which to drink the toasts to the bride and groom. As a supplement to the wedding cake you may serve small cakes (ones easily eaten in a bite or two) and/or cookies, simple but interesting ones, perhaps some chocolate cookies, but other lighter kinds too. (As food-accessories, please don't serve pickles . . . but you might serve salted nuts and candies, perhaps mints.) Serve coffee if you wish . . . it's optional, of course. And, though not necessary, you may serve ice cream or a water ice.

Sandwiches on this occasion should be very small and thin, usually oblong or square, often triangular, and often of various kinds of bread . . . white, whole wheat, brown, pumpernickel, cream cheese and olive or other simple filling or spread; finely sliced chicken or very thin slices of ham or smoked turkey.

Often the sandwiches, or at least the majority of them, are simply bread-and-butter sandwiches; thin slices of white bread, lightly spread with plain sweet butter, and made into little rolls.

The point to remember is that today the food served at afternoon wedding receptions is extremely simple . . . and particularly at a reception at such an early-afternoon hour. It is difficult to suggest exactly what food should be served, since this depends so much on the bride's family preference, on the custom of the community, and, of course, on the budget for the wedding.

Proper for wife to continue to wear husband's fraternity pin

Dear Mrs. Beeckman!

When I became engaged my fiance gave me his fraternity pin as the symbol of our engagement. He has graduated from college, and now we are married. Is it proper for me to continue to wear the pin? If it isn't, would the circumstances be different if he were still at the university and married?—"Sentimental Bride".

Keep right on being a "sentimental bride", dear lady . . . that's just what you should be, both about marriage, and this fraternity pin which became the sacred symbol of your engagement. Indeed it's proper for you to wear your husband's fraternity pin . . . to wear it with sure taste as to its appropriateness.

To give fee or present to minister

Dear Mrs. Beeckman!

At my daughter's church wedding the aunt of a young girl will play for her while she sings two or three songs. What would be the usual fee for this organist and for this soloist? Or if, instead, a young married woman is the soloist and the pastor's wife plays not at the wedding marches but also accompanies the soloist, what would be the correct fee to be paid each one?—Reader.

If any of these musicians is a professional, she should be paid her usual professional fee . . . you should straightforwardly inquire about this from her when the arrangements are made as to date and so forth. But if any is a friend of the bride and her family and offers her service, it is appropriate and generous to give her a present, a special thought-fully-planned present.

Ex-War Prisoner Dutch Girl Tops As Student Here

Cooksville, Ont. (CP) — Ellen Van der Feltz received most of her primary education in a Japanese concentration camp in Java. Now, after only two years in Canada, she had obtained top honors in middle school examinations and stood first in every subject.

Born in The Netherlands, Ellen was taken to Java by her parents when she was 3. Her education started in a school operated by The Netherlands government. In March, 1945, the Japanese marched in. Schools were shut, banks and factories closed and all male Europeans — including her father — interned.

Mrs. Van der Feltz started an underground school under the noses of the Japanese. Finally she and her daughter were sent to a concentration camp. That is where the young girl received most of her early education, again in a school organized by her mother.

Released from captivity in 1945, Ellen and her mother were told Mr. Van der Feltz had been killed when a Japanese ship carrying a number of war prisoners had been sunk by a British submarine.

The two were caught in the Nationalist Indonesian uprising in Java and again were interned.

They were released by British and United States troops and returned to Holland. There, Mrs. Van der Feltz met her late husband's cousin and they were married. Five years ago the family moved to Canada and settled in this community near Toronto.

Ellen's main ambition is to try for 19 firsts in her fifth form subjects. Her teachers are convinced she will make a good try for it.

MELVILLE

Melville—Sorry to report Mr. Clayton Cruickshank seriously ill in Kingston General Hospital. All wish for him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Ralph Preston and Dolores, Wellington, spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carley.

Roger Preston spent the day with his cousin, Linda Carley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Sproule and Ronalee spent the weekend with relatives in Toronto.

Miss Sybil Hardy, of Belleville, spent the weekend with Mr. Colin Hardy, Bain and Jean.

Messrs. Alan Wight and Don Root, also Clayton Palmer and C. Istead left for the north, Sunday morning for deer hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Langstaffe, Belleville, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Istead.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. James Wickson, in the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Ernest Martin, Belleville.

WASHINGTON AT NEW YORK

George Washington, the first U.S. president, was inaugurated at New York City—not Washington—in 1789.

Bootleg Hats Paris Racket

Paris, (Reuters) — "Bootlegged" hats are a secret of the Paris millinery circles. They're on sale only to those who know their way around the Paris fashion underworld.

The first step is to obtain the address of a good hat bootlegger — a rare bird because she must have a quick eye, clever hands and many friends.

Then the inevitable climb up flight after flight of stairs to the door which hides a woman's paradise. Credentials are checked, more closely than if you were being admitted to the vaults at Fort Knox.

Once inside, it is a "Prix Unique" (one price) system — 5,000 francs ($14) for any hat. But the choice includes all the latest models from the leading milliners. If you have your heart set on a little Dior or a wonderful LeGroux number which has tempted you, there it is — for 5,000 francs instead of the 20,000 francs which caused you to quail at the thought of your husband's reception of the bill.

A careful explanation to Madame Bootlegger suffices. She knows every hat in town and is capable of copying it so exactly that even its creator would be mistaken.

Two Young Couples Presented With Gifts

West Huntingdon—On Wednesday evening, a large number of ladies assembled at Mrs. John Wallace's home in honor of Miss Regina Farrell, bride-to-be. Mrs. Morley Haggerty presided over the evening's entertainment which consisted of community singing, readings by Mrs. Barton Haggerty, Miss Helen Gray, Mrs. John McInroy and Miss Agnes McAvoy.

Solos were also given by Marilyn Pickett and Margaret Haggerty, and a musical contest enjoyed.

Mrs. Peter McInroy gave a short address and Mrs. Bill Donnan read an address of appreciation to Jean who was presented with red and white kitchenware articles, for which she voiced her appreciation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jeffery, were honored on Friday evening when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at their home to congratulate them on their recent marriage.

Mrs. Arthur Wilson presided over a short program when Mr. and Mrs. William Grant gave a number of musical selections on piano and violin.

Miss Margaret Haggerty contributed a solo and Mrs. John Wallace gave a humorous reading. A duet by Eleanor Wright and Louis Cooke was enjoyed.

Mrs. Harry Thompson read the special address and the honored guests were presented with a handsome studio couch. Bob Lillian and John made suitable replies and invited all to visit them anytime.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.M.S.

Melrose—The November WMS meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. English last Wednesday with an attendance of 14 members and 2 visitors.

The president, Mrs. R. Macfarlane presided. The theme "Christ in Christ." Following the call to worship Mrs. E. Pascoe read the scripture lesson, Miss M. Baker read a poem. Treasurer reported $146 on hand. It was decided to hold a pie social in November. Plans were made to have a quilting and sewing day in the near future.

Miss B. Macfarlane gave an interesting report of the W.M.S. Rally which was held in Belleville.

Mrs. J. C. Milligan took charge of the Study Book and represented the "United Church of Christ in Japan," while Miss B. Macfarlane represented the "United Church of Christ in Canada."

Some interesting facts were presented: How the churches in Japan were united by government; Dr. Kagawa's meetings were attended by 800,000 to 1,000,000 people; they have 2,400 ordained ministers. They need 1,000 missionaries. At Japan's gathering for their 90th anniversary; the spirit of union is strong. Their message to Canada is that they are more grateful than words can express for what has been done for them. Evangelism is the only thing that will win, may all shoulder that responsibility.

Offering received was $5.50. The hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

PINE GROVE W. I.

The Pine Grove Women's Institute met for their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. F. Clare, Oak Lake, with the president, Mrs. F. Campbell, presiding and fifteen members and four visitors in attendance.

The meeting opened in the usual manner after which Mrs. F. Finkle, district director, brought a report from the last district directors' meeting noting that there was to be one voting delegate from each institute at the area convention to be held in Belleville Nov. 8 and also that an officers' rally is to be held at Mrs. Burkitt's, probably the last week in November.

Delegates were appointed to attend the area convention.

It was decided to cater to the Sidney Township Federation of Agriculture banquet to be held at Marsh Hill school on Friday evening, Nov. 17.

Citizenship

Mrs. F. Heasman, convener of the committee on citizenship then took charge of the following program:

Reading "Lady, Are You a Citizen?", Mrs. C. Rose; address, "Citizenship", by Mrs. R. Bush, district president of West Hastings W.I.

Mrs. Bush said, "We should bring citizenship down to our own individual level. There are various definitions as to what makes a good citizen. It depends upon what we are using for a measuring stick. We must learn citizenship little by little, day by day. We must teach children that they mustn't expect to get something for nothing. Totalitarianism teaches, 'What is mine is mine, and what is yours is mine also. I can get hold of it'. Christianity is the only thing which can cure the world.

Let Institute members study the functions of the standing committee on citizenship and education.

Have citizenship night. Let all the boys and girls who are 21 that year have a ceremony for coming of age."

In conclusion, Mrs. Bush said, "Citizenship is an everyday thing we must live."

Mrs. Heasman thanked Mrs. Bush for her splendid address. The president also expressed her appreciation.

A social half-hour with refreshments was then spent.

On Friday evening, October the 27th Pine Grove W.I. entertained the Marsh Hill school to a banquet in honor of the school softball team which has been successful in winning the Sidney Township School Area softball trophy two years in succession.

Jurist Deplores Lenient Handling Of Old Offenders

London (CP)—A "get tough" campaign against lawlessness with punishment that strikes fear into the hearts of criminals, is advocated by Lord Oaksey, who presided at the Nuernberg Trials of the Nazi war leaders.

Addressing the annual meeting here of the Magistrates' Association, Lord Oaksey deplored the trend towards lenient treatment of habitual offenders and the easing of discipline in prisons. Neither, he said had the deterrent effect of protecting society nor preventing private vengeance.

The only categories of punishment at present were imprisonment, corrective training and preventive detention.

"Does anyone," he asked, "really believe that these forms of punishment are appropriate for those who beat old men and women within an inch of their lives?

Must Strike Fear

"To me it appears that some form of imprisonment should be so hard as to strike fear into the heart of the most hardened criminal."

Rather than impose one form of imprisonment, Lord Oaksey suggested there should be sufficient grades of punishment to enable a judge to decide what appropriate sentence should be imposed, both in time and quality. It was a mistake, he submitted, for the prison commissioners to determine what form of punishment a criminal should undergo.

Lord Oaksey asked why prison officials were protected by forms of corporal and dietary punishment which were not applied in the protection of the public.

"The reason is, it seems to me, that members of the public who have the misfortune to be beaten up are organized in no trade union and cannot make their views felt," he said.

Auto Producers Increase Output Over Last Year

Detroit, Nov. 8—(AP)—Chrysler has pushed its 1950 passenger-car production above the 1,000,000-unit mark, its car output so far this year now exceeds that of the same period last year.

Truck assemblies still lag behind the 1949 total, but by considerably less than they did a few months ago.

Normally these production figures wouldn't be of special significance, but Chrysler has achieved them despite more than 100 days of strike-enforced idleness early this year.

Chrysler has been rolling out better than 40,000 cars and trucks a week. Had there been a better supply of materials available it undoubtedly could have topped that volume.

But there is little doubt in industry quarters now that like most other companies, Chrysler too, will set up a new production mark this year. The record is last year's 1,267,470 cars and trucks. It already has built 1,110,000 units this year.

Uncertainty regarding material availability early next year may be partly responsible for the industry's heavy production schedule for November and December. Some experts say it is borrowing from the anticipated output of the first quarter of 1951.

The factories have decided to build as many cars as possible even if it means an unusually-heavy accumulation of field stocks at the year end. It is no secret, of course, that sales have fallen off since tighter credit controls were imposed.

However, most industry analysts look for a rapidly - increasing load of arms orders after next Jan. 1. As these orders mount the material available for civilian production will decline.

Die Almost Simultaneously

Hamilton, Nov. 8—(CP)—Fifty-seven years of happily married life ended almost simultaneously last night for Mr. and Mrs. William Wesley Louks, of Hamilton.

In failing health for the last six months, Mr. Louks died late at night, and the shock proved too much for his devoted wife, who died minutes later. Mr. Louks was in his 84th year. Mrs. Louks was 73.

Residents of Hamilton for the last 50 years, the couple belonged to Erskine Presbyterian Church. Mr. Louks was formerly a painter by trade and an employee of the city works department for about 30 years, retiring in 1937. He was born in Windham Centre, Ont.

HIGHWAYMAN'S HAUNT

Finchley Common, an area in London once notorious for holdups by Dick Turpin, now is entirely built over.

Christmas Trees Of Better Color

Cranbrook, B.C. (CP)—Christmas trees from this area will be of better color this year.

Harvest has started in the East Kootenays from where 700,000 trees were shipped in 1949 to markets in the United States and Eastern Canada.

Sharp frost in late September helped to set needles and improve color.

Trees are trimmed, baled and stacked until late November when they are loaded in railway carload lots for shipment by early December.

SOLDIER FORGOT

Andover, Hampshire, England (CP)—A soldier near here forgot that he had an engagement ring tied up in a handkerchief. The handkerchief was washed in a local laundry before the ring was found.

MARMORA

Rev. H. A. Kent Speaks on Church Matters

Marmora—November meeting of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was held in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, the morning and afternoon of Tuesday last. Rev. A. L. Elliot, Tweed presided and the Rev. K. J. Crawford discharged secretarial duties.

The Rev. Morley Clarke, of West Huntingdon, took the worship period, and gave an impressive talk on the office of the under shepherds of the flock of Christ.

The Presbytery endorsed the call of the Rev. F. A. Gilbert, of Foxboro, to the Milverton charge in the London Presbytery.

Following the reading of communications, the court went into committees for consideration of the same, thus completing the morning business.

Dinner was served by the W.A. of St. Andrew's Church to attending ministers and lay representatives in the church.

Discussion of Laymen's Work

Prior to the afternoon session members of the Lay Association held a half hour in the church under presidency of C. W. Neelands, of Belleville, with Fred Elgie as secretary. Discussion of matters relative to the work of laymen was led by Mr. Elgie and others. Among motions passed were these.

"That we recommend to the Presbytery Executive to bring on reports of committees earlier in the days of session;

"That we recommend that the Presbyterial sessions be called at 9 a.m.;

"That we request our ministers to have lay delegates give reports of Presbyterial meetings at church board and other such local church meetings;

"That the improvement and modernization of parsonages undertaken where necessary, a copy of this motion to be sent with relative clause in the manual to recording steward."

Afternoon Session

The Rev. C. W. Neelands, of the Sidney charge, conducted opening worship at the afternoon session. Mrs. C. D. McLellan of Napanee, president of the Presbyterial W.M.S., was introduced to the gathering and spoke briefly. A vote of sympathy was extended the congregation of the Halloway Church on the Foxboro charge on recent damage to their church through a collapse.

Committees then reporting were:

Induction, Rev. K. J. Crawford, Enterprise; Pastoral Relations, Rev. J. T. Lane, Madoc; Christian Education, Rev. M. G. Clarke, West Huntingdon; Visual Aid (talk), Rev. G. D. Young, Marmora; Church Property, Rev. W. H. Clarke, Deseronto.

Guest Speaker

Principal, the Rev. H. A. Kent, D.D., of Queen's University, as guest speaker gave a fine address in which he enlarged upon four matters of vital concern to the United Church.

1. Its missionary and maintenance fund. He was troubled that even intelligent men would give generously to local congregational needs, but not to the other side of the envelope. Thus he considered that the M. and M. framework was not sufficiently clothed with instruction that was given to the people.

2. Men for the ministry. Here was a place where many had fallen down. You cannot press youth into the ministry. You can set before them the things the Church of God needs, and the way such things are met. Men who are not young have been giving up a business career that they might strengthen the ministry. While it was noble of them to do so, it is not the way to build up the ministry. By precept and example you should keep before youth the claims of the Christian ministry," he asserted.

Place of Religion

3. The place of religion in history. So many of the young folks don't seem to have any idea of this. To them religion is an extra to be accepted or not taken. They should be taught the essential position of Christian religion in the whole history of our race.

4. Support of our people against the waves of fear and pessimism. So many people want to make our flesh creep. We must fortify our peoples' faith.

Resolution Re: Alcohol

Rev. S. Spurrell of Bloomfield, reported for the committee on Evangelism and Social Service. This report occasioned the most discussion and resulted in the passing of a resolution to be sent to Queen's Park worded as follows:

"Deeply aware of the increase of drinking of alcoholic beverages and of the conditions resulting therefrom as indicated in the press, radio and in our own communities, we recommend that this Presbytery again petition Premier Frost and the Ontario government to curtail the hours of sale of such beverages.

Other committees reporting were: M. and M., Rev. F. R. Harback, Belleville; publications Dr. A.J. Wilson, Trenton; records, Rev. K. J. Crawford, Enterprise; supervising ministers, Rev. F. R. Harback, Belleville.

A motion was then passed that the time and place of next Presbyterial to be held next February be left to the executive.

Fred Elgie of Belleville presented the final report, that of the Lay Association.

A vote of thanks to the pastor of St. Andrew's and its board and to the ladies of the W.A. for hospitality wound up the business.

Dr. Kent offered closing prayer and pronounced the benediction.

TWEED

Tweed—Friends of Mrs. Frank Bowers will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in Belleville General Hospital due to a broken ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rollins of Belleville attended the anniversary services of St. John's United Church on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Rollins were guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moon.

Mrs. Archie Jones of Belleville is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Russell Sexsmith and Mr. Sexsmith.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Ostman and children of Kaladar visited over Sunday with Mrs. Ostman's parent's, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foster. Mrs. Ostman assisted the choir of St. John's United Church, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tummon of Foxboro, spent Sunday with Mrs. Tummon's sister, Mrs. John Sager and Mr. Sager.

Miss Ethel Kerr of Toronto, spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. C. Kerr.

Miss Billy Snare, teacher at Roslin, was home for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Chase and family and Miss Joan McCrea of Frankford, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. McCrea.

Cost-of-Living

Measures within provincial jurisdiction to protect customers against any unfair practices which add to the cost of living.

Three Canadian Destroyers Start For Hong Kong

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (CP)—The three Canadian destroyers that have been operating with United Nations forces in Korean waters today were on their way to Hong Kong for a brief spell of anti-submarine training.

They will work out with British submarine off the big naval base.

The Athabaskan and the Cayuga are due to reach Hong Kong Friday. The Sioux, escorting a British carrier, is scheduled to arrive there Saturday.

United Nations naval commanders here said all three will return to Japan in about a week to resume "routine patrol" off Korea.

The tribal class destroyers, which sailed from Esquimalt, B.C. July 5, have taken part in landing and bombardment operations off Korea, as well as performing patrol duties and screening larger United Nations fleet units.

In all the actions, including the Inchon landings on the west coast of Korea Sept. 15 that led to the liberation of the south Korean capital of Seoul, there have been no Canadian casualties.

Each destroyer carries a complement of about 250 sailors, mostly young men who have joined the navy since the end of the Second World War.

The destroyers, in the war zone since July 31, represent only part of Canada's contribution to the United Nations fight against the communists in Korea. Twelve R.C.A.F. North Star planes are operating on the Trans-Pacific airlift between McChord Field, Wash., and Tokyo. An advance party of the Canadian army's 11,000-man special service force has reached Korea and the second battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is due to sail for Korea late this month.

Ominous Quiet Settles Over Battle Front

Seoul, Nov. 9 (AP)—Korean fighting fronts were ominously quiet today. Attention shifted to diplomatic fronts. Only in the air was the war as usual.

There was no major contact reported with communist forces —either Korean or Chinese—in all Korea. Only on the northwest front was there any contact at all. There a tank-led patrol of the U.S. 24th division ran into 200 to 300 enemy troops.

In north-central Korea, U.S. marines advanced unopposed to within nine miles of the vital Changjin power dam. Only four days ago Korean and Chinese reds had put up bitter resistence in this sector.

For the marines it was a gain of nearly a mile along the tortuous canyon road leading northwest from the east coast city of Hamhung, 40 miles to the south. Changjin reservoir is the heart of a huge hydro-electric system.

In Strange Phase

Diplomatic strokes apparently were developed behind the backdrop of the war. A U.S. eighth army staff officer said "the war is now in a strange phase in which diplomatic moves perhaps are as important as military moves."

A wintry mist overhung the fronts, but the weather generally was good. Allied carrier-based planes and B-29 Superforts took advantage of it to hit red communication lines and supply centre. A red jet and two propeller-driven Yak fighters were shot down.

The Superforts struck at Pukchon, in northwest Korea, and at the northwest coast city of Chonglin.

Eight in Race For Provincial Leadership as Ont. Liberal Convention Opens in Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP)—Liberals of Ontario today plunged into a two-day convention called to select a new provincial leader and to shape a policy for the next provincial general election campaign.

The leadership field will take shape definitely this afternoon when aspirants for the post vacated by Farquhar Oliver more than a year ago will be nominated officially and make their appeals for support.

At least eight men will get into the field. Pre-convention speculation centred, mainly on the chances of two—John G. Brown of Kitchener and Walter G. Thomson of Toronto and Pickering. Party sources look on the race as wide open but concede to these two the positions of favorites.

Federal support appeared yesterday for Mr. Brown when Immigration Minister Harris said he would support the Kitchener man. Mr. Harris emphasized at a press conference that his decision was a personal one as a delegate and in no way indicated the stand other members of the federal cabinet might take.

However, one report said Trade Minister Howe had also told members of Liberals he would also vote for Mr. Brown.

It was expected that Mr. Thomson, who represents Ontario constituency in the House of Commons, would have support from federal party men. In addition, he has been campaigning intensively, speaking to local Liberal associations in many parts of the province.

Six Definitely in

However, last-minute support for any of the other candidates might sweep aside all advance speculation.

Six others definitely in the field are Campbell Calder, M. P. P. for London; Charles W. Cox, M.P.P. for Fort William; Controller Arthur Hicks and John J. Sullivan of Hamilton; Norman O. Hipel of Preston and Dr. Harry Cassidy, director of the School of Social Work at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Hipel, a former provincial cabinet member and Speaker of the Legislature, and Dr. Cassidy announced their intention to enter the race late last night.

Routine business was scheduled for the delegates this morning. This afternoon they were due to elect Association officers before tackling the leadership nominations. Tonight at a banquet, Mr. Howe will be the speaker.

Friday morning the convention will deal with a policy statement and in the afternoon get down to the job of electing a leader.

Young Liberals Meet

The Young Liberals yesterday elected Bruce McCullough of Kitchener as president-elect by acclamation. Gordon Dryden of Rockwood and Toronto was elected secretary, and George Schiett of Kingston treasurer.

In resolutions to be passed to the parent O. L. A. Convention, delegates recommended the study in French by all school children in Ontario and that French and English be made compulsory subjects for senior matriculation.

They also recommended tighter regulations on drinking; more severe penalties for fractions of safety provisions of highway traffic law; that university fees be standardized; establishment of scholarships, bursaries and loans for needy students; and development of a province - supported advertising campaign for farm products.

Dalai Lama Said Still in Lhasa With His Cabinaet

New Delhi, Nov. 9 — (CP)—A report from India's representative in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa today ignored unconfirmed reports of Chinese proposals on future relations between communist China and Tibet.

The Indian representative, S. Sinha, declared instead that there had been no appreciable change in the situation since his last report, received here Sunday.

That message said Tibet's 15-year-old ruler, the Dalai Lama, still was in Lhasa and that his cabinet and the National Assembly were in continuous session.

Contrary Reports Heard

Meanwhile, a Peiping radio broadcast, heard at Kalimpong, caravan centre on the India-Tibet border, claimed communist troops advancing into the isolated priest-ruled country had entered Lhasa. The broadcast was made in Tibetan.

However, English - language broadcasts of the Peiping radio heard at New Delhi by the All-India radio, made no mention of Chinese troops entering Lhasa.

In a reference presumably to possible future attempts to evacuate the Dalai Lama, Sinha advised that no landing strip had been prepared in Lhasa but that a plane, in an emergency, possibly could land on a sandy stretch near the capital.

The unconfirmed reports from Kalimpong of the Chinese offer said the reds proposed to station troops in Lhasa and to control Tibet's defence, foreign relations and internal communications. The Chinese were reported offering in return to leave Tibet's internal administration to the regime of Buddhist priests who now control the country.

Indian newspapers meanwhile continued to devote much attention to "war," the buffer state between India and Tibet, whose King was reduced Monday by his three-year-old grandson in a palace revolution engineered by Nepal's all-powerful prime minister.

Reliable reports reaching here today said the baby-faced King Gyanendra, was hidden by his nurse as his grandfather, King Tribhuvana Bir Kikram, and his family fled the palace Monday to take refuge in the Indian Embassy in Katmandu, the Nepalese capital.

There has been much speculation as to why the king's family left without the child, figures here were unable to say why the nurse hid the boy, but apparently the king's family was in such a hurry they were unable to search for him.

Judge Cannot Understand Why Charge Reduced

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP) — James Tackaberry, 19, was sentenced today to 18 months for dangerous driving and leaving the scene of an accident last Mar. 31 in which two children were killed. He pleaded innocent.

Tackaberry was arrested at the end of a 19-day hunt for the driver of a lumber truck which struck Lorraine Vis, 13, and her niece, Barbara [illegible], 5, as they walked to church in suburban North York township.

Also arrested at that time was Frank Wells, 30, who was in the truck with Tackaberry. Both were charged with manslaughter but the charges were dropped.

Judge Robert Forsythe said today in sentencing Tackaberry that he couldn't understand why the manslaughter count was withdrawn.

"It seems to me the evidence clearly indicates that you might have been convicted of manslaughter. If it hadn't been for liquor the accident probably wouldn't have happened."

Radioactive Iodine is Used To Manufacture Newsprint

Montreal, Nov. 9—CP—The first newsprint ever manufactured with the aid of atomic materials from Canada's stock pile at Chalk River came off the machines of a Quebec newsprint mill Wednesday.

The successful use of radioactive iodine in a test run at Bale Comeau, on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, was announced here by Arthur A. Schmon of St. Catharines, president and general manager of the Quebec North Shore Paper Company.

The Bale Comeau experiment, conducted by company technicians, National Research council officials and representatives of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Montreal, was the result of months of study and planning.

Four tons of newsprint, containing a minute amount of radioactive iodine, were run off a high-speed paper machine. Purpose of the iodine is much the same as that of radio isotopes used by the medical profession for tracking down the courses of treatments in the human body.

The radioactive materials make it possible to follow the meshing and intertwining of fibrous substances coming together at any mixture stage.

Officials said that due to the small amount

Why Your Ticket is Punched By the Railway Conductor

(As article in the Canadian National Magazine)

Whenever you ride a train, the conductor punches your ticket to cancel it. Now, no two of these punch marches are the same. Each punch, like a human fingerprint, leaves a mark that has no duplicate. This variety in punch marks is part of the Canadian National's accounting system.

The hole the conductor punched in your ticket today may make the outline of a lady's head, a high button shoe or a top hat. In any event it will be unique, identifying not only the conductor but also the section of the C.N.R.'s lines over which you were travelling when the ticket was punched. There are 2,000 different punch marks in use.

The railway will never run short of these punch marks, for while there are 2,000 in use, the company has 1,500 more dies. Punch marks include the letters of the alphabet and animate and inanimate objects such as a star, a mushroom, a half moon, a hatchet, an anchor, a fish, a trowel, the four symbols of playing cards, a horse's head and many others.

As we have said, they have a direct bearing on the accounting system. They are a factor in proving that a portion of a ticket is refundable. The railway doesn't expect a passenger to pay for more than he has received. If you have used only a portion of your ticket, the company is prepared to return your money on the remainder.

However, to make refunds possible the railway must maintain an accurate tally of the tickets and parts of tickets that have been honored on its trains. The punches by its conductors provide this tally.

Let's suppose you bought a ticket from Montreal to Winnipeg and that, for some reason or other you left the train at Capreol. Out of Montreal and Ottawa the conductors will leave their punch marks (a diamond and horseshoe) to indicate that you travelled the distance of their runs, that is, Montreal to Capreol.

On return to Montreal, you apply for a refund from Capreol to Winnipeg. Your application and ticket are forwarded to the auditor of passenger accounts office. There, by consulting the records, it is found that the diamond belongs to Conductor Smith on the Montreal-Ottawa run and that the horseshoe punch mark belongs to Conductor Jones on the Ottawa-Capreol run.

By checking the daily ticket report it is determined that these conductors were on duty when you made the trip. Hence the punch marks on your ticket when checked against the records show that you travelled only from Montreal to Capreol. Therefore the Capreol-Winnipeg part of your ticket is refundable.

Since punches play an important role in making refunds, they are issued with care. When a conductor receives a new punch, its particulars are filed with his superintendent and with the auditor of passenger accounts.

ochen hs ?iyou pu-p— nc.

At the latter's office, an additional record for each punch is maintained. It is called the Record of Ticket Punches. This record contains all the transfers made of a punch until it goes out of service. Something of a master record also is kept there and is used as a ready reference. This record lists all the punches in use and names the conductors to whom they have been issued and the runs on which they are used. All the records bear the marks of the punches, so that when a conductor turns in his ticket report his punch mark is his signature.

FAILS TO MAKE FRIENDS, INFLUENCE POLICE

A West Berlin policeman gives a not-too-gentle shove to a communist demonstrator from the British sector after a large group of reds attempted to mob a courthouse in order to free a fellow "peace fighter" who was arrested. The demonstration was successfully broken up and the arrested red was later sentenced to a year in prison for illegal propaganda and "terrorism." — Central Press Canadian.

Infection Fear Has Wide Hold

Somebody says the most common type of hypochondria is an exaggerated fear of infection. Grace Luckhart writes in The Vancouver Province. I have seen some of most fantastic examples of this (aside and apart from friends of mine, who always embarrass me when dining in public places by wiping out their cups and cleaning the silver.)

One friend who wasn't exactly an invalid, but who took pretty good care of herself, used to have a hair-dresser come up to do her hair. After the girl left she used to burn everything the girl had touched in the bathroom. How she managed to hang on to her own head I never knew. But these people with these obsessions are never enslaved.

This same friend would have a plumber put on a washer on the kitchen taps, and would be hard put to have the whole kitchen disinfected.

Disinfect Shoes

If she left her car long enough to walk around town at all, her shoes would have to be disinfected by disinfected when she got home, in spite of which, she was a delightful person. The end of the sorry chapter about her obsession is that she died of a particularly unpleasant disease.

Another friend of mine in West Vancouver made me laugh when talking about her baby daughter and her feedings.

"I stopped sterilizing her bottles," she said, "when I found her on the floor eating out of the cat's dish."

I think if we were really given to picking up germs, we'd all be down and out from handling dirty money. - Although at that Vancouver money isn't as bad as the Peace River money used to be. Pershps because the banks and new bills were few and far between, and the farmers used to carry what money they had in their old pants pocket — at any rate it was scarcely recognizable as money.

On the other hand, when I was in London and was cashing a traveller's cheque in the Bank of England the bank notes were so clean I thought they were no good.

Test for Caste

Which reminds me of one man's summing 6p of our different social classes. If the bills come out of a container that opens like a book and is carried in the pocket of the coat, the man is of the upper classes. If he carries his money in a billfold on the hip, he is representative of the great middle class. If he reaches into his pants pocket, he is a proletarian.

All this comes to mind because of what happened the other day. Whiffy and I were taking our afternoon scramble along the creek banks when he suddenly said:

"I'm going to have a dink of vatter."

With which he literally rolled down the bank, streiched out on the rocks and had a good long drink.

I had just helped him scramble back when he announced:

"I'm going to do it again."

So down he went again. I felt like following his example. The water looked so clear and pure, rushing over the stones.

On the way home I mentioned to somebody I met that the little fellow had just had a good long drink of creek water. She was horrified.

"That water isn't chlorinated! There might be anything in it. I wouldn't drink it for anything."

Of course, after I went to bed I started worrying about it. What a fool I was to let that child drink the creek water. Then I'argued with myself. Isn't that what we're all drinking? I didn't know. Still, it was clear, pure mountain water, rushing down from the snows on the upper levels. Came a horrible thought, suppose people dumped this and that into it? Suppose the bears rolled around in it?

Water was supposed to purify itself every five miles. Did it make any difference the speed it travelled, I hoped so. This water was travelling like nobody's business. Purify itself from what? Suppose the little fellow really got something!

In the morning I called his mother and told her. We might as well be on the lookout for symptoms.

A-Bomb Effects on Homes

American homes in general would have about the same resistance to blast as did those in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, reports Wade Jones in the New York World-Telegram. Highly qualified architects and engineers arrived at this conclusion after extensive surveys and despite the popularly held belief that Japanese homes are flimsy.

Generally speaking, a reinforced concrete shell, well attached to a frame of either steel or reinforced concrete, will give a maximum of protection.

Distance Important

A lightly attached wall of concrete blocks or bricks would provide almost no protection inside the building and would break up into missiles which could be deadly to those both inside and outside.

The distance of your home from the exploding bomb is, of course, a chief consideration in estimating how much damage you will suffer.

In an atomic air burst of the force and height of those in Japan, homes within a half mile of the blast would be almost completely destroyed.

At a distance of 2,500 feet, in Japan, 18-inch brick walls were completely destroyed. At from 4,500 to 4,700 feet, some steel frame concrete buildings collapsed. At 6,000 feet, or just over a mile, there was "severe damage to entire area." Nine-inch brick walls were "moderately" cracked.

Homes were "severely" damaged at 6,000 feet, with heavy destruction to window frames and doors. At 9,000 feet there was heavy plaster damage. At 10,000 feet or just under two miles, a majority of homes received blast damage. The limit of light damage was five to eight miles.

One of the most important considerations in choosing the location for your home is the protection it would receive from hills and valleys between it and the explosion centre.

Certain Nagasaki homes built in ravines running generally at right angles to the explosion were essentially undamaged. Homes at similar distances, but in ravines running toward the explosion, were severely damaged.

Still Lessons

A striking example of shielding was provided by a hill about 8,000 feet southeast of the centre of the Nagasaki explosion. The buildings, of European type, were on the reverse side of a steep hill. There damage was slight, mainly to plaster and shrubbery.

But at the same distance in another direction from the city, where there was no shielding by hills, the destruction was considerably greater.

The most serious bomb danger to persons in a building is from flying fragments. The architect, advising you how to find its weak points and then decide on the best way of strengthening them.

Added bracing and shoring, or new transverse reinforced walls, will usually be more practical than strengthening the frame, the experts say.

Burns from the bomb's initial flash and from the fires which sprang up after the explosion accounted for more than half of the deaths in the Japanese bombings.

To help reduce the fire hazard, use a fire-resistive design in building your home. Avoid wherever possible the use of fabric or other inflammable decorative materials.

Safety Wall

Not many people will feel like building a 13-inch thick, reinforced-concrete wall around their home, but it—plus the thickness of your present wall — would give you about all the protection you will need a half miles or more from the explosion.

Well tied into the building's foundations and walls, the concrete wall will insure you against flash burn and blast, as well as nuclear rays.

More atom bombs have been built since Hiroshima and presumably some are even more destructive than those dropped over Japan. But now there is the H-bomb, mightier still.

But balancing somewhat this dismal perfecting of the art of mass killing are a few hopeful facts.

Size Impractical

For one thing, increasing the size of a bohb does not greatly increase the radius of its effect. So there comes a point where the increased size of a bomb makes it impractical to deliver, both from the standpoint of its effectiveness and the difficulty of getting it to its target.

For another thing, disaster preparedness measures learned from the experiences of Hiroshima and Nagasaki can go a long way toward eliminating much of the suffering and death in those cities. The entrain of ignorance and fear which one surrounded the subject of nuclear radiation has now been dissolved by facts.

Meteor's Course Probably North Of Montreal

Ottawa, Nov. 9 —CP—Dr. P. M. Millman, Astrophysicist of the Dominion Observatory, said that the meteor that flashed across eastern Canadian skies last Thursday night may have been following a course north of Montreal.

He told reporters he hesitated to make any final conclusions, but reports he has received indicate the phenomenon may have been centred north of that city.

"Unfortunately," he added, "I have received practically no letters from Montreal itself, which would be valuable in making a determination."

But other meteor mail, the scientist said, has poured into his office from as far east as Nova Scotia and as far west as the Sault Ste. Marie area of Ontario. The letters contained many useful reports.

He said he doubted that the meteor would ever be found.

arry Tracy Was Most readed Killer in the West

By Albert Foote in the Canadian Police Gazette)

Some very narrow was ided in his time. Our own Mizer, too, was the cause of ible headaches for the British mbia police.

ndits of their calibre were as rmless as old-fashioned dry- cleaners, compared to Harry Tracy, the most deadly cold-blood- killer who ever ran amok in Pacific Northwest.

Tracy spent three months in the mmer of 1902. Harry Tracy d thousands of homesteaders, ers and farmers as well as po- officers in deadly fear of their . In British Columbia, Wash- ton and Idaho the peril was ll for during most of that ag- ating period no one knew just re Tracy would pop out of the here, coolly train his 30-30, ssess the trigger and snuff out life.

Tracy was a many-time loser to law. He had a long record ruthless criminal activity. The had caught up with Tracy and him locked safely, as the law ught, behind the grim, forbid- walls of the Oregon peniten- ry at Salem.

By the performance of some miraculous, wizardry, he managed to break loose, shooting his way out of the place and leaving three dead prison guards in his wake. He took another inmate of the insti- tution with him, a man named Merrill. The day these two es- caped from the Oregon peniten- tiary began a reign of terror throughout this entire district, for Tracy was the most desperate and successful criminal that ever bade defiance to the law in the Pacific Northwest.

It was a matter of but a few hours from the time Tracy and Merrill blasted their way out of the "Big House" when the first terrifying reports began to reach the ears of the police. These two men had nothing to lose by com- mitting more murders, both were natural killers, both knew they were living on borrowed time.

Their first exploit was to hold up five men and compel them to row them across the Columbia River. Reaching the Washington shore they stripped these ranch- ers of their clothing, cash and weapons, leaving them tied up to trees in a spot infested with man- eating mosquitoes.

Tracy's idea of humor was ghastly, for his custom was to jerk open a ranch house door when he was sure the rancher was in and fire a slug from his 30-30 rifle so close to his victim's ear that he could feel the rush of air from the speeding messenger of death. Now and then he killed one just in this way of advertising to his future hosts that when he ordered a man with his com- pany and demanded a meal and other things he expected to be served pronto.

Just what actually occurred be- tween Tracy and Merrill on July 2 will never be known but on that date Tracy killed his part- ner, Merrill, by shooting him in the back.

Merrill's body was found in a lonely spot and the finder collect- ed $1,500 reward offered for him dead or alive.

The next day Tracy was surround- ed by a posse near Bothell, Wash- ington, about 18 miles north of Seattle. Tracy broke through the cordon of heavily armed, experi- enced men, and killed the leader of the posse and wounding three more. Now there was a price on Tracy's head of $5,000. Hundreds of deputies were sworn in to aid in killing Tracy. There was no wish to cap- ture him - alive as that sort of thing was considered impossible.

His next battle with the hu- man blood-hounds took place al- most within the city limits of Seattle. The posse had him sur- rounded in a house by the time the family at his mercy while they cooked him up a meal.

Tracy knew slightly well that the moment he stepped out of the door a hundred guns would blast out a welcome. His meal fin- ished he leisurely picked his teeth with a long-bladed knife, arose from the table and praised the culinary skill of the cook, then jerked open the front door.

There was a terrific crash of gunfire, gouts of orange colored flame flashing from every direc- tion. When the smoke-cleared away Tracy was seen leaving two police officers dead on the ground. He cut two more notches in the stock of his deadly 30-30.

The next report on the move- ments of the killer came from a rancher named Johnson who liv- ed near Seattle. Tracy bound and gagged Johnson and his en- tire family then he forced a Swed- ish farm hand named Anderson to row him around the Sound for several days. Later he turned this man loose and for some un- known reason spared his life.

Tracy died in a corn field about 11 miles east of Creston, Wash- ington. Surrounded by a posse of hundreds of men, wounded and weak from the loss of blood, he turned his famous death-deal- ing 30-30 on himself, squeezed the trigger with his toe and blew the top of his head off.

CANADA MAY MAKE JET BOMBER, SHINWELL SUGGESTS

Production in Canada of some of the world's most modern jet planes was suggested by Emmanuel Shinwell, British defence min- ister, on visit to Ottawa. He said the Canadair plant in Montreal was mentioned in Britain as a likely choice if arrangements are completed between Canada and the United Kingdom for manufacture of the Canberra, a medium-jet bomber. World leadership in jet-engine design is claimed by the British in their "Sapphire," called the most powerful airplane jet engine in the world.—Central Press Canadian.

EMANUEL SHINWELL

R.C.M.P. Veteran is Keen Soldier at 90 Years of Age

Ottawa (CP)—Maj.-Gen. A. B. Perry, a pioneer of the Royal Ca- nadian Mounted Police, is still a keen soldier.

Despite his 90 years—he was born in 1860—General Perry fol- lows the war in Korea daily with the aid of his maps, and retains his interest in current events at home.

General Perry is one of the or- iginal Yukon "stardoughs". He was in charge of the then North- west Mounted Police detachment as superintendent of the territory during the wild days of "Dan Mc- Grew" and other gold-rush ad- venturers.

He also is one of the few sur- viving members of the Riel Re- bellion, having taken a force from Calgary to Edmonton to join the fight against the resurgents.

The general attended this year's annual re-union celebrations of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont. As the last of the "old eighteen"—the original entry class at R.M.C.—he took the salute on the march past of the old boys' division and joined in the din- ners, church parade and other social functions.

Among the firsts he is able to recall is the winning of the first Governor-General's gold sword at R.M.C. and his duties as First Bat- talion sergeant-major of the col- lege.

He graduated from R.M.C. in 1880 and spent three years with the Royal Engineers in England before he joined the Northwest Mounted as an inspector in 1883.

During the Boer War he was named commissioner of the force at Regina and in 1920 was respon- sible for the amalgamation of the old Dominion Police Force into the Northwest Mounted, which was soon given the title royal. The name of the force was later changed to its present form.

On his retirement in 1922 he was given the honorary military title of Major-General, which was his equivalent rank in the R.C.M.P.

Diverting Notes in Canuck Diary of Women's Tour

The writer of the following was one of a party of Cana- dian newspaper women who toured British industrial areas as guests of Britain's Dollar Exports Board and Canada's Dollar-Sterling Trade Board.

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP)—The story behind nine Canadian women and their three-week tour of industrial Britain has been wrapped into a few smudged diary notes, and a lot of interesting recollections.

The words are blurred in spots. Often they were jotted down on the run—while touring a candy factory near Birmingham or watching "export" automobiles swinging off a Coventry produc- tion line.

Sometimes they were scrawled in a car moving between Stoke- on-Trent and Manchester or Ed- inburgh and Glasgow.

Such was the diary of this trip the women made as guests of Brit- ain's Dollar Exports Board and Canada's Dollar-Sterling Trade Board.

It contains more than details of the some 30 factories visited, the manufacturing heads and govern- ment officials interviewed.

It reflects on the fact that one can sip a Cuba Libre 19,000 feet over the Atlantic.

There's a description of the first view of Scotland from the air—visitors. . . .

And finally luncheon at a hotel in the cozy Scottish border town of Hawick and a Scottish grace by a genial host, Charles Ruther- ford of the Scottish Council:

"Holy, holy 'round the table,
Eat as much as ye are able,
Eat a pooch nen—
Holy, holy—Amen."

SWEDEN ARMING

Stockholm (CP)—Swedish gov- ernment orders for war material totalled about $250,000,000 at the start of the current fiscal year but deliveries in the previous twelve months totalled only $50,000,000. Shipments now are being speeded up especially for anti-tank weap- ons and munitions.

LESS HONEY

Alberta's honey production for 1950 is estimated at 5,000,000 lbs., or 17 per cent less than 1949.

Six able seamen at the Royal Canadian Naval air station at Dartmouth, N.S., officially embarked on a new career in the air branch when they received wings qualifying them as "observer's mates." Each wears the third man in Avenger aircraft — latest R.C.N. anti-sub carrier plane. They are the first to qualify at ceremonial parade (above) they are drawn up prior to the presentation. Left to right are: William D. Hunter, Watrous, Sask.; Harry Sully, Mount Forest, Ont.; Robert L. Rogers, Westboro, Ottawa; William A. Harnell, Three Rivers, Que.; Douglas Carr, Chesterville, Ont. and Douglas S. Moffatt, Montreal. — Central Press Canadian.

Divided Jerusalem Depressing

Jerusalem today is two cities, and any account of it must reinforce be a tale of two cities. Each is a separate entity dependent upon two different hinterlands. The other city does not exist for the average Arab; and Israeli citizens who could be living in coastal towns with their development and interests limited to sight of the sea. Certainly no man's land between the two cities is as effective a barrier, The Times, London, reports.

Falka Ngetaigle

There have been few changes in the Old City. The beauty of which still exceeds Istanbul, Aleppo, or Old Delhi. At night the view from the roof of Government House is as charming as the Taj Mahal under the October moon. Few views can be lovelier than that of the Hills of Moab in the setting sun projects them from the heat haze of the Jordan Valley. They are then golden mountains in the sky. But in spite of its beauty, stout walls and defending heights, the Old City is pathetically helpless. Fundamentally a religious repository, its people feel deserted by the various Christian sects which remained inactive during the war. There is a hopeless nostalgia for the old days when Kaisers and Popes bestowed their patronage and British policemen maintained the status quo. Eventually the implications of the union of Jordan and eastern Palestine will give the Jerusalem Arabs fresh heart, but at present they have little corporate spirit and national pride. Remove the Arab Legion, and the Old City will hardly come under Israel.

The Old City is also depressed economically. Cut off from trade with the New City, and with its life blood—pilgrimage and tourism—hardly pulsating, it has little to fall back upon. Behind it is only the Judean Waste, the American appears far away. The electricity supply has been restored only to throw light on the poverty of the people and the listlessness of the unemployed. To approach the Holy Sepulchre is to invite a rush of ragged guides, whose ferocious need for employment is barely concealed by their servility. Some of the priests are little better. Of course, life goes on. There is a well-behaved bustle in the narrow streets, the sukhs are clogged with good food, with fresh vegetables the like of which is never seen in Israel, carcasses of mutton, aromatic kibaly, peaches, apricots, grapes and figs from the Jordan Valley. There is a city of plenty for the fortunate-citizens with a few piastres.

New City Busy

A few yards from the western wall is the New City, busy, clanging and ruthless. Its population has increased by two-thirds since the end of hostilities. It is overcrowded and capable of surging over the narrow dividing no man's land into the Old City. Only the Arab Legion and the three-Power guarantees prevent it. The city fathers complain of lack of interest on the part of the central government, which although vested in the city appears still to have its heart in Tel Aviv, but behind it is a string of defending settlements, a new water pipeline, and the road and railway to the coast. It is bound to the coast, to the new, to the ugly. The new and crumbling under heavy traffic conveying more immigrants, more government officials, more factories and building materials, and yet more immigrants.

On the busy main streets former Bulgars, Yugoslavs and Hungarians aggressively in Arab shorts and shirts displaying European skins pink after their first introduction to a hot sun, and a mental oblivion to the special character of the city which must spell its doom. Schemes for industrial development are many; it is doubtful now that the restraining hand of the mandatory authority has been removed whether the rawness of new buildings will be covered with the lovely local stone. The shops are becoming more garish, streets manners less courteous. The man's land is, in fact, a barrier between the vulgarity of modernism and the heart of the city. Jewish Jerusalem has paid a heavy price for national identity, and many a full German of Rehavia and Talpioth is already bemoaning the fact. Although the Israelis claim to be guardians of the city, the part in their keeping is slowly losing its character. It is perhaps inevitable, but saddening. If and when the development schemes are completed Tel Aviv will have captured Jerusalem. Already advance guards can be seen.

Perhaps life in the New City is no more difficult than in Israel proper although the water supply is still inadequate, but the tragic destruction of the traditional atmosphere adds to the dreariness. The arrival of hordes of government officials and civil servants from Tel Aviv has raised rents of small detached flats to as much as £100 a month; the peremptory closing of King George V Avenue whenever the Knesset is sitting periodically dislocates the life of the city.

THE ABC and D OF VITAMINS

Vitamins are not drugs but vitally essential food elements. Lack of an adequate amount through such food sources can lead to a distressing lack of energy and other symptoms.

While vitamin "deficiency diseases" are relatively rare in Canada even what would seem to be a properly-balanced diet may often be harmful. Fortunately any insufficiency to maintain normal health and vigour in the winter months can be quickly corrected through the use of Vitamin Concentrates. These considered most essential are Vitamins A, B, C and D.

These are available singly or in any desired combination at your Tamblyn Drug Store.

THE MINORS GATHER!

When the delegates father at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, for the seventeenth annual convention of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association on Saturday, November 18th, they will have eight proposed amendments to consider. Two were submitted by member clubs, and the balance by the Executive committee.

The Lindsay Minor Hockey League has proposed that body-checking in centre ice be permitted in juvenile and midget hockey, but the present rule of no body-checking in the centre area be retained for Bantam series.

The Oshawa Minor Hockey Association suggested that the player limit ha raised to eighteen, and the OMHA executive is backing this proposal, in view of many similar requests the past couple of seasons.

The executive committee will suggest to the Convention that OMHA players be permitted an unlimited number of OHA games up to December 15th, by amendment rule 15 for that purpose. They will also suggest that the second paragraph of Rule 12 be deleted, thus restricting OMHA players to one team. Last year the convention passed a similar rule for the A and B series, and this season the executive is asking that it be enforced all down the line. If this resolution is defeated, the committee will ask that Regulation 3 be amended to read that players transferring in more than one centre. In past players could play for their own town in one series, and their next nearest centre in another series for which they were eligible. This should be banned, according to the executive.

It will also be suggested that the OHA's five mile choice-of-club rule be added to OMHA regulations. It has worked well for the OHA, and, in fact, has been used by the OMHA, and the executive feels it should be in their rules.

The executive committee will ask the convention to confirm its action of raising entry fees $2.00 per team, to seven for juvenile and midget and five for bantam, and will also put forward an amendment whereby referees, when appointed by the association, will mail the referee's report. In the past, the home team manager has been responsible.

OMHA secretary Jack Christie in a late bulletin requests clubs to enter teams by mail, in advance of the meeting. In this way, he says, it is hoped to speed up registration of delegates and eliminate some of the line-up at the registration desk. Entry fees are $7.00 for juvenile and midget teams and five bucks for bantam. The convention gets under way at 10:30 a. m. EDT Saturday Nov. 18.

Much interest is being shown in the election of the executive for 1950-51. Last year Sam (6 F. M.) Curry, of Tweed, adorned that august body with his presence and did a swell job.. Sam was the first member to represent the minor hockey constituency of "Lower Canada" as this neck of the woods is dubbed by those erudite gentlemen from the jungles of Tawranta and the western hinterland, and his efforts contributed much to the spread of minor hockey in these parts.

The estimable Samuel, it is hoped, will again be in the running for the executive position. He is popular with the powers-that-be and with minor hockey fans and association organizations in this part of Eastern Ontario. He takes a personal interest in all teams and leagues within his district and his ability and knowledge of OMHA rules and regulations has eased the trail for many a newcomer team.

DO OR DIE!

This coming Saturday, the red-garbed boys from B.C.I. journey to Peterborough for the second game of their home-and-home total points to count series with the Londry and Goulding gange. The juniors are down 17 points in their series, and the seniors have a 31-point deficit to overcome. Red Townsend, affable coach of the B. C. I. senior crew, said yesterday afternoon that things "won't be as bad" in Peterborough this weekend. And he agreed that conditions couldn't have been much, when they were last Saturday on the Albert College mudpack.

Incidentally, the kids on the hill are still about $55 away from transportation for their teams to the Little-lock City. Leo Marcoa, stu manager, told us that tickets are being sold to students and we want to see Saturday's game. In the way, the B.C.I. boys hope to pull themselves over the wall of deficit. Despite the dearth of dollars, the kids are still plugging away, and they'll definitely be going to Peterborough. How about some local support?

THE MIST LIFTS

The city editor was talking to Frank Buckland, OHA executive member in Peterborough last night between periods of the hockey game and it was learned there will be some changes made in the naming of the senior series. It is understood that the OHA contemplates taking the first team out of each loop and allow them to play for the Allan Cup and this series will be called senior. The second place teams in each group will then playoff for the senior "B" trophy. This proposal is only in the talkative stage said Mr. Buckland "and will be thoroughly discussed at the executive meeting to be held on Friday evening in Toronto". Buckland stated that for the present there is no Senior "B" series.

Paul Mercier, uptown jeweler told the boys in the dressing room before the game started that he was donating a watch valued at $92 for the player having the most assists during the regular season. He thinks this will be an incentive for the boys to assist others in securing goals and bring about better team play, which at the present time is sadly lacking but a lot of this can be attributed to poor condition,

The Belleville Redmen were beaten but not disgraced in Peterborough last evening. They went out and got the first goal with Vern Geyer showing his oldtime scoring zip, but they faded on and due to lack of condition. Gobeil, the coach, methinks is going to crack the whip pretty soon and some of the boys will have to start playing the game they are capable of displaying. Belleville has as much speed as any team in the loop, their defence is not as tight and Keays is keeping the score down with fine displays. There appears every now and then a letdown in the offensive, passes are going astray due to not looking first and some of the players are getting needless penalties, which makes it rather hard for the rest of the team.

Leading Toronto Leafs Extend Unbeaten Streak to 11 Games While Bruins Still Can't Win

(By The Canadian Press)

Hockey fans who yearn to pick up a newspaper and read about the Boston Maple Leafs being beaten might just as well skip the sports pages today.

Ditto for supporters of Boston Bruins who'd like to see the National Hockey League tailenders win more often.

Both the Leafs and the Bruins were in action last night, and each performed as usual this season.

The Leafs extended their unbeaten streak to 11 games by trouncing New York Rangers 5-3 in New York, and the Bruins tied Detroit 3-3 before 8,038 fans. For the Bruins, it was the fourth tie in 11 starts. They have won only one game.

The Leafs' streak appeared well on the way of being snapped in New York as the Rangers built up a fat 3-0 lead by the half-way mark. Then Toronto got rolling and Rangers just couldn't hold them.

Jack McLeod got the lone goal of the first period, and Nick Mickoski and Ed Slowinski ran the count to 3-0 in the middle session before Sid Smith scored for Toronto at 10.01.

Two minutes later captain Ted Kennedy cut the margin to 3-2 and Cal Gardner's solo dash with Dave Creighton set the third period tied the score. Smith got his second goal, the tie-breaker, early in the finale and Joe Klukay added an insurance tally near the close of the period.

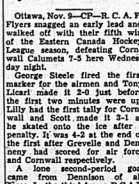
The Bruins fought an uphill battle all the way, coming from behind twice to earn their single point.

Gaye Stewart put the Red Wings out in front late in the initial period, but early in the middle frame Johnny Peirson and Dave Creighton each broke through goalie Harry Lumley to move Boston ahead.

The luckless Bruins held their advantage only 34 seconds—until George Gee squared matters with Gerry Couture and defencemen Red Kelly assisting. Ted Lindsay got Detroit's third goal with only four seconds of the period remaining.

Centre Paul Ronty dribbled in a 20-foot shot, the tying goal in the third period, saving Boston from their seventh loss.

The tie left Detroit in second place with 13 points, six less than the Leafs.



The third-place Montreal Canadiens travel to Chicago for a joust with the Black Hawks tonight. No other games are scheduled.

R.C.A.F. Flyers Beat Calumets By 7-5 Score

Ottawa, Nov. 9—CP—R. C. A. F. Flyers snagged an early lead and walked off with their fifth win of the Eastern Canada Hockey League season, defeating Cornwall Calumets 7-5 here Wednesday night.

George Steele fired the first marker for the airmen and Tony Licari made it 2-0 just before the first two minutes were up. Lilly had the first tally for Cornwall and Scott made it 3-1 as he skated onto the ice after a penalty. It was 4-2 at the end of the first after Greveille and Dennison had scored for air force and Cornwall respectively.

A lone second-period goal came from Dennison of air force. In the third frame R.C.A.F. made it 6-2 on Carturner's counter, and after another goal by Steele, Calumets pushed forward two shots past Jack McLeod, to finish the score at 7-5.

Paddy Young Not Worrying About the Odds

New York, Nov. 9 —(AP) — Army-bound Paddy Young of New York's Greenwich Village has been an underdog all his life. That's why he pays little attention to the odds favoring Laurent Dauthuille of France in tomorrow's Madison Square Garden fight.

If the United States army doesn't call him to service too soon, he hopes to upset the Frenchman and follow up with a Rocky Graziano match. Paddy already has passed his physical exam, but hasn't been called.

Upsetting the Frenchman calls for a bit of doing. Dauthuille came within 13 seconds of lifting Jake LaMotta's middleweight title at Detroit Sept. 13.

The blonde Frenchman, who has been fighting out of Montreal for the last two years, is gunning for another shot at Jake whom he beat the first time they met in Montreal in February 1949.

Early odds ranked as high as 13 to 5, but the boys hammered it down to about 2 to 5 with Dauthuille favored last night.

They made Paddy the choice when he fought Tuzo Portuguez the first time Jan. 13. The pride of Greenwich Village was on a 12-fight victory streak when he subbed for Steve Belloise against the like-known Costa Rican.

After knocking down Portuguez in the second round, Paddy was forced to settle in the eighth because of a badly cut eye.

Next time around, Feb. 24, Young evened the score with a 10-round triumph.

Dauthuille met Portuguez twice and won both by knockouts.

Paddy took a slow burn when he read where LaMotta predicted Dauthuille would knock him out. The only time he was stopped was in the first Portuguez scrap.

Hamilton Jrs. After Third Title In Succession

Hamilton, Nov. 9 (CP) —Coach Fred (Sinnu) Veale, whose teams have won the Dominion junior football title the last two years, is anxious to be a three timer. And his chances appear pretty good.

Veale's charges—then known as Wildcats—last year met the same Montreal aggregation in the Eastern final and tore off a meaty 31-0 victory. Then they beat Vancouver Blue Bombers for the title.

Tiger-Cats waltzed through the Junior Big Four this season without a loss, scoring 334 points in five league games and one playoff tilt.

Still some football followers don't think they have as much stuff as the 1949 team. They have a faster backfield, however, sparked by 17-year-old Frankie Dilks. The shifty 155-pounder last season scored both touchdowns in the Dominion final. Other backs with speed are Bill Brady, Coc Szcnsenniak, Ron Lewington, Tony Difrancesco and Hugh Patton.

Veale is again using the two-platoon system. He has two complete teams which have been playing together all season. He changes them every 7 1-2 minutes of play.

Tiger-Cats made it to the Eastern final via Windsor, defeating the A.K.O.'s 16-7 in the Ontario semi-final. The Cats then won the Quebec championship with a 36-6 win over Verdun Shamrocks.

McFater K.O.'s Greb in Second Round of Bout

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP) —Alan McFater, 139 6-4, of Toronto, knocked out Tommy Greb, 137, of Boston, after one minute and 30 seconds of the second round of a scheduled eight-round professional fight here last night.

McFater took the first round with hard body blows, and connected with a stinging left to the stomach that sent Greb writhing to the canvas for the count.

In the semi-final, John (Spider) Thompson, 132, of Buffalo, N.Y., knocked out Danny Falcone 131, of Hartford, Conn., at 2:01 of the second round. Falcone was down twice for counts of nine before the fight was stopped.

Gordon Wallace, 158, of Brantford, Ont., scored a TKO at 1:45 of the fourth round over Cassel Ata, 152, of Scranton, Pa. The bout was a scheduled six-rounder.

Brian Kelly, 130, Niagara Falls Ont., won by a TKO over Dominick Larese, 129, Scranton, after 55 seconds of the fifth round.

Irish Bobby Harvey, 128, Scranton, decisioned Maxie Male, 131 8-4, of Toronto, in a six-rounder.

Eleven Imports On All-Star Team In Western Union

Winnipeg, Nov. 9 (CP)—Only one Canadian—halfback Mike King of Edmonton—crashed the line-up of the 1950 Western Interprovincial Football Union all-star team.

The selection of 11 imports to the mythical squad—chosen for the Canadian Press by coaches and sports writers in league cities and announced today—probably was due to raising the import quota this year from five to seven players on each team.

This year's all-star team shows little resemblance to the 1949 aggregation, with inside Riley Matheson of Calgary Stampeders the only repeater. Last year the western champion Stampeders placed seven men on the first team. This year, Stamps, a tail-end club, have only one.

The all-star squad: Winnipeg Blue Bombers provided the squad with six players, including the only unanimous choice—middle Buddy Tinsley. In last place in 1949, Bombers had only one player on the all-stars.

Edmonton has three players on this year's team while Regina's Saskatchewan Roughriders have two. An alternate team also was chosen.

The first team has a hard-hitting line, averaging about 235 pounds a man; excellent passing deception and kicking from the quarterback slot; speedy backs who are good both on offence and defence; and sure-fingered outsides.

Frank Larson of Bombers was named to coach the first team; Annis Stukus retains his position as coach of the second.

The teams:

First: Bob Paffrath, Edmonton, position, flying wing; second, Harry Hood, Calgary.

Tom Casey, Winnipeg, half; Royal Copeland, Calgary.

Al Bodine, Regina, half, Del Wardien, Regina.

Mike King, Edmonton, half, Ken Charlton, Regina.

Jack Jacobs, Winnipeg, quarter, Lindy Berry, Edmonton.

John Bruno, Winnipeg, snap, Jimmy Kynes, Regina.

Max Druxen, Regina, inside, Jim Quandamatteo, Edmonton.

Riley Matheson, Calgary, inside, Gerry Deleeuw, Winnipeg.

Buddy Tinsley, Winnipeg, middle, Mike Cassidy, Regina.

Glenn Johnson, Winnipeg, middle, Don Burno, Edmonton.

Joe Aguirre, Winnipeg, outside, Rollin Prather, Edmonton.

Morris Bailey, Edmonton, outside, Ed Henke, Winnipeg.

Frank Larson, Winnipeg, coach, Annis Stukus, Edmonton.

Jacobs, Tinsley, Casey, Brown, Bailey and Aguirre were named on every ballot—either for the first or second team.

Brockville Rolls To Big Win Over Smiths Falls

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP) —Brockville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School's senior football team rolled to a crushing 30-0 victory Wednesday over Smiths Falls in an Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association playoff game.

The win gave Brockville the two-game, total point series 59-6 for the EOSSA Southern Conference title. They now will meet Pembroke in the League final.

Ronnie Birrell was the scoring star, racking up two touchdowns. Jerry Burton, Don Collins and John Montgomery each scored one. Bill Carbery converted all five.

Brockville pushed for 19 first downs to Smiths Falls' three. Smiths Falls completed one forward pass, Brockville six, two of them for touchdowns.

Cleveland Barons In First Position West Division

(By The Canadian Press)

Indianapolis Capitals, so far this season a doormat for other American Hockey League teams, trample on their way to the top of the standings, turned on their tormentors last night.

The Caps, down in last place in the league's western division, blasted the Cincinnati Mohawks 8-3 and knocked them out of first place. Cleveland Barons beat Hershey Bears 5-4 in overtime to vault past the Mohawks into top spot, by a margin of one point.

New Haven Eagles, cellar team in the eastern division, didn't do so well. They were whitewashed 4-0 by Providence Reds. In the other game scheduled, Springfield whipped St. Louis Flyers 8-3.

A feature of the Indianapolis victory was the first appearance of goalie Sugar Jim Henry, one-time star netminder of New York Rangers. Henry has just been brought up from Omaha Knights in the United States League. He had a shutout going into the third period.

A flurry in the third period didn't help Cincinnati, although Claude Robert scored twice in less than 90 seconds. Jack Taylor had done a similar chore for Indianapolis earlier in the same period. Irvan Irwin got the other goal for Cincinnati while Enio Sclisizzi, Max Quackenbush and Freddy Glover counted for Indianapolis.

Ray Ceresino Star

Glover gave the Caps a 1-0 lead going into the finale.

Ray Ceresino was the star as Cleveland beat Hershey, second-place team in the eastern division. Ceresino flipped a short shot into the net at 5:30 of the overtime period to win the game.

Fred Thurier got two goals for the winners, while others went to Ray Land, Steve Wochy and Cesarino. Jack McIntyre got two for Hershey and Red Sullivan and Norm Corcoran one each. McIntyre's second goal forced the extra session.

Goalie Harvey Bennet got his first shutout since the 1948-49 playoffs as Providence beat New Haven. Rookies Paul Salmon and Donat Deschenes, and Chuck Schenra and Pete Kaputa scored the winners' goals.

Springfield moved to within one point of Hershey by beating St. Louis. Centre Kelly Burnett came through with three goals while Bronco Horvath and Armand Lemieux got two apiece. Leo Curick got the other.

Steve Hrymnak, Cliff Simpson and Henry Backor scored for the Flyers.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Newport, Wales, Nov. 9 (AP)— A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that the death of an 18-year-old amateur boxer following a knockout was accidental.

Coroner D. W. Evans told the jury nobody was to blame.

The boxer, Gordon Avery of Cardiff, died last Thursday. He was knocked out by Noel Trigg at Newport Oct. 25 and never regained consciousness.

The British Amateur Boxing Association said it was the first death in amateur rings here since the war. There have been no fatalities in British professional boxing in the last three years.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Nov. 9—AP—Looks like Ottawa may be the answer to the International Baseball League's perplexing problem of the unprofitable Jersey City franchise . . . at least, with the annual league meeting coming up in a few days, president Shag Shaughnessy spent most of yesterday morning awaiting a call from that Canadian city. . . Jersey City is definitely out, but the Giants will sell them if they get a buyer," Shag explained. "We have several places in mind, but some of them aren't any better from the radio-television standpoint. . . that has just about ruined minor-league baseball on the Atlantic seaboard . . . Ottawa may have to go to Canada." . . . then, after a pause, "Heck, I'd go to Alaska only that's a little too far."

Cleaning the Cuff

Abe Saperstein is planning to repeat the Harlem Globetrotters College All-stars basketball tour after this coming season. . . . Brooklyn sports writer's comment when he heard Branch Rickey had joined the Pirates: "Well, that's one way he could get Bill Werle." . . . When the Columbia, S. C., Community Chest set out to get contributions from three of the most influential citizens on behalf of the annual fund-raising campaign, the organizers secures the governor, the mayor and South Carolina halfback, Steve Wadiak.

ARMY DEFEATS HULL

Ottawa, Nov. 9 (CP) —Ottawa Army defeated Hull Volants 3-1 in an Eastern Canada Hockey League game here Wednesday night.

Neither team scored in the first period, and it was Gagnon who broke the scoreless tie at the five minute mark of the second frame. A penalty shot by Jake Brunning made it 2-0.

A scramble in front of the Army net gave Hull their goal when Landry fired the puck over goalie Phil Charron. In the last minute of play, after Hull had pulled their goalie, Darch found the open net to make it 3-1.

Belleville Redmen Lose Second Start to Peterborough Eagles 9-3 in Fast, Clean Contest

Peterborough, Ont., Nov. 9 — The local Eagles turned back Belleville Redmen 9-3 here Wednesday night to keep intact their victory string in the OHA senior race. It was the second reverse in a row for the Redmen, who appear not in the best of shape yet. This was the third straight win for Eagles, who are fighting it out with the Petes for the leadership, the latter having won their fourth last night in Kingston by a 3-2 count over the Nylons.

Coach Mick Magee's squad had a 3-1 margin over Moe Gobeil's bunch in each frame of a fairly fast, clean contest. The visitors drew five of the nine penalties and on four occasions had to play rearoad in to tally with a man advantage. Only one did the Quinte crew count when Eagles had a player in the sin bin. All penalties were of a minor nature, mostly for interference.

Farnell Stars in Game

Bob Farnell turned in an outstanding performance to lead the Eagle lads to victory with two goals and two assists. He was followed closely by Bill Crowley, Joe Keating and Andy Milne, each being in on three. Bert Hill and Binty Shanks were in on a pair apiece, while Smith, Montgomery and Vitarelli each figured in on one as Eagles' scoring was well spread around, Vern Goyer, Jr., had the honors in the goal cage for the Redmen, with Williams and MacDonald each aiding once.

The winners, as a matter, showed better combination and checked closer than their rivals to earn the puke fairly handily.

While the ice was a bit heavy, play was fast and there was more than in the first two. A crowd of about 1,200 saw their hands get tearing back for several hot thrusts. Goyer, Jr., was tough to beat in the home cage. Vern Goyer got the first from Williams but later Crowley, Keating and Farnell, Hill adding another on Coombs' pass and Rochetta making it 5-1 on a forward from Crowley.

In the second Coombs hit the hemp with Hill's passout but Day got that back on MacDonald's assist. Montgomery slapped one home from Farnell in close and Crowley reared in for another with Rochetta's pass. Smith's sport trick left through in the 3rd and Farnell added one on a rebound by Milne. Bastedo scored then for the visitors and the final marker of the melee was garnered by Rochetta on three-way combination with Crowley and Vitarelli.

Belleville — goal, Keays; defence, Schreider and Nolan; centre, Jones; wings, V. Goyer and Williams; alternates, Bastedo, Mulvihill, Green, Day, MacDonald, Free, Graham and Schmidt.

Eagles — goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Smith; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and Vitarelli; alternates, Farnell, Montgomery, Milne, Hill, Lalonde, Coombs, D. Mortimer and Bunn.

Referee: W. Reason; linesman, R. Ouimet.

SEVEN KILLED IN FIRES

Toronto, Nov. 9—(CP)—Seven persons were killed and 47 injured in Ontario fires in the first three months, the provincial fire marshal reported yesterday. During the July-to-September period there were 4,391 fires causing damage estimated at $3,869,331. The fire loss for the first three months of 1950 totals $15,664,169.

Cobourg Suffers From Outbreak Of Football Fever

(By The Canadian Press)

The town of Cobourg, some 60 miles east of Toronto, is suffering from as potent an outbreak of football fever as Canada has ever seen.

Bill Fry of Toronto, who runs the Intermediate section of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, says Cobourg officials tell him they expect an attendance of possibly 5,000 this Saturday when Cobourg entertains London in the first game of a home-and-home total-points series for the Intermediate A title. The town has a population of around 4,000.

As a further demonstration of the way Cobourg has taken to its Galloping Ghosts, Mr. Fry said arrangements had been made for a broadcast of the game and further games the team plays at home. A special train will carry fans to London for the return contest Nov. 18. Last Saturday some 200 to 250 accompanied the team when it defeated the Dundas Bombers in semi-final play, winner to play London-Cobourg series plays the Quebec champions in the eastern final, probably Nov. 25, on the home grounds of the Ontario team.

Mr. Fry said progress is being made in interesting western Canada and the Maritimes in the Dominion Intermediate championship playoff in 1951.

Lusty Song, winner of the 1950 Hambletonian and highest money winning three-year-old trotter of all time, has been retired from racing.

E. J. Hayes, Duquoin, Ill., owner of the famed trotter, said yesterday the young stallion has been leased to the Walnut Hall Stud, Lexington, Ky., for breeding.

In his two-year racing career, Lusty Song earned more than $124,941.

Howie Turner, a star backfielder with the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four football league for nine seasons, has joined the migrating footballers. He will play with Philadelphia Eagles for the rest of that club's playing schedule.

The former North Carolina backfielder will join Eagles to try to help them out of their third-place position in the American conference.

It realized a possibility Turner may play against Frank Filchok, Montreal Alouette quarterback who has signed to finish the season with Baltimore Colts.

It is still expected that Turner will be back with Riders next season.

A Victory Special with orchestra, organized bingo games, movies and refreshments leaves Edmonton today for Winnipeg loaded with 150 fans bent on seeing Eskimos make it two-straight over Blue Bombers for the Western Conference football championship.

The train is scheduled to arrive at 11 a. m. Saturday and will return Saturday night—if Eskimos win. If they don't, arrangements have been made to have it leave following Monday's game.

Eskimo vice-president Henry Singer said the special will be "a veritable ship on wheels." There will be a shuffle board and horse races besides the bingo games. Movies will be shown in the club car and an orchestra (piano, accordian and trumpet) and will play continuously.

Supporters will have a choice of haberdashery between the familiar oil worker's hat and the coonskin Dan't Boone chapeau, with the preference probably going to the latter.

Judge J. Elliott Hudson, president of the Maritime Senior Hockey League announced that Kevin Conway of the League-leading Charlottetown Islanders has been suspended for three games for shoving officials and "going after" a spectator.

At the same time he warned other players to "behave themselves or stiff penalties" similar to recent games at Halifax and Saint John.

At Moncton, Nov. 4, after a spectator hit a Charlottetown player, Conway led other team mates into the crowd after the fan.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said an agreement was reached yesterday to recommend the bulk of the $975,000 receipts from World Series and radio-television rights be put into the Player Pension Fund.

The recommendation will be put before club owners at a meeting at Cincinnati Nov. 16.

St. Mikes Tie With Marlboros For First Spot

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto St. Michael's are tied for first place with Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association Major series and Hamilton Tigers can take a big part of the credit".

The Tigers last night bowed 4-2 to St. Mike's, the third straight Hamilton loss to the unbeaten, working Saints who have collected six of their eight points via the Tigers. Kitchener Flying Dutchmen and Hamilton share the League's cellar with four points.

There was some shuffling around last night, too, in the O.H.A. Junior 'A' series with Toronto Marlboros and Windsor Spitfires moving up to make the 10-team loop's runner-up spot a three-way position.

Windsor blanked Stratford Kroehlers 4-0 and Marlies battered through with a 5-4 overtime decision over Waterloo Hurricanes, winless in 10 starts for Windsor and the Dukes now share second place with Barrie Flyers, one game back of the leading St. Catharines Teepees who have 13 points.

The Major boys' two top pointgetters added points last night. The pair, Anthony Trethewey and Gordon Hamilton, one-two in the sniping brigade, each got a goal and thirteen added an assist. Coach Peanuts O'Flaherty and Bill McCracken scored St. Michael's remaining goals. Jack Wink and Pete Pidsodney were Tiger marksmen.

There was no scoring in the first period, St. Mikes led 2-1 in the second and maintained a similar margin in the third period. Urbisci got himself a 10-minute misconduct for talking back to officials in one of the flurries of a spirited contest.

Marlboros Win

In the junior contests Stratford saw the roughest game of the season, 19 penalties being handed out. Four were majors for fighting and a 10-minute misconduct went to Gord Nudds of Kroehlers who left the bench to join in a third-period free-for-all.

Earl Johnson, with two goals, and Jim Anderson and Erwin Grosswith one apiece took care of the scoring.

Ron Stewart scored after seven minutes of overtime with passing help from Wally Maxwell and Bill Hunter for Marlboros' winning goal and the Luckless Hurricanes ninth loss this season.

Marlies had been leading on goals by Carl Balfour, Maxwell, Parker MacDonald and Tommy Eyles when Jack Oberle and Jerry Horton scored third-period markers for the Dukes. Centre Charlie MacDonald got both Windsor's first two goals.

Next junior games are Friday, Marlies at Guelph; Stratford at Barrie; St. Michael's at Windsor; Oshawa at St. Catharines.

Petes Nudge Nylons 3-2 For Fourth Victory

Peterborough Petes continued their winning ways last night in Kingston, edging the Nylons 3-2 on slow ice. A slim crowd of 400 saw the Petes take a 2-1 lead in the first period on goals by Fryia and Wade, boost it to 3-2 in the second, and then hold everything even in the third.

Nylons showed little power, even in the second period when Petes were playing two men short two penalties, for nearly two minutes. Udall was nicked over the right eye in the second when Watt's shot hit him and trickled over the back of his head into the net.

Jake Wade's goal in the first period, a solo effort, was the prettiest of the evening.

The teams:

Nylons: goal, Udall; defence, Patterson, Plumb; centre, McKeown; wings, Potts, Armstrong; alternates, Hall, Murphy, Athey, Aitken, Joyce, Partis, Catlin, Hamilton.

Petes: goal, Harding; defence, Davidson, K. Leonard; centre, Wade; wings, Floyd, Dugas; alternates, Horton, Fryia, G. Leonard, Miller, Garvery, Collins, West, Tompkins.

Summary

First period—
Petes—Fryia (Tompkins, G. Leonard) 5.35
Nylons—Joyce 13.55
Petes—Wade 14.47
Penalties: Watts.

Second period—
Petes—West (Davidson) 1.40
Nylons—McKeown (Armstrong) 17.00
Penalties: Patterson, Davidson (2), Wade.

Third period—
No scoring.
Penalties: McKeown, E. Leonard, Miller.

Referee: Bill Holway; head linesman, Art Casterton.

By SAM GORDON
Bridge Expert

The world of bridge is at present divided into three types of no-trump counters. One is the fading, stuffy, kick system, the other is the resurrected point count of 4-3-2-1.

Each of these is an unnatural count that is meaningless to all except interpreters. Its meaning their true meanings ration must be applied to the first and relative to the other.

This is why beginners employ them hazily. And also why they are uncertain as to what should be done next. Or when it is safe to do or not to do what they have been told to do next.

The third type is my Horse Sense count of only high cards. That it is easier is never questioned. And it is more in line than either of the others. I dare anybody to prove it is not.

A high card is either an ace or a king or a queen. Count one for each as a no-trump trick. Your first bid of any kind tells the basic number you are expected to hold.

Each voluntary no-trump bid thereafter promises one more high card.

As a basis (among other things) an opening bid of one in a suit promises from high cards; an opening bid of one in a suit promises from high cards; an opening of one no-trump promises five high cards; a responding bid promises four high cards.

When not forced to bid again, each voluntary no-trump bid by either promises another high card. In this way does each announce the number of tricks (no-trump tricks) held.

Take the pair of partnership hands shown here:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠10 2	♠K Q 7 4
♥K Q 5	♥J 7 3
♦K 9 6 5	♦10 4
♣A Q 3	♣J 6 4 2

The south opening bid of one diamond shows from five to eight of the six he holds. The north spade response shows two basic highs of the nine he holds. South then has two voluntary no-trump bids with his other two highs; north has one future voluntary no-trump bid.

Methods are cumbersome make bridge lumbersome.

Frank Filchock, Howie Turner To Play in U.S.

Montreal, Nov. 9 (CP) — Two grid stars of Canadians teams pushed out of the Big Four League playoffs will play pro football season with United States squads.

Frankie Filchock, former U.S. professional whose suspension for four years for failing to report a bribe offer was lifted recently, was signed yesterday to play three games with the Baltimore Colts of the National League.

After playing with Canadian clubs during four years — two years with Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Rugby Football Union and two with Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four loop — Filchock indicated he would return to the Als next year.

Another sparkling football star was Howie Turner of the Ottawa Rough Riders who announced he has joined the Philadelphia Eagles of the National League. The former North Carolina backfielder also said he would return to his Canadian team, with which he has played during the last four years.

The players' intention to move temporarily to the United States came as a surprise to their team managers and raised the possibility that they would play against each other on American fields.

But Coach Lou Eisenhardt, Dandurand, said he was sure Filchock would be back. "He belongs to the Alouettes. He has been in Canada the year around and has signed only to play three games with the Colts," Dandurand told The Canadian Press.

Meanwhile, Tom Alison, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, said in Toronto that if Filchock played with the Colts it would wipe out his lived-in-Canada status. He added: "I haven't commented." That's one man's opinion."

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

PHILIP LITTLE BENNY . . . 2c(E(tweek-o

Pop was looking at the headlines and shaking his head about the news, and ma said, William, I need your help to anser a financial problem.

How much is it going to cost me? pop said, and ma said, Nuthin silly. You've heard me speek of my friend Miss Tooker, at Schinder's womens wear department, she said.

Have I? pop said, and ma said, You must of. Anyway, last week she gave me some confidential information about a gorgeous Angora bed jacket. The price tag on it was 30 dollers, and Miss Tooker told me it was reduced to 15 dollers, and I kept calling her up religiously every day, and each day it was still there and marked 15 dollers, same as the day before. You can imagine my suspense. Without to mention my excitement when Miss Tooker told me this afternoon that it had hit 15 dollers. But as luck would have it, another watcher and waiter had snapped it up just 10 minutes before I called. Well, sutch a relief, ma sais.

Sutch a what, for Peet sake? pop said, and ma said, A relief, of course. I didn't really need the jacket, but the satisfaction I did I save on the transaction, body really does. So I had all the excitement of the chase without any of the expense. And now the the last price of 15 dollers, or did I [illegible] my entire original thirty five! she said.

Pop said he would try to find out from a man he knows in a

Ex-Communist Supplied Proof For Red Purge

Toronto, Nov. 9 —(CP) — A communist ex-bullet penetrated ranks supplied the International Union of Chemical Workers (AFL) with information for the expulsion of six unionists on charges of communist activity in Toronto locals.

International President H. A. Bradley of Akron, O., said in a statement yesterday that the former communist is Fred Wardell, full-time secretary of the communist Chemical Workers Club.

Wardell is one of five put on probation until the union's convention next year. A 13th union member was found innocent.

Mr. Bradley said Wardell told international union officers "all he knew about communist activity within Local 161 (Toronto Consumers' Gas Company Local) and turned over many of the minute books, party registration forms filled in the handwriting of party members and other valuable materials."

The international union launched an investigation three years ago which culminated in more than a dozen members being tried at closed hearings in October.

Three Expelled

Expelled were Reginald Wright, Charles Manser and William Johnston, all of Local 161 (Wright was president of the local); Hugh Thomas of local 199 of Canadian Kodak Company; and James Bruce, former secretary of Local 33 at Lever Brothers.

William Edmiston, former vice-president of the international union and organizer of Canadian districts, resigned last January "rather than be exposed and disciplined," Mr. Bradley said. This resignation was followed by formal expulsion.

Placed on probation were: Fred Wardell, Ernest Bigelow and William Gilmore, all of the Consumers' Gas Local; Alex Arnott of the Lever Brothers Local; and Neil Jameson of Local 174 at Dominion Tar and Chemical Company.

Gordon Thomas of the Consumers' Gas Local was found innocent.

All 13 men were charged under a section of the Chemical Workers' constitution which bars communists or persons advocating communism from union membership.

Wright, Manser, Bruce and Hugh Thomas have been dismissed by their employers because of union contracts which contain closed-shop clauses—making union membership a condition of employment.

'Slick' Streets Cause 25 Mishaps

Denver, Nov. 9—AP—A snowstorm and resulting slick streets produced a 28-car accident but police were too busy to bother with it.

The mass pile-up occurred on a south Denver hill last night. After one motorist's vehicle skidded sidewise. Before he got his car straightened out 27 other vehicles were involved.

The report reached police headquarters, already swamped with traffic calls. There were no injuries, so police advised worried motorists to "straighten it out the best you can."

MAN SOUGHT IN MARSHES

Kingston, Nov. 9—(CP)—Police believe Allan Francis, 25, of Toronto who, escaped from penitentiary here last Saturday, fled in a car reported stolen from Catarqui, 12 miles south of Sydenham. Prison guards and police, however, still are searching marshes in the Sydenham area for the fugitive who was serving 2½ years for theft and receiving stolen goods.

EQUAL TERMS

Leaders of the Dominions say on equal terms with British cabinet ministers for the first time in 1917.

Skin Eruptions

Here is a clean, stainless, penetrating antiseptic oil that brings speedy relief to skin itch. Clears away scales, crusts, dandruff. Not only does this healing ointment promote rapid and healthy healing in most cases and relieve itch, but pimple and simple ulcers are also relieved.

In skin affections the healing of Resinol ointment is supported by Resinol soap in washing. Try it and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, Itching Toes and Feet and other inflammatory skin disorders.

Get Dr. Chisholm Monro's Resinol Oil in the original bottle at Doyle's Drug Store or any modern drug store. Satisfaction or money back.

Great Snowy Owl Glides Down on Deck of Ship

Seattle, Nov. 9—AP—The owl that arrived on the Towle went a long way for a gag.

The Towle is a military sea transport service freighter which just came in from Yokohama with a great snowy owl as an unscheduled passenger.

The bird glided down to the ship's deck when the Towle was 1,500 miles northeast of Seattle, 700 miles west of Cherkof Island and a long way from land of any kind.

Could Easily be In Europe Soon

Forth Worth, Tex., Nov. 9 — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower said Wednesday he could "easily be in Europe soon for whatever military duty may be in store for me." The Fort Worth Star Telegram interpreted that to mean Eisenhower will "soon be in Europe" as commander of the western European defence forces.

Police Silent on Fire

Pembroke, Wales, Nov. 9—(Reuters)—Police clamped down early today on all information about a £100,000 factory fire here after newspapers had hinted there might have been sabotage. The factory, making war parts on government contract, was gutted Wednesday. The Daily Herald said evidence was "piling up of a sabotage gang at work in Britain."

WALL OF HOUSE FALLS

Simcoe, Nov. 9—(CP) — The brick wall of a house collapsed into a street here early Wednesday, jarring awake the dwelling's eight occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bailey and their family of six. None was injured and all went to a hotel for the rest of the night. Cause of the wall's collapse was not known. Damage was estimated at $500.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Max Bentley of Toronto picked up an assist Wednesday night as the Leafs downed New York Rangers 5-3, and edged ahead in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race. Bentley now has 15 points, two more than his nearest opponents.

Tied for second spot are Maurice Richard of Montreal and Ted Kennedy of Toronto.

Service Station Operator Gets Free Duck Dinner

Seattle, Nov. 9—AP—The big signboard at Jim Brady's service station realistically drew a sample of outdoor living in wet weather.

To add to the realism, Brady added some decoys.

At dusk yesterday a mallard duck sailed in, spotted what appeared to be a pond where some of his feathered friends were swimming, and tried to make a high-speed landing.

Brady got a duck dinner.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Right. Whoever it was must chair Fran pushed behind him. have slipped out when we came in the front door. That stuck key made noise enough to warn someone in the building. We needn't whisper. He's gone. He could see from window to window, carefully avoiding the footprints, and crawl the shades, they're the same drawn color, which opened easily. He closed it and turned the key.

"Whoever it was went out this way. If we could get an impression of the footprints—"

"The situation has 'The Face on the Barroom Floor' touch, hasn't it?"

"Stop giggling or you'll have hysterics. About those footprints. I have an idea. Is there a sheet of blotting paper in the house?"

"There are two, large blue ones" "Bring them. Walt in the small gallery."

It seemed hours that she stood near the swaying door of the cabinet. It set her imagination galloping. Suppose the person who had opened it hadn't left the house? Suppose he had hidden in her office or the reception? He might spring out at Myles. She shouldn't have let him go alone.

Perhaps at this very moment he was lying gagged and helpless—

She dashed from the gallery through the entrance to her office. The room was lighted. Myles stood motionless in the middle of it apparently concentrating on the door of the repair shop. Two sheets of light blue blotting paper, dangled from his left hand. She breathed a little sigh of relief. He turned his head, placed his right forefinger against his lips, and resumed what appeared to be watchful waiting.

He had cautioned her to silence. Why? Had he trapped the thief? A sound the other side of the door. He tensed. She stiffened in sympathy. Then it was again. Someone moving cautiously! Icy chills crawled up her spine and coasted down. Her teeth chattered. The key was on this side. Had Myles locked a person in? Why stand there like a bronze sentinel? Why didn't he do something?

He shook his head in response to her clutch on his sleeve. A sound in the repair shop as if a picture frame had been knocked over set her heart thumping in her throat. Was the thief who had stolen the enamel box trying to escape through the rear door? Was it Barth? Could be. He had come that way yesterday. They must stop him. Another cautious sound. Myles bent his head, whispered close to her ear.

"The big ruler on your desk. She thrust it into his hand. Quick! Quiet."

"Okay. Beat it upstairs. Lock yourself in. I'll open that door."

She didn't go. He crossed the room too intent on his plan to know that she followed. She might be able to help if he—

"Hey! Let me out!" The drawling voice was hoarse, weak, the accompanying thump on the door feeble. "Hey! Let me out!" The last word was little more than a sob.

"Si-las!" Excitement cracked Fran's whisper in the middle.

Myles turned the key and yanked open the door. He caught and steadied the tall man in blue and white striped shirt and navy dungarees who tumbled forward, carefully lower him into the deep

"Lemme see." Considering what had happened, his drawl was maddening. "I remember I came earlier than usual because I see the storm comin'—my head hurts fierce." He groaned.

"Go on, please, Mr. Si," Fran urged.

"I left my bike in the garage. Miss Gene hurried off as soon's I appeared. I knew the Digby's would be here so I went back to the garage to sharpen the lawn mower. When I got back to the house the heli-rails' storm was on.

"Then what happened?" Myles prodded.

"Left my sou'wester and oilskins in my room in the basement." He closed his eyes, twisted his neck experimentally and groaned.

"Okay, you left your oilskins in your room, Si. What next?"

"Gimme a minute to think, Myles. I come upstairs to start my rounds. Stepped into what Mr. Sargent calls the entry'ool, thought I heard a sound here, the door was open."

"By 'here' do you mean my office?"

"Yes, Miss Phillips.' He shook his head as if to clear his eyes. "First I thought 'twas the storm makin' it. I heard it again. Stepped in cautious like. Black as pitch." He clutched his head with his hands. "It hurts gosh-awful. S'pose my neck's broke?"

Myles, standing beside him, gently parted the thick straw-colored hair on the flat top of his head.

"Theres a lump big as a duck's eby here, it's a humdinger, but the skin isn't even scratched. If you'd broken your neck, Nosey, you couldn't prove it. Pull yourself together. Go on. We must find out what happened. Every minute counts. You'd just stepped in cautious like, black as pitch," he reminded.

"It's comin' back. I stood there a minute and miffed. Someone'd been smokin'. It wasn't a pipe nor a segar, 'twas cigarettes, kinder sickish smell. Says I to myself, 'The old man'd have a fit if he gets onto it, he don't low smokin 'on the premises, 'even his own office. Then I says, 'Si,' says I, 'you miss a heap of fun. Beats me how that girl—'"

"You miffed. Then what?" Myles switched him from the detour to the main line of his memory.

"After I miffed I says to myself, 'Better see what's been goin' on,' an' reached for the light button side the door. Come a terrible crash of thunder, I remember thinkin' ' Crocky, I been struck,' an' that's the last I knew till in a kind of dream I thought a car stopped. A long time after I heard the light button in this room snap—my head began to hurt like thunder, I reckon. So my knees, knocked over something, that roused me enough to yell as' pound."

"Sure you didn't hear a movement in this room when you came to the door?"

"Nope. You don't mean someone bopped me, that 'twasn't the lightning?"

"Lightning has strange tricks but it couldn't shoot you through that door and lock it on this side. Someone took a crack at you. Who?"

Silas Fond struggled to his feet.

"That makes me feel kinder sick, I guess I better—" Myles caught his arm and steadied him.

"Go ahead, Fran, turn on the light on the stairs. Hurry. I'll get him down before anything happens—with luck."

Ten minutes later he joined her in her office.

"Nosey's lying down. I promised him that you and I would play watchdogs till he feels better. Where's that blotting paper? I hope those footprints haven't dried up."

They hadn't. The light blue blotters faithfully soaked up the moisture. Myles regarded four muddy patterns, two rights, two lefts, with satisfaction.

"Aren't they the berries?" Boy, are we the smart dicks."

"Will you show them to Mr. Sargent?"

"Not yet. Didn't try to get all. There are several left on the floor for him to discover. I'd like to solve this mystery myself—ourselves, if you are with me."

"I—a dick, And Judge Grimes said there was no adventure to be expected—by me—in the state of Maine."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Sometime I'll tell you, meanwhile if you don't want Mr. Sargent to see these prints, better hide them. You can't stand there holding them."

"I can, but as you suggest, I'd better not. Can't take them to my car now, might run into four boss."

"Hide them here. Be careful you don't smooth them, they are still damp." She lifted the cover of the cabinet in which the floor barrel stood. "It is almost empty. I may not improve the floor, but this is an emergency. Quick." She shivered. "These walls may have eyes." He carefully fitted the two sheets around the inside of the barrel. She adjusted the cover.

East and West Germany End 'Power War'

Berlin, Nov. 9 — (Reuters) — East German authorities decided today to resume the exchange of electricity supplies with the western zone, ending a six-week "power war".

A formal agreement to be signed shortly provides for supply of 400,000 kilowatt hours a day to West Berlin by Soviet-zone power plants, starting Nov. 16.

In return West German power stations will deliver the same quantity of electricity to Soviet-zone provinces. This agreement avoids the difficulties of payment between two territories of different currencies.

"Good Medicine For The Stomach Made Me Sleep"

Troubled "Years and Years" With Gas, Sour Acidity, and Dizzy Spells. Praises Syntona After it Brought "First Real Relief."

All people who suffer from stomach disorders and feel tired, nervous, rundown should be interested in the following experience of Mrs. David Keast, Grand Valley, Ontario, who told recently how she suffered this way for years, tried many different things and then got prompt relief simply by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound.

"For years and years I had to be so careful about what I ate," said Mrs. Keast. "Even the lightest foods would give me distress with awful gas, sour acid stomach, and dizzy spells. I would get terrible dizzy spells and sweat for many day my stomach would feel so miserable and upset that when night came I couldn't get my proper sleep.

"I had heard about everything I knew of but nothing seemed to do any good. Then recently a friend recommended Syntona so highly that I got some and it helped me right away. It was my first real relief. The gas, sourness and bloating are cleared up better than they have been for years. Now I enjoy all my meals once more, have a splendid appetite, and dizzy spells do not bother me. Syntona is a good medicine for the stomach. I must confess and I feel ever so much better since I did better."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you too.

New Liberal Policy Wins Unanimous Approval of Party

Only One Amendment Adopted by the Delegates

Toronto, Nov. 10—(CP)—A new policy for the Ontario Liberal party won the approval of the Provincial Leadership Convention today without a dissenting voice.

The delegates approved only one of five amendments offered during a 2½-hour study of the 97-point program prepared by the Ontario Liberal Association's co-ordinating committee on policy and endorsed by its management committee.

The successful amendment was proposed by Thomas Cassidy of Brockville who proposed the addition to a clause dealing with municipal affairs that the province's next Liberal government "restrict the powers of the municipal board where deemed advisable."

Already Covered In Draft

Another amendment on municipal affairs, covered by Phillip Vincent, Toronto, Dufferin, on the grounds it was already covered in the draft. He proposed that Liberals go on record as favoring extension and maintenance of autonomy in municipal affairs. The policy statement called for full autonomy in local affairs.

The convention voted to reject amendments to alter a proposal that the legal voting age in Ontario be lowered from 21 to 18 after Percy Wright of Toronto argued that if boys could be trusted to bear arms in defence of the country at 18 they could be trusted to vote.

Voted down were two amendments—one by M. McDonald, a Sudbury young Liberal, who proposed compulsory education of the clause; the other, offered by S. Harmer of Peel county, suggested that the voting age be lowered to 18 only for married persons.

Defeat Milk Proposal

A proposal by Ernie Miller of Brockville that the next Liberal government provide to all children attending primary schools one pint of milk each throughout the school year was voted down on the grounds it dealt with administration' and was a detail already covered in the framework of the policy.

The policy statement was brought before the convention by Colin Campbell of Toronto, former Ontario minister of public works. His motion to adopt the policy was seconded by Cyril Young, also of Toronto, who spent many years in Northern Ontario as a geologist and engineer.

Mr. Campbell gave an outline of how the statement was shaped in 23 meetings of sub-committees and nine meetings of the full member co-ordinating committee.

Liberal associations throughout the province had been invited to submit suggestions.

The statement's aim, said Mr. Campbell, was to shape a broad reconstruction policy and leave to the new leader the task of working out detail.

Pravda Declares Visits Refused To 60 Delegates

Moscow, Nov. 10. (AP)—Pravda says today the British government has refused visas to 60 out of 62 Russian delegates who sought to attend a communist-backed world peace conference opening Nov. 15 in Sheffield, England.

The communist party newspaper says in its lead editorial that "imperialists, made mad by the popular movement for peace, are going to all lengths to weaken and suppress this movement."

Pravda adds that among those refused visas were Metropolitan Nikolai of the Russian Orthodox Church, Writer Ilya Ehrenburg, and Composer Dmitri Shostakovich.

Tass, official Soviet news agency, said British has granted less than 100 visas out of the 1,900 requested by various countries.

(The British government announced earlier that no foreigners would be granted visas to come to the United Kingdom as delegaters for the conference and that applications to attend the congress would be considered on their individual merits.

(In Budapest, newspapers said Britain granted only 17 visas to Hungarian delegates and another 17 were refused.

(All three elected members in the delegation to Calvinist John op, a Lutheran bishop and a Catholic priest—were refused. So was Professor Gyorgy Lukacs, renowned aesthetician and veteran communist.

(In Copenhagen communists announced that four Danes were refused entry among them were Professor Mogens Fog, who was minister in the 1945 Coalition government, and until recently a communist member of parliament.)

One-Pound Babe Five Days Old Dies in Hamilton

Hamilton, Nov. 10 (CP)—Jerris Davis, who weighed an estimated one pound, died early today. She wasn't quite six days old.

As recently as yesterday, attendants at St. Joseph Hospital had said the baby, born with 2½ months prematurely, was progressing satisfactorily. But her doctor, Meyer Carr, had warned that she faced a "rocky course."

Jerris was one of the smallest babies ever born in Hamilton. The tiniest in Canadian records was Hugh McGillivray of North Sydney, N.S., who weighed 14 ounces at birth and lived 2½ years. Marie, smallest of the Dionne quintuplets—who were born two months prematurely—weighed one pound, 10 ounces.

Jerris' mother, 28-year-old Mrs. Bert Davis, was informed that when the child was born last Saturday in the David Spencer Ltd. department home. She was about eight inches in length, smaller than most dolls.

Mrs. Davis said Jerris was born shortly after she had gone to rest because of back pain. Her husband was summoned and the doctor when Jerris arrived, "two policemen raped the baby to hospital, where she had been in an incubator ever since.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 10 (CP)—Synopsis: The cool weather that swept into the province yesterday will continue today. A slight moderating trend is indicated for Saturday.

However, skies will remain cloudy throughout the province and snowflurries will occur in Northern Ontario and east and south of Lake Huron.

ONTARIO LIBERALS TO NAME LEADER, ADOPT NEW POLICY

Eight Candidates Run for Leadership

Toronto, Nov. 10 — (CP) The Ontario Liberal leadership convention moved into the decisive stage today. By nightfall the party will have a new leader and a new policy.

It tackled the policy first, starting in this morning on consideration of a 97-point statement framed as a program for the next provincial general election. This afternoon it was to turn to the election of a leader from eight candidates for the post Farquhar Oliver vacated by resignation a year ago.

The leadership shaped up as a battle between two men — John G. Brown, 50-year-old Kitchener accountant who represents Waterloo North in the Ontario Legislature, and Walter C. Thomson, 54-year-old Toronto lawyer who has a farm at Pickering and represents Ontario constituency in the House of Commons.

From outsider odds, it appeared that third favorite is Dr. Harry M. Cassidy, director of the School of Social Work, Toronto University of Toronto. Others in the race drew less attention — Charles W. Cox of Port Arthur, who represents Fort William in the Legislature; Kenneth Morris, Legislature member for London; Norman O. Hipel of Preston, former cabinet minister; Arnott Hicks and John J. Sullivan of Hamilton.

Trade Minister Howe, addressing 1,000 persons at a convention dinner last night, took note of rumors that members of the federal party from Ontario were supporting one particular candidate and declared that is not the case.

Churchill Wanted Limited Merger Between Countries

New York, Nov. 10—AP—Winston Churchill wanted to see at least a limited merger between the United States and British Commonwealth after the Second World War.

In the latest instalment of his war memoirs in Life magazine which will be carried next week in The Intelligencer Standard, the British leader tells the story of Churchill's efforts to bring that ideal early foundations for the United Nations and post-war Atlantic security organization.

"I said I could see small hope for the world unless the United States and the British Commonwealth worked together in fraternal association," Churchill writes.

He should like the citizens of each, without losing their present nationality, to be able to come and settle and work, their freedom and equal rights in the territories of each other.

"There might even be some common form of citizenship."

Over-the-Bar Liquor Drinking Helps Medical and Biological Research

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

Seattle, Nov. 10.—AP—Every time a person buys a drink of liquor in Washington State, he contributes a fraction of a cent directly to medical and biological research.

This drink money, $600,000 this year, goes wholly to two great schools, the University of Washington and the State College of Washington.

Buying drinks over the bar in Washington state is a mistake to think that science can be used as an excuse for taking too many drinks. This number bought does not increase the scientific revenue. The state and schools get only the licence fees, regardless of how many drinks are sold—or how few. But the fact is that in some bars about one-third of a cent from each drink goes to the $1,000 licence.

The research drink money is expected to total about $1,000,000 a year as soon as the new bar system has had time to grow. The bars were set up in Washington at once in all eligible numbers.

Remembrance Day

A silence in the crowded street,
And memory stirs in every breast,
Again is heard the phantom feet
Of those who "beath the poppies rest;
We see them marching as of yore,
These brave young lads to beat of drum,
But oh! the anguished hearts and sore,
For they no more will homeward come.

A nation keeps their memory green,
Through all the passing of the years,
But still the marks of grief are seen
And from the eye the falling tears;
Tribute we bring the honored dead,
To those who nobly gave their part,
And sympathy to those who keep
A life-time sorrow in the heart.

Communists at Hour's Notice Could Fight Underground War In Canada Against Canadians

— McManus

Toronto, Nov. 10. (CP)—T. G. (Gerry) McManus, former communist, says a communist organization stands ready "at an hour's notice" to fight an underground war in Canada against Canadians.

In an article, "The Reds are Ready to Wage War Inside Canada", published in the current issue of Maclean's magazine, the one-time secretary of the Canadian Seaman's Union and former member of the Communist Central Committee for Canada says the communists have already mobilized a carefully-trained organization of several thousand persons.

McManus, who broke with the party four months ago over its Korea policy, says that in the event of war between Canada and Russia, the communists will launch a two-pronged attack—on production lines and, within the armed forces, on the confidence and morale of Canadian Service men.

As a man who for 19 years "stood high in party councils", McManus says he is anxious to help lead the underground. Before he quit the party, he was shown to an Ottawa River hideaway near Point Fortune on the Ontario-Quebec border, issued with his code name and given orders for sabotaging industry.

Names Contact Man

McManus said his "contact man" was Harry Binder. Binder had told him that, if war seemed certain and anything happened to Binder, "his place as my contact man would be taken by Pierre Gelinas, editor of the Quebec communist paper, Le Combat."

McManus writes that during the Second World War—prior to his internment in the spring of 1940 —he "helped organize and direct groups that spread anti-war propaganda within the Canadian armed forces by means of mimeographed pamphlets and whispered rumors. Later, on party orders after Germany attacked Russia, he joined the army himself.

"Communists again are operating under cover in the armed forces, McManus says.

"They are receiving instructions directly from the party and reporting back to the party on the state of the forces' training, equipment and morale. There are party branches close to most of the country's large military camps (at Pembroke, near Petawawa; at Brandon, near Shilo; at Sussex, near Dundurn.)

Would Isolate Self

Article Arouses Buck and Smith

Toronto, Nov. 10 (CP) —Stewart Smith, named by T. G. McManus as one of the top 10 communists in Canada, said today McManus "means the Labor-Progressive party when he refers to the communist party."

"There is no mystery about that" said Smith, former member of Toronto's Municipal Board of Control. "It is an open declaration. We don't need to quibble about it. The party is the party of communism in Canada."

McManus, a former member of the Communist Central Committee for Canada, made his statement in an article published in the current issue of Maclean's magazine.

Smith said that McManus had "unmitigated gall" to name him as one of the top 10.

"Nobody knows who the top 10 are. Tim Buck was elected our leader. I am just chairman of the Toronto committee."

Smith said McManus is "lying when he says the party has any 'top 10' or any other secret activity of the kind in event of war.

Buck, national leader of the Labor-Progressive party, said later in a statement that McManus "is a self-confessed spy."

"Unwittingly," said Buck, "he betrays his own treachery. He confesses: 'Nobody (in the central committee) talks, even in the most general terms about sabotage, espionage or fifth columns inside the armed forces.'

"Of course, there is no sabotage. It is quite simple. Such things are not communism or any other socialist. They are strictly the creation of McManus'. . . imagination."

Seaman Rescued After Being Swept Overboard In Storm

Hong Kong, Nov. 10. (CP)—The Canadian destroyer Cayuga and Athabaskan sailed today wounds in this Far East naval base today after bucking a two-day gale which swept one seamen described as the worst gutting they ever encountered.

As the China sea gale was reaching its height with 20 and 30 foot waves it battered damaged boat and sent gear flying. 19-year-old ordinary seaman Robert Elvidge, of Lisbon, B.C., was swept overboard from Athabaskan.

Both destroyers hove to and the Elvidge came bobbing up on the giant waves and was hauled aboard. He was none the worse for his experience and reported for duty next day.

The same wave which swept Elvidge overboard left Protestant Chaplain Horatio Todd, of Ottawa and Halifax, with painful but not serious injuries. He was flung against Athabaskan's guard rail and gave him a bruise he suffered broken fingers in his right hand and cuts about the head and leg. He was treated in Sick Bay.

The three Canadian destroyers here—the third is the Sioux —will engage in anti-submarine exercises with commonwealth naval units. The Canadian destroyers are due back at their Japanese base in about a week's time.

The Cayuga and Athabaskan arrived here Wednesday. For two days while on passage through the China Sea they were lashed by giant waves which sent gear flying in the mess decks, damaged equipment and tore gun boss from its lashings on the upper deck. On at least one occasion the Cayuga registered a roll of almost 50 degrees.

The heavy waves ripped away Athabaskan's starboard Carley float from their stowage position aft.

HUNDREDS FLEE HOMES AS FIRE SWEEPS DISTRICT

50-Mile-an-Hour Winds Hit San Bernardino

San Bernardino, Cal., Nov. 10 —AP—Hundreds fled their homes in the darkness today as a fire swept by 50-mile-an-hour winds threatened much of the city's residential sector.

Firemen said it was almost out after a six-hour fight.

At one point, police reported hundreds of homes were ablaze. While pajama-clad residents—many of them women and children—played card garden hoses on the roofs. But as dawn came, only one home on a hilltop was gutted completely loss. A half-dozen others were badly damaged and spot burns and charred paint marred many more.

A two-mile strip several blocks wide in places, but largely brushland near the foothills, was blackened.

The fire department reported 14 persons injured as a result of the flames and high winds. Most of them suffered facial cuts and eye injuries from flying debris and cinders.

Many were given emergency treatment, and none of the injuries were described as serious. The fire's path through the city's the paint was blasted off one Quebec Desert.

"Sometimes you couldn't see the fire, the dust got so bad," one fireman said, "but another observed: "I hate to think what would have happened if this thing had got away from us. The whole town might have gone up."

The sand blew in great clouds through narrow Calpon Pass, which leads through to the San Bernadino Mountains to the Mojave Desert.

Police estimated that nearly 200 persons were evacuated from the region and given refuge in a school.

The winds swept stinging sand in the faces of some 300 firefighters and carried embers for more than a mile. At one point.

The northern sector of the city of about 100,000 population runs into the mountains and is there that the fire started, apparently from a fallen tree down by the rear gale.

For a few blocks it runs below where the mountains start their steep ascent to hills-high above the city. Residents of this largely brush-covered.

One of the city's better residential section starts, stretching a mile south to the country club.

Fire equipment concentrated along this line, and although many spot fires were reported, apparently firemen managed to save most of the homes.

Claims He Slept In Basement

Milwaukee, Nov. 10—(AP) — Peter Junkuski says he thought too long looking for a turkey, Mrs. Narvelle Witherspoon, 35 told Municipal Judge Elmer Dahl today.

He went out Thanksgiving eve Dahl and didn't come back until Christmas eve—without a turkey, Mrs. Witherspoon complained in asking for a divorce from her husband, Bennie, 37, denied the allegation, contending he'd been sleeping in the basement.

The judge granted the decree on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Chinese Build Up Force of 300,000 North of Border

Allies Forge Steel Band Across Waist of N. Korea

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 10 —(AP)— The Allies forged a steel band across North Korea's narrow waist today with the link - up of U. S. 10th Corps forces from the east and Eighth Army elements from the west.

AP correspondent William Jorden reported the link - up was made southeast of Tokchon, in north-central Korea. It came as Chinese communists just north of the Manchurian border continued their ominous build-up of troops — now reported at some 300,000.

Other Chinese and red forces already in Korea, estimated at about 60,000 were withdrawn into far North Korea's wooded mountain fastness under constant lashing by allied air power.

U. S. planes hit 10 Russian — built tanks and red transport southeast of the border.

Hit Supply Lines

Bombers and jet fighters carrying half-ton bombs smashed at the Yalu River bridges and supply lines south of the Yalu River boundary of communist Manchuria.

Navy carrier - based jet fighters engaged in two flashing chases near the mighty river and another —the northwest border town of Sinuiju. No losses on either side were reported.

U. S. jets destroyed eight enemy tanks and damaged two in red territory south and southeast of Sinuiju. Twenty - five trucks and other vehicles were destroyed and seven trucks damaged.

The punishing lull in the ground action continued into its fifth day. There was only patrol action and minor skirmishes.

Inland from the east coast, the U.N. naval force observed the 175th anniversary of the corps by rolling into a plateau to within three miles of the vital Changjin powerdam. It was a gain of six miles.

There was no opposition. Abandoned packs indicated the haste of the Chinese withdrawal.

Advance Not Opposed

A U.S. 1st Corps spokesman said the day's greatest advance—likewise unopposed — was registered by the South Korean capital division in the far northeast —an 11-mile thrust north of Kilchu.

That's about 75 miles south of the Manchurian border. Elsewhere across the peninsula, the allied line was 45 to 50 miles south of the Manchurian border.

The red counter-attacks last week, the allies had shoved to the border on one point and 15 miles from it at another.

A U.S. 10th Corps spokesman said the Chinese appear to be establishing a defence line in the mountains. They had suffered considerable losses from serial and artillery attacks.

An estimate of some 60,000 Chinese red troops just across the Yalu River from the Manchurian Manchuria was revised upward to 300,000 by the spokesman.

Gen. MacArthur's spokesman estimated Thursday that 60,000 Chinese and others that many organized North Koreans had faced United Nations forces south of the Yalu in Korea.

Communist China radio broadcasts called the Chinese troops "volunteers."

Uncle Sam Wars on Alaskan Wolves To Save Santa Claus' Steeds

Washington, Nov. 10—AP—The United States government is waging a war on Alaskan wolves to protect Santa Claus' favorite steed and a vital food source for the Eskimo population.

It's the first organized attack, a government expert said today, on wolves in any country. Other attacks have been made on individuals.

The wolves, it is charged, are killing off the caribou which are the chief source of food and clothing for the Eskimos.

In general, the poison baits are placed in areas not usually inhabited by valuable fur-bearing animals, but where wolves and coyotes congregate.

But a government agent has come up with a new finding that if the poison is placed in a bait containing foetid seal oil, it will attract wolves and coyotes—but actually will repel such valuable fur-bearers as the otter, mink, marten and weasel.

Three R.C. Priests Excommunicated For Disobedience

Vatican City, Nov. 10 — (Reuters) — The Vatican today announced the excommunication of three Roman Catholic priests in Yugoslavia who "persisted in disobedience despite repeated admonitions."

The excommunication, most severe penally the Pope can inflict, was announced by the Sacred Congregation of the Council, supreme disciplinary organ of the Vatican.

Carrying with it exclusion from all benefits of religion, the excommunication was believed to have resulted from the support given by the three priests to Marshal Tito's efforts to build a "state church" in Yugoslavia.

The priests' names were given as Antonio Bayi, Giuseppe Lampret and Victor Merc.

Student Planks Down 20 Pounds Of Silver Coins

Princeton, N.J., Nov. 10 — (AP)—Paper money isn't good enough for a sophomore at Princeton University.

Winthrop D. Thies planked down 350 silver dollars—weighing more than 20 pounds—to pay his university room and board bill. The silver, weighing more than 20 pounds, had been procured through the federal reserve bank in Philadelphia.

Thies' reason: "The government's inflationary policy of deliberate inflation is wiping out the savings of countless citizens and must come to a halt."

Pay More for Meals In Korea Than in U.S.

Washington, Nov. 10—AP—The United States army is slightly embarrassed about it, but American soldiers in Korea—even those in the front lines—have to pay more for meals than those at home.

The cost of the chow has been raised from 28 cents to 40 cents a meal for everyone from second lieutenant to private. Officers' meals at army posts in the U. S. still are 35 cents.

The reason given by the army is that food transportation costs from the U. S. to Korea made the five-cent boost necessary.

City, District Veterans Will Remember Dead

War veterans of the city and district will observe Remembrance Day tomorrow and Sunday in fitting ceremonies.

The Canadian Legion will parade to the Station Street Cenotaph at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning, where a memorial service will be held and wreaths deposited at the foot of the memorial.

The Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans will hold their memorial service on Sunday morning.

The Legion will round out the day's observances with a banquet and dance in the Armouries.

Veterans of both world wars, regardless of affiliation, are invited to attend the memorial services on Saturday and Sunday.

Officials of both organizations extend a cordial invitation to the general public to join with them in the memorial observances.

Judging Team Now at Toronto

Mr. Frank Stone, assistant agricultural representative, left on Wednesday morning for Ontario and York Counties with the Royal Livestock Judging team, which consists of Charles Bates, Jr., Melrose; Earl Badgley, Melrose; and, Harvey Homan, Corbyville.

Mr. Stone coached the boys on judging of all types of livestock in Ontario and York counties on Wednesday and Thursday, and will spend today and Saturday coaching the boys at the Ontario Agricultural College.

There will in all probability be at least thirty teams from counties throughout the province on this coaching work, and these same teams will take part in the Livestock Judging competition at the Royal Winter Fair on Nov. 13.

O.S.D. Pupils Pay Tribute to Memory Canada's Dead

The student body and faculty of the Ontario School for the Deaf paid solemn, impressive tribute to the memory of Canada's war dead this morning.

As the significant hour of eleven o'clock approached, Superintendent W. J. Morrison briefly outlined to the assembled students and faculty the purpose of Remembrance Day.

On the stage of the assembly hall a white cross gleamed. The Union Jack was furled at the top of a flagstaff. A guard of honor composed of male students stood at attention on each side of the cross and flag.

At a signal, the flag was unfurled and slowly drooped to half staff. A girl student deposited a wreath at the foot of the cross to the "memory of those who served and died in the Canadian armed services in two world wars."

The solemn hush of two minutes silence descended over the assemblage. At its conclusion the entire body recited Col. John McCrae's famous poem "In Flanders Fields"

The guard of honor raised the flag to full staff and the entire assemblage joined in the singing of "O God our Help in Ages Past."

The National Anthem concluded the impressive ceremonies.

Three Youths Taken Ill After Eating Meal

Suddenly taking ill from what was believed the effects of food poisoning after eating their evening meal, three boys were rushed to Belleville General Hospital Thursday evening.

The hospital are Joseph Ervine, age 8, and Bernard Ervine, 19, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Ervine, 22 Harriett Street, and Don Finnegan, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Finnegan of Frankford. The three boys were said to be resting comfortably at the hospital today.

Cause of the three boys taking ill has not been determined. A member of the household stated this morning that cold meat had been served for supper but whether this had made the three persons ill was not known. No other members of the household were affected.

When the boys took ill Dr. J. H. Bateman was called and they were taken to hospital in Bush's Ambulance.

Buy a Poppy -- for Remembrance

Tomorrow is November 11th., Remembrance Day.

Tomorrow, the people of Belleville are being asked to wear a poppy. For Remembrance.

Remembrance Day with its poignant memories of glory and grieving reminds the people of Canada of the world wars in which a million and a half of their fellow citizens fought and from which more than one hundred thousand did not return.

During the years since Col. John McCrae wrote the challenging poem "In Flanders Fields," the poppy has taken on a peculiar significance. It has come to typify in many countries of the world the debt those who live owe to those who died in battle.

One day in a year the people of Canada are asked to wear a poppy to show that they remember. One day in the year they are asked to pause briefly to honor the dead. That is little enough. While remembrance of the dead of two wars is the spiritual aspect of the poppy, there is the other practical purpose of assisting the living, for the money raised through the Fund is used for emergency assistance to veterans and families of veterans.

There are many cases on record with the Poppy Fund where the necessary assistance has been forthcoming in a matter of hours. Many veterans have hesitated to apply to any of the organized charities. Many of them have gone twice into uniform and have given ten years of their productive life to the service of their country.

It should be remembered too, that while the Poppy Fund is a national appeal, the money raised locally is used locally to assist veterans and their families.

The Poppy Fund in the city is operated by all veterans' organizations, the RCAF Wing, and the Red Cross.

Tomorrow is Remembrance Day. Buy a poppy, and wear it "For, Remembrance."

Resolution on Hydro Shops Goes To CofC Directors

The Ontario Chamber of Commerce in annual convention at Niagara Falls, Ont., this week unanimously approved a resolution requesting the government of Ontario to refer the Public Utilities Act of Ontario and all subsidiary rules and regulations and to give consideration to the memorandum.

The memorandum showed the great difficulties placed in the path of those of labor and management who are interested in helping in making democracy and free enterprise work in the province.

Secretary Freeman Burrows and Mr. Malcolm Robb represented the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and presented that body's separate approval of the measure. Mr. Robb moved the memorandum to the convention. It was the centre of lengthy discussion but eventually received the unanimous endorsation of the body. It will be presented to the Ontario government at an early date.

Following his address on the resolution, Mr. Robb was complimented by several delegates on the able and concise manner in which he presented it.

Action Deferred

A resolution emanating from the Belleville Chamber of Commerce requesting the Ontario Chamber to in turn request the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Service Commission to have all public utilities desist from selling appliances to the retail trade was approved by the convention. Action however was deferred to the incoming executive.

Representatives of fifty-five Chambers of Commerce were present at the two-day convention.

During the lengthy program addresses were given by the Hon. Charles Daly, Minister of Labor and by Premier Leslie M. Frost, Government Is Your Business"; Mr. Norman Millman, chairman of the Oshawa Planning Board who talked on "Annexation and Urban Expansion"; and Mr. Ivor Wagner, president of the Owen Sound Transportation Company who addressed the convention on the individual Chamber of Commerce within the Ontario body.

Work Started On Widening Part of Road

Work has been started on improvements to the "Old Belleville Road" from Marysville to Napanee which was announced some weeks ago by the Ontario Highways Department. Fences have been moved back and trees removed in readiness for widening the roadway.

Two miles west of Napanee surveyors have staked out a new road designed to eliminate the two right angle turns.

The road, when completed will be an alternate road between Marysville and Napanee and will by-pass the town of Deseronto. It will shorten the distance to Kingston by from four to five miles.

Five Buck Deer Already Be City Party

The snow-covered trails of the country north of Salmon Lake are proving productive for deer hunters.

Five handsome bucks now repose in deep-freeze lockers of Belleville residents, all the keenness of the "shootin' eyes" of one party of city nimrods.

Chief Pringle heads the "Dead-Shot" Dicks with two bucks (deer, that is) to his credit. Other successful hunters were Bob Graham, Jack Haggerty and Ward Ketcheson.

The six remaining members of the party, at the time of writing had as yet to make their kill.

The snow greeted the hunters last Sunday morning and the ground is still covered deep. Mr. Haggerty, according to one of the party who returned to the city this morning.

Obituary

ARTHUR LYLE BOOTH

Resident in the city for many years and an ex-sergeant of the Belleville police force, Arthur Lyle Booth, 58 Isabel Street, died suddenly of a heart attack, while being brought from his hunting camp to Belleville on Friday morning.

Mr. Booth went to the hunting camp on Sunday last and on Thursday was not feeling well and did not go to the woods to hunt. Later in the day he became worse and Frank Sherman, a neighbor, took him into a room and started for hospital with his patient but near Holloway he succumbed to a heart attack.

The late Mr. Booth was born in Grand Rapids, Michigan, 61 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Booth, and he came to this city at a young age and has continuously resided, with the exception of a few years spent in the west, in this city. He made many friends during his residence here and his sudden death will bring sincere regret from a wide circle.

Mr. Booth served for 25 years on the Belleville police force, his duty extending over both wars periods. Probably his most famous case was the arrest of three members of the Purple Gang from Detroit, who were given prison terms after they had been lured with the Masonic Order. Surviving are his wife, the former Alice Hall; three sons, Gordon, Howard and George Booth all of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Gwyn (Ella) Lockart of Belleville, Mrs. George (Evelyn) Fralick of Trent Road and Mrs. Irwin (Iris) Clarence Ostrom of Belleville.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home; the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

HARRY TWIGG

Funeral services for Harry Twigg, who died at his home, 81 Ontario Street, Trenton, Tuesday, November 7, were held Thursday, November 9, at 1:45 p. m., from the Bethel Temple.

Rev. W. R. Makin, of Bethel Temple, officiated. The bearers were H. Derry, Lorne Mallory, Roland Faul, Harold Faul, Wally Bellamy, and Ammond Gainforth. Interment was in Christie Cemetery.

Born in Almonte, Ontario, Harry Twigg was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Twigg. He had been ill for two months before he died at age 68. He had lived in Trenton for 30 years, residing in Belleville previously.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Beatrice Mikel; three sons, Harold, Trenton; Peter, Trenton, and Jack, at home; nine daughters, Mrs. Lyle (Helen) Hartman, Trenton; Mrs. Harry (Jean) Harris, Belleville; Mrs. Wilbert (Mary) Reid, Frankford; Mrs. Marvin (Louise) Harp, Kingston; Mrs. Irvine (Isabel) Twiddy, Toronto; Mrs. Ronald (June) Swanton, Lindsay; Mrs. Joe (Ruth) Kourie, Trenton; Muriel and Sally at home.

Three brothers, Walter, Toronto; Harold, Campbellford, and Jack, Peterborough; three sisters, Mrs. William Graham, Toronto; Mrs. Ed Coates, Toronto; Mrs. Henry Mitchell, Wooler.

Mr. Twigg was educated in Campbellford, and was a member of Bethel Temple Church, Trenton.

J. Musgrove Talks to H.&S. Association

The first regular meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening last with about 50 in attendance.

The president, Mrs. J. Clark, opened the meeting after which followed a short business session.

Mrs. K. Bird led the group in a sing song and then introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. J. Musgrove, whose subject was "Where Are We Going in Education?"

Mr. Martin extended the appreciation of the group to Mr. Musgrove with the hope that he would return again in the near future.

Mr. Edwin Colclough played a cornet solo "When This House," which was greatly appreciated. Mrs. Slack and Mr. Bird then conducted an Educational Quiz followed by another sing song and contest.

Light refreshments were served ending a pleasant evening.

Chef's Fortune Turns Out to be About £50

Perth, Australia, Nov. 10 (CP) —The "fortune" which a Vancouver chef said he inherited has turned out to be £50 (about $137.50).

Albert E. Mitchell, 57, said in Vancouver last night that he had learned he had become heir to money left by his stepmother, whom he had not seen for 40 years.

Today the amount of his inheritance was given by the public trustee of Perth as £50.

SEVERELY BURNED

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 10 (CP).— Industrials held their early fractional gains but showed lack of support on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Following two days of strong advance they opened firm, gained a little, but couldn't get anywhere. Gains were limited to fractions although they about doubled issues. Papers, utilities, steels, foods, liquors, textiles and retail stores showed a majority of advance in the groupings. Refining oils and manufacturing companies tended lower and the rest of the board was mixed.

Base metals were mixed, International Nickel, Noranda, Steep Rock and Quemont added up to 75 cents while Consolidated Smelters, MacDonald, Quebec Manitou, and Waite Amulet were lower.

Senior golds slipped with McIntyre and Hollinger leading. Junior producers were mixed and gains and losses were limited to pennies in quiet dealings. Western oils firmed with gains up to 20 cents.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 10 — (CP) — Truck hogs were $29.25 at Stratford today.

Other markets were not reported.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Nov. 10—(CP)—Produce prices quoted on the spot market here this morning:

Churning cream No. 1 truck price, 56 cents; delivered 59 cents.

Creamery prints: first grade, 58 cents.

Trade for grade A large eggs at the egg market today was dull but medium and pullets were in demand. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: grade A large, 57; A medium, 50-51; A pullet, 48; grade B, 44; grade C, 29-30. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large, 61-62; A medium, 53-54; A pullet, 51-52; grade B, 48; grade C, 33.

Butter solids: first grade, 56½-56¾ cents; second grade, 54 cents.

Modern Penal Reforms Make Useful Men Out of Criminals Speaker Tells Alumni Assoc.

Trenton — J. Alex Edmison, K.C., special assistant to the principal of Queen's University, told members of the Queen's Alumni Association here Wednesday night that modern penal reforms are creating useful men out of criminals. Mr. Edmison said that the day of mass prison treatment is gone, and that "the penitentiaries now have trained classification officers" who get to know the men individually.

"There are now educational courses and trade courses for steam fitters, plumbers, carpenters and others", he said. A high percentage of those released are getting jobs and keeping out of trouble." Mr. Edmison said that there was little interest in Canadian prison reform until the Archambault report of 1938 which pointed out bad conditions.

Tribute Paid

At the American Prison Congress in St. Louis, Mr. Edmison said that he was able to speak with pride" of the advances in Canadian reform institutions since 1946. He paid tribute to the present Commissioner of Penitentiaries, Col. Gibson.

Mr. Edmison said that each prisoner must be treated as an individual, not as a number. Juvenile delinquents, the criminals of the future, "seldom have a trade; they are seldom active members of the Y.M.C.A. or Y.W.C.A. members. The home, church and school are crime preventives."

An associate of the John Howard Society, Mr. Edmison told the group what the society was attempting to do, trying to help men released from prison to fit themselves back into society and normal life. "There are some failures," he said, "but about three out of four keep out of trouble."

Willing to Give Break

Mr. Edmison said that the average business man in Canada is willing to give the released man "an even break". Mr. Edmison said, however, that he is not altogether satisfied with the present situation, improved as it is. A "tapering off" system would improve it even further, to indoctrinate the man for release to the outside world.

Mr. Edmison was introduced by Mr. T. Speers and the thanks of the association were expressed by president A. S. Robb. During the dinner, the toast to the King was proposed by Mr. Robb and a toast to the University was proposed by H. Ramsay Park. Prior to Mr. Edmison's address, sides of former Queen's "greats" and colored sides of new campus buildings were shown by Mr. Herb Hamilton of the Gengral Alumni Association.

Executive elected for the coming year is as follows: honorary president, H. R. Park; past president, A. S. Robb; president, G. D. Dies; vice-president, Dr. Beach; secretary-treasurer, R. O. Benson; directors, W. McCavey, W. Benger, Miss J. Bronskill, Miss B. Lennen, Mr. Stirling, Leslie Reid, Picton—Dr. Walmsley, Mrs. Carter; Stirling, Dr. Cornett, Miss May; Trenton, Dr. Byrne, O. W. Larry; Bloomfield, Mr. McQueen.

Mutuel Betting In Ontario Off Nearly$5,000,000

Toronto, Nov. 10 —(CP)— The Star says today mutuel betting on Ontario race tracks was down almost $5,000,000 this year, compared with 1949. Provincial revenue, however, increased $303,383 because of higher taxes.

Ontario's share was $4,161,435 from mutuel betting of $33,301,882 the Star says. In 1949 the mutuel pool was $38,857,851.

Last spring the government raised its tax from 10 per cent to 12½ per cent to finance the Ontario Racing Commission, started at that time.

The government collected another $820,491 from the harness horse meeting at suburban Thorncliffe, the newspaper adds.

Two Hunters Hurt By Shotgun Blast

Calabogie, Ont., Nov. 10—(CP) —Two men were injured, one seriously, when a shotgun was accidentally discharged during a deer hunting expedition near this town, 70 miles southwest of Ottawa.

Cecil Shaw, 20, of Brockville, is in serious condition in hospital in nearby Renfrew with buckshot pellets embedded in his right leg, two inches below the knee. John Smith of Lanark, also suffered injuries and was taken to hospital at Perth.

The accident occurred Wednesday as the hunting party, comprising six men, were preparing to return to camp. The owner of the shotgun, believing the weapon unloaded, was picking it up from the ground when it discharged.

FIANCEE IMPROVING

Tehran, Iran, Nov. 10 — (AP) —Court circles disclosed yesterday that Saroya Esfandiari, 19-year-old fiancee of the Shah of Iran, is recovering from a mild attack of typhoid fever. She is expected to be fully recovered in time for the wedding, set for Dec. 27th.

RCAF Members Will Parade To the Cenotaph

Trenton —(Special) —Forty-five airmen from RCAF Station, Trenton, will march through the town Saturday, November 11th, to commemorate Remembrance Day. The parade will be led by the RCAF Station Band.

In charge of the RCAF ceremonial flight week will be FO. Maurice Gobeil, Sgt. W. F. Gedsen will be parade NCO and the parade marshal will be WO. J. A. Silver. Wing Commander A. G. McKenna, DFC, chief training officer at RCAF Station, will pay the respects of the officers and men by laying a wreath on the War Memorial.

In Belleville, 45 men from RCAF Station, Trenton, will march through the city to pay their respects at the cenotaph. They will be led by the No. 6 R.D. Band, commanded by H. L. D'eon, with Sgt. L. A. Desjardines as parade NCO.

Ratepayers Will Vote'

Trenton—At a special meeting yesterday afternoon, town council passed a by-law authorizing Trenton residents to vote on December 4, on an agreement to have the Eastern Gas Syndicate to supply the town with natural gas.

At the same time, Mayor Kenneth Couch told the Ontario Intelligencer that he will again run for mayor. He said that this will be his fifth and final year.

MARMORA

Michael Crebar Shoots Freak Buck Deer

Marmora—Mr. W. B. Wilde of Marmora, his son George of Havelock, Dallin Kees of Windsor, his brother Robert of Toronto; Russell Spears of Toronto; Michael Crebar and Samuel O'Connor of Peterborough have been members of a hunting party in the Blue Mountains district.

Up until Monday night they had secured two bucks, one of which was shot by Michael Crebar. This buck was a freak deer, as it had never had horns. The place where they should have grown shows no reason why they did not eventually appear. This particular animal was of heavy build and a magnificent creature," said Mr. Wilde.

STEADILY LOSING STRENGTH

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 10 — (CP) — Opposition leader Peter Fraser today was "but steadily losing strength" a medical bulletin said tonight.

The former prime minister suffered a heart attack today and his condition now is described as "precarious." The Labor party leader has been in hospital since early October suffering from thrombosis followed by pneumonia. He rallied but had a relapse Tuesday.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Remembrance Day returns and thoughts revert to the time when the two Great Wars, which shook the globe, came to their close. Though years have passed the memories of those who died that Britain, Canada and liberty might live, still dwell in the thoughts of those who knew them in life as defenders of freedom.

Again the annual tribute of memory is paid to the heroic dead who fell for freedom when all the might of tyranny and aggression was thrown against the free peoples. Their memories live in the hearts which cherish all they meant to others in life and all that their sacrifice on the field of battle or at sea signified to humanity. They left to the world what cannot die or pass away, a heritage of noble ideals which dwells with the generations as they rise, nobility of service and sacrifice which linger still and will not fail to remain among men of good will and of freedom.

In the spirit of remembrance the living again rededicate their lives and thoughts to the pattern of the service and heroic deeds of the men who served and died in the two Great Wars.

For those who served and returned to their country to give their lives and labor for their country's welfare the anniversary means a rededication of remembrance to the cause of their country and of that love of freedom for which their comrades gave their lives. Remembrance means to all other citizens the obligation of the rededication of their lives to the cause and ideals of their country in times of stress and conflict and in times of peace.

Those who fell or died of wounds live in their fellow citizens' hearts and in their still exercising influence upon nation and the individual.

They enriched life for not only their own country but for all peoples of all ages. Such is the influence of the spirit of freedom and of free men.

BEURLING RECALLED

The heroic record during the Second Great War of George (Buzz) Beurling, Canadian top air ace, was recalled yesterday at the funeral in Montreal of the great airman at the foot of a mountain familiar to all readers of Holy Writ, namely Mount Carmel, Palestine. There he sleeps the sleep that knows no waking beside his Jewish comrade Squadron Leader Leonard Cohen. It is a spot dear to Jewish and to Christian people the world over as it is near where the spot the great prophet of Israel Elijah is said to lie buried. Beurling and Cohen it will be remembered were killer fighter pilots over the close of the Second World War when the plane they were ferrying to Israel exploded near Rome.

Beurling's fame will live in R.C.A.F. annals. His exploits over Malta were among the most famous air exploits of the struggle.

The comradeship of these two men, Beurling, a Protestant, and Cohen, a Jew, was fittingly associated with the burial as Anglican and Jewish clergy said the last rites.

Beurling's score of 31 kills was one of the top few days of the great exploits over Malta. He had a record of 31 aircraft of the enemy downed in the war against the aggressors Hitler and Musolini.

EARTH'S STEAM FOR POWER

So great has the demand become for electric power in New Zealand that government scientists and engineers are seeking ways of increasing the production of this energy by harnessing the earth's steam.

In common with other lands, the consumption of electric power in New Zealand rose largely during World War II and has continued to rise since 1945. The country has numerous rivers, few of which are navigable, but their swift flow and dependable volume have made them good sources for the economic development of hydro power. These plants are all government owned and operated and the systems are inter-connected. Notwithstanding the national efforts to make the best use of waterways and provide the equipment, the industrial and domestic demands for electricity continue to outrun the supply.

That situation has prompted a search for steam reservoirs believed to lie captive in deep-rock formations below the earth's surface. Engineers hope to tap these stores of steam by drilling wells. Such projects have already been fairly successful in Tuscany, Italy, where plants are operating over an area of seventy-five square miles and producing 200,000 kilowatts of power. — Hamilton Spectator.

The most influential books and truest in their influence are works of fiction. They repeat, rearrange and clarify the lessons of life, disengage us from ourselves, constrain us to the communion of brothers, and show us the web of experience, but with a single change. — Robert Louis Stevenson.

PARAKEET

He hops on my head and tousles my hair,
A parakeet feathered as can be today.
I know that he wonders
while standing up there
What here in my typewriter doing am I.

He nips at my ear and he pecks
at my cheek
Still watching me closely with little eyes bright.
As if thinking: If only you'll teach me to speak
It may be that later you'll teach me to write.

Oh, bright little fellow, so carefree and gay!
My room is your world, but
I fear if you knew
The sad world outside and the hate men display
Perhaps you'd not love me as much as you do.

If I taught you to speak and to read and to write
You would learn of my world and its terrible stakes;
And the wrongs that men do,
and you'd fear that I might Continue man's training and teach you to hate.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

Nov. 10, 1925

The cost of living is not confined to home life, according to local market prices. Fresh eggs were selling for 55c and 55c per dozen. Apples ranged in price from 20c a peck for Alexanders up to 40c and 45c for McIntoshes. Butter was 85c for a two pound roll.

Mr. C. O. Ketcheson of Belleville, has bought the Old Strathcona building in Trenton and plans to tear the structure down. The building was formerly the old Strathcona hotel.

Miss Margaret Cannon, Miss Marie Fitzpatrick and Mr. Jack Fitzpatrick of Belleville will go in Toronto tomorrow attending the Queen's - Varsity football game.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 10, 1920

Mr. F. Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace of this city has been appointed Master in Mathematics at the Collegiate Institute at Belleville.

Mr. K. E. Earle has returned home after spending several months in Western Canada. His daughter, Mrs. F. VanDolt of Lavoy, Alta., accompanied him to Belleville.

At a meeting of the civic committee it was decided to recommend to the council that two more ploughs be purchased for city use and also that the sum of $200 be granted to the W. A. to defray expense in repairing the roof at the Home for the Friendless on Moira St. West.

A number of boys have started out to collect sufficient junk, which they will sell, and with the proceeds they intend to buy a gramophone for the amusement of the old folks at the home. They deserve much credit for their thoughtfulness.

40 YEARS AGO

No definite action has yet been taken regarding the appointment of a principal for the Separate School.

Public opinion is that the snow by-law should be enforced this winter or otherwise be repealed.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PROVIDENCE

Twenty-five years ago a man wrote a poem. It was published in a newspaper of limited popularity. In fact it could hardly have been called popular at all. It had a brief day and then seemed to fade from the picture.

Recently some one came across this song and used it as a theme song on a radio program which achieved widespread popularity. In fact it could hardly have been more successfully published, it achieved fame, and its composition is credited with the success he had long since considered impossible. He had written that composition for a dead loss. Suddenly it became a source of financial gain to him and the starting point, probably, of more than one competition.

How little do we control the circumstances of our own lives! How completely are we at the mercy of forces and circumstances over which we can exercise no control whatsoever! People have protested against the religious doctrine of predestination as cruel and unjust, yet there is a determinism in life's events which we must accept very, which we can in no wise account for; for it molds us into what whether we prefer it pleases. It is only when above these powers we write a greater word, namely, Providence, that we begin to see the true meaning of life's events.

Letter to the Editor

Band Disorganized

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

The Board of Directors of the Belleville Municipal Band wish it to be made known to the citizens of Belleville that the band, at this time, is unable to furnish a marching organization in keeping with the high standards they have been always maintained, due to serious losses in membership.

These losses are attributed to the indifference of those who are in a position of leadership, and who are capable of aiding musical culture in our city. This is keenly felt by the members of the band who have striven to give to the citizens a band second to none.

The band has been asked to take part in the Armistice Day parade, this we have gladly done in the past; however, the time has come when it is physically impossible to organize a band due to depletions in the ranks of those of the band. It is our sincere hope to obtain new members to overcome this difficulty in the near future.

NEWSPRINT INCREASES

Lufkin, Tex., Nov. 10 — (AP)— Southland paper mills of Lufkin has announced a $6-a-ton increase in the price of newsprint, effective Dec. 1, making it $110 a ton.

The increase was announced in a telegram sent to contract papers throughout the southwest Thursday by Perkins Goodwin Company, general sales agent for the mill.

Company officials said the raise in price was made necessary by increased operational costs.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

A NOSEGAY FOR THE NOSE

Ruthrauff and Ryan, Inc.
405 Lexington Ave.,
New York 17, N.Y.

Gentlemen:

Along with everyone else in show business, I caught Jimmy Durante's television debut on NBC the other night, and along with everyone else I'd like to congratulate your agency and the sponsor who footed the bill. To my way of viewing, Jimmy's show was the gayest 60 minutes of video has come up with so far—the little man who walks like a penguin once again proved he's the dean of the Daffy Dans, and that whenever given a half a chance he can work up more heat than Mrs. O'Leary's cow.

Just one thing bothers me. It's an odds-on bet that by the time the cameras faded out on the most celebrated nose since Cyrano's you advertising men were beating to each other, "Now that we've got the hottest asset in TV, how can we best use it? Guess we'd better start with a meeting and hammer out a policy."

Well, gentlemen, nobody asked me, but for the sake of a client concerned I'd like to make a couple of suggestions: (a) Don't bother with a meeting, and (b) don't worry about how to use the asset that got out of the way. And if you doubt the wisdom of this procedure, let me review what happened to Ben Turpin, Chevalier, Lanza, Sinatra, Bergen and Sabu in Hollywood.

Back in the '30's when Durante first appeared in the movies, he was the biggest thing since Chaplin. Every studio executive in town was putting on paper noses and doing the "Strut-away," and for a while it looked as if "Schnozzle Dinka-Doo" might replace the national anthem. However, after a couple of pictures the Big Cigar Genluses moved in on Durante and wrecked him. The whole essence of which was to present him in soupy love stories and use him as a jackass Cupid. Comicality act whenever the plot got into trouble. Naturally, even Jimmy couldn't stand up to such synthetic sagas and, as you may remember, there was a long period when our greatest clown was lost in the celluloid shuffle. Fortunately, he's now in the process of a good voice comeback. A few seasons ago Jimmy came back to New York to do a nightclub job and within a matter of days he was again the talk of show business. And the climax of his comeback took place the other night when, like Vesuvius blowing its top, he erupted into a million parlors with his inspired mugging and mischief making.

Have I any suggestion on how to keep the Durante program as slapbappy and side splitting as it was on opening night? Of course I have or I wouldn't have put the question in your mouth, and I can best state them by repeating what I told a worried Jimmy when he came to see me a couple of weeks before his first program:

On a Durante show, all I want to see is Durante, Durante and more Durante. Let the cameras draw a bead on that Indie-rubber face at the beginning and stay right with it until the final fadeout. Don't clutter up my view of it with trick photography, prehistoric monsters, Mack Sennett or run-of-the million vaudeville acts. The girl numbers, if there must be a few of them, should be brief and centered around Jimmy. Ditto the comics. Let them do their night-club setting, let him sit at his lop-sided tinkle box and, with Eddie Condon's Dixieland Band in croupy angel, tear up the joint as he used to in the old days.

In other words, the best way to produce a Durante show is to do it Durante-style—and as efficiently as possible.

A word of warning, gentlemen: Spencer Tracy-Katharine Hepburn ed the other night by Jimmy's aficionados to watch his progress in the first part of your commercial executives start messing with his act. Then they'll be ready to march down Lexington Avenue and turn your agency into a bowling alley.

Yours Truly,
Billy Rose.

ITALY'S NEW WARSHIPS

Taranto, Italy, Nov. 9.—(Reuters)—The Italian navy has ordered work to begin on nine new warships—four heavy destroyers, three escort destroyers, one submarine-chaser, and three fast motor launches—it was announced yesterday. The vessels will be laid down as part of Italy's five-year plan for rearmament within the limits authorized by the Peace Treaty.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

You might suppose that boys grow up gradually, like trees. We assume that they grow almost imperceptibly, adding a little weight ounce by ounce; a little height inch by inch, a year at a time. If we haven't seen a boy for some months, we are always astonished at how he has changed.

But growing up is different from growing. Most boys don't grow up gradually, but in sudden jumps. He grows by crises.

In the life of a boy, these crises are as clean-cut and definite as moving from one room to another. Suddenly he has never been in before. They do not pretend to go over it. They simply call some of them mere incidents. For example: a mother of a thirteen-year-old boy was telling me lects that she has not had him down town shopping for months. Good grief, she said, he is nearly fy two years! The boy has been, for a couple of years, perfectly willing to go over to the neighborhood shopping district, or even down town, whenever he was needed. But this time, he needs, let us say, a new suit. And she sawy and lost forever.

The last time she had him down, he was a boy. She had to be held by the hand half the time, or scolded to heel. This time, she told me, almost a young man beside her. She cannot help but defer to him, when they get to the boy's clothing department. The crisis is upon them. Two salesmen are surrounding a thirteen year old rowdy. The new suit is bought. All at once, he is not perfectly willing to go over to the other departments, while she does the shopping. He is on air, he takes charge of her parcels and carries them. He opens the store doors for her. Surreptitiously she hands him the car tickets to put in the fare box . . . .

The boy has moved into a new room in the house he has never been in before. He has moved another foot in the business of growing up. Physical growth can be slow. The rowdy thirteen-year-old he was only four hours before. It was a sudden, violent, and wonderful thing that children are snatched from childhood.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE LISTENER

I like to be with people. I like to hear them talk. Conversations are never too old to learn something new. In a group of talkers I like to keep my eye on the listener. He is a marked man for me. Usually he is the most intelligent person, with no visible secretary, writing down expressions worth remembering.

The talker and thinker are usually synonymous. I once sat in a hotel room where a brilliant group of noted men sat and talked, at a national political President's convention. All were famous and outstanding figures. The talk was interesting and the time passed rapidly. All were on the group who just sat and listened was known to him. He was a great editorial writer. I wondered why he said nothing. Perhaps he was simply gathering material.

The listener is always ahead for he never loses any of his thoughts regarding those of others which he deems unworthy to store in his own mind. Not until he feels that he can add something that will clarify a discussion does he talk or give forth of himself.

Listeners are often misjudged neither talk a fine religion.

It was said of Marshall Field, founder of the great Field fortune, that he was a man of few words —a good listener and a rare judge of human nature. When he started turning to good account all that they hear. They are men and women of action. The silent person is not the one who asks the most questions, but the one who listens most carefully to the answers given!

Beaton's great bronze creation, "The Thinker," has always intrigued me. I have stood before it many times, and wondered why he didn't convey the idea that thinking was listening as well as thinking!

IT HAPPENS TO AGING MEN

The prostate (not prostrate!) "gives up" and seeks medical attention.

Fortunately, modern medical science has provided highly-efficient methods for the relief or cure of this condition. The treatment is necessarily surgical. There are two means at the present time by which this condition can be cured by medical procedures, by which I mean the use of drugs alone.

Cure of the condition involves surgical removal of part or all of the prostate gland. This may be effected by cutting into the bladder through an incision in the lower abdomen, or it may be accomplished through an incision made in front of the rectal orifice. Each of these approaches are highly effective, some surgeons preferring one to the other as circumstances may seem to warrant.

With proper preparation before hand and with anesthesia in modern hands, the shock is reduced, the surgical risk is slight and the results are excellent, despite the fact that this operation is employed in the aged as well as at times.

Another method which is now well established, and, indeed, is often the method of choice in this country, is experienced in this field, is known as transurethral resection. Briefly let these strange words bother you.

They simply mean the cutting and peeling of prostatic tissue by a cutting instrument passed through the urinary stream and performed entirely by means of a slender metal tube which contains instruments which is a marvel of ingenuity and efficiency. This tube is provided with two inner tubes through which water constantly runs—in one direction—and within a fraction of one minute mirrors and an eye-piece through which the interior of the bladder can be viewed. A delicate wire loop which by a special device is energized by electricity, engages the protruding tissue which severs it from it. Now or three short visits to the operating room (often but one is required) of the now detached tissue may be removed.

This method has the advantage of somewhat less risk, a comparatively painless convalescence and a short stay in the hospital. The appropriate procedure is, of course, always decided after the particular needs of the patient and not by the competitive efficiency of the method alone. As in so many other instances, once the need for surgical relief is established, the sooner operation is performed, the better. Delay does not improve this condition.

Chinese Ready To Discuss Korea Issue With UN

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

There is a gleam of hope for easement of the Korean strife in the disclosure that Red Chinese communists are coming to discuss the Korean and Formosan issues with the United Nations.

This is the outgrowth of an invitation which Trygve Lie extended to the communist regime in Peiping to confer regarding the Communist charge that the United States had invaded Formosa. A natural corollary was the probable discussion of the much-more dangerous Korean question.

As things stand, Korea is a potential breeding ground for another world war. With Chinese red troops — estimated by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters at 60,000 — already intervened in North Korea, and U. N. forces surging close to the Manchurian frontier, the situation has become explosive.

Encouraging Aspect

One somewhat encouraging aspect of this situation is that the Chinese government has persisted in calling these Chinese troops "volunteers." This is taken to mean that the Peiping regime hasn't wanted to become officially identified with this dangerous intervention.

There has been no indication that Russia intends to push China far enough to precipitate a major conflict. Russia doesn't want another world war — at least not now. And Stalin has hardly been any desire to get involved deeply with the western powers.

That is the background of the forthcoming conference of the Chinese communists with the United Nations. Coincident with this is the intriguing statement that Chinese communist troops may be avoiding battle with U.N. troops pending high - level diplomatic moves that may affect the course of the war.

Important Consideration

The problem might become impossible of solution if the Chinese Reds were in a position in which they couldn't back up any further without losing face. For the major power of Asia, China can't afford to lose face — a highly important consideration among Asiatic peoples.

The fantastic claims rise to the thought that the difficulty might be overcome if a situation could be created which would give the Chinese in Korea a chance to surrender without losing face. In view of this, one wonders whether that thought won't play an important part in the forthcoming conference between the Chinese delegates and the U. N.

Quintena Rebekah Bazaar And Tea Attracts Many Guests

Even though last Wednesday afternoon, the skies wore a melancholy look and the streets were sodden with rain, yet within the assembly rooms of the IOOF on Front Street, there was laughter and bustling and a genial camaraderie as the members of the Quintena Rebekahs met together to hold their annual bazaar and tea. The many patrons were received at the door by Mrs. Marion Rogers, Noble Grand, and Rhea Mitchell, Past Noble Grand who extended a most cordial welcome to all.

After having passed the scrutiny of three standing officers, Mrs. Dorothy Harwood, convener of the tickets, Doris Ellsworth and Florence Wallit, the tension lessened and a general milling about took place, first at one booth, then at another, each offering some attractive article, and many a hearty "hello" "Didn't see you there" accounted for."

Many Aprons

The first booth was that of the aprons and was prettily decorated in pastel shades. There were big aprons, little aprons, half aprons, and a new type, consisting of a tiered skirt composed of two aprons. This was fashioned of white cotton with a detachable bib, and together could be used as an all-over apron, which concealed the just unbuttoned bib from the waistband, it became a dainty tea apron. The bibs blending pink ruffles in a very pretty and serviceable apron. Other aprons were of yellow organdy edged with lace; another was of pale pink organdy in wide tiers of ruffles, with a contone across the bottom as well as belt, ties and pocket. A factory cotton apron was prettily scalloped around the bottom, and edged with lace, and another had there were aprons covered with wide roses on a dark background, and others were gay with checks and some without. In charge here were Mrs. Baird, Mrs. E. Elliott and Mrs. A. Hall.

Lovely Penguin

The fancy goods booth, with its pink and white trimmings, its rainbow of pink from which hung white bells, pink bells, hot pads and oodles of other things used in the kitchen and elsewhere, its deep flounce of pink and white, inside a pretty picture. The first object to catch one's eye was the lordly penguin with its orange colored beak and feet, his white waistcoat and his dignity. This was soft and cuddley, a pretty and unusual accompaniment for either side of him were tea towels, knitting bags, a crochet flower-decked in variegated yellows and white, with yellow satin ribbon running through the handle; hot water bottle jackets in pink wash cloths, and a hostery bag. All of this was in the capable hands of crocheted chair set in ecru. Mrs. Ida Sinfield was the convener, assisted by Mrs. Leighton Hagerman and Lena Belnap.

The fish pond with its white fishing boat was a drawing card for both young and old, and the in-betweens. All were eager to fish, and unlike most devotees of the piscatorial pastime, all got their fish. Each entitled the holder to any one of the wrapped parcels either at the right or the left of the 'pond'. The writer of this was fortunate in 'catching a nice packet of Kodaid valued, a long-standing liking. No one went away disappointed, and the convener Florence Wallit, and her assistants June Carruthers, Florence Smith and Margaret Grover did a fine business.

Luscious Chocolate Cakes

Next came the homecooking booth, daintily decorated in green and pink, and centred by a beautiful Jerusalem cherry tree, on either side of which were taffy taffy, berry baskets of candy, luscious chocolate cakes, little gems with iced tops supporting a pecan meltmeat; lemon pie, mounted high with golden browned meringue; fresh buns; angel cakes; and one large square cake with white icing, across which on top in green was the emblem of the Rebekah Lodge. The convener here was Mrs. Myrtle Andrews, with her assistants Mrs. A. McKee, Vera Wycott, Mrs. Fleighton and Mrs. H. West.

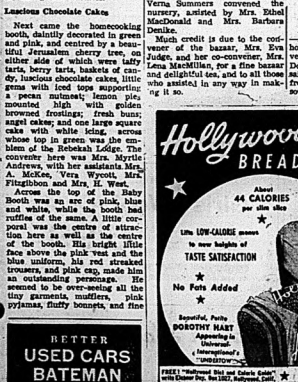
Across the top of the Baby Booth was an arc of pink, blue and white, while the booth had ruffles of the same. A little corporal was the centre of attraction here as well as the centre of the booth. His bright little face above the pink vest and the blue uniform, his red streaked trousers, and pink cap, made him an outstanding personage. He seemed to be ever-seeing all the tiny garments, mufflers, pink pyjamas, fluffy bonnets, and fine white undies, little bootees, mitts, and many other little clothes for little people. Mrs. Alice Burley with her assistants, Mrs. Theda Woods, Mrs. Elsie Humphreys and Mrs. J. Wood, had charge of this booth.

Myriads of Colored Baskets

The candy booth was a picture with its half rainbow of blue, yellow and silver, its wide scallops of silver over the front and its myriads of colored baskets and little boxes of almost any kind of candy one might dream of. There was fudge, maple creams, coconut creams, chocolates, and divinity, as well as a box that would go to the holder of the lucky ticket. Over this place of sweetness, were four equally sweet ladies, Mrs. Dorothy Weffer, Mrs. Latchford, Mrs. Edna White and Mrs. Bushell, who had done a thriving business, for on visiting it near the close of the bar, its fresh and practically swept clean, Mrs. Mills, Campbellton was the candy draw.

The White Elephant table was in charge of Mrs. Helena Darnell assisted by Verna Oliphant and Margaret Hirvinen. Here attractive items of costume jewellery including necklace with matching ear-rings; silhouette pictures; tiny rubber plants; pillow cases; baby bonnets; salt and pepper sets; hanging plant holder made from wine cord with tassel at the bottom, and paperweights in this a busy place of exchange.

Coming back around towards the entrance, here one found the Market Booth with its supply of potatoes, beets, carrots, cut flowers, red and white cabbages, turnips, apples, Macintosh reds, Northern Spies, Bel-Fleurs, and were also pie pumpkins and canned goods of several varieties, and eggs, eggs, eggs, which were Mrs. Orris Adams, Helen Brenton, Allie Adams and Mrs. Addy.



A fine flostess chair in wine color, donated by the Four Square Club, was in the hands of the lucky ticket, which was Mrs. Verna Summers, N. James St. City.

Following the steady flow of many up the stairs, the tea room came into view, with its quartet tables, white covered, each centred by a slender stemmed goblet having a single rose chrysanthemum floating on the water. Down the middle of the room was the long tea table, a picture in loveliness with its gorgeous cut glass bowl of white and bronze 'mums, its dainty Scotch plaid, its services and silver candelabra with its white and green candles. Presiding were: Mrs. Grace McEwan, Mrs. J. A. Allin; Mrs. Vera Graham, D.D.P., and Mrs. Ida Turner. Convening the tea room was Mrs. Ethel Sandercock assisted by Mrs. Irene Amos, as convenors.

Those who served were: Mrs. Clara Donside; Mrs. Lena Belanger, Mrs. Alfonia Lewis, Mrs. Annie Webb; Mrs. Barbara Johnston; Miss Irene Muir; Mrs. Margaret Shaw, Mrs. Ruby Dueberry; Mrs. Evelyn Graham; Mrs. Win Donaldson, Miss Florence Pollitt; Mrs. Mary Plumpton; Mrs. Helen Shorey. Those who replenished the plates included Mrs. G. Robb; Mrs. J. Redner; Mrs. J. Bird; Mrs. A. Mrs. Bird Mrs. J. E. Kerr and Mrs. W. Gaudge. Receiving at the tea room, Mrs. Janet Twiddy, Mrs. Alfonia Lewis ishing at the kitchen, Mrs. Margaret Cherrie and Mrs. Florence Cooke. Mrs. Annie Rose received the tickets to the tea room and Verna Summers convened the nursery, assisted by Mrs. Ethel MacDonald and Mrs. Barbara Denike.

Much credit is due to the convener of the bazaar, Mrs. Eva Judge, and the co-convener, Mrs. Lena MacMillan, for a fine bazaar and delightful tea, and to all those who assisted in any way in making it so.

The 1951 Mercury

The 1951 Mercury passenger cars, being introduced in dealer showrooms across Canada today November 10, combine many styling and engineering changes designed to improve appearance and performance. New rear fenders and quarter panels, a new grille and front end trim, new bumpers and an extra large rear window are noticeable.

A new grille and front end trim, new rear fenders and quarter panels, new bumpers, and an extra large rear window are major exterior changes incorporated in the 1951 Mercury passenger cars which will be publicly introduced in Mercury-Lincoln-Meteor showrooms across Canada on Friday.

A number of improvements in the Mercury's 115-horsepower engine contribute to smoother, quieter operation at all speeds.

The 1951 Mercury rides on a wider bars and a more massive appearance. The bumper has been extended to provide wrap-around protection all the way to the wheel house, and is complemented by an extension to the new grille parking lamp. A new head lamp bezel and a new name plate, placed on a chrome strip just above the grille, complete the new front end.

Even more pronounced are the new rear fenders which have been changed completely. They extend in a bold sweep to the extreme end of the car. Large combination tail light and directional signals, outlined in chrome, are other changes in the 1951 model.

The rear picture window, 29 per cent larger than in previous models, has more than 1,000 square inches of glass.

The new rear bumper follows the contours of the fenders and blends into a bright chrome rear quarter panel trim. There is also a newly designed deck lid handle and re-styled hub caps featuring the Mercury name and insignia. New designs are also noticeable in body hardware, trim chrome, upholstery and steering wheel.

Junior Farmers Organize Choir

On Wednesday evening twenty-nine Junior Farmers and Junior Institute members gathered in the basement of St. Paul's Church in Stirling for the inaugural practice of the Hastings County Junior Farmer Choir.

The choir, which is under the very capable direction of Mrs. A. E. Baker, spent an enjoyable two hours receiving some of the fundamentals of choir work, and in addition took part in unison and part singing.

Those who were in attendance felt that there would be more Juniors out in the future, but that many of them had not been able to attend due to the fact that many of the drivers were in the northern area on the annual hunting trip.

The next practice will be at 8 p.m. precisely, on Nov. 22, at St. Paul's, and all Juniors are welcome to attend.

MARMORA

Catholic W. League Over Subscribes L. M. Donation

Marmora — The November meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the Sacred Heart School on Tuesday evening with a good attendance of members. The president, Mrs. Charles Cook, occupied the chair, and after welcoming the members, the correspondence was dealt with by the secretary, Mrs. Ed Warren. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. B. McTaggart, showing a substantial balance on hand.

Quilt Donated

The Social Service convener, Mrs. Charles Crawford, reported two baskets having been sent. Miss Mary Hughes reported for the sewing club and displayed a handsome quilt donated to the bazaar by Mrs. Sandford Lawrence. She also reported that several ladies had been busy at the home of Mrs. C. Crawford cutting the curtains for the new parish hall and these were also displayed.

The president extended thanks and appreciation to the ladies serving the various parties and teas in their homes during the month and to the ladies were Mrs. R. E. Maloney and Mrs. L. P. Hughes, Mrs. Jos. O'Neill and Mrs. Blaine Stafford, Mrs. Frank Doyle and Mrs. Charles Clemens; Mrs. W. Forsters, Mrs. J. McCrodan, Mrs. A. M. Jones, Mrs. H. English, Mrs. P. Woodhouse and Mrs. Ed. Warren; Mrs. A. Paquet and Deloro Group; Mrs. Charles Lajoie and Mrs. Fred Lajoie.

To Furnish Refreshments

The president asked the ladies of Group 1 to furnish the refreshments for the December meeting. She also asked all members to receive Holy communion on the third Sunday of this month in remembrance of the Holy Souls. It was decided to hold a Christmas party again this year. It was agreed that the council would take the responsibility of paying for the curtains and fixtures for same for the new hall.

Over Subscribed

The president reported that the donation to the Ladies' Missionaries from the Catholic Women's League of Canada had been oversubscribed. The objective was $5,000 and $4,000 had been subscribed before the March 31st. Ontario.

The president, Mrs. Cook, gave an interesting report of the regional meeting held in Belleville two weeks ago.

The Rev. J. A. O'Neill then expressed his appreciation, extending his thanks and appreciation to the ladies who had held card parties, teas, fowl dinners, bonds, thus adding to the finances of the parish. He also thanked the ladies who had assisted in the sewing and those who had taken part in the Tea or subscribed for the Canadian Register, Rev. O'Neill also spoke of the new hall and its appointments, and thanked the ladies for their efforts in getting it in readiness for the bazaar.

Mrs. P. Bowley reported three visits made to the sick and shutins by the Social Service Guild herself, Mrs. I. Stephens and Miss Gladys Gehan volunteered for the visits in the month of March.

A few games of bingo were played and refreshments were served by the ladies of Group 7.

WEDDINGS

OUTWATER—STEED

Tall standards of multi-colored chrysanthemums and ferns, formed the setting of a lovely double-ring ceremony in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, October 28, at 1:00 o'clock, when Chloris Steed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Steed, of Belleville, became the bride of Malcolm Earl Outwater, of Plainfield, son of Mr. Charles Earl Outwater, of Plainfield, and the late Mrs. Outwater. The Reverend S. E. Larman, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. Harold McNish, organist of the church, provided the wedding music, and the soloist, Miss Martlina Eggleton, sang before the ceremony, "I Love You Truly", and "Because", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a gown of eggshell slipper satin, featuring a Queen Ann neckline, lily-point sleeves, molded bodice and full skirt ending in a slight train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was edged with Chantilly lace and held in place by a bonnet-shaped coronet of matching slipper satin and lace. She carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty rosebuds mingled with baby's breath, white and satin ribbon.

Miss Margaret Belvia Steed, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, becomingly attired in yellow nylon, trimmed with yellow taffeta over a peach-colored underskirt. Matching mitts and shoulder-length veil held in place by a bandeau of braided yellow taffeta. She carried bronze and yellow roses with matching ribbon.

Mr. Walker Reid, of Plainfield, was groomsman Mr. Edgar Steed, of Plainfield, brother of the bride, and Mr. Blake Cook, of Cannifton, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception was held at Latimer's Town Room, where the bride's mother, gowned in navy blue taffeta with maroon accessories, and corsage of yellow mums, assisted by the bridegroom's sister, who wore black crepe with matching accessories with corsage of yellow mums, received the many guests.

The bride's table was centred with a four-tier wedding cake and flanked with tall, cathedral candles, in pink and white, and carnations.

For travelling to eastern points, the bride wore an ensemble of rust silk, with matching hat and shoes and accessories, with tailored topcoat of grey, and a corsage of blue carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Outwater will reside at St. Catharines upon their return.

Out-of-town guests were present from Plainfield, Roslin, Kingston, and Cannifton.

The bride's gift to her bridesmaid, a rhinestone bracelet; to her bridegroom, a wrist watch; the bridegroom's gift to his bride, a strand of pearls, and a set of silver; to his groomsman, a tie clip.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts at a shower given in her honor at the home of Miss Eileen Greenwood.

PLUMPTON—YOUKER

Christ Church, Belleville, was the scene on Saturday, October 28th, at 7.30 p.m., of a pretty wedding, when the Reverend J. B. Creggan, B.A., rector of the church, united in marriage, Evelyn St. George Youker, of Belleville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Youker, to George Clinton Plumpton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Plumpton, of Stockdale, Ontario. The church altar and chancel were beautifully decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Leighanbaum, church organist, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. E. Vanner, the bride was lovely in a street length gown of wine crepe taffe, with wine and gold accessories. She carried a shower bouquet of cream roses.

Mrs. Keith Chambers, Belleville, cousin of the bride, was becomingly gowned in Victorian green crepe taffe with matching accessories and carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Douglas Plumpton, of Stockdale, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman and Mr. R. Vanner and Mr. H. Hodgson, were ushers.

Following the reception, which was held at Christ Church parish hall, Mrs. E. West, aunt of the bride, greeted in line with matching accessories and corsage of red roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing grey figured crepe with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses, received the guests, the bride chose for travelling, a rose wool jersey ensemble with wine accessories and corsage of yellow baby 'mums. They will visit Toronto, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls and Cobourg and upon their return, reside at Stockdale, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were present from Cobourg, Wooler and Stockdale.

"Busy Bells" Club Elects Officers

The first meeting of the "Busy Bells" was held in the Methodist at Florence McFaul's. The new project is "Cottons May Be Smart". The election of officers were: President, Florence McFaul; secretary treasurer, Aulis Redner. Press reporter Enid Redner. The next meeting is tomorrow at Frances Young's Loom.

"Selecting Your Material" —

When buying a dress you usually have an occasion in mind. Different occasions call for different styles. Cotton is very smart and practical. Trimmings should be of similar material that is practical as the dress and can be washed.

Choose lines to suit your figure—When buying your material, select material and see that the pattern is the correct width for it and the color doesn't fade and won't run.

Pre-shrunken material is not wholly shrunk. Sanforized-guaranteed not to shrink more than one percent. Price-quality should be first thing considered, it pays to get good quality.

The roll call for next meeting is "one point to consider when buying cotton."

Home assignment— begin record book, check your figure and study lines. Equip a sewing box.

KEEN AGE CLUB

The Keen Age Club of Tabernacle United Church, held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Claire Lathangue, 256 Foster Avenue.

A vote of thanks was given to the girls taking part in their recent play, "No Men Allowed", which was a decided financial success.

Plans for the club's anniversary supper and Christmas party were made.

A nominating committee was appointed for the election of officers for the coming year.

Refreshments were served by the hostess conveners.

NORTH PARK GARDENS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carter, Halkeway, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McCoy and Mrs. Fred Maines on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Carter are leaving this week to spend the winter in Florida.

Mrs. David McCoy, Collins Bay, and sister, Mrs. Margaret Slater, Cloyne, were luncheon guests of the former's son, Mr. Clifford McCoy and Mrs. McCoy, North Park Gardens, on Tuesday.

Pictures of Copenhagen Conference Feature Final Session of W.I. Convention

Interesting colored slides were shown at the evening meeting of the Women's Institute convention by Miss Anna P. Lewis, Director of the W. I. Branch, Toronto. Miss Lewis had been asked to make the arrangements for the tour abroad, which the delegates took who went to the conference at Copenhagen. The Director paid tribute to the Canadian Department of External Affairs who were most helpful, and who arranged that the delegates be met everywhere by the Canadian Embassy. The Dominion Department of Agriculture also donated a considerable sum towards the expenses of the trip. Contacts had been established which would last all their lives. Thanks were expressed to Col. L. M. Kennedy for the assistance he had given. Every Province had been represented including Newfoundland. While in Montreal the delegation had been guests of Rotary House Planning each one was presented with a corsage. The Borden Co. had sent box suppers to each one.

The whole trip was beautifully illustrated with the pictures Miss Lewis had taken. Even those at night were extremely good, and some taken from the window of the moving bus turned out remarkably well. These illustrations made the trip very real for the audience, as they were carried visually through most of the trip. Altogether Miss Lewis had accumulated over four hundred pictures, so the whole trip necessarily could not be shown, but those that were proved delightful. The scenes in Chester, England, with the black and white of Tudor desgi in architecture were charming old-world illustrations.

Two Resolutions Passed

On Thursday morning with Mrs. G. McCubbin presiding the opening exercises for the second day of the convention of the Belleville Area Women's Institute included the Mary Stewart Collect and community singing with Mrs. Parrott at the piano, and Mrs. Roy Sills leading. Flowers which decorated the front of the platform were given by the Carmel branch of East Hastings.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

Wedding invitation . . . groom is junior

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My fiance is a lieutenant, junior grade, in the United States Navy. Will you please publish in your column the complete correct form for the wedding invitations of our wedding?

Bride-to-be

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hall Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Elizabeth to

John Paul Brown

Lieutenant, junior grade, United States Navy

on Tuesday, the tenth of January at four o'clock

Faith Church

Haven, New York.

Their shower-budget is small

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

A friend of mine and I would much like to give a small shower at my home for a dear mutual friend of ours. But our budgets in these days are quite small indeed. Whom should we include in our invitations, and what might we serve?

We Two

I think the very nicest and most enjoyable kind of bridal shower is the one to which a group of the most intimate friends of the bride-to-be is invited. Why don't you two hostesses invite such a "most intimate friends" group, and, with an understanding how to your budget, serve a simple tea-menu: tea and/or coffee; small, simple sandwiches (or even omit the sandwiches if you wish to); small cakes or interesting cookies.

Cutting the wedding anniversary cake

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Our wedding anniversary is to be next month, and we are following your suggestion to have a Golden Anniversary Cake served at the entertainment party, which is for only our relatives and friends. Will you please tell me who cuts this cake, and how it is served?

Katherine R.

You and your husband should, "bride and groom", cut the first piece of this festive Wedding Anniversary Cake together, with each other, just as is the custom at the original wedding reception.

When you cut this first piece together, your husband holds his right hand over your right hand. (The handle of the serving knife should be nicely backed with a large white-satin bow!) After this, if there are few guests, you, the "bride", may, if you wish and if it is convenient, cut the rest of the cake and serve it to the guests. Or . . . frequently the happy plan. . . you may ask a member of the family or a woman relative or a friend to take over this pleasant task. If it is a large party, you may have a servant or a caterer's assistant do this. (Very often the top tier of an Anniversary Cake is a fruit cake in a sealed metal box, to be opened and opened at the next wedding anniversary celebration.)

YOUR SPINE IS THE BLUEPRINT OF YOUR FUTURE

By JULIUS DINTENFASS
D.C., B.Sc., F.I.C.C.

The condition of your spine is the blueprint of your individual future. Your chiropractor can tell you whether you can look forward to a healthy 70 or whether you will be miserable at 40. It's entirely a matter of whether your spinal joints are exactly in the place nature meant them to be. If, however, your spine sags beyond its normal limits and your spinal bones are out of their correct position, don't be surprised if you suffer with some chronic ailment.

Julius Dintenfass

Misalignment is as bad in the human machine as it is in any kind of delicate machinery. It is particularly bad in a human body because the vital central station and switchboard of the nerve system are encased in the vertebral column.

Nature has a miraculous way of righting itself, once leg and constriction are removed from the spine. Conditions such as backache, neuralgia, anaemia and indigestion are commonly corrected by chiropractic procedures.

You can help Nature help you by resorting to Chiropractic.

BEAUTY

Make-up for dry skins

Those synthetic items that we buy at cosmetic counters—lipsticks, rouges in various forms, powders and eye shadows—do little for a skin that is rough and out of beauty form. It is too much to expect of them. Every touch of the lamb's wool powder pad seems to fluff up skin scales. It is the way of woman to consider the powder at fault. She experiments with one brand after another, condemns them all. She does not realize that when the cutaneous surface is in normal condition, carrying the right amount of lubrication sent out by sebaceous glands, it will accept practically any high grade product.

Cosmetics do little for rough skin.

The dry skin is dry because the little oil gushers that are located in every pore have gone out of business. Why does that happen? Because, no doubt, the diet is low in fats. The glands must be fed, like all cells of the body, and fat foods are what they live in. When a woman is on a reducing diet, she is likely to notice that her skin has become arid. A little more butter on the bread, more cream in the coffee and bacon for breakfast, and lo! the miracle occurs. More and more, we are discovering that food has an effect upon appearance in many ways.

On the dry skin it is necessary to use a bland soap and to use it sparingly, as all soaps are drying to a certain extent. Make-up should be removed with a thin cream before the face washing; some of the cream should be left on. Dip a washcloth in warm water, press it close to the flesh, very gently. The dry skin won't stand much friction unless cream is used. Rinse with warm water, dry gently, then-use cream again. Keep applying more cream as it disappears.

Light tapping, movements while smoothing the flesh will detach dead skin cells, strengthen and vitalize new ones that are forming. They stimulate the blood streams from which the complexion gets food and drink.

Avoid rotary motions on the cheeks; they are likely to press the flesh into folds around the eyes and encourage fine lines to form. Stroke from chin-tip to ear lobes. Do not overlook the need of neck care. Necks can age suddenly. Do circles around the eyes, starting at the inner corner of the upper lid.

A foundation cosmetic, if it is of an oily character, will help along the make-up project, and powder will go on smoothly. There are powders with greasy bases, compounded especially for dry skins. A cream rouge will be found more agreeable than the compact variety.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She double her love

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 17, and have been going steady for two years. I know the boy I am going with loves me, and I always believed I loved him. But now I am beginning to doubt myself.

The reason why I feel that way is that when he kisses me, I never get the thrill most girls get when they are kissed by those they love. Maybe it's because I don't love him. I can't break up with him because I have had an affair with him.

A. R. D.

Dear A. R. D.:

It sounds to me as though the sooner you break off with this boy the better. If you don't, it's not at all unlikely that you may eventually find yourself in really serious trouble. You are a very fortunate girl that you aren't in it already.

I feel sorry that you weren't content to wait for these "thrills" you speak of until you were of an age to have them mean something. It sounds to me as though your ideas along this line are pretty childish.

I think—but I doubt if you'll agree with me—that it might help you a lot if you'd talk to some older person about these things who could show you a more mature way to look at them. Won't you consider this? It might save you a lot of unhappiness.

A word to teenagers who resent having to be home early

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was interested in a letter I saw in your column, in which a 17-year-old girl complained about having to get home after a date at 11 o'clock instead of 12:30.

When I started going out with my future husband, I was 21, and only allowed to go out with him twice a week. We had to be in at 10 o'clock, and he had to be gone at 10:30. We went out together for two years before we were married, which gave me plenty of time to get acquainted with my future mother-in-law and learn to appreciate her. I also learned to appreciate my own mother.

I never felt sorry for myself having to be home at 10 o'clock, and I believe that if more parents would be a little stricter with their children about these things, it would pay in the long run.

My husband and I have been married three years now, and we honestly love each other as much as the day we were married. Incidentally, as for in-laws, there couldn't be any better in the world, both on my husband's side and on mine. It's just a matter of making up your mind that you will love instead of hate them, and it works.

I see very few encouraging letters like this one printed in your column, so I doubt if it will ever appear there, but nevertheless, you know how I feel.

Sue

Dear Sue:

I am always delighted to have an encouraging letter to print. The reason you don't see more of them in my column is because I get so few of them! Believe me, I would like to have many more.

I'm sure readers of this column too, would like to read more letters from people who have been able to work out the problems of their own lives. They would be helpful to those who are still in the midst of trying to solve problems of their own.

Thank you so much for writing me, and I am glad indeed to pass your letter on.

BIG EXPORT

During the first half of 1950 Britain exported 6,106,713 rubber tires.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

By now most people have heard that the nation clam champ is slipping.

Izzy Weintraub, who won the title this year at Atlantic City by gulping a mere 139 clams in 20 minutes, as opposed to 150 last year, is still undefeated king of the bivalves.

In eating his clams raw and unadorned Izzy sensibly avoids entanglements with the two most savage camps ever to lock spoons over a bowl of soup: those who believe that clam chowder should be made with milk (New England) and those who believe it should be made with tomatoes (Manhattan). What makes this controversy so unnecessary is the fact that the two chowders, while containing some of the same ingredients, bear little resemblance to each other as finished products.

New England clam chowder is a buttery milk stew made with soft clams. Manhattan clam chowder is a thick vegetable soup containing hard clams and fragrant with thyme. It's like saying that one mountain is better than another one.

In making clam chowder the flavor of the broth may seem weak at times. It can be strengthened by adding bottle clam broth or bouillon cubes, or by adding both.

In making Manhattan clam chowder cook the clams in water only until the shells open. Save the liquid as broth. Add the chopped clams just before bringing the chowder to the table.

Manhattan Clam Chowder. Serves 6.

1 dozen chowder clams in shell
2 ounces salt pork or 3 tablespoons vegetable fat
2 cloves of garlic chopped fine
1-2 cup green pepper diced
1-2 cup onion diced
1-2 cup celery diced
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup canned tomatoes chopped fine
1 cup potatoes cubed
5 cups hot water or hot stock
1-2 teaspoon thyme
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon catsup
Salt and pepper

Scrub clams with a vegetable brush under cold running water. Cover clams with water in a pot. Bring to a boil. Remove clams from opened shells. Strain clams fine. Set aside. Strain clam broth.

In a soup pot melt the salt pork chopped fine or the vegetable fat. Add the garlic, green peppers, onions and celery. Sauté until onions turn yellow. Stir in the flour. Add the tomatoes, potatoes, hot water and thyme. Add clam broth.

Bring liquid to a boil. Skim. Simmer slowly until vegetables are tender, about 1 hour.

Add parsley, catsup and chopped clams. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve with pilot or oyster crackers.

ELDORADO

Seventeen Sunday Schools Meet In St. Peter's Church For Annual Convention

Eldorado — The Madoc and Elzevir Sunday School convention met in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church on Wednesday with the president, Allan Ketcheson in charge. Seventeen Sunday Schools were represented. Theme of the convention was "Reach, Teach and Win". The afternoon session opened with a call to worship by Rev. B. Beckel of White Lake, Rev. M. W. Heslip welcomed the convention to St. Peter's.

Mr. Allen Ketcheson opened the business discussion with a few remarks after which Mrs. Ernie Moore read the reports from the various Sunday Schools. It was decided that there be some changes made in the reports.

The roll call was answered by a representative from each Sunday School with a one minute talk on "The Parents' Duty to the Sunday School." All agreed that parents should set the example by going to Sunday School themselves and take their children along with them.

Interesting Program

Rev. M. Clarke of Thomasburg with his guitar, conducted a sing-song. Miss Ellis, of Bannockburn Pentecostal gave an interesting demonstration on the use of the flannelgraph in teaching the Sunday School lessons.

The president of Huntingdon Sunday School convention spoke briefly, after which Mrs. Foster Wilson favored with a solo accompanying herself on the guitar. Miss Janet Rogers of Bannockburn Pentecostal conducted action songs and choruses.

Rev. T. Young, of Marmora, was guest speaker and spoke on the theme of the convention, "We must first reach the children, teach them, and win them for Christ."

The offering was taken and dedication given by Rev. G. Burtch of Madoc Standard Church.

Discussion Groups

Discussion groups were arranged by Arthur Wilson of West Huntingdon with Mrs. C. B. Smith, of Toronto, leading the beginners group, Rev. H. Good leading the junior group, Rev. M. Clarke leading the teen-age group, and Rev. L. Young leading the adult group.

Supper was served in the Sunday school rooms after which the committees met.

Evening Session

The evening session opened with a sing-song conducted by Miss Janet Rogers. Rev. G. McKenzie, of Queensboro, took charge of the devotional period.

Officers Installed

Miss Olive Ashe gave the report of the nominating committee. The following officers elected for next year as follows: President, Allan Ketcheson; Vice-President, Allan Sager; Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Ernie Moore; Temperance Secretary, Mrs. M. W. Heslip; Leader Trainer, Mr. V. Flager; Pianist, Mrs. Donly; Press Reporter, Miss Anna Smith. Rev. J. F. Lane installed the officers.

Mrs. Allan Franks reported for the resolutions committee. Reports accepted as read. The invitation to meet at Harte Church next year was also accepted.

Hazzard's Sunday School having the best report for the past year, was presented with the Sunday School banner by Rev. J. F. Lane of Trinity United Church, Madoc.

Tweed and Actinolite were invited to join this convention area.

Mr. Jack Kincaid reeve of Madoc village, spoke briefly to the convention.

The junior choir under the direction of Miss Wurm, who is the music teacher in the public schools, favored with two numbers. They were accompanied at the organ by Master Ronnie Robertson.

Mr. Fenwick, music inspector for Ontario also spoke briefly, and Mrs. M. W. Heslip gave a talk on "Temperance."

Dr. Hamilton of Owen Sound, guest speaker, was introduced by the Rev. G. Burtch. Mr. Hamilton told of his personal experience as an alcoholic, and how he was helped by the alcoholics anonymous. Hymns we love to sing were conducted by Mr. Arthur Wilson.

Mrs. C. B. Smith, of Toronto, gave an address on the theme of the convention "Reach, Teach and Win."

Rev. M. W. Heslip closed the meeting.

CARMEL

Carmel — Messrs. Glen and Douglas Ross attended the evening service at Gosenath where Douglas was the guest speaker at the annual Junior Farmers service for Northumberland county.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bryges visited Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Milton Ross.

Carmel United Church held their annual anniversary services on Sunday last. Rev. Morley Clarke of Thomasburg, delivered an impressive sermon in the morning, while Rev. W. R. Merrick gave as usual a wonderful message at the evening service. There was a capacity congregation at both services.

The Carmel Comrades group are busy preparing for their Tea Bazaar in Carmel school on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Arthurs, Mr. and Ernest Chambers and Mr. and Mrs. Pitman were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Moorman on Sunday.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Roman were Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Allen and family, Lonsdale.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Howes were guests at Mr. and Mrs. J. Patterson's.

Miss Joan Shindell, Belleville, was a guest at Mr. and Mrs. William Sills.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

Going East and Coming West

By ROY L. SMITH

A picturesque and highly colorful old missionary to Africa, Dan Crawford by name, came out of the bush some years ago to speak to a group of theologians, and said "if you go too far east, you have come west."

The blunt old man had put into an epigram a very common mistake. Most of us are guilty of pushing a good thing to such an absurd extreme that it becomes something evil.

Jewish Isolationism

During the period of the Exile the Jews had become convinced that their national misfortunes were a direct result of their national sins. In the belief that they were a chosen people, they decided it was a sin to intermarry among the races and nations with which they were surrounded, and that there should be no mingling of their youth with that of other peoples lest intermarriage should result.

Now it is a perfectly laudable ambition for any nation or race to aspire to a pure bloodstream. But it is impossible for any race in such a world as ours to remain completely aloof from all others.

This was exactly the thing the ancient Jews attempted to do. Their lawyers had drawn the lines so fine that no Jew could remain in good standing with his fellow Jews if he ate at the same table with a Gentile, touched his person in any way, ate from a dish a Gentile had used, or in any other fashion shared life with him. Yet it was necessary for some Jews to deal with some Gentiles else the whole nation would have starved to death, been reduced to slavery, and the nation obliterated.

Christian Isolationism

In many ways the little congregation of Christians at Philippi was the outstanding Christian group of Europe. They had been the first to lend a sympathetic ear to Paul's preaching, they had sent gifts to the great Apostle when he was in dire need, and exhibited rare qualities of character.

But they had become conceited! They were splendid people, but they were also well aware of it. Some believed they were better than the rest, and separated themselves from the others in little cliques to protect their piety from pollution. The total result of this type of vainglory was a general weakening of the church.

Betraying the Fellowship

The ancient Jews were capable of making an enormous contribution to the life of the world of that day—a contribution so desperately needed. If, for example the beautiful home life of the Jews could have been preached and accepted among the ancients, it might have been possible to have saved the Roman civilization. But as long as the Jews held aloof from the rest of the world there could be no salvation through them.

The ancient Christians were the hope of the world, for they came preaching and living an entirely new doctrine of fellowship among men. Among the Gentile Christians, particularly there was germinating a spirit which might have produced the unity the world so needed, a unity without which there could be no hope of saving the current civilization.

The Sunday School lesson for November 12: "Fellowship with Other Christians." Acts 10-11; Philippians 2:1-18.

By withdrawing upon themselves, and by indulging their efficient performance.

Rear end styling is completely changed, starting with an enlarged rear view window which is 185 square inches greater in expanse than that of previous models. The new fin-like fenders extend well beyond the luggage compartment to blend with a more massive, wrap-around bumper. Tail lights, of vertical design, fit into the new pattern and hub caps are fashioned in keeping with the new body lines. A massive chrome grille, bumper and head lamp assembly features a new, horizontal grille bar of wrap-around design which gives a double bumper effect. Overall, the 1951 Monarch has a lower, longer appearance.

A choice of five solid enamel and four metallic enamel exterior colors is offered, as well as several two-tone combinations. There is also a wide field of selection in upholstery combinations.

The New Ford-Monarch

Rear end styling is completely changed, with 20 per cent more window visibility, fin-type fenders and quarter panels, and newly designed, wrap-around bumper, in the 1951 Monarch passenger cars which will be on display in Ford-Monarch dealerships across the Dominion today. A wide range of color and upholstery choices are other features.

FOR COUGHS COLDS— BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

The basic problems of all men are about the same. The average man asks but little of his government—not conquest, war, additional territory, a place in the sun. He asks only that he be allowed to marry, rear a family, do something useful, enjoy a bit of personal freedom, and worship according to his own conscience. But in seeking the realization of these demands he and his government so often "come west when they start east."

We undertake to keep our racial bloodstream clean and we begin to mark off ghettoes and slums. We try to maintain our racial identity and we deny other honest men their rights. We try to defend our faith and in doing so we deny our Lord by fighting those whom He loves who do not believe as we do. We take pride in the purity of our beliefs and shut ourselves off from those who are in need of redemption.

Global Salvation

This world cannot be redeemed piecemeal. It must be saved on a global basis.

Now as never in the world's history it is necessary for those who believe in democracy, and the basic rights of all men, to stand together. Now, also as never, it is necessary for all those who believe in the basic ideals of injustice, mercy, and love as taught by Jesus, to stand together.

WILL USE WINDMILLS

London, Nov. 10—(Reuters) — Two windmills will be built in Britain —one in the Orkney Islands and one in Wales— to generate electricity, The British Electrical Research Association made this announcement last night as experts from Britain, 10 European countries and the Commonwealth were completing a conference here on windmill power for Europe. The two experimental windmills to be built would be 90 feet high, with vanes generating 100 kilowatts.

MUSTANGS STRAFE

Manila, Nov. 10 — (AP) — Eight Philippine Air Force Mustangs strafed and bombed communist Hukbalahap concentrations atop three mountains in Pampanga province, and inflicted heavy casualties, the government announced today.

HUNTING is one of the most popular fall pastimes, and we in Canada have the finest hunting grounds in the world. In the field, however, we should all remember there's another season next year, and many more after that. Observe game laws today and you'll have plenty of sport tomorrow.

Seasonal Unemployment Sets in at Much Lower Rate And Later Than Last Year

Ottawa, Nov. 10—(CP)— The labor department reported Thursday that seasonal unemployment has set in, but at a much slower rate than last year and a month later than usual.

Despite the end of harvesting in most sections of the country, jobless registered for work with National Employment Service at Oct. 19 were up only 2,500 from the year's low point of unemployment at Sept. 28.

Registrations for jobs totalled 138,000 at Oct. 19, the department said in a monthly survey of the employment situation. This was 20,000 below the figure at the corresponding date last year.

Two of the regions—the Maritimes and Newfoundland — showed improvement from September.

In the Maritimes, registrations for jobs dropped from 16,500 to 16,100, Newfound's drop was from 5,500 to 3,700.

Quebec's registrations went from 42,700 to 43,100; Ontario's from 33,900 to 36,400; the Prairies' from 16,000 to 17,200 and the Pacific region's from 17,900 to 19,500.

Improvement in the employment situation as compared with last year, the department said, results largely from demand for workers in logging, heavy manufacturing and base-metal mining.

Factors responsible for this demand, it said, are favorable markets for newsprint, the accelerated defence program and increase in consumer demand for many goods and services.

Breakdown for Ontario regions with Sept. 28 figures in brackets:

Hamilton, 4,329 (3,613); Kingston 635 (694); Kitchener 303 (266); London 1,054 (980); Ottawa 2,078 (2,278); St. Catharines 994 (993); St. Thomas 311 (194); Sarnia 327 (323); Stratford 197 (205); Sudbury 695 (712) Toronto 8,914 (8,226); Windsor 3,262 (3,150); Woodstock 125 (98).

BUSINESS ON INCREASE

Toronto, Nov. 10.—(CP)—Ontario's travel and publicity department said Thursday the tourist business is on the increase in the province this fall. It predicted the all-time record of 78,852 motor tourist parties entering the province during October. Figures for this month will be surpassed when official figures are available.

The prediction was based largely on reports for three reception centres still in operation along the United States border at Niagara Falls, Point Edward, near Sarnia, and Windsor. Figures for those points showed 19,732 autumn visitors were checked in during October, an increase of more than 5,500 compared with last year's total of 14,219.

Talk of Jamming U.S. Telephone Lines in Air

New York, Nov. 10. (AP)— Talk of "jamming" the United States telephone system was in the air today as a coast-to-coast strike of phone equipment workers went into its second day.

There were moves to urge strikers and their friends to "jam" local and long-distance circuits by placing one useless call after another.

Federal mediators sought anew to settle the dispute which has made idle many thousands of workers, including operators, and disrupted service in some areas.

In a side angle of the national walkout, 16,000 telephone employees in Michigan put their local strike on a "hit and run" basis.

There was no official indication that this strategy would be adopted in the coast-to-coast walkout.

The "hit-and-run" move in Michigan was disclosed early today in Detroit by the state strike leader, Walter Schaar, president of Division 15 of the Communications Workers of America (C.I.O.).

Hit and Miss Work

Schaar said employees of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company would "leave the job at unexpected moments and return when not expected" in a move to keep the management "off balance".

Schaar said the Michigan strike strategy is not connected with the national strike of 17,000 C.W.A. members against the Western Electric Company. Both strikes started yesterday after deadlocked in negotiations over wages and other issues.

Service disruptions occurred as many of the other 300,000 C.W.A. members in the Bell Telephone System refused to cross picket lines of those striking against Western Electric, the manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Dial telephone service was only minutely affected by the coast-to-coast strike, which began yesterday at 6 a.m. local time. Long-distance calls and manually-operated service were disrupted in some areas. Service between the U.S. and Canada was reported normal.

The strikers picketed exchanges and other telephone buildings in many cities, and thousands of other employees honored the lines. Many supervisory employees took over vacant posts.

DEFENCE LINE CHOSEN

Picton, Nov. 10. (CP)—Defence Counsel R. E. Nourse told the court, Thursday he intends to prove James Fosbrey suffered "an emotional explosion" when his wife was babbled to death last November 28.

The counsel opened the defence's case toward the close of the fourth day in Fosbrey's second trial for murder.

Sentenced to be hanged at his first trial in Napanee, Fosbrey won an appeal and a change of venue to this town, 15 miles southeast of Belleville.

For 2 1-2 hours Thursday Mr. Nourse cross-examined Stanislaw Steinbach who Wednesday testified the friendship between the slain woman and himself had been platonic.

Premier Pulp And Paper Co. Building Plant

Sarnia, Nov. 10—CP—The Sarnia Canadian Observer, which recently quoted a reliable source as stating that a $7,000,000 groundwood and sulphite pulp mill will be built in the Sarnia area, said Thursday that the name of the company is the Premier Pulp and Paper Co., Ltd.

The newspaper said the plant here will be part of a $24,500,000 project which will include a $6,000,000 mill across the St. Clair River at Port Huron, Mich., and that there will be room for doubling plant capacities on both sides of the river.

Source of pulpwood supply would be an 1,800-square-mile area in northern Ontario stretching from Gogama to Peterbell, north of Sudbury, and Capreol. About 95 per cent of the wood would be transported to Sarnia by rail.

The pulp, in slush form, would be pumped through a pipeline to Port Huron where it would be converted into 60,000 tons a year of catalogue and directory paper, in this form it crosses the border duty-free, whereas if finished paper is subject to tax of 15 to 20 per cent.

The newspaper indicated that Premier Pulp and Paper Company would be a subsidiary of United States interests, that New York money is financing the project, and that no public financing is expected for the Canadian company. Backing is said to be American companies, not yet officially formed, may be publically offered.

The project is said to be scheduled to start in March or April, and to employ 350 people in the mill and between 1,500 and 2,000 in the woods.

Premier Pulp and Paper was incorporated in Canada early this year.

One Toronto legal interests, which handled the incorporation said they have not heard of the reported project.

200 TURNED DOWN

London, Ont. (CAP)— British Iain has rejected more than 200 requests by communists and fellow-travellers for visas to attend the World Peace Congress which opens in Sheffield Monday. More than 500 other visa applications have been granted. Qualified informants reported last night that among those who were turned down was Russian writer Ilya Ehrenburg.

DEPOSITS INCREASE

Ottawa, Nov. 9 — (CP)—Dominion government deposits increased by $258,864,000 to $28,227,000 during the week ended Nov. 8, the Bank of Canada reported today in its weekly financial statement.

Chartered bank deposits decreased $50,444,000 to $5,170,2-000, while notes in circulation increased $5,307,000 to $1,328,489,-000.

Changes in Education for Canada Outlined by Policy Director

"Education holds first priority of our times, in our thinking and planning and in our spending. That was the gist of a speech Tuesday night by Miss Blanche Snell, director of the Educational Policies Committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation. Miss Snell addressed members of the Trenton local of the O. S. S. T. F. in the Belleville Collegiate Institute.

Teachers who have spent much of their time on curriculum revision, from Trenton, Belleville, Wellington, Picton and Warkworth heard Miss Snell's address. She dealt with the changes in education in Canada and in other countries, and with the study groups that have been set up in Ontario to deal with curriculum revisions.

Culture Changing

Miss Snell told the teachers that youth is the growing point of society, and that if education cannot prepare each youth properly, then he is a menace to that society. Chief problem to be faced is that our culture is changing with closer contacts within the whole world, industrialization and mass production, especially decrease in the authority of religion, advances in knowledge, increase of unskilled labor and less emphasis on initiative and originality.

Lack of home training was emphasized by Miss Snell. "Until a few decades ago", she said "a firm foundation for the child's education was laid within the family circle."

School Takes Place of Family

"Most fathers and mothers are no longer giving much attention to the education of their children." Thus, the school is now called upon to take the place of the family, she said. The O. S. S. T. F. has set up study groups to answer three questions: what skills for living, youth should get from the school system; what experience for living they should have, and what values for living they should acquire while going through school.

The groups are trying to determine how curricula will make the goal of mature citizenhood easier reached. After the curricula are established, they must be implemented, evaluated, and presented to the public. Your problems in curriculum must be met: how to free secondary education from the rigidity of courses without sacrificing any standards it may have developed, and how to impart a higher social content; how to pattern a timetable and motivate the young people when flexibility becomes the rule, and what preliminary training to give young people who wish to go on to university and higher learning.

Miss Snell went on to illustrate different systems of teaching in New Zealand, Belgium, France, India, and other countries. She said that "secondary education the world over is divided against itself, on the one side those who seek to test and to establish broadened curricula, and new ways of education, and on the other, those who defend the old ways."

Up For Review

"Our educational aims and procedures are up for review", Miss Snell said, "it is not the job of the Ontario so-called progressive teacher, . . . to help direct the change with intelligence and foresight?"

"The end result of the changes must be by way of providing in the school life what the young person needs in order to understand himself, his culture and his world, to cope with life."

An Actuality, Miss Snell told the teachers that "no longer can we trust to a ready - made philosophy and accepted standards of society to bear up our spirits in a world of change, where alertness and flexibility are the criteria for survival."

TWO ELECTROCUTED

Brockville, Nov. 10 — (CP) — Two linemen were electrocuted Thursday when steel guy-wires on a chimney they were dismantling touched a 250-volt hydro line.

Dead are M. J. (Marty) Moirer, 56, and Floyd Easter, Jr., 18, both of Brockville. John Ryan, 24, of Mallorytown, was knocked unconscious by the current but was revived.

The men were holding steel lines attached to a 30-foot metal chimney being torn down by a mobile crane. During dismantling, the chimney broke, throwing the guy wires against the hydro line.

MAYOR RE-ELECTED

Alfred, Ont., Nov. 9—(CP)—J. U. Ledoux, mayor here for nine years, has been re-elected in a by-election The mayor resigned after Mr G. Landriault took action to unseat him on the ground he had sold merchandise to the municipality while mayor. He is a farmer and mechanic. In the by-election, Mr. Ledoux was returned over Mr. Landriault, a garage owner, by a vote of 672 to 468.

Ask For Probe

Sudbury, Nov. 9 — (CP) — A petition signed by more than 100 persons demanding an investigation into the financial affairs of Sudbury will be forwarded to Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar by the end of the week, it was learned today.

Another petition asking for a provincial investigation into the disappearance of $1,198 from the treasurer's department at the city hall six weeks ago contains more than 60 names and will also go to the minister this week.

"All Ottawa members have come here to place the full support of the federal party behind any leader who may be chosen." He added that six members of the federal cabinet are from Ontario "some not cabinet ministers but as Liberals."

Oliver Supports Brown Claim

During the day reports circulated that Ottawa liberals were supporting Mr. Brown. Both Mr. Howe and immigration minister Harris said in newspaper interviews they would vote for the Kitchener man. Each emphasized, however, that the decision was personal, as delegates. These statements, along with the evident strength of the organization, classed Mr. Brown as one of the favorites.

Mr. Thomson, who had visited 60 Ontario constituencies since he announced his candidature last June, obviously had wide support. It showed in the enthusiastic applause which greeted his nomination speech and in his personal contacts with delegates, including members of the cabinet.

The convention waived its rules on procedure at the last minute to let Mr. Cox into the race. His nomination papers were filed before the 2 p. m. deadline. A young liberal, William Maloney of Fort William, appealed on behalf of the veteran lakehead political figure. The delegates agreed. Then there was a delay of about a half an hour while the returning officer — Harry Johnson, first secretary of the Ontario Liberal Association—checked the papers which required the signatures of 20 accredited delegates.

During the check, there were reports of difficulties. One delegate rose to say that the papers were questioned because two of the signatures were from young liberal delegates. Mel Carnell of Hamilton came to the platform to move that the convention back up Mr. Johnson in any decision he made. The motion was not put, for almost immediately a word came that the papers had been approved.

Ready With Reports

The leadership nominations highlighted a busy 4½ hour afternoon session at which the convention also elected president Norman L. Mathews and treasurer William A. Bennette, both of Toronto and dealt with reports of committees.

The resolutions committee, headed by Harold Minden of Hamilton, reported some resolutions when ran into strong opposition. One calling for legislation of sweepstakes in the province to finance hospitals and similar projects was defeated soundly. One delegate, George Gordon of Brantford said he was in Dublin at the time of the draw in a recent Irish sweepstakes and that less than one-fifth of the 10 shillings for each ticket went to hospitals.

There was debate over another resolution which called on the next Liberal government of Ontario to improve two highways—No. 11 and No. 101—north from North Bay. Delegates from other areas objected, saying their roads needed improvement today. As a result, the convention followed a suggestion of James B. McLaren of Brockville and approved an amendment urging improvement in all provincial roads with special attention to northern Ontario.

There was unanimous approval of a resolution condemning recent highway act amendments banning signs and standing right-of-way vegetables along certain highways. The regulation had been applied to the Queen Elizabeth Way in the Niagara district. The resolution urged an impartial study to consider all the criminal decisions under the act; compensation for persons affected; and safeguards to protect property and other rights of citizens.

Runs Into Opposition

A proposal to divest the Ontario Municipal Board of its powers over municipal finance ran into opposition and was defeated. But another plan for the continuing committee of the Ontario Liberal Association to study municipal matters was adopted.

The convention endorsed a resolution that women be permitted to serve on juries in Ontario in spite of opposition of a Sudbury lawyer, Le. Landreville. It also approved abolition of Ontario's three-percent amusement tax, voted loyalty to Prime Minister St. Laurent and thanks for their hard work to former leader Oliver and secretary W. G. Hale.

Mr. Howe devoted his entire banquet speech to leadership matters, offering advice to the convention and to the future Ontario leader from the career of the late W. L. Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister of Canada.

Trained in the science of government, Mr. King met the best men available for cabinet posts, said Mr. Howe. He laid strong emphasis on party organization in individual constituencies, and believed it with a small staff in the office of the National Liberal Federation. He sponsored labor and social security legislation. He was at his best in parliament, partly because of his expert knowledge of procedure.

Other banquet speakers were Senator J. Gordon Fogo, who brought greetings from the National Federation; Mrs. Cecile O'Regan of Ottawa for the National Federation of Liberal Women of Canada; Mrs. M. J. Pospore of Skead, Ont., for the Ontario Women's Liberal Association; and Senator McCullough of Kitchener for the Ontario Young Liberal Association.

Each Given 10 Minutes

The leadership candidates had 10 minutes each to address the convention at the afternoon session, the order determined by lot. Here is the gist of what each said:

Mr. Hicks: Advocated reform in the municipal tax structure to encourage thrift and prosperity; coming; more money for education rather than material things; control and decency as the rule in liquor administration.

Mr. Thomson: Emphasized organization, mentioning that the party lost 32 seats in the last provincial election by less than 1,000 votes. He estimated that a 10-percent gain in the vote would win all 32 which, with the seats they now hold, would give them virtual control of the 90-seat Legislature.

Mr. Brown: Urged an overhaul of provincial liquor administration and law enforcement, need for which was indicated in the Windsor police probe. He advocated scrutiny of expenditure by the present Progressive Conservative government on hydro and highways.

Mr. Calder (at 40 the youngest man in the field): Urged the convention not to follow the principle of gambling everything on the next election, but to select a young man and stick with him through the years.

Mr. Sullivan: Suggested the Liberal party belonged "a little to the left of centre" and saw signs at the convention of a terrific upsurge of new ideas and force.

Dr. Cassidy: Proposed a five-point program calling for reassertion of human values; adoption of a practical policy firmly based on democratic principles; improvement in the quality of provincial government through an improved civil service; mobilization of youth, women and "silent Liberals"; team work in the party.

Program of Conservation

Mr. Cox: Stood for a program of Conservation of Northern Ontario's natural resources, charging that the present policy of permitting raw pulpwood export to the United States was stripping accessible forest land in northeastern Ontario.

Mr. Hipel: Reviewed his political career and his record as Speaker, Minister of Labor and Minister of Lands and Forests in the Liberal government from 1934 to 1943. He took issue with a statement by Premier Frost that the present government brought about rejuvenation of ghost towns in northern Ontario, recalling negotiations by W.L. Miller, Bruce Mines and himself for pulp-mill projects to be started after the war.

Delegates got their first look at the new policy yesterday. It was contained in printed booklets which they where handed with the admonition to study the contents overnight to be ready for today's discussion.

The 3,000 word statement laid much emphasis of economy, particularly in the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. It urged an immediate halt to all unnecessary and extravagant expenditure in Hydro and scrutiny of previous spending. It also proposed that Ontario negotiate an agreement to turn over tax fields to the Federal government as has been done by all provinces except Ontario and Quebec. It advocated more teaching of French in Ontario schools and lowering of the provincial voting age from 21 to 19.

Two resolutions were voted on and approved and will be forwarded to the Provincial Board. They read as follows:

Whereas, there has been noted of late years that certain elements of our Canadian population wish to have adoption of a purely Canadian flag for the Dominion of the Union Jack; and

Whereas, the Branch of the Women's Institute of the district of East Hastings has voted unanimously that the Union Jack should form the most prominent basis of our National Flag;

Therefore, be it resolved, that this Melrose Women's Institute go on record as opposing any drastic change of design and a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Parliament at Ottawa through our local representative.

Whereas, Daylight Saving Time has proven very confusing in the summer months, since children and children are hardly able to make the change in time because at this time of year the hours of daylight vitality are lowest of the year; and

Whereas, railways and certain rural districts remain on Standard Time,

Therefore be it resolved, that we protest the present Daylight Saving Time and ask that Standard Time be established the year round.

Speaks on Hospitalization

Mrs. Holman spoke on co-operative hospitalization. This health service and its benefits are given at cost. It is a group organized to serve a group of women with a clearly-defined membership.

Mrs. Hugh Weese, Carrying Place, presented the topic of Citizenship and Education. These two go hand in hand all through life, both starting very early. Character must be planted in the homes to blossom in the nations. Roll Calls included Characteristics of a good citizen; Why I like to live in Canada; educational radio program; and one way in which I can serve my country. A discussion followed on these. How to help new Canadians become good citizens; speakers on juvenile delinquency; and interest in school affairs and our duty to our youth as citizens. Mrs. Vella-vick spoke of his native country of Czechoslovakia and conditions under Communist rule. A paper and was staged depicting immigration to Canada, of nine different nations. Representative of each nation wore the native costume, and entered carrying her country's flag to the strains of her respective national anthem and gave an information talk on some particular contribution to Canada.

Urged To Use Franchise

Education in music has played an important part at meetings, and social functions of Institutes—and vocal. Mrs. Weese suggested that more interest should be taken in learning about and voting for the form of government. Full use should be made of the franchise. One branch, Roll Call was to be present who used their franchise at the last election and who could not voted. Local schools should be visited and support given to lady members of school boards. With the world growing smaller it is necessary to keep informed on national and international affairs. For Women's Institutes there will always be new visions and new ventures.

In commenting on this report, Mrs. J. Black said that the Institutes were one of the most important [illegible] we have to deal with [illegible] Canadian life and [illegible]. Some of their ideas we do not agree with. It is our duty to give them a good example by make them good Canadians. We must be true citizens and set forth every effort not to fall the newcomers, and we must study our duties.

Miss Audra Brickman presided over the Thursday afternoon session of the convention.

Reports Submitted

Presenting the report on activities and public relations, which includes publicity, Mrs. E. B. Finkle, Halloway, stressed that this means a reaching out in wider fields of service, co-operating with other service clubs for the good of the community and humanity. Some of the activities were catering to the Junior Farmer Hockey Club, so that the young farmers may know that they are appreciated and will receive the community wants to keep them; serving lunches at the Drainage Day demonstration, and at basketball games; Valentine supper and Hallowe'en program; an auction sale; and serving meals at cattle sale at Stirling.

The money made was used to buy cups, chairs and silverware for community centres; donation for widowed mother and children; shower of cards for the sick and first aid kits for school and library; help to burned out family; curtains for stage and hall painted; prizes donated to local schools.

Roll calls took as their subjects name your problem or blessing; what our community needs most; how we how to make others happy.

In the field of public relations papers were given on old age pensions, the baby bonus, national health program, the life of Claire Wallace, occupational therapy as it is used in the Horse for the Aged showing how the trained therapist stimulates interest, initiates activity, develops talents, builds self-assurance as the individual for his place. Handicrafts such as knitting, tatting, crocheting, needlework, time and the benefits of occupational therapy mean improved morale and cheerfulness.

How to Publicize

Publicity is taken care of by reports in the local papers and the radio; wearing of institute pins; and conference with local institutes of other lands. Most institutes co-operate by giving funds to the Salvation Army, Navy League, Hospital for Sick Children, Institute for the Blind, March of Dimes, sending parcels through CARE, and Cancer Fund. It was suggested that the institutes work with the Farm Forum and co-operatives.

Mrs. Gardner Welsh contributed two songs, "Little Irish Girl" and "Lassie Mine."

Mrs. W. J. Tufts, courtesy convener, voiced the thanks of the delegates to the Board of Education for the use of the Collegiate. Mrs. words of welcome from Mayor Allin; the ladies of Carmel who supplied the flowers; those who contributed to the musical part of the program; the executive and Mrs. J. Black who carried out the program; the reception committee; Miss Elsie Irvine and Miss Glass for the use of work; Mrs. Futcher who shared her trip aboard through the local paper and her talk to the convention; Miss Lewis, who showed her trip through pictures; Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow who spoke on her trip abroad; and to the area chairman and her secretary.

Describes Experiences

Speaking in a most interesting manner, Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow described her experiences as a fellow traveller with the delegates to the Copenhagen conference. Several interesting pictures were shown along on the trip at their own expense.

After leaving Copenhagen three itineraries were followed, the travellers taking the one of their choice. Since Mrs. Goodfellow took a different route from Mrs. Futcher and Miss Irvine her experiences were fresh and new. The speaker was impressed with the co-operatives in Holland and some of the Scandinavian countries, and believed this to be the answer to the problem of farm economics in this country. They made a tour of the co-operative farms where nearly everything is done from dairying to the slaughtering, the curing of hams, and everything finished to the advantage of the farmer.

Reviewing the highlights of the trip, Mrs. Goodfellow spoke of the banquet in Norway when the guests all joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne" each in his native tongue, and again at church when they sang "Holy, Holy, Holy" in their own languages. The biggest difficulty was with money and languages. It was hard to judge how much money was needed in each country for their stay, and they could not take it out of the country for it was worthless except in the place from which it came. They tried to learn a few simple words in each country such as "thank you" and "good-day". They were advised before the trip what clothes they should take and these included two suits, a raincoat and comfortable shoes, rain gear and they needed. Nylon blouses and underthings proved a blessing as they could be washed and dried on clothes hangers and be ready for wear the next morning. The women of the party were the worst of the time, and they often came in with their shoes soaking and their shoulders wet, and it was difficult to get them dry.

Sr.-gt New Hats

Before the trip was over they got tired of the sight of each other's hats, seen on the bus, at meetings, at banquets, and in fact where, so each decided to get a new hat when they got to Paris. Mrs. Goodfellow concluded by consider that the Paris hats were any smarter than our Canadian millinery have.

Kleenex could not be purchased, only paper napkins were to be seen. Goods are sold for export and not for home consumption, and even after all this time we have no ides in Canada how much we people still lack, and Canadians do not appreciate all the blessings we have. Parcels are going to send parcels back to their hostesses overseas, for these people have given the best they had to their guests. Some of them had not seen oranges in years, and one woman was given an orange ate it with tears streaming down her face.

After the conference the travellers were taken on a two-day tour by bus through Denmark. Here Mrs. Godfellow remarked that our system of farming is far inferior in methods of co-operatives, modern barns, dairies, and farming compared to those she saw.

Travelling through Germany was a most interesting experience. Four times in one night on the train they were awakened and have their passports examined. There is such a sombreness about the German people. Every time the train the country appeared to be in devastation. It was an unpleasant part of their journey and they were glad to get out. In Holland they did not see a weed. Farming is so intensified that nothing is wasted. A family can make a living on two or three acres. Reforestation is important in all these countries. Not a tree is cut another is planted at once. Barns are perfectly clean in Holland, as clean as most homes.

Lovely Parks

Brussels in Belgium is so short of rooms that only one is allowed for each person. A family of five is allowed five rooms, but a single person can have only one. There are lovely parks and buildings here, and the city is rather like Quebec city with an upper and lower town. The group visited the lace and hand-making of lace. It would have to be expensive to pay for the hours of work and the care that goes into it.

Everything is very expensive in Paris, and one has to tip for everything. Meals are not a la carte usher show you down the aisle at the theatre. Everything is commercialized. From Paris the visitors went taken to Versailles. Mrs. Goodfellow described the home of Napoleon and Josephine as considered the best in the world. The formal gardens were beyond description, and the originals of some of the world's greatest masterpieces in art are there, as well as solid gold plates used by the Emperor, and many other treasures.

Mustard Main Crop

It is easy to see why France is a country of unrest as they drives through the countryside. Most farms are without electric or telephones and are very poor, while in contrast to this are the big estates of the wealthy owners, whose work is done by peasants. Mustard is one of their main crops.

Anticipating the sight of the cliffs of Dover, Mrs. Goodfellow was disappointed when she saw them. There was nothing of devastation in Dover, and there were knocked out whole areas of buildings.

In London, Ontario House provided cars to take the visitors on a sight-seeing trip. They saw Windsor Castle and at Windsor of the guards, which was a most impressive sight. They visited Oxford college and at Westminster Abbey they felt a great reverence and saw to see the tide of so many impressive ceremonies. Historical significance, No. 10 Downing Street which will be a plain, unimpressive building, but to Charles Dickens' Shop, the scene of Dickens novel was also interesting. Trafalgar Square they went into St. Martin's-in-the-Field, that historic church whose doors are never closed.

Mrs. Goodfellow returned by air, and recommended it as the best way to travel. The whole trip took only twenty-four hours with the stops they made. The best part of the trip was to be back on Canadian soil and to be met at Malton airport by her husband and family.

Officers Elected

Mrs. J. Black, presided over the election of officers, and the installation was carried out by Mrs. R. Badgley. The following slate was brought in and will comprise the executive for the next year.

Honorary Chairman, Mrs. Roy Badgley, Shannonville; Chairman, Mrs. K. CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Whipper Billy Watson, British Empire heavyweight wrestling champion stepped out of character here Wednesday night. The Whip, immaculately dressed would have sent a ladies' college student lady, with the faculty found in, into spasms of delight with not only his tonsorial perfection but an out-of-the-ring personality that won the hearts of over 100 young boys and their poppas.

The "Whip" was the guest speaker, as you know, at the father-and-son banquet held by Eureka Lodge 283 AF and AM. Prior to his address, the handsome 235-pounder moved among the youngsters and their dads and in less than five minutes he had won them completely with his warm friendly attitude. He can now add another 250 to his already large following in this city.

As an after-dinner speaker, the Whip is no Winston Churchill. But he talks easily, and to the point. Sincerity fairly oozes from his every word and he used a simple yet forceful technique that can be understood by everybody. As he outlined his "Safety Club" rules, illustrating them with to-the-point stories, his youthful audience sat mouse-quiet. Every time he hit a point he made it clear they didn't learn something about safety — and that goes for the Pops, too — it was not the Whip's fault.

He pointed out the dangers of hazards of this age, and stressed simple rules of avoidance. He gave the youngsters a homely, simple talk of what life has in store for them and also how to become good Canadians and citizens. He was appreciative, too, of the "fine reception" accorded him here. After being presented with a gold-plated key to the city by His Honor Mayor Jack Allin who relayed it from the boys present, he said: "In all my visits to various parts of the country, I have never received such a warm friendly reception. I shall always treasure this gift for it will remind me of the grand city of Belleville, and the fine people who live in it." And the Whipper wasn't "kidding".

TOP-DOGS!

If you see a stranger striding down the main stem, nose slightly uptilted, chest out, shoulders thrown well back, eyes well to the front, one will get you five he is a Peterborough hockey fan. Or he could be a member of the gridiron cult that follows faithfully the pigskin pyrotechnics of Bev. Goulding's knowledge knibblers of dear old P. C. I. And we don't mean Picton, buh.

The Eagles and Petes hockey seniors are behanding it at the top of the group standing with the Birds breathing down the Petes cervicals, and the second place Kingston Nylons so far below it would take a harpoon gun to reach 'em. In fourth slot are the noble Redmen of the village with two defeats while the Tricolor of Queen's Combines is flounderin' in the cellar slot with three setbacks. The Petes, leading with four straight victories are on the top perch and should increase their margin tonight at the expense of the college crew and their helpers. But Monday night should see one of these haughty topdidders take the drop of downfall, unless the ill sands in a draw. Eagles and Petes clash in their first joust of the season, official, that is, and it should be quite a fray.

Coach Gobell's Redmen have a lay - off before they tackle Queen's in Kingston, and they're going to make the most of it. Gobell intends to put the squad through some gruelling sessions bbetween now and next game-time in a mighty effort to whip them into shape, get their shooting eyes blizzard and their plays working in some sort of ship - shape. It is not a rose-covered trail in this senior race as previous games have proved, and the Redskirts will need to get into condition and perfect their combinations if they are to go places. However, they will drill and drill hard between now and Wednesday and that should do them a lot of good.

Meanwhile Smiley Meronek's junior "B" Rockets are also ripping up and down the ice rounding into shape for the all-important opener with the Peterborough I.O.O.F.'s on Nov. 15. There isn't much news emanating from the Rockets camp, but the squad is being put through some stiff paces just in case that victory bug that has infiltrated the veins of the Petes and Eagles takes a vacation and yearns for junior "B" corpuscles.

GIVE 'EM A HAND — OR A SWEATER

Belleville's hockey orphans held an enthusiastic meeting in the YMCA last night albeit war-marked by the absence of potential sponsors and gentlemen with hands proffering the coin of the realm. However, that fact did not daunt the hockey-hungry lads and if present plans materialize, this city should be represented by a sturdy capable squad by the time the Trent Valley Hockey League bugles blow the "fall in".

The boys decided to name the squad the "Belleville Merchants" and will depend on the generosity of merchants of the city for their sweaters. A canvas of the business men will begin on Monday. Each merchant will be asked to donate the cost of a sweater, which isn't very much, and the garments will bear the donor's name.

According to the list of potential players, this Belleville team should rank with the best the TVL can produce. There are such names as Maurice Lefort, Harry Wardhaugh, Don Adams, Huck Reeves, Perky York, Earl Cwsaha, Jerry Mohrr, Jud Semark, Don Semark and others with the possibility of Al. and Bernie Meagher joining the ranks.

The boys anticipate a couple of exhibition games possibly with Cobourg and another team or two and will try to get in a practice or so at Memorial Arena before the TV opens sometime in January.

Dauthuille Strong Favorite to Whip Paddy Young

New York Nov. 10 — (CP) — Laurent Dauthuille, the capable Frenchman who missed winning the world middleweight boxing title by 13 seconds, is a strong favorite to whip tough Paddy Young tonight in a Madison Square Garden 10-rounder.

Slight unease, the odds-makers have set up Dauthuille a 1 to 2 favorite over the game youngster from New York's Greenwich Village. This is Dauthuille's New York and television debut after a series of winning efforts at Montreal, where he has fought out of for two years.

Detroit knows all about the blond Frenchman. It was in the Olympia that Dauthuille almost lifted Jake LaMotta's middleweight crown Sept. 13. Leading on the cards of all three officials Dauthuille was knocked out with only 13 seconds to go in the 15th round.

The Frenchman can fight — more than a little bit. He moves fast and punches hard with his right.

Nobody ever called Paddy anything but a fighter. He wades in, ranking his foe with his powerful left hook, forcing an opening. It shapes up as a good match that can't fail to produce action.

Each has fought 47 times as a professional. Young has won 41, lost four and fought two draws. Dauthuille has won 35, lost nine and had three draws. Young's knockout average is a little better, too, he has flattened 21 men to 19 for the Frenchman.

The look-alikes have similar records in another respect. Each has been stopped once— Dauthuille by LaMotta and Young by Tuzo Portuguez, Jan. 13, on a cut eye. Paddy came back to whip Portuguez in a return bout a month later. Dauthuille never stopped Portuguez.

Prospects of the winner are vague. Dauthuille has in mind a return with LaMotta, perhaps over the weight. Paddy, awaiting his army call after passing his physical, would welcome Rocky Graziano.

Senior Football Moving Toward Grey Cup Finals

(By The Canadian Press)

Senior football this weekend will make yards in cutting down preliminaries leading to the climactic Grey Cup final.

In the west, a champion may be declared after Saturday's game at Winnipeg; in the east, the Ontario union title is at stake and the first game of the big four playoffs is scheduled.

Coach Annis Stukus wound up training at Edmonton yesterday, packed his Eskimos aboard a train and hoped the Winnipeg weather man was off in his prediction of freezing temperatures and 35 mile-an-hour winds for the game.

Eskimos, by virtue of a 17-16 victory over Blue Bombers last Saturday, can win the best-of-three western football title with another triumph.

Bombers coach Art Larson was a little pessimistic last night. He worried the bombers only briefly because of cold weather and icy winds. Checker Buddy Tinsley and Glen Johnson both aggravated previous injuries, and outside Ed Henke has them all. All three are expected to play Saturday, however.

If Bombers, who finished the regular schedule atop the league, win tomorrow, the deciding game will be played Monday afternoon in Winnipeg.

Elimination also faces Sarnia Imperials. They must overcome a six-point deficit or the O.R.F.U. title goes to Toronto Balmy Beach. The Beaches won 17-11 last Sunday.

The other half of the eastern final gets in the first kicks at Hamilton tomorrow, where Toronto Argonauts meet the Tiger-Cats in the first game of a two-game total point series for the big four championship.

Victors in the big four and O.R.F.U. playoffs then meet for the eastern Canada crown, the winner meeting either Winnipeg or Edmonton.

Interollegiate football in eastern Canada winds up its regular schedule tomorrow with the league-leading McGill Redmen travelling to London for a contest with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs; Queen's University Golden Gaels take on Varsity in Toronto.

Frankie Almond Wins Decision Over Mitchell

Vancouver, Nov. 10 —(CP) — Frankie Almond, Canadian featherweight boxing champion, punched out a unanimous 10-round decision over Toronto's Davey Mitchell before a capacity crowd of close to 3,000 here last night. Almond weighed 127 1-4; ed. Mitchell 128 1-2.

In a six-round preliminary, Wally McLeod, 182, of Vancouver, won a unanimous decision over Cecil Carter of London, Ont., weighing 188 1-2.

Almond's title was not at stake. Mitchell, never knocked out in 34 pro fights, managed the distance against Almond but he was always in trouble, particularly in the third, eighth and ninth rounds. His nose was gushing blood when the bout ended.

Almond was virtually unmark-

Much-Travelled Pete Babando Gaining Prominence as Payoff Man for National Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Pete Babando might not be a prolific goal-getter, but his stock is rising as a much-travelled hockey player who delivers in the pinches.

The 25-year-old left-winger, who in three National Hockey League seasons has played for as many teams, boosted Chicago Black Hawks into third place last night with the pay-off goal in the Hawks' 2-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Babando, who was born in Braeburn, Pa., but grew up and learned his hockey at South Porcupine, Ont., scored the goal that won the Stanley Cup for Detroit against New York Rangers in the deciding game of last season's finals.

He donned Chicago livery this season following Detroit's mass summer trade. He is property of the N. H. L. with Boston Bruins in the 1947-48 season.

Both Canadiens, who skidded into fourth place, and the Hawks played cautiously in two scoreless periods before 9,186 Chicago fans. Little Norman Dussault shot the habitants ahead after 31 seconds of the third period. They kept the lead until veteran Doug Bentley got the equalizer midway through the period on a pass from defenceman Bill Gadsby.

Babando's tally came with less than two minutes to go.

The victory lifted Chicago, who have 12 points, to within one point of the second-place Detroit Canadiens have 16 points.

No other games were scheduled last night.

In New York yesterday, coach Neil Colville hinted strongly that there'll be changes made in the lineup of his lethargic Rangers, now buried in fifth place with only one victory and five ties in 12 starts. They have seven points —one more than the equally-luckless Bruins.

Meanwhile Ranger manager Frank Boucher, whose annual predictions are expected all around the circuit, said the leading Toronto Maple Leafs are easily the league's best club.

In a pre-season forecast, he picked Chicago and Rangers to finish one-two, with the Leafs third. Now, Boucher says, if he could change his predictions, he'd call Toronto to finish first, Detroit next and Chicago third.

Canadian Hockey Belittled by Scathing Articles

London, Nov. 10 (CP) — Canadian hockey took a verbal pokecheck Thursday in a British sports writer's column, and one long-suffering defender came back swinging.

Bobby Giddens of Ottawa, who has been boosting hockey in Britain for 13 years, laid he has sent a telegram to the newspaper's publisher, asking him bluntly whether the blast on hockey represents his views on the sport.

The belittling reference appeared in Thursday's Daily Express under the byline of Peter Wilson, one of Britain's best-known sports writers. Right in the first sentence, Wilson said hockey as the "most outlandish of all sports foisted on a long-suffering public."

Wilson went on to say that a lot of Canadians who can't make the grade with hockey sticks are becoming chorus boys in London ice shows.

"Chorus boys, indeed," snifted Giddens. "I say flatly there isn't one first-class Canadian player in British ice pantomimes today."

Giddens edits a weekly British publication, The Ice Hockey World which has been in business since 1935. This week's issue will contain some unkind words about Wilson.

Meanwhile, Giddens is holding his front page open for a reply to a trans-Atlantic cablegram he sent Thursday to Lord Beaverbrook, publisher of The Daily Express, who now is in Canada.

In his cable Giddens quoted Wilson's remarks and asked whether Lord Beaverbrook, as a publisher and a Canadian, would stand behind them.

"I am getting tired of this British campaign against Canadian hockey," Giddens said in an interview. "We're always getting kicks in the teeth—It's too rough or too polite, it's too polite, it's too fast or too slow, I think it's about time somebody stood up for it."

Colleges Blamed For Shortage of Baseball Talent

(By The Canadian Press)

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, blames college football as being partly responsible for a shortage of young baseball talent.

It's a novel approach. For years, the colleges have been charging pro baseball with luring away youngsters from schools of higher learning with fat bonuses.

It's my firm conviction that the colleges are robbing us of the cream of our talent. While we are sitting around with our hands tied due to the high school rule which prevents us from negotiating with kids until they have been graduated. The colleges are going around selling them a bill of goods, promising them scholarships and a college education.

"Now they'll tell you that the ones the colleges want are football players. That's true enough, but among those thousands of football players are a lot of good ball players."

A right-winger suffered a fractured collarbone and a goalie got a misconduct penalty last night as Sidney Millionaires defeated North Sydney Victorias 6-2 in a Cape Breton Senior Hockey League game.

Charlie Fox of North Sydney broke his collarbone when he collided with Bob Downes of Millionaires. Nick Pidsodny, Millionaire goalie, was given the misconduct sentence for taking a swipe at defenceman Alex Barnes and arguing with officials. His penalty was served by a team-mate.

Nine Cleveland players were fined $25 for a free-for-all brawl in the American Hockey League last night with Cincinnati Mohawks Oct. 28.

The fines were levied by Maurice Podoloff, league president. Cincinnati players also will be fined.

"We do not want brawls and gang fights in hockey and fines will be imposed until players learn that potential Dempseys had better transfer their activities to the ring," Podoloff told Baron general manager Jim Hendy.

Hendy protested that Mohawk players were first to leave the bench and join the battle. He also said only four Cleveland players left the bench without authority. They were Sam Lavitt, Glen Sonmor, Walter Hergesheimer and Fred Thurier. The other five players fined—Ry Bulley, Tom Williams, Austin McKay, Ray Ceresino and Steve Wochy—were merely entering the game as substitutes, Hendy contended.

Army nosed out Ohio State to recapture the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press weekly college football poll.

Southern Methodist, leading the last two weeks, tumbled to seventh place with only two votes among 318 cast.

Sports editor Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette said in his column today that there is a report that Frank Filchock is being paid $2,500 for playing three games in the professional National Football League.

Filchock, star quarterback and captain of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four, was signed Wednesday to play the rest of the season with Baltimore Colts of the N.F.L.

Tommy Henrich, veteran New York Yankee infielder-outfielder, has turned down an offer to manage a Texas farm club for one more whirl in the big leagues.

The Yankees said "old reliable" made the decision after he returned from a visit to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore Wednesday.

The 34-year-old Henrich had his bad left knee examined and X-rayed by Dr. George Bennett. The Yankees said Dr. Bennett told Henrich that an operation might not restore the knee to full usefulness and Tommy decided not to take a chance.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Maurice Richard of Montreal had a chance for a tie or to take over leadership of the National Hockey League's individual scoring race Thursday night, but the Rocket went pointless as Chicago shaded Canadiens 2-1.

Consequently, Max Bentley of Toronto remains atop the league with 15 points—four goals and 11 assists. Richard is in a second-place tie with Ted Kennedy of Toronto with 13 points.

Capitals Seem To Like Sugar James Henry

(By The Canadian Press)

Indianapolis Capitals seem to like Sugar Jim Henry.

For a while this season the Caps couldn't do anything right —and went down to nine American Hockey League defeats in 11 starts. Then they brought up the former National League star from Omaha Knights of the United States League. In his first appearance, the Caps beat Cincinnati Mohawks 5-3.

Last night, the Caps stopped Buffalo Bisons 3-2. In the only other game played, St. Louis Flyers managed a 5-4 victory over New Haven Eagles.

Indianapolis, down in the cellar of the AHL's eastern division had no trouble in defeating the powerful Cincinnati team Wednesday and last night beat the Eastern Division leaders.

Johnny Wilson, Gerry Reid and Enio Sclizzi scored the Indianapolis goals. Ab Demarco—once a teammate of Henry's on New York Rangers—fired the two Buffalo goals. He is leading point getter in the league.

St. Louis, in third place in the Western Division had trouble with the Eagles, who occupy the Eastern Division's cellar. Paul Gladu fired the winner for the Flyers with less than four minutes to go.

Jean Paul Lamirande scored twice for the Flyers in the first period, Clade, Cliff Simpson and Gordy Pearson got the others. Centre Wally Stefanow got two for the Eagles while Barry Sullivan and Joe Krahulec got counted three and four.

It was learned earlier yesterday that defenceman Joe Conn of the Eagles will be out indefinitely with a wrenched knee and a spinal ailment. He will undergo an operation for the back trouble.

Electrics, CNR Tied For Lead In Major "A"

CNR's 5-2 victory over Lawn Bowlers and Northern Electric's defeat by the same score at the hands of Callaghan's Ice caused a two-way tie in the Major "A" Bowling League standing after last night's session at the Bowl-O-Drome.

Tobe's County Gardens hit an alley jackpot scoring a 7-0 win over Esquire for Men to gain second slot, one point behind the leaders. Tied with Tobe's Gardens is Callaghan's Ice while Moore's Chislers are in third place five points behind the second spot occupants. Belleville Golf, Esquire and Lawn Bowlers follow in the order named.

Callaghan's Ice topped the team scoring with a neat 3,427 with Chislers rolling a 3,320 and CNR's a 3263. Electrics came through with a 3,124.

Bob Bagshaw was high individual scorer with a triple of 810 (223-276-313). Other scorers were J. McKenzie, 772; J. Legault 744; Mark Storms, 748; W. Moore, 734; M. Callaghan, 705; J. Jake Gaudaur Considers Offer From Australia

Hamilton, Nov. 9—(CP)—Jake Gaudaur, mgr. for the Hamilton Tiger-Cat football club and an accomplished caraman, is considering an offer to row in Australia next spring for the world's championship.

He said last night he was approached by former world's champion Bob Pearce of Hamilton, who had received the original invitation from Hubert Opperman, sports convenor for Australia's jubilee council. If Gaudaur accepts, he will meet Evans Paddon of Australia, who now holds the world's title.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Look me straight in the face. Now ask me if I believe there is any Horse Sense rule that re-fuses an exception. The answer is no. Not any exception that would pay in the long run.

Sure you can pick out a hand that would turn out better with an exception. But for every such I can show you a billion that would not. At such odds I will spot you the one.

Three teachers of my system in various parts of the country have just sent me the same question. Their example did not contain the same cards. But the distribution was similar in each.

Typical is the north hand shown here:

♠K J 5 2.
♥9 8 7 5 4 3

Here is a hand with four tricks and two biddable suits, they point out. What if south opens with a bid of one no-trump, they ask.

My book says not to make a re-sponding bid without two high cards. Therefore, according to rule, this hand should first pass. Experts in their vicinity point this out as a fallacy.

Nevertheless, such a hand should pass whether or not east makes a bid. If everybody passes, so what. One no-trump will prob-ably make. If not, opponent could have made more by bidding.

The only danger is that east may double. If south and west pass the double it becomes a penalty double. But in that case, north has another chance to bid. He can then back in with two hearts.

An immediate responding pass does not mean the hand is void of values. It simply denies some basic quality for a true bid. A later back-in bid, if necessary, does not foul partner.

Most players fear the result of one hand. Better is it to keep partner in full confidence with every hand. Even if one hand loses thereby, he willing to lose if for the gains in all others.

Smaller losses and greater gains brings you pleasure and lesser pains.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 10 (AP) — In Nevada, where gambling is as legal as driving a car, the op-erators like to call it "entertain-ment."

That's one of the things I dis-covered while investigating the amazing boom town of Las Ve-gas. I came up here with Edmond O'Brien and the latter of his 'John-ny Dollar' air show. While they sought sound effects and back-ground information in one of the casinos, I'did some sleuthing for myself.

We don't publicize the gam-bling," said Abe Schiller, press agent for the Hollywood - flavored flamingo. "Everybody knows it's here, so we don't play it up. We consider it another entertain-ment, along with the swimming, tennis, skiing, boating on Lake Mead and our night club shows."

Slot Machines

Ben Goffstein, assistant to the Flamingo's president, said slot ma-chines are not a big profit for the hotels, where there are outdoor diversions in the daytime. They are more profitable in the down-town casinos, which attract peo-ple around the clock for the sole purpose of gambling.

Biggest moneymaker in the Ca-sino is the dice table, he said. The galloping bones somehow appeal to the American temperament more than any other form of gaming.

No Profit

Although the hotel part of the enterprise now makes a profit, the restaurant does not. Nor does the night club, which runs a bill of $10,000 to $12,000 weekly for such entertainers as the Ritz Brothers, Spike Jones, Lena Horne and Frankie Laine. But the food and shows pay off by helping to lure customers to the gaming tables.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Nov. 10 — (AP) — The suggestion has been made in various quarters that someone in authority should "order" the Army football team to meet Ohio State, Oklahoma or some other mighty rival in the "President's Cup" or other post-season game . . . Before anyone takes that too seriously, we'd like to point out that Army football players, like all other cadets, have to spend the first three weeks of December passing a difficult series of ex-aminations . . . and there are a few matters of pride and penalty-ty elsewhere that they may be looking after for a year or so . . . Things are tough - every-where item: Larry Atkins, the Cleveland matchmaker, has been around town a couple of weeks with $60,000 in guarantees of the Cleveland-News Christmas Fund Boxing Show and still hasn't got the main bout set . . . The "Sug-ar Bowl" football idea has spread from Ohio U. to Syracuse, where the co-eds plan a charity game Nov.17 . . . We say the gals oughta stick to the mixing bowl-and frying pan.

No Free

After some 30 years of opera-tion, the National Hockey League finally has undertaken a program to develop competent officials. And Chief Referee Carl Voss points out that none of the five full-time men on this season's staff are former professional play-ers . . .

The Prints-ipie Subject

A couple of sports writers re-cently tried to convince Navy's grid coach Eddie Erdelatz that the Academy's high scholastic stand-ards were responsible for most of his troubles . . . "You require your boys to take physics, chem-istry, trigonometry, etc. How can you expect to get those big, rough mountain boys?" one asked logi-cally . . . "Take your own case, Eddie. What did you take at St. Mary's?" . . . Eddie replied: "I took the morning paper."

FRANKFORD

Governor's Night Observed by Frankford Lions

Frankford—Wednesday was a memorable night in the history of the Frankford Lions Club, as they observed Governor's Night. Near-ly 150 Lions from Trenton, Bright-on and Frankford gathered in the Community Hall, where a bounteous turkey supper was served by the capable hands of the Trent Lock Dairy Bar.

Following the reception of mem-bers by Clubs, president Art Duncan of the Frankford Club, presented the trophy won by Lion Al Warren for the best bulletin for clubs in towns under 8,000. Lion Al accepted the trophy, and expressed his appreciation for the co-operation he had received from the Club.

A singsong was greatly enjoyed led by Lion Tamer Bert Carter. As usual, the Tail Twister, Lion Wilmott Rose was on the job, levying a small fine on members guilty of some infraction of the law. (No one knows what law the tail twister goes by, but if a Lion breathes at a meeting, Lion Wilmott can quote a law against it.)

Progressive Auction

Something new was tried out, and it proved most successful. A progressive auction was held for a booster prize, which turned out to be a fine wrist watch. This was won by Lion Marc Scanlon, of the Brighton Club.

Deputy District Governor, Bob Smith, was then called upon to in-troduce the guest speaker, "Al" Cadman, district governor, who acknowledged the fine introduction, and brought the Lions a fine message, well spiced with hub-humor and serious thoughts. His theme was, "the comparison of Democracy, with its privileges and freedom to communism with its restrictions," mushroomed as it were, while democracy is based on centuries of trial and ex-perience.

On completion of his address, Lion Alf was warmly applauded. Lion Padre Macintyre then thanked the speaker for his fine address.

Lion President, Art Duncan thanked the decoration committee and other committees who had gone ahead with the arrangements for the night. They did a splendid job in organization of the meet-ing, and in the beautiful decorat-ing of the hall.

Saturday afternoon pop was smoking a cigar on our front steps, and a man came up carrying a vacuum cleaner.

Being a man with a pointy nose and a little mustash, saying to pop, You're in luck, brother, I'm going to give you a free demonstration of the Miracle Cleaner, and then I'm going to give you a chance to buy one on special terms that practically amount to a gift.

I'm afraid you'd be wasting your time, brother, pop said, and the man said, Dont you think I awt to be the best judge of that?

Well, I have my doubts, brother, although I haven't gone into the matter very deeply, pop said, and the man said, Listen, brother, would it be too much to ask you to listen to a few facts without interruption?

I'm always willing to learn, brother, pop said, and the man said, First of all I'll tell you a little something about our terms. You dont have to lay down a penny, not a penny, brother, till you've used the miracle a month, and then the terms are so low they only amount to 15 cents a day, he said.

Including Sundays? pop said, and the man said, 15 cents a day, and now if you'll just step this way into your living room I'll give you a demonstration of suction power that will open your eyes.

It mite come in handy in the mornings, that's the only time I have trubble opening my eyes, pop said, and the man said, I'd like to let me give you a demonstration.

Brother, let me give you one Miracle for munths, and I hartily recommend it, he said, and the man said, Say, have I been waisting my time?

Why yes, I thawt I told you, pop said.

Being the sad end of the subject for the Miracle man.

COMMUNIST

In the whole Dominion-wide communist apparatus, McManus says, "even a relatively senior man like me would know the whereabouts and activities of not more than seven others."

"If Tim Buck, the underground army's generalissimo, succeeded in remaining at large (in the event of war), even he would deliberately isolate himself from contact with and knowledge of all but the ten other members of the political bureau.

"These are Stanley Ryerson, No. 2 man to Buck; William Kashtan, Leslie Morris, Becky Buhay, J. B. Salsberg, Norman Penner, Charles Sims, Norman Freed, Stewart Smith and Dorise Nielsen."

The party's recent plans for McManus called for bigger tasks than fanning discontent among the fighting men.

"My role in the next war's communist underground . . . would have been director of labor activities for Quebec. My job would have been to hinder war production in any way possible—through sabotage, slowdowns or strikes."

McManus says the underground organization's structure is patterned on techniques used successfully by resistance movements in occupied countries during the Second World War. And, during the last three years, "every Canadian communist who has visited Europe has made a point of gathering detailed information about underground tactics and reporting on them back here."

Sees Glimmer of Hope

But McManus sees a glimmer of hope in what he considers the doubtful loyalty to their party masters of the 12,000 Canadians who hold party cards.

"I am sure that, if a world war breaks out, at least half of Canada's communists will refuse to make war on Canada . . . they will at last find themselves face to face with the ruthless and soul-shattering truth that communism does not stand for what they thought it stood for."

Mrs. R. Gage Addresses Cannifton W.M.S. on "Guests"

The November meeting of Cannifton Woman's Missionary Society was in form of an "At Home", held in Cannifton Church. Eight visiting Auxiliaries were invited with the church being well filled. The president, Mrs. J. Williams opened the meeting.

A few items of business followed then Mrs. F. Wilson, vice-president of the Belleville section gave greetings from the presidentery. Mrs. Stewart gave a few reasons regarding the study of Japan this year.

Mrs. G. Brenton and Mrs. D. Brenton had charge of the worship service, the theme being "Prayer". Scripture was read and the meditation. Prayer is likened to a bridge between man and God. Prayer is sometimes called "talking with God". But talking with God is different from talking with the neighbor over the back fence.

To talk with God, one cannot talk in the same off-hand way in which one would talk with an equal. To pray, one must look up to God. In answering prayer God gives what is needed rather than what is thought to be needed.

A lovely duet "Beautiful Garden of Prayer", was sung by Mrs. H. Found and Mrs. H. Twiddy.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. J. Williams then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. R. Gage, wife of the Brigadier of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Gage was one of the first officers in the Canadian forces to go overseas. She was also in charge of one of the largest hostels during the London blitz.

Mrs. Gage charmingly told of the different guests that come to the door. She told of the distinguished guests who came to the hostel where she was stationed. It was the Queen of England. Then there are the poor and hungry guests who come to the door wanting something to eat. Also the guest who comes who is so welcome and who do so much good both physically and spiritually.

There is another guest who sometimes comes and seems to rub one the wrong way causing bad feelings, and whose departure is a welcome sight. These are usually the trouble makers.

There are the paying guests that some people have come. But the most important guest is Christ, the Unseen Guest, who is present or should be at all times.

Mrs. Gage left some worthwhile thoughts to be pondered.

Mrs. Williams graciously thanked Mrs. Gage for her inspiring address.

Delicious refreshments were served in the Sunday School rooms by the Cannifton ladies.

STIRLING

Insurance Placed On New School Totals $20,000

Stirling — Insurance to the amount of $20,000 has been placed on the new school at Stirling. R. A. Patterson, chairmen of the finance committee of the Stirling Public School Board told members Monday night that the insurance has been placed with H. C. Martin for the balance of 1950, and that in future an allotment system of all insurance to place it with each of the local agents with be considered.

Thirty-five new desks have arrived and at present are being stored. The meeting instructed the secretary to advise the company from which the desks are being purchased, of the number of grades and the approximate number of seats required for each.

Principal of the school, W. D. C. Hall, reported the inauguration of noon-hour supervision of pupils taking their lunch at the school. Nine of the smaller pupils who are eating lunch in the classrooms of the Library will be directed to the school for the noon-hour. Teachers will supervise.

Present at the meeting were chairman R. E. Fox, and Messrs. Donnan, Hatton, R. A. Patterson, H. R. Tompkins and Dr. E. A. Carleton.

MORE HEAT FOR LESS MONEY!

Don't wait until next winter—now is the time to insulate! GYPROC WOOL Insulation enables home owners to save up to 30% in fuel costs, yet the house is kept warm and comfortable in spite of the coldest weather.
With GYPROC WOOL protecting your house, every bit of heat from your fuel is made to work—it is kept inside to warm you, instead of being allowed to escape through walls and roof to the outside.
GYPROC WOOL will give you comfort this coming winter—and year after year, for GYPROC WOOL is the "Lifetime Insulation". It is mineral; does not deteriorate; is moisture-resistant and fire-safe; and permanently retains its insulating properties.
Write for a copy of "Insulation Manual", which explains how insulation works and shows how easily GYPROC WOOL may be installed in your home.
A G-L-A Product, made by Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine, Canada, Limited, and sold by Builders' Supply, Lumber and Insulation Dealers across Canada.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"So far so good. It will take reveal a clue."

some doing to get those out again without being seen, but we'll meet that problem when we get to it. Listen."

Rain beat against the windows thunder rolled. A loosened vine tapped eerily on the glass like the fingers of a wrath of the night begging for shelter from the storm. Fran had read of blood turning to ice, now she knew it could. Hers had congealed.

"What—what did you hear?" she whispered.

"A key in the lock."

"Miss Phillips!" The booming call was followed by a flash and crash which shook the building. "Enter your boss to the sizzle of lightning and the ruffle of thunder." Myle's excited whisper relieved her heart and set it beating like a tom-tom. "It's our cue for an entrance, Fran, the show is on."

The next hour was hectic. Henry Sargent, accompanied step by step by Howlett, the lanky, lugubrious deputy sheriff, went over the ground she and Myles had covered. To his credit he showed concern about Silas Bond's injury, spared a few moments to check on him, and returned to his cross-examination of Fran. She remembered Myles's warning to wait for his questions. When they came she answered as fully as possible. Worn-out by the repetition she protested.

"I have told you twice that I don't know why the cabinet door was open Mr. Sargent. Gene was in charge until five-thirty, presumably, she ought to know, perhaps wind down the chimney could have scattered the wood in the fireplace, but I doubt it." At Shore Acres Blake Sinclair had said he stayed with Gene till closing time. Let her tell her further that" why implicate Blake?

Henry Sargent cross-examined Myles as to his reason for being on the premises, why he went into Fran's office. Was he sure he had seen a light in the kitchen when he stopped his car outside? What did he make of the footprints on the kitchen floor? Sure they weren't his own? The one-line major answered questions, until Sargent began to repeat, then blew up.

"Hold everything, sir. Fran and I have told you all we know about the situation we found here when we came in out of the storm. Now, for Pete's sake, let up on her."

"I guess you're right,' Henry Sargent admitted. "Sure the criminal is all that is missing?" He wasn't inquiring about the painting Blake had left because he didn't know that she knew he had it, she reasoned. He was standing near the Hepplewhite commode when he asked the question. "Have you looked in here?" He opened the door.

"The Henry VIII Apostle spoons are gone. Did you know that, Miss Phillips?"

"I didn't think of looking there Mr. Sargent. Everything happened so fast—"

"Don't apologize."

"Im not apologizing." Indignation kept her from tears. "I'm trying to explain—"

"Only set of the kind," Henry Sargent interrupted. "The fact her was a good picker. Must have had a preview."

Barth?

The name flashed through Fran's mind. Had she been right in her suspicion that he was a finger man?

"Don't mention what has happened here to anyone' Henry Sargent warned. "To anyone, understand? You two, Howlett and I are the only persons, besides the thief, or thieves, who know of the burglary. Si Pond does not suspect the enamel has been stolen. I'll tell him when his brain clears, he may remember some clue to the theft. If the news of the break can be kept hush-hush we'll have the guilty party on the anxious seat, if he is still in the neighborhood and I believe he is."

"Do you think it may have been a villager?" Fran whispered as if the suspect might be within hearing. Henry Sargent rose on his toes and settled back on his heels.

"My thoughts are not for publication—yet. Myles, drive Miss Phillips to Rocky Pt. The storm has blown out to sea. The moon is breaking through. Howlett and I will stay through the night, look after Silas and examine every crack and cranny that might

"I don't want to go, Mr. Sargent. If I stay I may be able to ferret out something."

"You've told all you know about it Miss Phillips. When you see Gene ask if she made a sale this afternoon, conversationally, you understand, don't tell her of the theft. Run along. Mother knows you are coming."

In her room she hurriedly packed an overnight bag. Looked back before she closed the door, took the key on the outside Mr. Sargent and the deputy might want to search here. Was he anxious to have her go that he might have a clear field?

Myles stopped the roadster at the Digby entrance. The doorway was dark. Moonlight had not yet filtered through the overhanging branches of trees.

"I have a hunch I may find a clue here," he whispered. "Won't take but a minute. If you see anything move scream your head off."

She heard him running along the path to the door. Held her breath, it helped her to listen more intently. He was coming back. He opened the trunk of the car and closed it softly. When they were again in motion she inquired:

"Almost broke my neck stepping on a short length of cordwood. I'll bet it is the piece from the fireplace with which Nosey was knocked out. He was lucky it didn't kill him. The assailant must have escaped by way of the kitchen door."

They maintained a thoughtful silence as the roadster covered the short distance under a sky now pricked through and through with stars in an enchanted world silvered with moonlight, shaken at intervals by faint rumbles; far off over the water the heavens flickered and flashed. Myles stopped the car before the door of Rocky Point.

BOMBER JETTISONS NUMBER BOMBS IN ST. LAWRENCE

Residents in Near-Panic As Earth Shaken

St. Andre De Kamouraska, Que., Nov. 11 (CP) — Demolition bombs jettisoned in the St. Lawrence River by a four engined United States Air Force bomber yesterday shattered the quiet of this mountain-girdled village on the St. Lawrence River's South shore, throwing residents in a near-panic.

The bombs ran out into the street as the earth shook and house windows rattled.

At Riviere Du Loup, 15 miles east, radio station CJFP reported that the buildings quivered. Phone calls poured in from nearby villages where windows shook briefly.

At the same time, directly across the St. Lawrence River — 15 miles wide here—the blast was heard at St. Simeon and Port Au Saumon.

A B-50 bomber, believed part of a flight on a training mission dumped its load of 700 pound practice bombs over the water about five miles out from the shore here.

Two of its motors were dead when the plane passed in, it was learned.

They lit leaded for Limestone Corner where there is a U.S. air force field—some 125 miles south of this village, and put down there.

Government officials in Ottawa said there will be an investigation.

Heard Strange Noise

One of the few persons who saw what happened was Marie-Ange Frenette, housekeeper for the parish priest at the village church built right on the river shore.

He and his men escaped with few casualties. — Central Press Canadian.

WALTER THOMSON ELECTED LEADER ONTARIO LIBERALS

Accepted in Eight-Man Field on Third Ballot

Toronto, Nov. 11 — (CP) — Walter C. Thomson, a tall ruddy-faced man who took life in a Presbyterian Manse 55 years ago, is the new leader of Ontario Liberals.

He was chosen yesterday from an eight-man field by the leadership convention called to fill the post vacated more than a year ago by the resignation of Farquhar Oliver. A Toronto lawyer, he is not on a farm near Pickering in the Oshawa area and represents Ontario constituency in the Ottawa House of Commons.

His first plea to his party in victory speech after a noisy convention was for organization and unity to achieve victory in the next provincial general election. The Liberals now rank third in strength in the provincial legislature with 13 of its 90 seats.

Speaking to newspaper men at a press conference he said he would devote his full time to the leadership, turning first to the problem of organization. After study of individual constituency needs, he would visit the province, wide tour to rebuild the party. He had not had time to consider whether he would resign his Commons seat to seek election to the Ontario legislature.

His election climaxed a grueling contest in favor which gained momentum almost overnight. He led on the first two ballots and gained a majority on the third over his remaining opponents, Dr. Harry Cassidy of Toronto and John G. Brown of Kitchener.

When the result was announced, Dr. Cassidy and Mr. Brown quickly moved that the election be declared unanimous. Campbell Calder, a candidate who was eliminated on the second ballot, spoke briefly to support their motion.

The other four candidates went out after the first ballot. John J. Sullivan of Hamilton was out automatically as law man. Charles W. Cox of Port Arthur, Arnott Hicks of Hamilton and Norman Lipsel of Preston withdrew.

New Drive Breaks Five-Day Lull In Ground Fighting

Initial Gains of Three Miles Made by Allied Troops

Seoul, Nov. 11—(AP)—Allied ground forces thrust northward today in a renewed offensive against Korean and Chinese communists. Initial gains of three miles were made in the northwest.

The new drive breaks a five-day lull in the ground fighting caused by a puzzling withdrawal by the Chinese communists and the North Koreans.

The communists withdrew abruptly to wooded mountain positions after inflicting heavy casualties in a sudden counter-attack last week. Many allied units were trapped and cut up.

In the wake of ceaseless air blows on the retreating reds and their supply lines, American and British infantry pushed off Saturday in northwest Korea.

U. S. Marines and other allied units in the northeast continued their northward drive.

The northwest offensive was launched soon after airmen had reported a link-up of east and west allied forces across the 100-mile waist of the peninsula.

The Eighth Army, however, had no confirmation of the link-up this afternoon.

The U.S. 24th division and Commonwealth 27th Brigade pushed 20 from their peripheral north of the Chongchon River at Anju. They drove three miles to the outskirts of Pakchon, eight miles north of the allied supply base of Anju.

Pakchon is 60 air miles south of the Manchurian border and 50 miles south of Pyongyang, former red capital. It is believed a red strong point.

However, elements of the 24th reached the southern outskirts of Pakchon without major opposition. Pakchon earlier reported northeast of Pakchon.

Further east, on their right flank, the U.S. 1st cavalry division moved slowly forward, likewise unopposed.

Take Last Plant

In the northeast, U.S. marines moved steadily toward the big Changjin power dam. They gained five miles and took the last of four hydro-electric plants which supply power to north Korea and parts of Manchuria.

Ahead of the advancing allies, the navy and air force pounded more than 50 areas. Villages were fired, big towns smashed by two Mandalay-type bridges knocked out. Two more were damaged.

On all fronts the planes strove to block off oncoming Chinese from Manchuria.

A Washington spokesman for the army reported that two B-29s were so badly shot up by enemy fighters that one went down at sea and another was destroyed while landing at its home base.

Using Rockets

Enemy jets are believed to have rockets for the first time in an air battle between four U.S. jet fighters and seven Russian-built Mig-15s over the rubbled northwestern city of Sinuiju. Neither side lost any planes in that action.

But navy panther jets shot down one Mig-15 in another air battle in the same area.

Almost 11,000 communist bombs were dumped on the red command, Sinuiju supply point of Uiju, 10 miles northeast of Sinuiju. Clouds of smoke rolled from the target, but most of the area was believed ablaze.

The U.S. eighth army headquarters spokesman said there were reports of strong patrol contact between ground forces 20 air miles northwest of Tokchon, on the northeast front. In the west sector that the red build-up was reported.

In the eighth army's west flank, U.S. 24th division patrols went nearly six miles north without finding the enemy.

Manslaughter Charge Brings Six Years

Lindsay, Nov. 11—(CP)— A Supreme Court jury Friday night returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter against William Yuzwa, 33, of Hamilton, after a trial for murder in the stabbing of Jack Louks in Dec. 18, 1949.

Mr. Justice W. F. Spence, who described the verdict "a wise and proper one," sentenced Yuzwa to six years.

The jury deliberated 4½ hours before reaching its verdict.

Yuzwa, on trial for the defence, denied from the witness stand Thursday any knowledge of the knife-slaying of Louks early Sunday's main street.

It was his second trial on the charge, the first just spring ended in a jury disagreement.

Mrs. Yuzwa was helped from the courtroom in a state of near-collapse. Yuzwa showed no emotion.

Defence Counsel B. J. S. Pitt of Toronto said the sentence will be appealed.

WHERE TO GO

Trenton, Mo., Nov. 11 — (AP) — The Trenton Times-Times received a card yesterday with this request:

"Last Saturday Mr. Truman said any farmer who voted Republican should have his head examined. Will you print in your paper the date and place we have to go."

It was signed "Farmer."

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 11. (CP)—Synopsis: The cold weather continues today as the outburst of Arctic air has swept over nearly the whole continent and is giving the Southern States colder weather than that felt in Southern Ontario.

A slight warming appears is store for most of the provinces Sunday although considerable cloudiness will still prevail.

Belgrade, Nov. 11 — (CP) — Yugoslavia closed and sealed the Albanian legation here today in a move just one step short of breaking off diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The Yugoslav government charged Albania has "conducted unbearable and serious discrimination measures" against Yugoslav diplomats.

A note containing the decision of Premier Marshal Tito's government was handed to a representative of its tiny, isolated, Mediterranean neighbor, and its contents were disclosed by the Ministry of Information here.

In blunt, stern, language, the note charged Albania has been using its legation in Belgrade not for "the conduct or current affairs and for the settlement of existing issues between the two governments, but has utilized its existence exclusively for the purposes of conducting offending and provocative activities against Yugoslavia and its authorities."

The note said Yugoslavia therefore "considers the further sojourn of the other executives of Albania in Yugoslavia clearly useless."

In outlining its action, Tito's government said that during the last year Albania had conducted "unbearable and various discriminatory measures against the Yugoslav representative in Albania so that the functioning of the Yugoslav legation. . . has been obliged to restrict its field of activity."

The note said, "the Albanian government has proceeded with offending and impermissible acts against Yugoslavia."

It listed among these a note received from Tirana "full of offensive formulations" and refusal on the part of the Albanian foreign ministry to act on complaints from this country.

"This is proved," the note said, "by the case which arose in the explanation of the Yugoslav note of Oct. 24 in which the Yugoslav government protested against the armed attack of Albanian guards on Yugoslav guards when a Yugoslav soldier was severely wounded."

Mystery Woman Walks Up, Down Middle of Road

London, Ont., Nov. 11 — (CP) — A mystery woman who, residents said, has been walking down the middle of No. 2 Highway by night, was blamed Friday night for a car accident near Lambeth.

Provincial Constable Bob Pritchard of London made an extensive search for the strange woman after the accident but could find no trace of her, he said.

Miss Olive Newcomb, of Dundas, told Pritchard she stepped on her brakes when the woman suddenly appeared in her headlights in the centre of the highway, with the result a car behind crashed into the rear of her car.

Driver of the following car was Lary Gammon, 25, of Fort William, whose passenger, Peter Sallee, also of Fort William, was treated by a doctor for taken and a badly bruised nose.

Miss Newcomb told Constable Pritchard they have often seen the mysterious woman walking down the highway. On the latest after dark, but none could identify her and no trace could be found of her. No autos ever spoken to her or heard her speak.

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP) — The University of Washington School of Medicine has a "frozen cancer library" of 18,000 specimens of human malignancies and malignant blood.

This library is part of a national program, sponsored by the National Cancer Institute, to find a blood test for cancerous.

Such a test might turn back cancer the same as tuberculosis has been stopped by early diagnosis.

The library will ultimately contain more than 100,000 blood specimens taken from healthy persons, those with cancer, and from patients with at least 50 other diseases in which the blood resembles cancerous blood.

Under the program, doctors send the university samples of blood taken at random from healthy people, because some of them will eventually have cancers. When they get the disease, another sample will be taken and put in for comparison with their blood when they were healthy.

This kind of sampling is expected ultimately to give the university one special "book" of the blood of 20,000 people before they had cancer and after they the disease.

The notable blood tests for cancer developed so far have come from leading research centres and over the years have been sent by the National Cancer Institute for assays.

The blood tests have been assayed. Also two skin tests, where a needle scratch yields cancer signs. Not one is found to work well enough, nor any combination of two or more. Too often the cancer signs are too faint.

Nevertheless, the signs are good more than half the time, enough to justify the hope that this is the right track

National War Memorial Focal Point as Canada Pays Tribute To Dead of Two World Wars

Ottawa, Nov. 11 — (CP) — Canada today paid tribute to her fallen of two world wars.

Focal point of the country-wide observance was a brief, impressive Remembrance Day service around the National War Memorial, Canada's monument or remembrance to those who died in service for Canada in the First and Second World Wars.

There, on Confederation Place, the big open-faced square in the heart of the capital's business district, the diplomats, the politicians and the public servants turned out in crisp November weather to pay respect.

At precisely 11 o'clock, a lone gun heralded the silence, salutes of honor were given and Viscount Alexander, as Governor-General and commander-in-chief of Canada's armed forces, placed a wreath at the base of the great stone-and-bronze memorial.

With ever-spaced ceremony, he was followed to the base by Mrs. John Beasley of Ottawa, frail brown-eyed mother whose two sons died in the Second World War. She placed a wreath on Canadian mothers who lost sons in the conflict. Others were placed by Defence Minister Claxton and Group Capt. Alfred Watts of Vancouver, Dominion President of the Canadian Legion.

The ceremony ended with the Governor-General taking the salute from Ottawa district units in a march-past before a reviewing stand down the street from the war memorial.

Sunrise Service

The national observance was duplicated across the country as Canadians paid solemn tribute.

In Toronto, it began with a sunrise service at the Cross of Sacrifice, the "mother" plot of Prospect Cemetery.

From Newfoundland to British Columbia, in the cities, the towns and the hamlets, veterans and non-veterans gathered at cenotaphs on this 32nd anniversary of the signing of the Armistice that ended the First World War in 1918.

Here in the capital, Labor Minister Gregg and Defence Minister Claxton and other high defence officials took part in the ceremony, along with members of the diplomatic corps, the staff and military units.

Massed bands played "O Canada" before the two-minute silence, the hymns "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Abide With Me" during the placing of the official wreaths and then, "God Save the King." Buglers from the Canadian Legion played the Last Post and Reveille.

Four sentries representing the services, including an Air Force man, a Navy man and one uniformed and one kilted soldier, formed an honor guard about the memorial during the ceremony. Muriel Beaton of North Bay, Ont., a nursing aide stationed at Ottawa's Rockcliffe Airport, stood guard with them.

'Northwest Passage' Seen Possible Thru N. Canada Some Day Says Scientist

Washington, Nov. 11—AP—Direct navigation between the Atlantic and Pacific via a "northwest passage," deemed impossible now because of ice, may some day become possible as a result of present plans, a United States army scientist says.

Louis P. Allen of the Navy's hydrographic office told a reporter that research in progress now establishes hope that ice experts may be able to predict "light ice years" when navigation of the passage may be possible.

The passage, Allen explained, is a body of icy Arctic coastal water, extending through the north of Canada. It's generally believed impassable even to icebreakers throughout much of its extent.

But Allen said that if the current studies show that ice-breakers can buck through in some years, the accomplishment will be of great importance to Alaska from an economic and military standpoint. And, he added, it would be of military significance in any need for the defence of Alaska.

In an interview at a meeting of American and Canadian scientists, Allen discussed phases of Alaskan research. Allen gave this account of the ice research:

Much of the passage becomes open in the summer, and it is during that period that the "marginal zone" of ice-fields still clutters the westerly ocean toward Alaska.

The condition of ice in the marginal zone, he explained, may well "provide a tip-off as to whether the ice in the central field is impregnable to ice-breakers.

WOULD CONSULT U. K.

Christchurch, N. Z., Nov. 11— (Reuters) — New Zealand would only lift dollar import restrictions after consultation with Britain, Charles Bowden, associate finance minister, said today.

Bowden added he knew nothing of any negotiations.

He was commenting on a Washington report that the International Monetary Fund had said Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Ceylon were are in a position to relax controls of dollar imports.

STEAMER UNDER TOW

Hong Kong, Nov. 11 (CP) — The 2,994-ton British steamer Tainan has broken adrift in raging seas north of Formbes Strategic Island in the U.S. Pacific to Hong Kong under tow, the owners of the tug, the Margaret Moller, reported today.

The Tainan hit a mine in the Yangtze estuary last August and is manned by a skeleton crew. It was being towed from Shanghai to Hong Kong. Last night the Canadian destroyer Sioux— one of the three destroyers with U.N. forces in far eastern waters — rushed from Hong Kong to the Tainan's assistance.

Says Nudists Mostly Knobby And Ugly

London, Nov. 11 (Reuters) — If you must be a nudist, at least be good looking, says radio quiz master "Mikardo."

During a radio quiz program here last four nudists agreed they wouldn't join a nudist club — and Mikardo observed:

"The people who ask you for nudism are almost always the most shapeless, the most knobby and the most ugliest."

Research in Possibility of Tapping Volcanoes to Give Heat Suggested

Washington, Nov. 11—AP—Research into the possibility of "tapping" Alaskan and Aleutian volcanoes to warm American cities for heating and cooking was suggested yesterday by a defence department scientist.

Dr. H. E. Landsberg of the Research and Development Board made the suggestion in addressing a joint session of top-ranking American and Canadian scientists conducting research into the strategic Alaska.

Landsberg said the volcanic heat possibility, while probably far-fetched at this time warrants investigation because of the other possible aids to military men who might be called upon to fight in the land of rigorous terrain and weather.

Studies by Arctic areas of North America "the unprotected back spot" of the United States, Landsberg said Alaska is the most exposed area of the United States mainland.

Asked by a reporter to amplify his volcano-heat suggestion, Landsberg said:

"In theory at least, there's no reason why we couldn't pump water into the ground near volcanoes of Alaska and the Aleutian chain so that it would reach a level sufficiently hot to convert it to steam and then come out through natural gaps.

"We do not know how extensive such gaps are in the vicinity of our northern volcanoes to enable the setting out of whole townships" of scientists seeking weather information.

"But polar regions are considered important factors in the world's weather, but weather stations on the Alaskan mainland are not close enough to the pole to get the detailed information required.

Lt.-Col. J. O. Fletcher of the U. S. air force's Eielson, Alaska, base, told the conference of American and Canadian scientists that two of these islands—about 20 miles across—had been sighted in a single airplane flight in the Arctic region.

"And if two were sighted in a single flight," said Dr. Spilhaus, "there must be a lot of them."

Initial Gains of Three Miles Made by Allied Troops

Seoul, Nov. 11—(AP)—Allied ground forces thrust northward today in a renewed offensive against Korean and Chinese communists. Initial gains of three miles were made in the northwest.

The new drive breaks a five-day lull in the ground fighting caused by a puzzling withdrawal by the Chinese communists and the North Koreans.

The communists withdrew abruptly to wooded mountain positions after inflicting heavy casualties in a sudden counter-attack last week. Many allied units were trapped and cut up.

In the wake of ceaseless air blows on the retreating reds and their supply lines, American and British infantry pushed off Saturday in northwest Korea.

U. S. Marines and other allied units in the northeast continued their northward drive.

The northwest offensive was launched soon after airmen had reported a link-up of east and west allied forces across the 100-mile waist of the peninsula.

The Eighth Army, however, had no confirmation of the link-up this afternoon.

The U.S. 24th division and Commonwealth 27th Brigade pushed 20 from their peripheral north of the Chongchon River at Anju. They drove three miles to the outskirts of Pakchon, eight miles north of the allied supply base of Anju.

Pakchon is 60 air miles south of the Manchurian border and 50 miles south of Pyongyang, former red capital. It is believed a red strong point.

However, elements of the 24th reached the southern outskirts of Pakchon without major opposition. Pakchon earlier reported northeast of Pakchon.

Further east, on their right flank, the U.S. 1st cavalry division moved slowly forward, likewise unopposed.

Take Last Plant

In the northeast, U.S. marines moved steadily toward the big Changjin power dam. They gained five miles and took the last of four hydro-electric plants which supply power to north Korea and parts of Manchuria.

Ahead of the advancing allies, the navy and air force pounded more than 50 areas. Villages were fired, big towns smashed by two Mandalay-type bridges knocked out. Two more were damaged.

On all fronts the planes strove to block off oncoming Chinese from Manchuria.

A Washington spokesman for the army reported that two B-29s were so badly shot up by enemy fighters that one went down at sea and another was destroyed while landing at its home base.

Using Rockets

Enemy jets are believed to have rockets for the first time in an air battle between four U.S. jet fighters and seven Russian-built Mig-15s over the rubbled northwestern city of Sinuiju. Neither side lost any planes in that action.

But navy panther jets shot down one Mig-15 in another air battle in the same area.

Almost 11,000 communist bombs were dumped on the red command, Sinuiju supply point of Uiju, 10 miles northeast of Sinuiju. Clouds of smoke rolled from the target, but most of the area was believed ablaze.

The U.S. eighth army headquarters spokesman said there were reports of strong patrol contact between ground forces 20 air miles northwest of Tokchon, on the northeast front. In the west sector that the red build-up was reported.

In the eighth army's west flank, U.S. 24th division patrols went nearly six miles north without finding the enemy.

CRIPPS IN SWITZERLAND

CHEESE PRODUCERS MEET DECEMBER 14

The annual meeting of the Hastings County Cheese Producers' Association will be held on December 14th and not on November 14th, as was advertised in the Ontario Intelligencer. The meeting will be held in the Belleville Community Hall with proceedings to commence at 1.30 p.m.

DRIVESHED IN SIDNEY DAMAGED BY FIRE

The frame driveshed owned by George Ketcheson, 5th concession Sidney township, was slightly damaged this morning by fire. Mr. Ketcheson was engaged in cleaning some machinery when the chaff he was using in some manner caught fire, the flames leaping up to the rafters which caught fire. The owner managed to control the flames with the aid of a fire extinguisher, and the fire was extinguished when the fire department arrived.

D.I. MacKinnon Speaks to U.W.C.

The regular meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and vicinity, was held at the home of Mrs. A. E. May with Mrs. Arthur Locke, the president, presiding. Miss Joan Brondskill was appointed to the chairmanship of the membership committee in the absence of Miss Pauline Parker, who resigned due to illness.

A report of the recent regional conference held in London, Ont., was read.

Plans were discussed for the coming regional conference to be held in Belleville, Nov. 17.

Mrs. Hocks introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. D. I. MacKinnon, probationary officer in the County of Belleville and Hastings County.

Juvenile Courts

Mr. MacKinnon spent several years in the R.C.A.F.; then in 1946 joined the Family Court of Ottawa, coming to Belleville several months ago. He traced the history of Juvenile Courts in Ontario since their beginning in Toronto 32 years ago. There are now 40 such courts in Ontario at the present time.

In a Juvenile Court the delinquent child does not appear before the magistrate but in the Judges' Chambers with only the probationary officer present as the court reporter in attendance. In such cases the judge has wide discretionary powers. In a hearing of this sort no publicity whatever is allowed.

Mr. MacKinnon listed the many causes of delinquency such as lack of parental discipline; broken homes; lack of outside interests; poor reading habits and poor movies.

He also gave methods of correcting these conditions and of setting facilities that cause up before the court. Mr. MacKinnon made a request for donations of children's and adults' clothing which when often needed both in Belleville and in the north country.

Mrs. Locke thanked the speaker for his most interesting and worthwhile address.

Sheila Currie Wins Public Speaking Contest

Miss Sheila Currie, Grade 9 pupil of S. S. No. 4 Tyendinaga, was the winner of the South Hastings Rotary Club Association public speaking contest held in the Queen Alexandra public school auditorium Friday night.

Eleven contestants from the three townships in South Hastings competed with Tyendinaga township taking both first and second prizes. Second place winner was Jimmy Stafford, Grade 7 pupil of S. S. No. 29 Tyendinaga, and third place winner was Jack Rushnell, S. S. 23 Sidney township.

The first two winners will represent Hastings at the district public speaking contest to be held at Havelock next Friday evening, Nov. 17th.

Presented With Trophy

As the first place winner Sheila was presented with the Col. T. L. Kennedy trophy while it up for annual competition. Col. Vandervoort personally presented the cup. Sheila also received a miniature cup for permanent keeping. All competitors received a silver dollar, while the winners were presented with books on behalf of the South Hastings Educational Association.

Miss Currie's theme as her prize-winning topic "Every Inch a Queen," while Jimmy Stafford talked on "Safety Rules and Education," and Jack Rushnell chose "The Royal Canadian Mounted Police" as his topic. Sheila's teacher is Mrs. Helen Keller. Mr. Ross Bonter is Jimmy Stafford's teacher, while Miss Mina Hudgins is teacher for Jack Rushnell.

School improvement awards were presented by Public School Inspector R. H. Macklem. Winners were Glenn Milne, school in Sidney township, principal E. R. Everson; S. S. 3, Thurlow, principal, Miss Carole Drew, and the Mission School in Tyendinaga, teacher, Mrs. A. Elliott.

The winning school in each township was presented with certificates from the Ontario Horticulture Society.

Film Shown

A short film, "Birds of the North Woodlands," was shown while Mr. G. D. Dwyer, supervising principal of the Brandon Hall C.A.F. public school at Trenton, led in a sing-song. Chairman for the evening was Mr. J. A. Warren. Mr. Glen Daughtry, the vice-president of the Belleville and District Association, presided. Miss Ina Elliott, Tyendinaga, as vice president. Secretary-treasurer is Mrs. Irene Phillips, Shannonville teacher.

But November 11 was a Monday, but there's more to it than that. On the top of the page, in type the size of which we haven't seen since that time (it stands about ¼" high), it says "The WAR is OVER". In all, there are five headlines on the extra edition, with the next four reading "GERMANY HAS SURRENDERED", "COMPLETE VICTORY FOR THE ALLIES", "ARMISTICE TERMS ACCEPTED BY GERMANY", and "UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER THE RESULT".

The paper, which is yellowed with age, tells how he tell that the Kaiser abdicates the German throne and that four-year struggle to the inevitable after being defeated on land, sea and sky. Down at the bottom is an eight - column streamer proclaims "Buy Victory Bonds and Bring Boys Home".

Above the war banner, the Intelligencer's motto was run—"Let there be harmony in things essential — liberty in things not essential — charity in all".

The page itself is a piece of history, proclaiming the end of a four-year struggle. It's enough to thought was the battle to end all battles.

Y's Men's Club Hears Talk On Delinquency

Lack of parental control was given as the chief cause of juvenile delinquency by Donald MacKinnon, Probation Officer for Belleville and Hastings County in an address to the Y's Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday night. Next in order, he stated were broken homes, lack of parental discipline, poor reading and radio listening habits and mental retardation.

The speaker gave a brief review of the development in Ontario of Juvenile Courts, the first established in Toronto and Family Courts were established in Ottawa until the present time with 38 courts established.

The chief offenses in recent months among juveniles were theft, breaking and entering, theft, and car theft. The duty of the probation officer, Mr. MacKinnon stated was the reclamation of juvenile offenders against the law and guidance.

Domestic Problems

Discussing the causes for domestic problems, the speaker named lack of funds, housing, drinking, drugs, jealousy of women, incompatability, mixed marriages, in-laws, gambling and foolish spending and husband shopping.

"The housewife needs the satisfaction she gains from handling her own money," he said, "and when the husband deprives her of shopping the resentment may cause family disputes."

The speaker was introduced by Y'man Bob Elliott. A vote of thanks by Ralph Black. Roy Best gave a report on the new project Radio Auction which indicated that scores of valuable articles had been donated to the motor car had been secured from local merchants which will be auctioned by radio to the public on Thursday, Nov. 16th. The motor car had been secured from local merchants which will be auctioned by radio to the public on Thursday, Nov. 16th. The first full listing of articles to date will appear in the Ontario Intelligencer shortly, when it is hoped that all details of solicitation be completed this week in order to give merchants full benefit of this publicity.

The new member counselling committee under the chairmanship of Willis Hutchinson announced their intention to give guidance to program for the large numbers of new members who have joined the Y.M.C.A. in recent weeks.

Hunter Loses Right Arm in Shooting Mishap

After receiving the full charge of a 12-gauge shotgun blast in his upper right arm, 72-year-old William Thompson of Kingston is in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital. The accident happened Friday afternoon at Long Lake, north of Northbrook, where Mr. Thompson was a member of a hunting party.

It was reported that Thompson had climbed out of a boat and was pulling the shotgun out after him when it discharged, the blast going through his arm near the shoulder.

He was taken 45 miles to Madoc where he was given first aid by Dr. George Mullin and then was rushed to hospital by Bush Ambulance from Belleville where Dr. G. B. Cronk found it necessary to amputate the arm.

Zwick's Island Seen as Exceptional Site for Playground, Park Area

"One of the finest pieces of property suitable for developing into a public park and playground area that we have seen in many years," is the way which two of Ontario's park authorities describe Zwick's island in Belleville.

Mr. P. Hill of Galt, president of the Parks and Recreation Association of Canada, made this comment with respect to Zwick's Island following his recent visit here with Mr. Jack Clark, superintendent of Guelph Parks. Mr. Hill's letter to the local parks board following his visit, is as follows:

Chairman and Members,
Belleville Parks Commission,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Becker:

First I would like to express our appreciation of the hospitality extended to us on our recent visit to your city. No matter what the Belleville citizens do decided to land, sea and sky. Down at the bottom is an eight - column streamer proclaims "Buy Victory Bonds and Bring Boys Home".

BMB Band Notes

By TREBLE CLEF

It always surprises us when we think of John Philip Sousa and his "March King" starting his career at the age of 11 years as a violin soloist, when we think that by later years he composed such well known and stirring marches as "The Stars and Stripes Forever", "Washington Post," the "U.S. Field Artillery March," and "The High School Cadet March". Yet, Sousa's fame being not quite so well known. While we have been musing on this to realize that he wrote over 100 marches plus many other works including a number of light operas. On our broadcast last Tuesday night we played the above named marches in his memory, as he died on March 6th, 1932 years ago, to the 6th November 1854, in Washington D.C.

Many of you remember the days of the renowned Belleville Kilty Band. Several of the original members are still with the Belleville band, your band. William Grant toured the world with them. Since that time his daughter has grown to the musical environment and as you heard last Tuesday, Miss Jean has proven herself mistress of the very difficult instrument, the xylophone, having been tutored thus by her father. We always enjoy being background music to Helen.

It would seem that Thursday was a "musical night", or such like. We played "hunting music" (Chasse et Cor) during season, hoping to get a juicy deer steak in return. Solo work was done by Clarence Janes and Charles Day in this number.

As a closing hymn the lovely "Nearer My God to Thee" was played, thinking of November 11th Armistice Day.

We dedicated this number to the memory of Robert Bland who passed away last week in Belleville. Some of you will remember Bob Bland playing with your band for over 50 years. He was in our band for Happy are we to welcome to the band several new members, both to the cornet section. Mr. Sanderson was a member of the Bowling team that won a trophy of the Peterborough Citizens' Golf Tournament when a number years ago now was enjoying the frosty crispness of November in the Kawartha district. We welcome him, both to a new country and to the band.

Onte again we aren't sure of a broadcast until Tuesday, but hope you'll check the radio news and give a listen to CJBQ from 6.30 p.m. to 10.00, just in case. See you next week.

Bass Clef.

POLICE BLOTTER

A number of bicycles parked in the Crystal Hotel garage were badly damaged Friday night when a motorist drove the wrong way as a route of exit from a parking lot at the rear of the building.

The alleyway is not intended for vehicular traffic and the bicycles partially blocked the alleyway. Driver of the vehicle was booked on charges by police.

Motorists passing the King George public school grounds last night complained to police that boys were throwing stones at their cars. Police investigated but were unable to locate any boys in the area.

Gananoque Man Is Electrocuted Working on Road

Gene Latimer, 31, of Gananoque, employee of the Harvie Construction Company, was electrocuted Friday while working on a highway construction job near Napanee. Five hours' artificial respiration by hydro employees failed to revive him.

The accident occurred on what is known as the "Old Kingston Road" between Marysville and Napanee where work of widening is now in progress. Latimer was assisting in pulling stumps with the aid of a mechanical shovel. He was handling a cable and about to fasten it to the stump when the boom of the shovel came in contact with overhead hydro wires carrying 4,600 volts.

Latimer was standing in a pool of water and the heavy current passed through his body. He was conscious for a short period but it is believed to have died en route to the doctor's office at Napanee. He was married with a four-months-old child.

Provincial Constable Arthur Watson of Belleville investigated the accident.

City, District Film Council Buys New Films

The Belleville and District Film Council held their monthly meeting Thursday night in the home of Gunnar Ware, more and better Christmas films for Belleville and district. The possibilities of promoting a film festival, similar to the successful film festival which was held in Kingston last September, were discussed. Mrs. Kenneth Orchard was appointed a committee of one, with power to add and assistants, to look into the matter, which include films on their advertising agencies. And to be prepared with a very commendable report, which states are there interested and where. Several films from twenty-six societies have been added to the library. It's easy to see the number and scope of these films is very large and should be of great value to our community.

A number of films were previewed at last night's meeting. Some of these were Christmas films. Of these films which were previewed the Night Before Christmas in color, was purchased.

Egg Prices Slightly Lower

The price of eggs fell off two cents per dozen at the Belleville farmers' market with firsts being quoted at 61 cents per dozen. Extras and seconds sold at 59 cents per dozen, top grade Spies being selling at 50 cents with mixed apples ranging from 45 to 50 cents per pound. Spring roosters were also quoted at 45 cents with a few capons bringing 50 cents per lb. Ducks sold generally at 50 cents per pound, with undrawn birds selling at 50 cents.

On the outside market apples were freely offered. Talman Sweets and Spies sold at $2 per bushel, top grade Spies being quoted at $2.50 per hamper with Snows and Greenings selling at $1.50 to $2 per hamper. Cooking apples were 75 per gallon including container.

Potatoes dropped off in price slightly with bag lots bringing $3 and bushels $1. Pears are quoted at 40 cents; carrots, beets and cooking onions were 25 cents per bunch with cauliflower 15 cents per head; cabbage 5 cents per pound; cabbages were a dime.

There was a large offering of young pigs with prices ranging from $10 up to $13 each.

Obituary

ERNEST ALEXANDER FORD
(Trent Road, Sidney Twp.)

Stricken with a heart attack while hunting in the Millbridge area, Ernest Alexander Ford, died in camp early Friday morning. His body was carried to the road about a mile from where he was brought to the city by ambulance.

The late Mr. Ford was born in Sidney township, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ford and except for a period of 27 years, when he lived in Western Canada he has continuously resided in this district.

All his life he took an active part in athletics of all types and during his University life was an outstanding athlete being awarded the scarlet scarf for outstanding ability. He played professional hockey and field lacrosse and in the field of cycling was the champion of North America for many years. In latter years he developed a great deal of time for hunting and fishing, being proficient in both sports. "Ernie" Ford had a host of friends in the community who will sincerely regret his death.

Surviving are one brother, Dr. W. S. Ford of Snohomish, State of Washington, and two sisters, Mrs. H. R. Watson and Mrs. Wilfrid Caldwell with whom he resided on the Trent Road.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral arrangements are pending. It will be held on Monday, November 13th, service to be held at 2.30 p.m.

Interment family plot Belleville Cemetery. M10-21

BOOTH — Suddenly en route to hospital, on Friday, Nov. 10th, 1950, Arthur Lytle Booth, 23 Isabel Street, Trenton, aged 73 years.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, whence the funeral will be held on Monday, November 13th. Service in the chapel at 2.30 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

ARMITAGE — In loving memory of my brother, Joseph Henry Armitage, who passed away five years ago today, November 11th, 1945. Memories are treasures no one can steal.

Death leaves a heartache no one can heal.
You ofttimes asked would I mine to be dead
But I could not prevail nor stop time's tread
Some one forget you, now you are not
But I still remember no matter how long
And though my years be many or few
I will always be thinking dear brother of you.
Lovingly remembered by daughter Isabel and son-in-law Arthur. N11

ARMITAGE — In loving memory of a beloved wife and mother, Jessie Ann Armitage, who passed away suddenly November 12th, 1945.
There are stars that go out in the night
But whose silver light shineth on.
There are flowers that fade and wither
When the blossoms are faded and gone
There are lives full of light and splendor
When no longer their life's current flows
But their goodness lives on with the memory
Of the one who knows.
I keep in memory the love of the
To me it's as bright as of old.
For each day I cherish and keep painted as last
And my sorrow it never grows cold.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her husband and children. N11

ARMITAGE — In fond and loving memory of a dear mother, Dorothy Jessie Armitage, who departed this life November 12, 1945.
Ever in my heart and mind
Ever true to our mind
For the days I cherish, think of you to never grow dim
If all this world were ours to give and buy
To see the face of Mother dear
Would be worth more than I.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by her daughter Jean and son-in-law Arthur. N11

BROWN — In loving memory of my dear dad, Sanford Woodlock, who passed away two years ago.
Ever remembered by his daughter Mabel. N11

Early History of the Moira Valley

From Moira Valley Conservation Report

PERIOD OF GROWTH — 1837 - 1856

There had been some emigration to the United States from Upper Canada during the "thirties," including a number of the type of "go-getting Yankees" who were ever to promote industries and exploit the resources of the country to the fullest extent. These men and many other Americans had hoped that Mackenzie's movement would lead to annexation, and were disturbed by its failure, while British investors were hardly likely to be reassured by the state of the province. Industrial growth received a setback and very few new mills were built on the Moira until 1842. The growth of the population in the area went on, however, settlers from Britain began once more to come to Canada in large numbers and in Huntingdon, Hungerford and Madoc towards the rate of increase was particularly rapid.

The settlers were making good progress in getting their farms cleared and under cultivation. In Hungerford the acreage cleared for farming in 1846 was nearly five times greater than ten years before. Only a few of the settlers in the inland townships had moved back from the "front" for the Moira was navigable and now getting a share of the immigrants from the British Isles. In 1846 the settlers in Madoc township were said to be chiefly Scots and Irish and those in Huntingdon and Hungerford were reported to be largely "Protestant Irish." These were rather sweeping generalizations, for the townships had been well baptized and sold not by large and homogenous groups, but the newcomers certainly predominated over the native born.

As the decade of the "forties" advanced the number of immigrants from Upper Canada increased once more and the province was entering a period of agricultural prosperity which was to continue, in spite of temporary setbacks, for more than 20 years.

All the townships of the Moira watershed made gains in population between 1842 and 1852. Thurlow township which was already well settled, made only a moderate gain in the early "forties" and the population of Sidney township remained nearly stationary, but after 1849 both of these townships showed great increases in population, due in large part to the village development brought about by the greater milling activity on the rivers and creeks.

Tyendinaga had been Indian lands until about 1830 and settlement for some years had been limited to the front concessions, but the township showed a remarkable growth during the "forties" and "fifties" and although much of the terrain was too rugged to be attractive to settlers the area drained by the Moira must have begun to be settled before 1850. Rawdon township developed slowly until after 1846 and then made rapid advances in population and cultivation, though there was little settlement within the watershed until somewhat later. (The sudden advance in Rawdon is put down by W. H. Smith to the exhaustion of the better timber, which reduced the amount of lumbering for a time and forced the inhabitants to pay some attention to their neglected farms. This may have been the case in some of the other townships also. At the same time the lumbermen were moving further north and opening up new country.)

Huntingdon was already considered a well settled township in 1846 and gained steadily until 1852 somewhat, which had lagged somewhat behind Huntingdon in the first part of the decade, passed that township in population and development before 1849. However, the second land in Hungerford was still to be found chiefly near Stoco Lake, and in one or two other areas of no great size. There was still a large part of the unsold Crown land and it is evident that quite a large part of the inhabitants did not make their living by farming.

This was even more the case in Madoc township, which was growing more slowly. In both these townships, however, the well-established farms were passing out of the subsistence stage and beginning to produce a surplus for sale, lumbering was still being actively carried on and the hamlets at the mills and crossroads were growing into villages. Settlers had begun to move into Elzevir township and had occupied the area around Queensborough by about 1845, but this township had still very few settlers in 1850.

In Sidney, Thurlow and Huntingdon the process of settlement may be said to have been completed by the early "fifties." None of these townships made very marked gains after 1855, Huntingdon was then nearing its peak of population, and the subsequent increase in the other two townships had little to do with immigration, the rural areas of Sidney and Thurlow were changing during the "forties" and "fifties" from primitive backwoods settlements to something approaching their present appearance of settled comfort. The process of improvement had been going on in a slow and scattered fashion for many years, but the era of prosperity which opened in the later "forties" provided the means for a wave of building, repairing and improving through out most of the older settled areas of the province.

The front townships of Hastings county were to the fore in this movement, and the resulting need for skilled craftsmen with the much greater demand for consumer goods, gave a sharp stimulus to the growth of villages. Much of the gain in population in the older townships after 1849 was due to the growth of village population. In the southern concessions of Huntingdon and the older-settled part of Hungerford the same process of development was well underway by 1850.

Farther up the river the country was still being opened up, the lumbermen were very active, new saw mills were being built and there was some considerable mining and quarrying. The developments along the Clare River, in the southern part of Elzevir, and around Flinton in Kaladar township also had their beginnings in the early "fifties". There was some further development in the northern part of Madoc township, which was further stimulated by the proposals for the Hastings Road.

Roads and Transportation

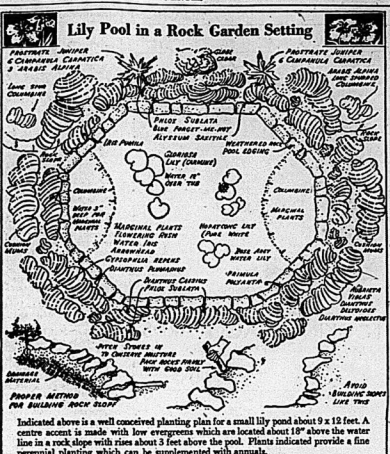
Railway building was already well underway in the United States in the "forties" and all through this decade there were being made to get railways built in Canada, but it was not until the end of 1853 that a railway train crossed the Moira watershed. The means of land travel and transportation continued to be the stagecoach, the private carriage and the wagon.

During the early "forties" there was little change in the condition of the roads in Upper Canada, but about 1845 a movement of road improvement began. Some of the main highways were macadamized in the English fashion, but owing to lack of labor gravel was often substituted in Canada for broken stone. The macadamizing consisted of covering the roadbed with stone broken small and bound by gravel and water. Tar and asphalt binders are of later origin. The gravelling was then done by hand, in England chiefly by the unemployed as relief work. Naturally gravel was considered a poor substitution. In Upper Canada some of the roads referred to as "macadamized" in the 1840's were probably gravelled. Both types were often called "stone roads."

Bad weather conditions could reduce even the best Canadian "stone roads to quagmire on occasion and the immense supply of timber suggested the introduction of the plank road, a type unknown in Europe. Half the road surface was covered with heavy plank, spiked to sleepers much in the same manner as the old-fashioned board sidewalks. The other half was usually gravelled or macadamized, but sometimes plank "turnouts" were made at intervals. Loaded wagons had the right of way in all cases, while light carriages and empty wagons had to turn out for stagecoaches. Macadamized roads were expensive to build and maintain and plank roads were even more costly, so it became the custom to let stretches of road to private companies, who undertook to build good road surfaces and bridges and to maintain these in return for the right to levy tolls on all vehicles. The toll companies were welcomed at first, since they provided the only means of providing really good roads, but they soon became unpopular and in the case of the plank roads they seldom proved a profitable investment.

The road from Belleville to Camden's Mills was planked before 1850 and in that year the Bridge, Rawdon and Tweed Road Company undertook to extend this road to Rawdon (Stirling), completing it in 1850. The road between Belleville and Trenton was also being planked at this time, about half the distance being complete in 1850. These were the chief plank roads on the Moira; but the other main roads were also being improved by different methods and land travel in the "fifties" became reasonably quick and comfortable in good weather, though it never reached the standard attained by the English stagecoaches 50 years earlier.

Stagecoaches in the early "forties" were limited to the "Kingston" road, but by 1851 there was a line which ran from Belleville to Rawdon, by Hamilton and Smithville and in 1856 there were two coaches a day on this line. Stage lines had been started by 1851 from Madoc to Tweed and Madoc, so that much of the watershed was already well served.



Few new roads of importance were opened in the Moira watershed in the "fifties," there was some development of roads in Madoc, Elzevir and Kaladar townships. The existing roads in Madoc were improved and extended and finally the lower part of the Hastings road was made through the centre of the township from Madoc to the northern boundary. The road between Madoc and Tweed was carried on to the new village of "Troy," founded in 1853 by the Honorable Billa Flint. A road was built on the Skootamatta River in Elzevir township (Actinolite), about the same time and was also opened through Kaladar township to Kaladar Post Office" (Northbrook) and a road was made from Flint's Elzevir Mills to his mills higher up the Skootamatta in Kaladar, and on to Kaladar Post Office. As a rule, however, the traffic in this part of the watershed was north and south and there was little connection between the highroads. Queensborough and "Clareville" (Clareview) had no direct connection with Troy and Tweed. These villages were "dead ends" in the early "fifties" although they were already centres of settled areas and both had post offices by 1856.

NO RESULTS PUBLISHED

Vatican City, Nov. 11—(Reuters) — Results of excavations under the Vatican Basilica around the traditional site of St. Peter's tomb will not be published until further investigations, Vatican officials said last night. A report, originally due this year, now is not expected to be published until next spring.

Lily Pool in a Rock Garden Setting

Indicated above is a well conceived planting plan for a small lily pond about 9 x 12 feet. A centre accent is made with low evergreens which are located about 18" above the water line in a rock slope with rises about 3 feet above the pool. Plants indicated provide a fine perennial planting which can be supplemented with annuals.

Construction of this pool was illustrated in a previous drawing in this series.

FORESTS A GROWING ASSET

Poems have been written in praise of trees and departments of governments spare no space in government literature to the value and importance of the forest wealth that a nation reaps which has conserved the bounty of growth in the woodlands. Knowledge grows more and more of the uses to which wood can be put and of the heavy demands made upon the forests for wood as lumber for human habitations and as fuel. Forestry has become one of the major departments of all governments.

Rich as Canada has been and is in her forest wealth, she knows the importance of conservation and every means is taken to protect and safeguard the woods and to add to the timberlands for the future requirements of forest growth. Every day the importance of the woods is recalled to mind in the material from which our homes and furniture are made, in the regular appearance of the daily newspaper which has been a feature to the product, newsprint, paper used by the newspapers in every part of the world. Crating used to be done of wood, it is now done by a product of wood, heavy paper. And the uses of wood in construction grow more and more.

The woods which nature has provided us are a rich treasure. Today conservation is one of the most important departments of government. Wood is of worldwide significance. Creation of new wealth is one of the keys that the tree has for opening a mind to the fantastic picture of the riches which woodlands furnish the human race.

That much of our wealth is owing to the mighty forests which have furnished the impulse for the development of the nation has been known for years. What the future depends much upon the good use to which we put the land and to the care we take in conserving the tree growth is self-evident. Much has been lost through the passage of time. But much remains and there is still the soil which may be used for the planting of new forests.

This week there died in Toronto a man who had done a great deal in reforestation. He was Charles B. Lee who in the past quarter of a century planted more trees in this country of the utmost value. In that time alone he supervised the planting of a million trees on his 400-acre estate in the country around Rockwood, near Guelph. What he has done and will mean to Ontario and Canada can be appreciated only by those who have done some work of this kind, one of the far-seeing occupations to which a man can devote himself. Long in the future the forests for which he was responsible will create a wealth of the resources of the soil, the air and the rain in the form of tree growth which will make a magnificent total. His is an achievement deserving of the commendation of governments and communities and individuals.

In this district there has been much reforestation work undertaken, which is already bearing fruit and will continue to bear in generations hence. To all those who have the foresight to do likewise the future will owe a lasting debt.

Nature in tree growth has contributed one of the means which have directed the course of human life and of history.

CANADIAN TIMBER AT OXFORD

As a proof of what has been said of the importance of our great forest growth, now used so greatly for newsprint and for construction of buildings there is a tribute to the beauty of Canadian timber in a recent issue of United Kingdom Information Office which is worth reading:

Samples of Canada's most beautiful timber are presently on instalment show in a new building at Oxford's ancient university. The building is the new Imperial Forestry Institute, opened last week by H.R.H. Princess Margaret as a Commonwealth centre for forestry training and research.

Gifts of timber from all parts of the Commonwealth have been used in building and furnishing the new Institute which will have 14 different kinds of floor and panelling. The authorities culminate by making a collection of specimens of Commonwealth timber in a museum but they changed their plans in favor of timber actually in use.

From Canada have come gifts of Canadian yellow birch, used as veneered panels, columns and arches in the main entrance hall and ground floor corridor. Western red cedar is used as plywood panels in the large lecture room and as solid knotty panels in the ante-room of the Lecture Theatre, and Oregon pine for underbench laboratory cupboards throughout the building. Western hemlock is used for seating in the large Lecture Theatre, and maple rock in the entrance hall and ground floor corridor.

DISAPPOINTED GOLFERS

Now the disappointed golfers who began in early spring
By announcing with the summer every club they'd learn to swing.
Close their lockers for the winter where the moths can chew their clubs
They are suffering golfers' anguish and it's plain to see it hurts.

Hope refused to keep its promise.
Many a putt has missed the cup
Not for lack of friendly counsel, but the habit: Looking up.
And scores have proved to lower near the hundred count remained.
For the game is simple: Skill by wishing isn't gained.

The drives for length intended shortened were by hook or slice.
Didn't practice what was told them, wouldn't take the pro's advice.
So they had a dismal summer;
"Off their game" the season through.
Now the snow is on the fairways they may read a book or two.

I shall meet them in the springtime and shall smile to hear them say
"Just watch out for us this season. In the seventies we'll play."
We'll make scores that will' surprise you," but I'm betting that they don't.
For "amazing scores" take practice, and I know those fellows won't.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

Nov. 11th, 1925.

It is believed that the meanest man in Belleville has been found. When it came time to count up the receipts after Poppy Day, in one of the boxes was found two or three pearl buttons, just about the size and shape of a 25 cent piece. It is quite apparent that this open-handed spendthrift didn't lose any sons or relations in the Great War or didn't put up with four years of horror fighting for his home and country. It would be interesting to know just who it was that expressed his country's defenders to such an extent.

Students at the Collegiate Institute and public schools observed two minutes' silence at 11 a.m. this morning, out of reverence for those who died in the Great War.

Mrs. Burrows of Toronto spent yesterday in town.

Mr. Byron Hudson of Hamilton, formerly of Belleville, is spending a short time in town.

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 11th, 1900.

The Rev. C. W. Watson of this city preached in the Methodist Church at Cannington yesterday.

A meeting of the Ontario Historical Society will be held in this city next June.

Mr. A. E. Parks left today for Sudbury.

The Rev. J. E. Howell of Beamsville is spending a short time in town.

Mr. William Cross of Madoc was in town today.

Mr. G. A. Booth of Trenton and Mayor Smith of Campbellford were in town today.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A good man among my acquaintances refuses to put out feeding trays and stations for the wild birds on the ground that it is cruel.

"The darn fools," he says, "should have gone south. If you put out food for them, you only lure them from their normal business of getting away when winter comes. You know how we are not being kind to them. We are seducing them."

The fact is, however, that since most of the birds that come to winter feeding stations in cities and towns are already in trouble as they are going. This is the season of the year when they are eke out a living somehow in the wintry gardens, parks and suburbs of the world. Few of us attract them close, so that we may admire them, or be amused by them.

The commonest feeding system is simply a low-sided wooden tray made out of any old box and nailed to a window sill. On it are spread such seeds as millet, sunflower, buckwheat, canary seed, and scratch feed. A dab of peanut butter in a small container, such as the tin lid of a jar, is a good attractor. The hazel nut would undoubtess be the first to discover the treasure. They might even explain your patience and your expectations. But one fine day, a stranger will be among them.

You can saw a coconut in half and suspend the two halves, upside down, with a wire loop through holes in them, from trees or porch eaves. No sparrow can perch from that and defy your feasts. But several species of winter land can. And likely will.

If there is tinker in the house, he can set up a six-foot pole in the yard, insert a length of quarter-inch iron rod in the top; and on that rod erect a small wooden house with a wind-vane like a ping-pong bat projecting from it, so that it swings to face the wind, keeping the one open side of the house away from the gale. To such a feeding station come, in December, figments of last spring and next.

"HOPE CRUSHED TO EARTH"

Thirty-two years ago today the world heaved a great sigh of relief. The World War was at an end. Democracy had triumphed.

One does not need to comment on this blasted hope. Today, democracy is fighting for its life. Idealism probably rose to greater heights immediately following the Armistice than at any other time in the history of our country—and perhaps in the history of the human race. Then came a series of disappointments, mistakes, betrayals; and within a decade, the world was disillusioned and cynical.

Our two recent world wars are their lives for the Empire in the Great War. For two minutes commencing at 11 o'clock all business was suspended except with the railways, which suspended traffic for a period of silence from 12 to 12.02.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

THE NEW SHAPE

This one is from San Antonio, Texas, and concerns The Great American Bosom.

I don't want to appear too preoccupied with bosoms, but I do believe I made some mention of low decolletage in a piece the other day, telling of how the lady commentator who professes to be writing American style in the mimes is not doing it for ballet to keep abreast of the times.

Texas is traditionally the home of beautiful women. The alert observer who strolls the sunbaked streets of Houston or San Antonio is bound to be impressed by the large number of sun-baked beauties. It is significant also that if Texas had the healthiest, most vitality-packed, statuesque women in the world. Every other gal looks as bronzed and vivacious as a Greek Goddess, and just as uninteresting.

This beauty, I feel, is splendid structurally, but without mental power as a female who looks different or provocative. It is the beauty of the assembly line, like any automobile, the kind of mass-produced face and figure you see in Hollywood, or in newsreels where the participants hardly ever emerge as individuals but are merely only as objects or possibly as attractive tennis partners.

The American woman's intense interest in following the whims of fashion has produced this carefully standardized look. England and, more particularly, in France the observer can still see people of unusual truly beautiful woman, a matter of not merely grooming and dress, but of personality also. The difference is the difference between, let us say, Esther Williams and Greta Garbo, Ingrid Grable and Bergman.

American women seem to have forfeited individuality for uniformity and in no department is this more apparent than in the unholy things they are now doing with their chests.

The Equipment

In the earlier days of this development it was simply a matter of cunning subterfuge. Many a middle-aged man, such as gangly correspondent, was bemused to notice what seemed an almost overnight physical change in the female population and inclined to put it down to the fact that she was getting old and perhaps ought to get himself a hobby. Then "falsies" became a national joke, and the sleepy-eyed cynicism began to grow in the minds of the male public.

Today, in Texas, this situation has reached its most ridiculous extreme, for the humble seat bustle did in grandmadd's day. The simulated bust is no longer a joke but a matter of national institution, a community chest. The bolstered, armor-clad female is here, it would seem, to stay.

The extent to which this has progressed, as an industry, is alarming. In Houston, shop after shop displays the latest apparatus in its windows. Advertisements for strapless bras have a language of their own, and deal with stress and strain, adjustment and displacement. Every woman is her own engineer.

On view are a wide variety of harnesses and slings, complicated garments with flexible bone and built up cups, elastic straps to control sags and bulges for "suspended animation" foundations with such names as Hi-Up, Permalift, Yuth-Bust, and awful-looking conical upholstery of foam rubber, lying there in the shop windows, guaranteed to make any woman look like a deformed fullback. One shop even features a night gown with a built-in superstructure.

The tragedy of it is that the American woman run in the pack, as a type, is losing her own individuality and her chance of being interesting.

The next effect is a crippling blow to the feminine form, an altogether admirable piece of architecture when left alone. This artificial over-emphasis is necessarily resisted through the ages in every part of the world.

The only female girl whose desperate aim in life is to get a lower lip like a poster pigeon.

On Display

The plain fact is that the bosom in America has become an erotic symbol. Any malformed and reasonably attractive girl can, in a come a celebrity overnight with a freak bust measurement. The latest of these is Jayne Mansfield, a smart French girl who doesn't even know her name.

Miss Mansfield today to read an interview in the San Antonio paper in which she says: "My 40-inch (waist, 39 inches up there) in which, she proclaimed, "Men who stare at me have to be severely reprimanded. Generally I don't mind showing myself off. After all, one doesn't want to be flatchested and men do like it. But the shape is wrong. It's only a little of the beginning. It's more interesting that way."

Mansfield is the latest Carol Landis, who also earned her notoriety this way. On one occasion, at the Hollywood "bowling" at a Chicago theatre, a gentleman in the audience, noticing Miss Landis' charms and purse her rapidly about the premises, threw a cream pie at her. Every about this and the poor fellow got a year in jail.

Miss Landis is only sensible comment was made by a Chicago columnist whose name escapes me, who opined bluntly that it should have been Miss Landis who went to the pokey. Similarly, Miss Dandridge, for abusing her woman's right to illogic when she protests at the over-exhibition of her audience. Freeks always get stared

Labor Shortage Is Foreseen By Hon. C. Daley

Welland, Nov. 10. (CP)—A labor shortage in the province was foreseen by Hon. Mitchell Daley of Ontario in addressing the Niagara District Personnel Association here last night.

The minister said a tremendous almost unbelievable expansion in industry would find the province 15,000 men short of requirements. He said the federal government realized the situation and was moving quickly on an expanded immigration policy.

Ontario's new labor code, he said, was working satisfactorily. In the period from April 1 to Sept. 30, conciliation officers received 320 requests for conciliation and conciliation officers had settled 220 disputes with the appointment of conciliation boards.

SEVERELY INJURED

Harlow, Ont., Nov. 11 — (CP) — William Thompson 72, of Kingston, was severely injured yesterday in the accidental discharge of his shotgun while hunting with friends. He was taken to hospital. A bullwhich wounded him was fired after being treated by a doctor at Madoc. His condition was weakened by the loss of blood.

5,000 R LICS

Milton, Ont., Nov. 11 — (CP) — Walk into the farm home of Alfred G. McNab and you step into the past. He has 5,000 relics, some dating back more than 350 years. Among the latest items from the Battle of Queenston Heights in 1812, the musket from the Battle of Waterloo in 1815; a flag raised over Londonderry, Ireland during the reign of William III; 500 Indian relics.

Letter to the Editor

Praises Police

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:-

I read an article in the Globe and Mail this morning written by Carey Wilbur re Toronto Police. Having had experience with Toronto police I have found them willing to give directions when asked to do so and willing to help all they can. At the last occasion when I asked:

"Are there crooked policemen on the Toronto force?"

He answers in his own question by saying "Certainly there are. There is not a force in the world which does not have its crooked cops."

I want to tell Mr. Wilbur that he is wrong. Belleville has a police force and I defy Mr. Wilbur or anyone else to point out one crooked cop on that anyone of them ever did. Two or three times when I have been in other towns and the conversation has drifted onto the police forces I have been called by people who have been going through that the police force in Belleville so far as they have been in contact with them are gentlemen and if any one is in any judge of character by looking at their faces that can be seen.

I hope the next time Mr. Wilbur wants to discuss police forces he will come to Belleville and look our force over before he makes any more broad statements.

MALIGNANT HYPERTENSION

I have stated repeatedly here, that high blood pressure in itself, is not a disease, but a reflection of underlying disease processes. Many drugs will temporarily lower an abnormally high blood pressure. When the use of the drugs is stopped, the blood pressure reverts to its former status. In the event of a dangerously high pressure, such treatment may be justified, but it certainly has no effect upon the underlying causes.

I have also repeatedly stated that the nature of the various disease processes which cause abnormal elevation of the blood pressure are not thoroughly understood, and that much research is still necessary before the picture is complete.

A person may go along for years with moderately high blood pressure, and within a few weeks or months suddenly develop an extreme exacerbation of the difficulty, known technically as malignant hypertension. Such malignant hypertension invariably results in death within a year or two, the use of blood pressure lowering drugs notwithstanding.

The underlying factors of this condition are usually demonstrable. Obliteration of the microscopic arteries of the kidneys is one. Increased pressure within the head, resulting in mental disturbance; stupor and often, convulsions, may follow. Blood pressure rises to dangerous levels and hemmorrhage into the brain resulting in paralysis or death is common.

Treatment of this disorder is invariably disappointing. There has recently been evolved a plan of treatment which has been successful in many instances. I do not recommend it, but merely refer to the problem. It is still in the investigative stage, but results up to this point indicate that it has possibilities exceeding what is to be expected of other measures by far.

The treatment consists in production of fever. Fever treatment is not new, it has been employed for some time in the management of arthritis, venereal and nervous diseases. It has been successful in many individual cases.

Another method used in malignant hypertension differs from other fever treatments in that a specific substance—derived from bacteria — is employed. Other fever treatments have commonly utilized entire bacteria — those which cause malaria and typhoid being in point.

The solution derived from the bacteria is injected into a blood vessel. Shortly after injection, temperature rises to 103 or 104. The injections are given daily with one "rest day" for a week. Further treatment is determined by individual reaction of the patient. When the first weeks improvement is noticed and may be apparent at the end of the first week.

Visual disturbance is the first to improve. Blood and albumen which is commonly found in the urine of malignant hypertensives decrease in amount. Blood pressure falls to near-normal figures. The over-all period of treatment may require from three to six months.

Obviously, the treatment can be carried out only in a hospital equipped for the purpose, at the hands of a physician. Every physician, everywhere, either knows about this procedure, or has immediate access to information about it.

I mention it here for the reason that I believe that the fullest publicity should be given to any treatment which offers the possibility of continued life in this heretofore fatal disease.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Sinusitis My Eye

New bride, worried about husband's sinuses. He is constantly taking pills and drops and friends tease him. Afraid it will permanently injure sinuses. (Mrs. C. P., Toronto)

Answer—Benedrine by inhalation is as harmless a drug taken by mouth. Your husband should consult either a physician's care, before he becomes too habituated. More likely his sinuses are all right for some sound advice about his marital life.

Phlimdial Cyst

Have what doctor calls phlimdial sinus, which has been discharging for six years. Advises surgical removal. (Mrs. A. V. A.) They say the operation has not been satisfactory results. (B. M.)

Answer—It is a cyst or sac at the root of the nose. Cure can be found. Openings to the skin through the sac are called sinuses. There is no other treatment than surgical removal.

Pruritus

Please send what information you have to cause and cure of pruritus. (H. J. R.)

Answer—Pruritus is a medical term for itching without separate skin rash. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on Pruritus.

No Cocoa, Chocolate, Tea or Coffee for Children

Young girl suffers from weak kidneys. His mother feeds him a lot of fruit daily, but he insists on having it mixed with cocoa. (Mrs. R. G.)

Answer—"Weak kidneys" probably means bed - wetting. A child with bed-wetting habit. Each of these beverages stimulates the nervous system and the kidneys to the child's detriment. Milk and fresh juice drinks are the beverages for children. Of course, if a child "insists" a wishy-washy parent is frustrated.

GOING, GOING — GONE!

There is a cross section of human life portrayed in auction sales, no matter where they are held. I have been visiting dozens of-the-way farming districts and those in the city auction rooms. And while there is interesting humor, a note of sadness clouds them all, with a fog of memories.

An old rocking chair that had served for many a year and rocked many a baby to the rest and keepsake, but each one significant at some time or other. Perhaps a death, or the taking away of a home after all the "chicks" had hatched and gone to other parts. A segment of life.

Pictures, books, furniture, jewelry—they all pass in parade in the auction room. Illustrations of more opulent days. "Why, ladies and gentlemen, it is a china set, such a work of art to be sold at such a price. In this very room, a few years ago, it was sold for three times the price you now offer. It is a bargain at four times that one plates there. And I know price." Over there. Thank you. added mine—to enrich it!

IVANHOE

Rev. S. A. Delve Speaks at Anniversary

Anniversary services were held in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, Nov. 5th., conducted by Rev. S. A. R. Delve of Seeley's Bay, a former pastor.

The occasion brought former members from distant parts and neighboring charges joined in the worship. The day was made memorable both by the large assembly and the stirring thought provoking messages.

At the morning service the guest minister chose for his text Ezekial 2-1 "and he said unto me, son of man stand upon thy feet." Mr. Delvoe stated that mistaken and wrong ideas are finding their way into people's minds today. Our young people are taught to expect life to be easy, moral standards are slipping. The initial importance of making a decision for Christ in our lives is ignored.

Fight The Good Fight.

He stressed the need of being energetic and strong in a world such as ours, of following Jesus rather than the crowd, of fighting the good fight of faith, that we may lay hold on eternal life, "if we work let us do it with all our might."

If we must fight let us go forth resolved to victory. If we are going to fight let us fight for and to Him, no matter what others do.

If we want to enter His kingdom let us give Jesus our hearts, enter through the straight gate, walk in the narrow way and never be ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, it is then, if you give the world your best, it is only if you give God your best, that you can expect the best to come back to you.

Which Side of the Road?

In the evening this question was asked "on which side of the road are you" "Ex. Luke 10-30. "But a certain Samaritan as he journeyed, came where he was and when he saw him, he had compasion on him."

Many people today feel no sense of personal responsibility concerning the troubled condition of world affairs and the problems which the church must deal with in her every task. Mr. Delve pointed out the need for greater missionary zeal, a more courageous witness by church people against the encroachment of the liquor traffic and the attempts presently being made to take God out of Sunday.

Personal Commitment.

In closing, he appealed for personal commitment to Christ, and that each should be as an instrument in the Master's hands for the healing of mankind.

At the evening worship, Mr. Delve welcomed Rev. A. E. Bakery, of St. Paul's Stirling, who assisted in the service and brought kindly greetings from his congregation.

Special Music

The board and congregation are grateful to Mrs. Baker and the Royal choir for their music and leadership at the morning worship was under the direction of Mrs. Schoolcraft, organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wickens, Glen Miller, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Jeffs, Rawdon.

A large number of friends from Mount Pleasant Church choir, Stirling attended the Sills-Weaver wedding in Mount Pleasant United Church on Saturday afternoon.

RAWDON

Rawdon — The pupils of S.S. No. 3 Allan School, Rawdon township and their teacher Miss Doris Pollock recently enjoyed an educational trip to Hastings County Court in Belleville. They saw the conclusion of a traffic case in the court room after which they visited the Jail.

Visits County Buildings

Mr. Erie Denyes acted as guide and showed them around the building. He also gave a concise picture of Hastings county and the work carried on at Silver Hall. From here the group visited the registry office and learned something of the various departments of work in that building.

The guide and teacher were very thankful to Mr. and Mrs. Denyes for their kindness. Mr. Norman McConnell who made this project possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffs entertained on anniversary Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williams, of Hoard's, Mrs. Frank Jeffs, of St. Catharines and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Jeffs, of Burnbrae.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharpe entertained on anniversary Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. Douglas and Rosemary, Cane where he was and when he saw him, he had compasion on him."

Many people today feel no sense of personal responsibility concerning the troubled condition of world affairs and the problems which the church must deal with in her every task. Mr. Delve pointed out the need for greater missionary zeal, a more courageous witness by church people against the encroachment of the liquor traffic and the attempts presently being made to take God out of Sunday.

Personal Commitment.

In closing, he appealed for personal commitment to Christ, and that each should be as an instrument in the Master's hands for the healing of mankind.

At the evening worship, Mr. Delve welcomed Rev. A. E. Bakery, of St. Paul's Stirling, who assisted in the service and brought kindly greetings from his congregation.

Special Music

Give Hands the Care They Need

During the winter months, guard against chapped hands by applying a good lotion after each washing, if possible. Rub lotion in well.

By HELEN FOLLETT

CLEANSING, lubricating and general movements make up the beauty routine for the hands. Even idle hands will collect a certain amount of dust so that scrubbing with soap suds must go on, and that means that the natural oil that keeps the skin surface soft, smooth and of fine texture is being continually removed. There must be a substitute for this lack that is why every woman should have in her cosmetic equipment a nourishing hand cream or lotion. You will find that items at counters where toilet-ries are sold, and they are good investments.

Rubbing your hands together in the soapy water does not do a thorough job for the hard working housewife whose hands must do heavy work. A hand brush is necessary; find one with short firm bristles. The friction will contribute to skin loveliness by stimulating the blood streams and will also act favorably upon the health of the finger nails.

Keep your nails still while the brush is in motion. Less pressure is exerted than if you pass the nails over the bristles and the tender cuticle is protected. The nails will not be irritated. While your hands are soapy moisten, pass a nail white pencil under the eaves. They'll come out snowy-white.

Every woman should be more or less hand conscious, so she the fingers. Hands are ever on will not assume unlovely poses of nervousness.

Perspiring hands are the pet peeve of some women. They produce almost always to nervousness.

The cure for excessive nervousness is found in physical and mental hygiene. The victim of this affliction should endeavor to have a well-organized life, to pay heed to diet so that she will get all the food elements that are necessary for well being, and to get plenty of sleep.

Women of The Moose

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose was held in the Saco club rooms with a very large number of members in attendance. Senior Regent Selina Isles presided.

After the roll call of officers, recorder Gladys Ritch read the communications. A lovely letter was read from grand recorder, Zola Kenney, complimenting the good work done so far this year. Warrants were issued to help the blind and to procure Christmas presents for the children at Mooseheart.

Junior Graduate Regent Kathleen Donnovan read her report on her trip to Toronto where she attended the Moose Convocation of College Regents. She told of the ceremony of how they received their beanies, and of the good the different chapters are doing in the Province.

Toronto Chapter 54, were hostesses for the day and did a wonderful job. Mary Whitlaw read the report on Mooseheart for Chairman Mary Hanlin.

A vote of thanks was given by pianist Irene Reid for fruit received while she was ill. Two candidates were balloted on and two initiated, after two new degree workers to join the defending circle were Mrs. K. Hodges and Mrs. M. Julien of Port Hope sponsored by co-worker F. Baskey. All co-workers attending Frankford on Nov. 17 will meet at the post office where a bus will pick them up. Another grand evening is in store for the Women of the Moose. Sunshine prize was won by Mrs. Cole. The end table was won by Bro. Ed. Patrick, the lucky ticket being 13. Homemaker Madge Bailey and committee served refreshments.

Silhouetting Slim Slips

Black nylon satin and lace.

By VERA WINSTON

A radical change in clothes silhouette is usually demands an overhauling of the lingerie department. And this season is no exception what with the sheath-slim dresses demanding equally svelte lines righ through to the foundation garment. Black nylon satin is used for an elegant slip that smartly hews to the new lines. Two godets of black nylon lace, to match the bodice, are placed in front from the knee to the hem to allow for plenty of ease in motion. The skirt is gored all around with a set-in bias section at the waist for better fit.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Calloway

Over coffee yesterday, we got round to the subject of these new consumer credit regulations which are back again. Frankly most people seem to feel that we are no worse off than we were before the various were clamped on the sale of luxuries and this new practice of "revolving credit." It is no wonder that people are confused. The frustration these days with so many debts hanging over them for months and years to come . . . And while there is some end to installment buying, the web of "revolving credit" goes on and on like the river.

There is of course, a place for buying on terms those essentials like stoves and furnaces. With high costs of living, many families cannot possibly keep shelltered, warm and healthy without going into debt for some things.

On the other hand, what a pity the old fashioned policy known as "saving up for it" is gone. The boy who saves up for his bike can't help but be happier about his possession than the lad who pays $5 down and a dollar a week. Much of the satisfaction of our possessions today does not even exist, because we haven't really saved up for them. Instead, they are to us monthly pains-in-the-neck as we part regularly with the fruits of our cash . . . Our government is doing a great deal to help individual family and for the country as a whole, by regulating credit purchases.

Someone was telling the story of the floor walker in a large department store who stopped dead in his tracks when he observed a temporary teen-age clerk in the men's hat department direct a man wearing a Homburg to the grocery department.

An employment advertisement appeared in the newspaper the other day which must certainly have tickled the hearts of many young people applying for their first jobs. Instead of being described as a job with a future, this was a job with "a present."

It makes you stop to think whether a lot or us, instead of concentrating on the work at hand, are counting too much on what the future will bring. After all, when a reggae dies, it is the money saved which makes up her assets, not the amount she intends to save over the next 10 years. And it is the friends she has gained through the lad who pays years who come to her funeral, not those she hoped to make when she found herself better off for cash and time.

THOMASBURG

RALLY DAY

Thomasburg — The Rally Day service of the Thomasburg United Church Sunday school was held on Sunday evening last. The Rev. Morley Clarke and Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Donald Richardson, presided. The singing of the boys and girls of the Sunday school under the direction of Mrs. Morley Clarke was much appreciated.

Several scholars were promoted and as they passed through the symbolic gates they were welcomed by their new teacher and presented with their cards.

A pageant by several of the scholars showed the needs of different countries for help in money and prayer, that they might be helped in the Christian work.

Mr. Clarke's address also stressed this great need. To give of abundance to help the many who are in such dire distress and finance Christian missions.

All who were privileged to attend this service must have felt rewarded.

Thanks and great credit were due the entire Sunday school staff and the Rev. and Mrs. Morley Clarke for their untiring efforts in the work of Christ in Thomasburg.

BRIDGE STREET Y.P.U.

On Monday evening at 8:30, Miss Betty McGowan convened the meeting of the Bridge Street United Church Y.P.U. She explained to send presents to aid Christmas Cheer Society for needy children in Muskoka.

Her father doesn't want her—neither does her stepfather

It is incredible how blind many divorced parents are to the effect of their divorce on their child.

However, if mutually jealous parents may have been in breaking up their home and thereby pre-cipitating their children into violent emotional upheaval, one would think they would feel obligated to make up to the children to the best of their ability for having disrupted their lives. Yet letter after letter comes to me from some poor, bewildered child who feels that left to struggle alone with the consequences of her parents' failure to live compatibly together.

Consider, for example, the desperate plight of a 16-year-old girl who writes me that her own father, divorced from her mother when she was two, wants nothing to do with her and that her mother's second husband threw her out of the house not long ago, telling her that "I don't belong in his home and that if it wasn't for him, I would be in the gutter." Her father, she says, is afraid of this second husband, yet because she has already had one child, and is soon expecting another, says he won't marriage to break up. Her attitude in the whole matter is such that this girl's stepfather's daughter of hate has come to the conclusion that "I know if I was out of her way, she would be happy." Perhaps she adds, "She would never admit this, but I know it in my heart and goes on to say, "I know she loves me, and I love her, but I want her to be happy. If she is so far apart, yet nothing can be done about it."

One reason for the gap in understanding between this mother and her father, no doubt, is because the child spent eleven of her starting years living with grandparents, living with them for some time before her parents were divorced and also afterwards. The grandparents did not want the child to leave when the mother remarried, and she didn't want to go. But, she says, it was forced to." At the age of 13, the child was in her own words, so mixed up and unhappy that she tried to commit suicide. This must have occurred after she had been taken from her grandparents and went to live with her mother and stepfather.

Now, at 16, her unhappiness and loneliness make her spend much of her time daydreaming about having a loving husband, a child of her own, and her own home. There is a boy whom she thinks she loves, and who she is sure loves her, but he says he is not to marry him, but, she is convinced she will never marry unless she is sure it is the right man. Her already tragic situation is further complicated by serious trouble with her eyes which she has already lost use of her vision, 50 per cent and may eventually destroy it entirely.

"Would I be wrong in marrying this boy," she asks, "with my problems at home and with my added problems of my failing eyesight?" He says he doesn't care, that he loves just the same as but I don't want to be a burden to anyone."

What I would like to ask this girl is whether or not her grandparents, if they are still living and able to take care of her, might be willing to have her come back to them. Perhaps she knows that them how acutely unhappy she is in her present situation. If she has not, then I think she should. If they are too far away from her to go and see them and discuss the matter, then she should write them just as she has written to me. Her letter leaves no doubt that these grandparents were sincerely devoted to her and would like to have had her continue to live with them. That being so, they are the ones who should try to help solve her problem now, if there is any reason why this girl is unable to communicate with them, I would like to hear from her again and try to advise her further.

As for her daydreams about love and marriage, they are only natural to a girl starved for affection. But, since she declares she is "much older than her 16 years", —which is probably quite true— I hope she will be mature enough not to let her immature desire to escape from her present situation propel her into any hasty and ill-advised romance.

MARIO . . . What's Cooking?

about Food . . . in his distinctive feature

When Robert Burns, Scottish, poet, published his new poems in 1789, the first thing his friends carried in was a quantity of salt broth on the family Bible. It was a well-known symbol of good luck.

Salt, like pepper, has been one of the driving forces of history. Louis XVI of France increased the impalesable hatred of his subjects because he forced them to buy salt at exorbitant and unequal rates.

Salt is as important for flavoring meats as it is in making deserts. A pie crust without salt is flavorless. Even something like chocolate sauce for ice cream requires a pinch of salt.

You don't use salt in cooking smoked ham because the ham was soaked in salt water before it was smoked. If a gravy is cooked along with a ham bone, or a stew recipe, it may or may not require salt depending on the saltness of the ham.

Chestnuts are now plentiful, and their bland flavor combines naturally with smoked meat. Chestnuts should be baked for a short period to aid in removing the shells and then boiled in salt water until tender.

Baked Ham fillee with Chestnuts. Serves 4-5

1 allce ham, 2 lbs., 1 1-2 inches thick
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup chestnuts

Cut off fat from side of ham slice. Chop fat into small pieces. Heat fat in a heavy frying pan until it melts. Remove browned pieces of fat. Let melted fat remain in pan.

Add ham slice to pan and brown lightly on both sides. Remove ham slice to a baking dish.

Remove frying pan from flame. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour, mixing with fat in pan. Gradually add 2 cups hot milk. Add sugar.

Return frying pan to flame and simmer until gravy thickens slightly. Pour gravy over ham in baking dish. Put baking dish in a preheated oven, 325 degrees, and bake ham 1 to 1 1-4 hours or until tender.

Slit chestnut shells on one side with a paring knife. Bake in a hot oven 500 degrees 20 minutes or until shells begin to open. Remove from shells. Boil chestnuts 20 minutes in water to which 1-4 teaspoon salt has been added. Drain. Chop or break chestnuts into coarse pieces.

Gravy Tasty. Skim off excess fat? Add chestnuts. Add salt and pepper to taste. Pour sauce over ham on serving plates.

Cooking by The Clock

Commercial establishments and institutions have used pressure cookers to advantage but cooking under pressure is a fairly new experience for homemakers.

When a new or improved way of doing any household task, is discovered there are always a few daring women who try it out. If they are satisfied they too will adopt ease or better they tell their friends and neighbors. Small, home-sized pressure cookers are being used in more and more homes and are now standard equipment in the bride's kitchen.

Pressure cooking saves fuel and time; but women must learn to use this new piece of equipment correctly in order that it will serve them well and cook the food so that the members of the family will like it.

Saves Time

The pressure cooker allows the woman who works to perform apparent miracles in meal preparation. It is also a boon to the homemaker on her afternoon out, for she is able to serve a delicious dinner half an hour after she arrives home. Economy cuts such as tougher meat and reviving fowl, which ordinarily require such long cooking, may be cooked in a pressure cooker in an hour or under.

Vegetables are cooked in a matter of moments and can be served in all their delicious freshness. The danger of overcooking and spoiling, these delicate foods.

The wonderful food value of whole grain cereals gave them a prominence in the high breakfast menu when the cost stove burned all night and they could cook slowly for hours. Cereals, fruit and other also, to start the day with a satisfying hot cereal for breakfast.

Although the individual homemaker may know how she may best make her pressure cooker be an efficient servant, it is best to follow exactly, the rules laid down by the manufacturer of the particular kind, before she has mastered the basic rules she may try other ideas.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture recommend the following recipes as being particularly good.

Custard—Pressure Cooker Style

4 eggs
1 cup of sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
1-2 teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs until light. Add sugar and salt, blending well. Heat milk and slowly add to egg mixture. Add vanilla. Pour custard into greased, individual moulds or one large baking dish, cover each mould with two layers of waxed paper and tie securely. Place some rack in cooker and place moulds on rack. Cover and allow all air to escape. Cook at 15 pounds pressure for four minutes. Cool cooker quickly.

Variation

Peppermint candy, broken in small pieces, may be sprinkled in bottom of mould before adding custard.

One half the milk may be replaced with tea, strong coffee.

Maple syrup or brown sugar may be used to replace white sugar.

One square of chocolate may be added and melted in the scalding milk.

Old Fashioned Boiled Dinner

3 lb. corned beef brisket, rump or blade
1-2 cup water
1 bay leaf
2 celery leaves
1-2 medium turnip, diced
8 large carrots, halved lengthwise
3 medium onions, halved
3 medium potatoes, quartered
1 small cabbage, cut into sections

1-8 teaspoon pepper

Cover meat with cold water, bring to boiling point and simmer 3 minutes, then discard water. Place meat in cooker with pressure saucepan, add 1 1-2 cups water, bay leaf and celery leaves. Place cover on cooker and cook at 15 lb. pressure for 50 minutes. Cool cooker quickly. Add vegetables and pepper. Cook again, bring to 15 lb. pressure and cook eight minutes. Remove from stove. Serve meat on a large platter, surrounded by vegetables. Thicken gravy and serve separately.

Yield: six servings.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Not an obligation to give engagement present

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one receives an engraved engagement announcement card from a girl one knows very well, is it an obligation to her to send her an engagement present? As a matter of fact I am always at a loss to know when I am supposed to send an engagement present.

Martha N.

It is never an "obligation" to send an engagement present. . . no matter how the engagement is announced—whether it be done written by the engaged girl (the charming and personal way for one to do it) you or her engagement); or by an engagement-announcement card (which is definitely never correct). Sometimes close relatives of the engaged girl do like to send engagement presents, sometimes intimate friends of the girl's family, but other friends or relatives it is entirely a matter of preference. When engagement presents are sent (and they are personal presents for the bride-to-be (unlike wedding presents, which are presents for the new home), perhaps something for the bride's personal trousseau.

Sunday after anniversary date considered better choice

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's parents are soon to have their Golden Wedding, and my husband and I (he is their only child) would like to give an Open House at their home to celebrate this great occasion. The Open House would be given at their house (they live quite nearby), but we would make all the arrangements. Since it is quite a drive for most of their relatives and friends, my husband suggests that we have the party on the Sunday before the actual date, which falls in the week, and a very convenient time. Is this good form?

Mary S.

Quite often when there are these or similar circumstances that indicate it more convenient day, the celebration is "transferred." However, there is a very definite reason under this that is, it is considered "better", safer, to celebrate the anniversary after the date, rather than before it. So if it makes no difference in your plans, I suggest the Sunday after the actual date.

Sheer, flesh-colored stockings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should the bride wearing a white wedding dress wear white stockings?

R.

No, She wears sheer flesh-color-ed stockings.

Not white roses as boutonnieres.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our plan now, is to have the groom, best man, and ushers wear the white rose as boutonnieres. Do you approve, or what would you suggest?

O. W.

A white rose is not very adaptable to wear as a boutonniere, and the men in the wedding party usually prefer flowers that not to wear them. I suggest more simple flowers, white carnations, or small gardenias.

Fashion Flashes

GLOWING COLOR certainly does glow this season. A mid-winter season of beauty could be pink lace, with rippling skirt, is worn under an evening coat of velvet, lined with shocking pink velvet.

TWO-FACED, and we like it—anyway, so far as fabrics are concerned. A handsome afternoon suit is of two-faced satin; one side black, the other a deep blue. Wrapped around the hips and reversible jacket, with corners folded back into hip-curving pockets.

OMBRE effects are starting to appear here and there, maybe the start of another revival. A bare-top evening dress of deep, almost black, charcoal gray through the midriff, shades out with graded layers of black tulle mounted on vivid red faille taffeta. Pale gray tulle scarf.

OUR PRIZE for the smartest cloth coat of the season is a black velour-type wool coat in black, navy or red. Double buttons are almost to the full-length hemline of one model that is cut on pyramid lines. Mandin revers, collar and peaked, tapering lapels are of black fox fur. Pocket flaps are very long and set low with the side flap accenting the pyramid cut of the coat. It has an under-hundred price-tag!

Dramatic For Evening

Black crepe and velvet By VERA WINSTON

TWO fabrics for one dress are better than one as many a designer has demonstrated. This dramatic evening dress made by adroit use of black crepe and black velvet, the two fabrics handled to create a dress that is not only sophisticated, but most flattering. And these twin fabrics ly go together! Black velvet is used for the skirt tiers and for the cuff of the bodice which curves up to a large bow that extends to form a shoulder stole.

RAWDON

Mount Pleasant United Church 79th Anniversary Featured by Special Music

Rawdon — On Sunday last Dr. D. Manuell Smith, Th.D., minister of Campbellford, United Church, was the guest speaker at Mount Pleasant Rawdon 79th anniversary and gave two special messages.

His morning sermon was based on the text "Lo, I am With you Always Even Unto the Ends of the Earth." The speaker said "It was marvellous that Christ is still alive in the world and all should remember that Christ is willing to enter the humblest home."

"The Living Christ is a silent listener at every conversation and a sympathetic friend to each and every one, ever ready to assist in all our needs.

Christ Goes Before us

"The preceding Christ has gone into Galilee and now He is saying, "Follow Me." He expects individuals to carry on His vast work in the world. Closer Walk With God."

His health based his 20 minute address on St. Paul's words "By Grace ye are Saved." He opened with the story pic-turing to all that the door of God's grace is always open to everyone but that individuals try many ways of escape before they find the open door.

Faith is needed and everyone needs strength to endure the storms of life. Many Christian folk know the Saviour but do they know "The Shepherd?"

In order for Christian individuals to carry on God's work they must have faith, strength and Grace.

The service closed on the theme hymn "His faithful follower I would be for by His hand He Leadeth Me."

BEAUTY

Hands up for inspection.

If a woman would be beautiful-ly groomed—and what woman wouldn't?—she must be particularly watchful of the condition of her hands. She can't hide them, she cannot enhance them with synthetic aids, as she can her complexion. There they are, out in the open for everyone to see. Pink, white, tan, they are the outcared-for fingernails, are unquestionably an index to the neglect-ulation of their owner's personal habits. Nail polish that has gone patchy, little shreds of cuticle fringing the talons—these are evidence of lack of fastidiousness.

Artists consider the hand to be second in importance, in beauty and in structure, to the human face. It often happens that they are given mute expressive hand faces. A plain, inclined-to-be-silent woman can use her hands beautifully, let them fall in pleasing poses.

Hands are out in the open for everyone to see.

There are attractions to be found in hands, just as in faces. Strong, capable hands have an appeal. The general contour can possess beauty, specializing in hand-and-arm treatments that are well worth the time and the money. If you haven't the money, but have plenty of time, you can give yourself these treatments at home. Arms need a little loving attention now and then, but seldom get it. Too bad, considering how much a lovely arm contributes to charming appearance when one fares forth in the barelegs format.

From your druggist get some cocoabutter and a small box of almond meal. These are the only materials you will need to get your hands and arms smooth, and white.

Start with a rousing scrubbing with warm soap suds and a heavy brush to condition the flesh. Rinse with warm water and dry.

Starting at the bases of fingers and thumbs, rub the cocoabutter up toward the nails, where you should do rotary motions. From the wrists, work to the fingertips, brushing the backs of the hands. Do up-and-down strokes on your arms, giving special attention to those that are always in need of a soothing touch.

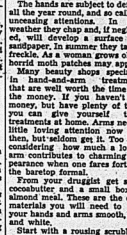
Put the meal in a large tin sugar shaker, fluff it over the table flesh, forming a pack. Wrap arms and hands in steaming hot towels.

ELDORADO

Community Presents Departing Neighbor With Fine Gifts

Eldorado—On Monday evening a large crowd of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pigden before their departure for the new home in Madoc. Mr. and Mrs. Pigden have resided in Eldorado since their marriage 30 years ago.

About 11.30 p.m. the gathering was called to order and Mr. Doug Pigden read a farewell address wishing them every best of those present and of the community, good luck, and an invitation to visit occasionally. Mr. kindly acts in the community which they were going to, thanking them for their many services while they were resident with them. A purse of which, Mr. and Mrs. Pigden were presented with a telephone table and chair, and on behalf of the Eldorado friends and neighbors, by Bernadine Bosley and Vivian Johnson.



Women of The Moos

A very pleasant Wednesday afternoon was spent in the Moss Hall when the Women of the Moss held their annual entertainment. As you entered the auditorium you were greeted by the ushers, Mrs. Reg. Peggy Mills. This room had been decorated for the tea room entertainment with tables covered in pink, gleaming white and silver, with vases of chrysanthemums and bachelor buttons and marigolds. At a large roundtable Jr. Group Capt. Kathleen Donavon poured tea with the assistance of Co-Worker Mary Peoples and Co-Worker Estelle Scrimgeour. The inner room greeted you with lovely aprons for sale, and a baking table with its large assortment of cookies, cake, pies and tarts.

Presiding over this was Co-Worker Florence Carefoot, assisted by all Co-Workers, under the management of Co-Worker Sadie Plaus was adorned with the pet t.. won as follows: Mrs. Simpson Mrs. Dewey, Mrs. Scrimgeour and Estelle Scrimgeour.

The box of groceries, donated by all Co-Workers, was under the care of Co-Worker Lois Downes. Little Patsy Scrimgeour drew the lucky ticket number. The winner was Mrs. J. Cook, Park St. The flowers used for decorating were sent to the families so they will know they were remembered.

The entertainment was supplied by Co-Worker Melba Carey and the Jr. Group.

STIRLING

St. Paul's United Church Holds Memorial Service

Stirling — The Congregational and War Memorial Service of St. Paul's United Church was held on Sunday morning when family and friends honored dead of two World Wars mingled with those who have gone through the "deep waters of sorrow" since last Remembrance Sunday.

Roses of Memory

"Grey skies and winter's first snow were indicative of the opening of nature's season of rest.

Crimson "roses of memory" surrounded the cross on the Holy Table also there was a Vetcraft memorial wreath. The tubers and many other floral pieces were complete.

At the opening of the service the large Royal Junior choir sang the plaintive lament "Tread softly". Rev. Bill Hicks read the lessons and veteran, ably interpreted "There is No Death", "The Church militant" and "Who Are These in Bright Array", between the "Last Post" and "Reveille", which were sounded by cornetist, Bill Aylesworth of Madoc.

The Glorious Dead

George Neaman, veteran of World War 1, stood by the War Honor Roll and read the names of Arthur Smith, Sidney Bamford, Norman Payne, Alex Conley, Fred Dailey, Morley Richardson, Percy Kennedy, Jimmy Rogers and Arthur Conley.

W. A. Abernethy, president of the Stirling Legion, stood by the Honor Roll of World War II and read the names of Harold Bromley, Donald Stapley, Ivan Marshall, Bill Hicks and Bill Stapley. These are they who made the supreme sacrifice.

Civilian Dead

The clerk of Session, George Carlisle, read the names of the civilian dead while the congregation stood in prayerful silence. These were Florence Annis Carr, James Hillyard Beatty, Mary W. Potts, Gail Frances Glendenning, Emma Tanner, Mary Catherine Hawkins, Mary Martin, Thomas William Donahoe, Flossie Hulin, Roy B. Duffin, Charles Herbert David, Maude Marguerite Philp, and Roy Lancaster.

Memorial Bibles Dedicated

Few Bibles were affectionately dedicated to loving memory of Roy B. Duffin and Charles Herbert David, the gift of the Official Board of James Hillyard Beatty, from Mrs. Beatty; of Gail Frances Glendenning, from the parents, and of Donald Stapley, killed in action in Italy, January 8th, 1945, that night his parents and Mrs. Oliver Stapley.

The minister, Rev. C. E. Baker, conducted the service. His text was: Heb. 12:1-2. The lesson was 1 Kings 18:41-46, being a "Soldier father's advice to his son": "Remembrance Day calls us to firm hold on high the torch of Faith; (1) learn with sacrifice, to serve; (2) learn with faith, to stand armed with the crimson sword", said the minister, adapting to them their Daily Prayer, Pt. R. Bird. There is hope for the man who realizes that the issue of life and death is with God, said the speaker.

The "roses of memory" were given to the next of kin at the close of the services by Mrs. C. A. Wells and Mrs. H. D. Parliament.

The hymns used were "O God Our Help in Ages Past", "The Sands of Time are Sinking", "O Valiant Hearts" and the National Anthem.

Ilse Koch, Waiting Trial by Germans, Studies Theology

Munich, Germany,—Nov. 11—(Reuters)—Ilse Koch, ordinated "Mistress of Buchenwald Nazi concentration camp, now in prison here awaiting a German trial on war crimes charges, is studying theology, prison officials said today.

Her trial opens in Augsburg Nov. 27. She is to be charged with 45 murders and complicity in 135 others. Charges include making lampshades from the skins of camp inmates whose tattoo marking pleased her.

Ilse Koch was sentenced by an American War Crimes Court to life imprisonment in 1945, but Gen. Lucius D. Clay, then military governor in Germany, reduced her term for four years.

She was released from the American prison in Landsberg, Bavaria, in October, 1949, but was immediately rearrested by the Germans.

Wolfe's Strategy at Quebec Inspiration for MacArthur In Landing Assault at Inchon

Ottawa, Nov. 11 — (CP)—Gen. MacArthur credits Canadian history and, in particular, Gen. James Wolfe with being the inspiration for one of his most successful operations in the Korean War — the landing at Inchon.

He spent 15 minutes recently telling Canadian Brigadier Frank Fleury why. It happened during an hour-long interview with Gen. MacArthur shortly after Brig. Fleury went to Tokyo as head of a Canadian military mission to the generally U. N. headquarters.

Brig. Fleury, talking to reporters at defence headquarters, said the 70-year-old general, affable and surprisingly young for his age, told him how much he was looking forward to having Canadian troops under his command, and then launched into a story.

Forty-two years ago, Gen. MacArthur said, he was assigned the task of making a thorough study of Wolfe's 1759 assault on Quebec and the Battle of the Plains of Abraham. "I have never forgotten it," he said.

In particular, he had not forgotten how, Wolfe held a council of war with his staff — both junior and senior officers — as the time drew near for assault on the Heights held by the French troops and his Frenchmen.

Wolfe had asked them all, one by one, whether the British force should make a frontal assault with their boats or try to scale the cliffs in a flanking movement. One by one, they came out for the frontal assault.

That was enough for Wolfe.

Since, he had told his staff those 191 years ago, they all felt that way, the chances were that Montcalm did too. So that assault would be made by scaling the cliffs. It was. Quebec was won and Wolfe died.

Gen. MacArthur told Brig. Fleury that Wolfe's reasoning became his reasoning at Inchon. That port was reckoned the toughest and therefore the unlikeliest place for an amphibious assault on that coast, like Wolfe, he chose the unlikely.

The North Koreans were aware that a landing attack was likely from some direction, but were completely fooled, as was Montcalm.

Extensive Property Improvements Noted at Deloro Smelting Company

Marmora — Interest in the exploration work being carried on by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in connection with the discovery of ore at the Ross Rogers' farm and other properties close to Marmora, has naturally much local interest, as well as in other parts of the province, that little attention is being given to the important developments taking place at Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited.

The developments this year include the tearing down of the old silver refinery building and the erection of a fine modern one in its place. The old building was erected about fifty years ago by Canadian Goldfields Limited, which gold was first mined at Deloro. It was the fact that the O'Brien interests owned the building that was the chief factor in the silver refinery to treat the ore from New O'Brien Silver Mine at Cobalt being established at Deloro. Many changes have also been made in the plant in the years which have followed, but the building remained standing until this year.

Fireproof Construction

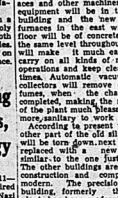
The new building which is about complete is of modern fireproof construction. The frame work is of structural steel and it is covered with corrugated cement - asbestos siding, very strong and practically fireproof. It also a non-conductor as far as heat and cold are concerned, which should be a very comfortable in extremely cold or hot weather. It will be white outside and grayish in color on the inside and gives the building an attractive appearance. The main building is 125 feet long and 32 feet wide. The main floor and the pitched roof is of the same material as the sides. There is an addition or wing on each side, with the walls of the same material and a flat roof.

A railway track runs into the large door on the north end and ore of ore will run into the building and later on be unloaded into the steel bins. The track easy furnaces and other machinery and equipment will be set in place in the building and the new electric furnaces for the treating of the ore will be of concrete and on the same level throughout, which will make it a much easier to carry on all kinds of necessary operations and keep clean at all times. Automatic vacuum dust collectors will remove dust and fumes, when the furnaces are completed, making the new part of the plant much healthier and more sanitary to work in.

According to present plans the other part of the old silver plant will be torn down next year and replaced with a new building similar to the one just erected. Modern methods of brick laying, construction and comparatively modern. The precision casting building, which is the oldest plant, has been modernized with air conditioning. The refinery department has also been installed here, some of very recent date installed to meet changing conditions and increase production at lower costs.

Fine Laboratories

The two laboratories are very fine buildings and few industries in Ontario have any better. The one is known as the plant laboratory, where ore received for treatment is carefully assayed and test runs made to check results of the result of production in the various departments. The other is the research laboratory, where new uses for various ores and products are being developed.



Other factors also help present an encouraging outlook for the company and all interested in the progress of Deloro Smelting and Refining Company. A contract has been signed into for a large quantity of French Morocco ore. A large shipment is due to arrive in a week or two which will keep the company busy until the navigation season opens next spring.

During the next season shipments will arrive regularly and the contract is for at least two years. Besides this there is also a contract for handling the residue of ore from the radium plant at Port Hope, which is rich in cobalt. Greatly improved markets and demand for its products also make the future appear much brighter for Deloro.

Another factor of satisfaction is the improvement in labor relations with the employees of the company. Recently the company gave a per cent increase to all employees and did away with the quarterly bonus, making an average increase of about ten cents an hour. The starting rate now is 85 cents an hour for male employees, which together with insurance, medical and pension benefits makes the rate of wages as high or higher than in other industries in this part of the province.

Nearly years Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited has been the most important factor in the industrial life of Marmora, and residents of this village and district generally will wish them continued and increasing success in their operations.

Spectators Weep As Fosbraey Tells Story of Killing

Picton, Nov. 11 (CP) — Spectators wept Friday as James Fosbraey, accused of murder, sobbed out the story of his pretty wife's death in a snowbank at Napanee, Ont., last Nov. 28.

"She was lying at my feet groaning," said the 20-year-old RAF veteran a native of Stittsbourne, Kent, England, "and I realized I must have pushed her I knelt down and kissed her."

Fosbraey admitted to police shortly after June Marie Fosbraey was slain. At his first trial he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. The Ontario appeal court ordered a new trial and granted his request that the case be tried in Picton rather than Napanee.

The Fosbraeys met during the war when he took RAF training near Kingston, Ont.

He testified Friday that an estrangement between them and his family started in October, 1949, when he suspected her of "being too friendly" with Stanislaus Steinbach, a friend of Fosbraey.

He said he heard his wife telephone Steinbach and say: "Is everything satisfactory at your end? It is at this end."

This call, Fosbraey said, was after she had asked for a divorce and suggested that he return to England. He denied earlier testimony that he told Steinbach he could see Mrs. Fosbraey because of his friendship for her.

"I hated him because he was the one who came between me and my wife," said Fosbraey. Later he had come to believe his wife had not committed adultery.

During his visit to England he received a letter in which she told of seeing Steinbach.

"She said it was none of my business what he was doing to her."

Saw Wife on Street

He related how, after days of mental anguish because of the estrangement he saw his wife on a street.

"I asked about our future and she said you've had your chance and muffed it." She told me she had spent the weekend with Steinbach and was going to live with him as his commonwife's wife, and it was none of my business. And then it happened.

"The next thing I remember she was lying at my feet, groaning, and I realized I must have stabbed her. . . ."

At this point, Fosbraey broke into tears and laid his head on the witness box. The court was recessed.

When court resumed, Fosbraey said: "I told her that I would be coming with her soon. I was going to kill myself then, but I thought I would let the law do it."

He said that on his way to the police station, he realized he was carrying "the dreaded knife" that had killed her and I threw it away."

He told of writing letters to friends admitting his crime "so the letters would be intercepted by the (jail) governor and I would die sooner."

All told Friday, Fosbraey spent 6 1-2 hours in the witness box. He was 2 1-2 hours in the dock and a "git-tar" as the guests swayed to some good old-fashioned square-dancing. The picture is staged to raise funds for the orchestra. — (CP Photo.)

Legion Asks Govt. For Some Form of Compulsory Service

Ottawa, Nov. 11 (CP) — The Canadian Legion Friday asked the cabinet for immediate introduction of national registration and "some form of compulsory military service, without registration, in the reserve forces."

In the annual presentation of its views to Prime Minister St. Laurent and other members of the government, Legion officials generally requested that the "necessary steps be taken to mobilize the country's resources for defence purposes without delay."

A brief presented by Group Capt. Alfred Watts of Vancouver, national president, said:

"United Canada's war potential is mobilized and made immediately available it is of little value either as a deterrent to aggression or as a means of defence if war breaks out."

National registration, the brief said, would "provide up-to-date information available to manpower to serve as a basis for compulsory service in the reserve forces."

It added:

"Since the defence pattern of the country rests to a large degree on the reserve forces, and since the Legion provides such a fertile source of volunteers for active service . . . it would serve the interests of the country to introduce some form of compulsory service without exemption, in the reserve forces.

"This could be done by utilizing constituted reserve units or by establishment of reserve training centres, where certain basic training, at least, could be given. We feel that this is a practical and necessary answer to the obvious need of larger numbers of service personnel with more ministers of modern training and would offer the last dedication to Canadian Industry."

The Legion also urged:

1. Continued rent controls and, if the situation warrants, even "more stringent controls."

2. Curbing of subversive activities by law and a program to expose the aims and techniques of communism, to educate Canadians in citizenship, to eliminate abuses which help communism and to block employment of reds in any job where they could hurt Canada.

3. Most careful attention to the dangers of "fifth columnism and subversive activities in our midst."

4. One-third increases in war veterans' allowances because of the rising cost of living.

5. Increases in war veterans' pensions.

6. Provision of low-cost housing.

7. Hastening of home construction for service personnel to take the strain off civilian housing.

No Certain Proof Rebel Leader Was Casualty

Saigon, Indo-China, Nov. 11—(AP)—French army headquarters today listed Ho Chi Minh, president of the Communist Vietminh government, as a "possible casualty" in a French bombing attack Nov. 2 on his jungle HQ.

A military spokesman emphasized, however, that there is no certain proof the rebel leader was a casualty.

In response to questions by correspondents, the spokesman said Ho Chi Minh may have been with Vo Nguyen Giap at Langson, 130 miles northwest of Hanoi, when French Bombers and fighters unloaded on the headquarters last Saturday.

The air strike was ordered on the supposition that important Vietminh military conference was scheduled there at that time, believed Ho would attend the parley.

French bombers virtually wiped out the town in more than five tons of explosives.

Observers accredited with great reserve the report that Ho might be dead.

Ho's death would be of great propaganda value to the French interests and to the Bao Dai government.

FRANKFORD

Monarchs Lead Bowling League

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League continued a red hot race Thursday night, and the standings are very close, as is the fact that there were three teams of four-three in the Valley. The Hornets gained a point on the league leading Monarchs, as they flew the Ace Acres, knocking them out of a first place tie. The Sharpshooters moved into a tie with the league leadership by taking four from the Lucky Strikes. Other matches saw the Screwballs, with the Sharpshooters, taking a fifth point in Alley Cats. Bob Arbuckle rolled a 304 game for high single for the evening.

Next week, it's Lucky Strikes vs Alley Cats on 1 and 2, Sharpshooters and Royals on 3 and 4; Hornets and Screwballs on 5 and 6; Monarchs and Aces on 7 and 8.

Standing

Team	Won	Lost	Pts.
Monarchs	16	11	37
Aces	15	12	36
Lucky Strikes	15	12	35
Alley Cats	14	13	34
Screwballs	14	13	34
Sharpshooters	13	14	30
Royals	13	16	25
Hornets	10	17	23

Russian Strategy Defied by Captain

St. Catharines, Nov. 11 (CP)—As in Korea, "the struggle to free" any worthwhile national movement for independence and unity and civil liberties is a Red movement, Capt. R. G. Cavell, retired British Army officer, told the St. Catharines branch of the Canadian Legion last night at the annual remembrance banquet.

"The Koreans are only pawns in a gigantic, world-wide power game in which we find ourselves involved," said Capt. Cavell who spent nearly 24 years in the Orient.

RAWDON

White Asters Mute Tribute to the Glorious Dead

Rawdon—Last Sunday a special "Remembrance Service" was observed at Carmel United Church. The minister, Rev. A. E. Baker, based his message on a "Soldier Father's Advice to His Son". White asters were mute tribute to those who had "passed on."

In World War I the name of Sidney Sanford and in World War II, Arden Lashaw and Roy Cooley rolls the commemorative names, Baby Barbara Cecile Stapley and Mrs. Ed. Pyear, were baptized.

Mrs. Lorne Brooks presented "roses of memory" to next of kin at the close of the service.

Memorial Vases

Two lovely vases were presented to Carmel United Church in loving memory of Barbara Cecile Stapley, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stapley and her grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Stapley.

The service closed with "O Valiant Hearts."

Poppies were used as a special symbol of remembrance.

BANCROFT

Cadet Company Being Formed

Bancroft — A Royal Canadian Army Cadet Company, affiliated with "A" Company of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, is now being formed in Bancroft, it was announced this week. When fully organized it will consist of 3 troops of cadets plus officers and instructors from the high school staff. The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is the cadet instructional cadre of the Eastern Ontario Command of the Canadian Army.

In order to train a student group of officers and N.C.O.'s, Major C. H. Broad, o/c "A" Company of The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, with company headquarters at Bancroft, has arranged to send some of his officers and N.C.O.'s to Camp Borden as a class of students and instructors. C.S.M. Donald Russell and Sgt. Jack Mc Cullough have agreed to start this group within the next few weeks.

The high school board is now arranging to have a quarterdeck master's supply room set up in the rooms beside the gymnasium and a rifle range in the basement of the school. Unlike many of the cadet corps in Ontario high schools this unit will have to have all its parades during school hours as many of the students come back and forth to school by bus. It is expected that the major part of Friday afternoons at North Hastings High School will be set aside for periods of drill, fieldcraft and woodcraft, including map reading, gymnastics, target practice and other military subjects as the boys start to prepare for their spring inspection and annual summer camp.

Principal W. R. Robinson, assisted by Lawrence Davidson and Henry Smith of the school staff, will be in charge of the program.

Leader Does Not Think Legislation Will Set Pattern

Toronto, Nov. 11—CP—A rail union leader said Friday he does not fear parliament's legislating during August general rail strike will set up a pattern for compulsory arbitration in labor disputes.

J. E. McGuire of Ottawa, national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C. C. L.), expressed this view before the Ticker Club. His union is the largest single organization of the 17 that went on strike.

The legislation called for a government arbitrator to settle retaining points at issue between the railways and unions. Some union men have criticized it as tending to set a precedent for compulsory arbitration of disputes.

Mr. McGuire says he does not share these fears, adding he is very organized labor in Canada will "resist to the limit of its ability any denial of its right to strike."

While opposing the principle of compulsory arbitration he said Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement to parliament that the August emergency was not compulsory arbitration in the usual sense "is not as far off the beam as some would like to make you believe."

Got More Than Offered

Mr. McGuire said the legislation started when negotiations were more than the railways were offering and provided an opportunity for the unions to obtain further concessions by arbitration.

"The legislation has not only established the five-day, 40-hour week beyond the expectations of all railway workers in Canada," he said, "but I am confident that many thousands of workers in other industries will get the five-day, 40-hour week much sooner as a result of the government in this instance."

He said some workers at first sight were not the most satisfactory solution from the standpoint of the railway workers, but he added:

"Frankly, whether we like it or not, parliament probably went as far as it could be reasonably expected to go in an effort to end speedily the creeping paralysis which the strike was causing."

Plan for Turning Human Corpses Into Mummies

Chicago, Nov. 11 (AP) — Embalming manufacture gave up today with a modern plan for turning human corpses into mummies.

U. A. Sanabria, president of the American Television Incorporated, said bodies put through the process "should last 2,000,-000 years."

He outlined these steps:

First, the body would be "washed out" with chemicals.

Next, it would be wrapped in glass cloth and placed in a glass tube a little greater than the body.

Then the tube would be connected with a pump, and all moisture in tissues and cells would be placed around the tube. The electronic device would then dehydrate the body while the pump would draw out the vapor and air.

The process would require about 30 days, and then the body would be sealed. The tube could be placed in a conventional casket or buried in the ground or cache in a vault.

Sanabria said experiments have been carried out with meat and dead animals.

Molotov Rises To New Heights Of Soviet Favor

Berlin, Nov. 11 (AP) — The Soviet Army's official newspaper confronted with visual evidence today that V. M. Molotov has risen to new heights of favor in the Kremlin.

The Tagliche Rundschau published a full page of pictures of ceremonies in Moscow commemorating the 33rd anniversary of the red revolution showing Molotov in significant formations. The newspaper's editors have indicated that the former foreign minister may have displayed his way to the No. 2 spot in the politburo.

Molotov appeared at the reviewing stand for the anniversary parade in red square shows 22 leading Soviet figures taking the salute with Molotov in the precise center. Premier Stalin was missing. Covered in line to succeed Stalin, and Lavrenti Beria, head of the secret police, was missing from the scene for the first time in some years.

Earl Russell, Philosopher. Wm. Faulkner U.S. Novelist, Given Nobel Literary Awards

Stockholm, Nov. 11 — (AP)— British philosopher Bertgand Russell and American novelist William Faulkner were today awarded Nobel literary prizes for 1949 and 1950.

The Swedish Academy elected Faulkner as winner of the 1949 prize withheld last fall. This year's prize was given to the 78-year-old Earl Russell, internationally-famed philosopher, mathematician and moralist.

The literary award was not made in 1949 because of a deadlock in the academy over a choice between Winston Churchill, British statesman and historian, and Italian philosopher Benedetto Croce. Neither figured in the final balloting this year.

The winners were selected from among more than 50 candidates. They will receive the awards from the new Swedish King, Gustaf VI, when the Nobel foundation celebrates its 50th anniversary Dec. 10th.

This year's prize money totals 164,303 kronas ($31,715), while the sum fromm last year totalled 156,229 krona.

Final Time Two Prizes

This was the first time two full literary prizes had been awarded simultaneously.

Faulkner is the fourth American to win the Nobel prize for literature. Others have gone to novelists Sinclair Lewis and Pearl S. Buck, the playwright Eugene O'Neill. Poet T. S. Eliot, American born, but a British citizen now, also received the prize.

Faulkner, who had a meagre formal education, enlisted in the RAF in 1918 and saw combat in France.

With the selection of Earl Russell, awarding body abandoned the purely literary line for the first time in 22 years. In 1927 the French philosopher Henri Bergson received the award. In 1908 the choice was German philosopher Urdolf Eucken — criticized as one of the academy's weakest decisions.

The 53-year-old Faulkner has written more than 20 books, including the best-selling "Sanctuary," "Intruder in the Dust," "Light in August" and "Absalom, Absalom!"

Writes of South U.S.

The southern states comprise his only subject. Eschewing the "Moonlight and Magnolias" school, he has depicted a south haunted and at bay, but still clinging to its heritage. Critic and public alike have acclaimed him as one of the greatest American writers.

Earl Russell, three times married and twice divorced, was first of all a mathematician, and later applied the mathematical approach to cold reasoning in philosophy. But his voluminous work embraces dissertations on the history of philosophy, on morals, the frontiers of knowable science and on education.

His unorthodox views have generated many an intellectual storm. Ideas, for example, that marriage should be companionate and experimental rather than binding, until the arrival of children, or that most university students should have temporary trial marriages caused a New York court in 1940 to revoke the philosopher's professorship at New York's City College.

Born at Trellick, England, May 18, 1872, he became the third Earl of his line on the death of his elder brother in 1931. His vast and scintillating literary output is marked throughout by lack of respect for authority in morals, aversion for dictators in politics and reverence for logic in philosophy.

15 Days Minimum Drunk Driving Penalty In St. Thomas Court

St. Thomas, Nov. 11—(CP)—Disturbed by the large number of drunk driving cases—some of them repeaters—Magistrate Donald Smith said in court here today that from now on the minimum penalty for those convicted of this offence would be 15 days in jail instead of seven days.

Numbers Lottery Charge Dismissed

Windsor, Nov. 11 —(CP) — A charge of conducting a numbers lottery, laid against Mrs. Ena Vincent, was dismissed yesterday when defence counsel Morris Kamin argued that the charge was improperly laid.

Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan agreed that the count against the woman embodied two charges, and could not be corrected.

A similar charge against Mason Jasper will be re-written, Acting Assistant Crown Attorney Hugh C. Arrell said. Jasper was remanded to Nov. 16 for trial.

Mr. Kamin argued that the charge against Mrs. Vincent could not be re-written because the Crown had already presented its evidence.

Jasper and Mrs. Vincent were arrested Oct. 19 in morality squad raids in which a supply of numbers tickets were seized. Police said they believe the tickets were printed in Detroit, with the winning number published daily in Detroit newspapers.

The granting of complete responsible self-government was urged in the famous Report of Lord Durham in 1839.

Estimate Cost Highway Widening

Dryden, Ont., Nov. 11 (CP) — A survey to estimate the cost of widening the Trans-Canada highway is nearing completion in this northwestern Ontario district. Three surveyors have been working since early summer.

J. G. White, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature for Kenora, said specifications call for paving to a width of 34 feet in most places.

SUPPLIES IRISH NEWS

Dublin, Nov. 11 —(Reuters)— The government - controlled Irish News Agency has circulated about 220,000 words in its four months of existence and has had 60 items published in the United States, Foreign Minister Sean MacBride said yesterday. The agency was created by the government to "supply Irish news to newspapers throughout the world, to give Ireland's point of view, and to counteract anti-Irish propaganda."

THREE-YEAR SENTENCE

Simcoe, Nov. 11— (CP) — William Makarchuk, 19, of Charlotteville township, convicted by an Ontario Supreme Court jury of retaining stolen goods valued at $1,200 taken from the farm home of Lloyd Ryan July 5, was sentenced Friday to three years in penitentiary.

Will Aid Move Against Drinking Drivers of Cars

Toronto, Nov. 11 —(CP) — Operators of 107 Toronto cocktail lounges and taverns decided at a special meeting yesterday to assist the police drive against drinking drivers.

J. J. Corcoran, president, said the Association of Toronto Hotel Proprietors is "most anxious to continue the promotion of moderation and assist police in the fullest extent in their campaign."

The Association's action was prompted by a statement by Traffic Inspector Vernon Page that the number of drinking drivers arrested this year had increased 22 per cent over 1949.

Mr. Corcoran said proprietors spend thousands of dollars every year for supervisors, floor managers and doormen whose job it is to enforce moderation.

Posters now would be placed at exits and entertainers would give safety messages to patrons.

Demands Suppression Of New-Fascist Party

Rome, Nov. 11 —(Reuters) — The Italian Socialist Workers Party today demanded the suppression of the rapidly growing neo-fascist Italian social movement.

A resolution by the party executive drew attention to the wave of violent demonstrations staged by the movement in the last two weeks and called the government's refusal to allow it to hold meetings.

It condemned "the growing invasion of high public office by men tainted by the past fascist regime who now betray and undermine the democratic regime which generally extended its hand to them."

FIRE ON BRITISH FREIGHTER

Hong Kong, Nov. 11 — (AP)— Chinese communist shore batteries dotting the islands south of here fired on the British passenger freighter Serampore Wednesday, reports there said Friday. The reds were reported to have fired a number of shells, all of which fell short, as the ship was approaching Hong Kong.

Resolution Respecting Labor Relations Proposed by C of C Approved by Convention

Niagara Falls, Ont. Nov. 11 — (CP) — A resolution that might spell the end to about 12 electrical shops operating under various Ontario Public Utilities Commissions was passed on to the directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce at the close of its business sessions here yesterday.

Sponsored by the Belleville delegation, the resolution urged the Ontario Hydro Commission to use its influence to have all P. U. Cs close down their appliance shops.

Malcolm Robb of Belleville explained that the shops had been opened originally to boost the sale of electrical appliances in the days when it was thought that the best way to reduce power costs was to increase the load.

He said the load has been done and now business men would like the shops shut down. They complain that the shops have few of the private enterprise overheads, such as, corporate tax, rents, heavy sales help, wages and credit systems.

E. D. Tolchard, general manager of the Toronto Board of Trade, said that in Toronto the U.C. shops boosts the smaller retailers in its advertising, pays all these overhead costs and allows small-er retailers to make big sales through its shops. This was done some time ago following a complaint from small retailers, he said.

Former Minister's Death Brings Regret

Ivanhoe — News of the death of Rev. John R. Bick of Bobcaygeon was received here with deep regret, shared by old friends in Ivanhoe and surrounding district.

John R. Bick was a man of strong character and in his character was a steely quality enabling him to go the second mile, evidenced by his labor on Snuggs Island, after the allotted time for active service in the church was over. He served his day and generation well.

Though many years have passed since he served the Ivanhoe charge, his affection for his people, of his first pastorate never lessened. And so Ivanhoe is proud to unite with those who mourn his sudden passing and to extend deepest sympathy to Mrs. Bick and the members of his family.

4TH SIDNEY

4th Sidney — A Hallowe'en party was held in the community hall last week, sponsored by the Trail Rangers. Many came in costume and the judges had a difficult task awarding the prizes. Games were played and a lunch enjoyed by evening was spent.

Mrs. Charles Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Knight and Beverley accompanied by Miss Phoebe Kerr of Thomasburg spent a week visiting relatives and friends in Vermont, Mass., Bridgeport, Connecticut and other places of interest in the United States.

Rev. C. W. Neelands attended a presbytery meeting at Marmora on Tuesday.

Plans are being made for the leadership training school which will be held in Stone Church from Nov. 13-17th.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gray attended the Holstein-Freisan banquet at the community hall, Stirling on Thursday evening.

Speaking Contest

Jack Vermilyea and Jack Rushnell represented S. S. No. 20 at the speaking contest held at Wallbridge on Thursday evening. Congratulations to Jack Rushnell who captured first place in the senior class.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woods enjoyed a motor trip last week through New York and Pennsylvania states, travelling from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia on the new super highway.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Chisholm Shirley and Joan were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tucker, Stirling and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stiles Bonarlaw.

A few of the ladies attended the W.I. convention at Belleville this week.

Mrs. Everett Phillips entertained at a Wear-ever brush party on Thursday afternoon. After the demonstration by Mrs. Rawson, Mrs. Phillips served refreshments and the ladies enjoyed a social chat.

The members of the Stone Church Orchard board attended a board meeting at Wallbridge on Tuesday evening.

ON-THE-LIMB CLUB

Well, here we go again. The Out-on-the-Limbers have been limbering themselves up their backs their own front office lately, take the ice in Montreal tonight with almost everybody shifted around but the goalie.

The reliable Chuck Rayner, one of the National Hockey League's top netminders, will be in his accustomed position.

But a wholesale shake-up of forward lines and rearguard pairings has followed the Rangers' dismal showing at home last Wednesday night when they blew a 3-0 lead and lost 5-3 to Toronto Maple Leafs.

It was their sixth loss in 12 starts. They've tied five and won two.

Coach Neil Colville benched two workers, Pentti Lund and Dunc Fisher. Fisher, a Regina product, later was shipped to St. Paul Saints of the United States League.

Veteran Buddy O'Connor was removed from the regular line and assigned solely to penalty-killing roles or duty on power plays when the opposition is short-handed; rookie Reg Sinclair was shifted to the line with Edgar Laprade and Tony Leswick, while Dave Creighton, Alex Kaleta and Ed Slowinski were teamed on another. Left intact was the trio of Max Bentley, Nick Mickiski and Jack McLeod.

Colville split up the Pat Egan-Frankie Eddolls defence team and paired Egan with Gus Kyle, Gus Kyle with Wally Stanowski and Eddolls with Allen Stanley.

In other games tonight, Detroit Red Wings tackle the Leafs in Toronto while Chicago Black Hawks journey to Montreal Bruins in Boston. Sunday night Toronto is at Boston, Chicago at New York and Montreal at Detroit.

The Red Wings will be strengthened by the return of defenceman Leo Reise to the line-up for their clash with the red-hot Leafs. Reise has been sidelined with an ankle injury.

Coach Tommy Ivan of Detroit looks to Reise to improve Detroit's defensive play at home and to Leafs' undefeated streak of 11 games. In two previous meetings this season with the Leafs, the Red Wings tied 4-4 at home and lost 1-0 in Toronto.

Colville Benches Two Regulars Of N.Y. Rangers

Hamilton Tigers Win Over Marlies With Spare Goalie

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers picked a goal-tender out of the crowd last night and won their first game in Toronto in two years.

The 7-4 victory over Toronto Marlboros in an Ontario Hockey Association major series moved the Tigers into third place, two points up on Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen. Marlies lost a chance of pulling out of their first-place tie with Toronto St. Mikes.

The Tigers choice of Lloyd Ayers, a Toronto intermediate goalie, came at the end of the first period when their regular netminder, Bruce Dale, was taken to hospital with a gashed leg.

Dale held Marlies to three goals while his new mates scored in the second and third periods. Hamilton scorers were Murray Comfort with two, Tom Smith, Abe Conick, Harvey Fraser, Mayer and Gord Cruikshank. Bob Hassard, Bill Johnson, Sandy Milne and Don Rope were Toronto marksmen.

Dale's right leg was cut in a scramble before the game and a muscle was severed. Dr. George Kitchen, who operated, said the goalie won't be in hockey for at least six weeks—probably more."

Generals Overwhelmed

In O. H. A. Junior 'A' games last night St. Catharines Teepees overwhelmed Oshawa Generals 7-2, Toronto St. Michael's upset Windsor Spitfires 2-1, Guelph Biltmores defeated Toronto Marlboros 4-2 and Barrie Flyers drubbed Stratford Kroehlers 12-3.

The Teepees moved into a tie atop the 10-team loop, one point ahead of Barrie. Ed Litzenberger scored twice for St. Catharines while singletons were tallied by Wayne Brown, Buddy Bacon, Jim Robertson, Toyota and Pierre Pilote. Alex Delvecchio and Paul Liver scored for Oshawa.

St. Mikes decision was only their second win in 10 starts and it snapped a five-game Windsor winning streak. Ted Sandford and Bob Sabourin scored for the Irish, John Offidani for Windsor.

High-Scoring Team

Doug Towers, Leo Labine and Lionel Barber each scored twice for the high-scoring Barrie team. Singletons were scored by Chuck Wood, Real Chevrefils, Jim Morrison, Don Emms, Jerry Toppazzini and Jack McKnight. Johnny Wood scored two for Stratford with Brian McFarlane getting the other.

Don Keith paced Guelph in the Biltmores victory with two goals while Chuck Henderson and Eddy Kulik got singletons. Ron Hurst and Danny Poland scored for Marlboros.

Weekend games:

Major—Saturday — Kitchener-Waterloo at St. Michaels;

Sunday — St. Michael's at Marlboros.

Junior—Waterloo at Galt; St. Catharines at Oshawa; Sunday—St. Michaels at Marlboros.

Jockey Breaks Modern American Winning Record

(By The Canadian Press)

Jockey Willie Shoemaker broke the modern American record for winners in a season Friday and maintained a dwindling lead over his nearest rival in the race for 1950 riding honors.

Shoemaker won two races at Hollywood Park, bringing his total for the year to 321 and breaking the old record of 319 posted by Johnny Longden, the Western Canada veteran, in 1948.

Pressing close behind, however, was Joe Culmone, who scored a triple at Pimlico and boosted his triumphs to 318.

The 19-year-old Shoemaker won aboard Harbor Pilot in the first race and hit the winner's circle on fair regards in the feature seventh race.

Shoemaker started off today with a four-race margin over Culmone in their first cross-country rivalry. At one time, with the difference in time zones, Culmone had pulled up to within one race of Wee Willie, with victories on Pimlico, mere bones in the fourth and Twinkley in the fifth.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, slated to represent Canada in the world Amateur hockey championships in Paris next March, are pacemaking for the services of Garth Boesch, former Toronto Maple Leaf defenceman, an official reported Friday.

Boesch, who formerly played in Lethbridge with the now-defunct senior Maple Leafs before turning professional, turned, yesterday at the end of the National Hockey season last spring.

An inquiry has been ordered into boxer Tommy Farr's latest comeback effort.

Farr knocked out Piet Wilde of Belgium in the third round at Belgium Friday night. Monday night Referee Moss Deyong ruled Wilde failed to beat the count but Deyong consulted observer thought Deyong counted only nine instead of ten.

The inquiry, ordered by the British boxing board of control, probably will be held next week.

The fight was the second in the 36-year-old Farr's heavyweight comeback campaign. His next bout is scheduled for Dec. 4, at Carmarthen, Wales, against Gino Buonvino of Italy.

Pete Leswick Retires

Pete Leswick veteran player in the American Hockey League, announced last night he is cutting loose from the Buffalo Bisons to return to his home in Los Angeles.

"When you have played hockey for 14 years it's pretty hard on the first line, it sort of hurts your pride to sit on the bench and play only the odd game," Leswick told a reporter. The Bisons have used him mainly as fill-in this season.

Leswick said he has several business interests in Los Angeles and wants to talk things over with his wife before making a definite decision on his future.

Art Chapman, general manager of the Bisons, expressed surprise and commented:

"We need a guy like that who can play for us without any fuss. Pete is a little fellow, and we couldn't see any sense in having him take a battering game after game. This other way he would be fit and available any time and reasonably needed. We're sure we will find plenty of nights this season we will wish we had him around."

Kid Gavilan and Tony Janiro will meet in a 10-round match on the Cleveland News' 25th annual Christmas fund boxing program, Dec. 4.

Janiro, Youngstown, O., fighter, recently lost a close decision to Vic Gavilan.

Gavilan, a Cuban, holds two 10-round decisions over light-weight champ Ike Williams and went 15 rounds with Sugar Ray Robinson in a welterweight title bout.

A New York player suffered a concussion last night as Boston Olympics defeated the New York Rovers 4-3 in an Eastern league hockey game before 4,362 Boston Garden fans.

Art Stone of the Rovers was taken to nearby Somerville Hospital for observation after striking his head against the boards in the second period.

Sugar Ray Robinson, world welterweight boxing champion, sails for Europe today aboard the French liner Liberte. He's going in style.

The champ, who fights French middleweight Jean Stock in Paris, Nov. 27, will be accompanied by his wife, manager, two trainers, his secretary, personal barber and golf pro.

Gainford said Robinson might have two other non-title fights in Europe.

Western Colts Defeat Varsity By 33-19 Score

Toronto, Nov. 11 — (CP) — Western University Colts unleashed a surprising attack both along the ground and in the air Friday in smothering Varsity Blues seconds 33-19 in an intercollegiate intermediate football game.

The Colts fashioned their second victory of the season against four losses largely on the sparkling performances of quarterback Bob McMurdo and halfback Jerome.

McMurdo concentrated on an aerial attack for the first half, during which the Colts built up a 17-1 lead. The backfield general then switched his attack to the ground, and with equal success as the Londoners ran up their lead to 23-1 before Varsity got their first major.

Jerome came through with some terrific kicks which on several occasions cut off threatening drives by Toronto. He also scored one of the Colts' six majors.

Bill McFarlane shone in the Varsity backfield until the third quarter when an injury forced him to the sidelines.

BROCKVILLE BLANKED

Kingston, Nov. 11 — (CP) — Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute junior football team won the Eastern Ontario Secondary School Association southern conference title, blanking Brockville Collegiate 24-0 here Friday.

A 60-yarc run by Doug Arniel in the first quarter set up the first Kingston touchdown, scored by Case. Sedgwick converted.

In the third quarter, Arniel snatched a Brockville fumble on their 15 and ran for a major, converted by Sedgwick. Later in the quarter Arniel kicked to Mc-Broom who was rouged. Johnson picked up another Brockville fumble on their 47 and ran all the way for a touchdown, converted by Sedgwick.

A blocked kick on Brockville's own goal line, then a short pass, Case to Best, was good for the last Kingston touchdown.

Cleveland Indians Name Al Lopez As Manager

Cleveland, Nov. 11—AP—Al (El Lobo) Lopez, a stranger in a baseball-mad town startled over Lou Boudreau's discharge, took over the manager of the Cleveland Indians.

One of the first things he did, in an interview, was to decline to predict any quick pennants.

"As you know," said the 43-year-old Lopez, "I haven't been around the American League for the last few years and I don't know how we compare with other clubs.

"I'd like a good relief pitcher and I'd like some bench strength. Otherwise, from all I gather, it is a good ball club.

"I think I can handle the Cleveland club and I will do all I can to get a winning team. I am replacing a very popular man, a real nice fellow."

Lopez, however, did work for the Indians in 1947 as a second-string catcher, but few fans noticed him. He is certainly no stranger to the National League. He caught with Brooklyn, Boston and Pittsburgh for 18 years.

In 1934 All-Star Game

Including his Cleveland duty, he played in 1,862 games, more than any other catcher in baseball history and appeared in the all-star game in 1934.

For the last three years he has managed the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association. Under his guidance, the team won the championship in 1948, finished second in 1949 and 1950.

But this is his first major-league managerial job, an ambition he has had for years.

"As for training rules," he said, "of the field, I'm not a rigidly disciplinarian but I will expect the players to perform at their best at all times.

"I know 'em pretty well."

General manager Hank Greenberg thinks Lopez will prove himself "the best manager in baseball today."

Estimated 60,000 Canadians Fans Who Brave Raw Weather May See Three Champs Named

(By The Canadian Press)

The estimated 60,000 fans who defy some raw, blustery weather today to see Canadian Senior and Eastern Canada Intercollegiate teams in action will witness the making of at least one Champion —and maybe three.

The biggest stake is at Winnipeg, where Edmonton Eskimos could succeed Calgary Stampeders as Western Canada titlists. If coach Alouis Siskura can coax one more victory out of his men over Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Edmonton will have a team in the Grey cup final for the first time in history.

The Eskz, who won one and lost three to league-leading Bombers during the regular season, won the first game of the best-of-three series 17-16 in Edmonton last Saturday.

The other half of the easterner classic is less advanced. The big four union, upper crust of eastern Canada's two contending Grey cup leagues, opens its playoffs in Hamilton. About 14,000 fans are expected to see Toronto Argos and Hamilton Tiger-Cats tangle in the first game of the two-game total-point series.

The Ontario Football Union, which will send its best against the big four, will name a champion at Sarnia where the Imperials try to overcome a six-point lead by Toronto Balmy Beaches won the first game 17-11 of the two-game total-point series last Sunday.

A victory for Sarnia, almost entirely a local-boy team, would be the first 11th O.F.U. title. No matter who wins, the experts give them little chance to beat the big four champ in the next round.

McGill Can Win Title

In the last scheduled games of the intercollegiate season, the league-leading McGill Redmen can still sway the title with a win against University of Western Ontario Mustangs. About 10,000 are expected to watch the collegians at London.

Toronto Varsity and Queen's Golden Gaels will be merely playing out the string, but 25,000 rooters are figured to be on hand for the Toronto game.

Winnipeg's Osborne Stadium will be plugged to the limit of its slender 8,000-to-9,000 capacity. The weather man has forecast light snowflurries and no better than 40 above for Winnipeg's pigskin faithful.

Tarpaulins covered the field yesterday and the Eskimos who arrived by train last night held a brief workout in nearby St. Boniface.

Bombers have three linemen—Buddy Tinsley, Glen Johnson and Ed Henkenius—on the silling list, but all will play in the vital contest.

In the big four playoff, Argos will rest injured halfbacks Billy Bass and Doug Smylie but Tiger-Cats are reported in top shape. Sarnia will be short three injured regulars—Jim Burr, Jon Florence and Ted Lea—for the game with Beaches.

O.H.A. Executive Reviews Deal Over Marshall

Toronto, Nov. 11—(CP)—The Ontario hockey executive decided at a meeting here today to hear next Tuesday the Galt Junior 'A' Club's protest of a game in Guelph last Friday.

Guelph won 4-3 with one of the goals being scored by Willy Marshall, centre of a player-deal squabble between the Biltmores and Toronto St. Michael's Club.

Galt protested that the player the O.H.A. had instructed Guelph not to use Marshall until the Guelph-St. Mike's deal was decided.

The executive also decided it will ask Arnold Somerville, Biltmores secretary, to appear before it and explain his alleged statement that O.H.A. secretary George Hunter was in collusion with Toronto Marlboros.

The meeting reviewed the player deal in which Marshall was to have gone from St. Mike's to Guelph in exchange for John Negledich. Ken Laufman paid $500. Neglaidich reported to St. Mike's but the deal went sour when Laufman refused to report.

'Pocket Shooting' for Unland Game

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

Public shooting throughout the United States each year presents increasingly difficult problems for the gunners. Shooting pressure is heavy and the annual demand on the available supply of game in public shooting lands grows more and more serious.

For the past three seasons more than a million guns have been afield in the State of Pennsylvania. That will give you some idea of what is meant by "heavy gunning pressure."

On "opening day" the game harvest is a heavy one. The rabbits and birds that manage to stay alive throughout the barrage of the first day leave the open fields and take refuge in the thickest cover they can find.

Day after day the obvious hunting territory is occupied by gunners.

Only in the hedgerows, thickets and odd corners of heavy growth can gunners find refuge and peace.

After the fuss and furor of the first week of legal shooting has passed and the once-a-year boys have put away their guns and gone back to work, we set out to find shooting that is not encumbered by heavy competition.

Become Wary

Upland game which has been hunted, shot at, and driven from its customary feeding and resting cover grows exceedingly wary. Casual, hunt-to-look methods, satisfactory on opening day, no longer pay off. But to the hunter who uses his knowledge of game birds and his Solunar Tables goes a definite advantage.

First we study the contour of the land we intend to hunt. There are definite lines of flow for the game to follow. It stands to reason that if rabbits are hunted heavily on a hillside they will seek the sanctuary of the overgrown bottom nearby. Ringnecks which have been heavily shot at in open fields will head for the cover of woods and hedgerows. Next comes the problem of finishing such games as many have taken refuge in this protective cover.

Within twenty minutes drive of our house are two fields that yearly hold more than the average supply of small game. On opening day, they yield us excellent shooting and we use it as a point to be there the first morning. But what of the second and the third? We have never been able to score a repeat performance.

These fields lie on hillsides and tops, side by side. Field A is the top cover, mostly grown to hay or recently-cut wheat stubble. At the bottom of the hill is a briar patch about thirty feet wide and about a hundred odd yards long. But to hunt this patch without placing a gun at the opposite end makes your drive a waste of time. The ringneck prefer a good lie this pocket, but unless you headup your drive, they will double back when they reach the end and cut through open cover to circle and come in behind the drivers.

Field B is a hillside cover with a stream at the bottom. The undergrowth along the stream is scanty, while the field affords ample feeding areas and protection for birds and rabbits. Yet, unless a gun is stationed ahead, down next to the stream corner of the field, the birds will cut back behind the drive down the stream bed.

To be sure, the use of a good dog eliminates this problem of driving your birds. But the time and expense that goes into the care and training of the occasional good dog makes him a luxury not readily afforded by the average hunter. Therefore, the majority of the game is found through the "walking-up" process.

The Staggered Drive

To insure the maximum of success, try the staggered drive. Many strikes limit the legal number of guns in a party; in Pennsylvania it is five. Taking this number as an illustration, start the drive with the drivers in a staggered, forty-five degree angle to the line of progress. In doing this, the top man on the drive will reach the end of the field before the one next to him and so on down the line, bunching the birds in one corner rather than having them spread at will over the whole end. Then, too, any rabbits kicked up will be pushed back along the line, insuring shooting for some member of the party.

REJECTS LEGION BID

Ottawa, Nov. 11 — (CP)—The cabinet rejected a Canadian Legion bid for peacetime conscription Friday.

The bid came in the annual presentation of the Legion's views to the government in a brief which said Canada isn't doing enough about defence of new peacetime years.

It was learned that the call for conscription got nowhere at a meeting of the National Council with Prime Minister St. Laurent, Defence Minister Claxton and other cabinet ministers.

NOT FOR CHILDREN

A good Yew bow, still regarded as the best type by British archers costs as high as $125.

Dauthuille Will Get Another Shot At Jake La Motta

New York, Nov. 11 — (AP) — Laurent Dauthuille probably will get another shot at middleweight champion Jake Lamotta—but the title won't be at stake.

After the Frenchman's close decision over Paddy Young last night at Madison Square Garden, they talked of a third Dauthuille-Lamotta match.

Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker, hopes to arrange an over-the-weight bout between Jake and Dauthuille for Madison Square Garden, Dec. 8 or Dec. 15.

Dauthuille whipped Lamotta Feb. 21, 1949 before Jake won the title. Last Sept. 13 he almost lifted the championship, but was knocked out by the champ with 13 seconds to go in the 15th round at Detroit.

Naturally, the blonde Frenchman, who now fights out of Montreal, wants Jake again, title or no. Whether Lamotta wants to get Dauthuille remains to be seen.

One fellow who wants more of Dauthuille is Paddy Young, the young Irishman from New York's Greenwich Village who though he won last night. He had entered the ring as a 5-to-1 underdog.

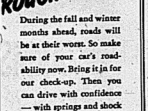
Jake almost had a photo finish. The word "unanimous decision" didn't mean much in the grueling battle. Judges Frank Forbes and Harold Barnes voted for Dauthuille by identical scores. Referee Mark Conn saw it 5-5 with the Frenchman getting the points 7-3. The AP card also was 5-5 in rounds with Dauthuille on top by a whisper, 7-6.

A Good Scrapper

Dauthuille is a good scrapper. Let there be no doubt about it. A good puncher and in the best punch. Several times he rocked Paddy with right leads over his opponent's zooming left hook. He hits and moves, sneaking the right hand and sound-punching in fine style. Bobbing and weaving, he made Young miss badly in the early rounds.

Young's hooks raked Dauthuille's head, made him hold and look for the clock in several rounds. For a slugger, Paddy showed some good boxing skill to protect his cut left eye from the fifth on.

The ninth round sewed up the verdict for Dauthuille, although Young closed strong to win the 10th. Paddy thought he won 6-4 and clamored for a return. Instead, he probably will get Rocky Graziano.



The crowd disappointed the I. B. C. Only 7,186 paid $25,382. The television lure was too much.

HANDED OUT DOLLARS

Middletown, O., Nov. 11 —(AP) — The Garden City Board and Carton Company yesterday handed out 100,000 silver dollars — weighing approximately 7,000 pounds — to its employees as part of its 50th anniversary celebration. E. T. Gardner, president of the company, said each of the firm's 2,000 employees will get a dollar for each year he is Lockland, received 50 silver dollars. Each coin of 90 weighed about 3 ½ pounds.

SHORTAGE OF MINISTERS

Toronto, Nov. 11 — (CP) — Shortage of ministers to serve as chaplains with Canadian armed forces will be discussed here Nov. 14 at a meeting of the Canadian Council of Churches. Rev. W. J. Rose, secretary of the council, said today this is due mainly to a shortage of ministers generally. The army now has 23 chaplains, the navy 12 and the RCAF 22.

NEARING 200-GOAL MARK

The way Max Bentley has been shooting that rubber disc around he stands a good chance of joining the select 200-goal club this year. In eight seasons the Leafs veteran centre man has tallied 174 goals—and with the four he has recorded since mid-October his objective seems not too distant. To date he is leading the N.H.L. scoring parade with 14 points. His showing of four goals rnd 10 assists has put him ahead of Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard, who has led the league since the start of the season with 13 points. — Central Press Canadian.

MAKE SYNTHETIC FABRIC

Wilton, England, Nov. 11 — (Reuters)— A British firm last night announced plans for a £10,000,000 factory, which will turn out a synthetic fabric from anti-freeze mixture. The fabric is said to be twice as strong as cotton. It is also mothproof, shrink-proof and weather-resistant. It has been developed after 10 years of research by two British chemists, John Whinfield and J. J. Dickson, who work for Imperial Chemical Industries.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 11 — (AP)— Hollywood, which so far has only its foot in the television door, this week heard that it might get inside some day.

NBC president Joseph H. McConnell told a press conference that "we expect to have a substantial number of television shows emanating from Hollywood; we also expect a substantial number of films in the television programming."

He indicated that plans are progressing for making more TV films in Hollywood but direct telecasting to the big eastern audience will have to await conclusion of country-wide transmission facilities, still a year or more away.

Radio had one of its minor tiffs this week. Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh appeared together on Redio Theatre. As with other stars, they were asked to endorse the sponsor's product at the end of the show. The titled couple declined. No amount of persuasion could change their minds. Olivia De Haviland is the only other star who has told that program "no soap"...

He added that he is "surprised that motion picture people haven't interested themselves more in television." He predicted they will in the future.

I note that Gloria Swanson is reported signed to make a picture in Britain. Also that she started a regular radio show from New York. So, despite her triumphant comeback and Oscar contention, Hollywood has offered her nothing to cash in on her fame...

Little Benny's Note Book

Puds Simkins came out with his tennis ball and I started to have a scuffle with him, and the ball bounced crooked and went down the cellar window...of the empty house. Puds said, Heck, that's a heck of a note. If anybody lived here I could ring the doorbell and ask to be allowed to go down and get it, I know what am I going to do? he said.

Maybe somebody will move in this house some time, I said, and Puds said, Yeh, but how about in the meantime?

And we kept on standing there without any more ideas, and Sam Cross came up and found out what happened, saying, Aw, dont worry, there's always ghosts in empty houses, and if you know how to treet ghosts they'll throw your ball back.

Sam Cross being the most famous liar around, and Puds said, Aw baloney, who beleeves in ghosts?

I do, Sam Cross said. I read a whole book about them and how to talk their language, and I bet you a cent I can make them throw your ball out again, he said, and Puds said, Okay, I bet you and you owe me a cent.

I bet you too, and you owe me one, I said, and Sam said, Like fun, you both owe me one, and here's where I prove it.

And he yelled down the cellar window, Spooky yoker, ghosty boo, our ball bounced down there, would you mind throwing it out again pleese?

Which just then what came up out of the cellar window but Puds's ball, and Sam Cross yelled down, Spooky oakey thanks.

Hey, I bet there's somebody down there, Puds said. And he looked down hard, saying, Sure, there's a man fixing the furnace or something. Somebody's going to move in here and you knew it, he said, and Sam Cross said, You're crazy and you both owe me a cent.

Oh yeh? Go ahead and sue us, I said.

Which Sam still claims he's going to do.

Wanted Figures

After the first ballot, when Chairman Norman Mathews of Toronto, read off the results, in the order of their vote standing, some delegates shouted for the figures. The question went to a vote and it was decided not to make them public.

However, it was learned that the result of each ballot was:

First: Thomson, 296; Cassidy, 156; Brown, 149; Calder, 69; Hicks, 38; Cote, 24; Hamilton, 12; Sullivan, 4—Total 738.

Second: Thomson, 334; Cassidy, 196; Brown, 166; Calder, 50—Total 746.

Third: Thomson, 365; Cassidy, 220; Brown, 116—Total 701.

Before the vote, it was announced that 782 of the 840 eligible delegates had registered.

The big surprise in the voting came in the showing of Dr. Cassidy, head of the School of Social Work at the University of Toronto, and Mr. Brown, member of the legislature for Waterloo North.

Because Mr. Brown had the personal support of two federal cabinet ministers—Trade Minister Howe and Immigration Minister Harris—and of an influential group of the Ontario Liberals, it was felt he would give Mr. Thomson the closest battle.

It was Mr. Thomson's second bid for the leadership. He was a candidate in 1945 when Harry C. Nixon, member of the legislature for Brant since 1919, was the convention choice.

Daughters Share

Mr. Thomson's winsome, 17-year-old twin daughters—Marie Louise and Janet Annabelle—shared in his victory reception. They went to the platform to stand with him at a flood of well-wishers passed by to shake his hand.

In his maiden leadership speech Mr. Thomson emphasized that, as far as he was concerned, there was "No victor, no vanquished" in the party choice. He extended friendship to the seven defeated candidates and thanked Dr. Cassidy and Mr. Brown for moving that his election be made unanimous.

He recalled the advice of his minister father when he left home as a young man. "Remember, the knowledge of our own limitations is the beginning of wisdom." He knew his own limitations and "I know that now I might be better on my knees than on my feet."

His Scottish ancestry was recalled at the press conference. He said his father, John A. Thomson, was born in Dundee; his mother, the former Jessie McMillan, at Rothesay on the Isle of Bute. But he regretted that he did not play the bagpipes and "I haven't the Gaelic."

Born at Hastings, near Peterborough, he attended public and high school at Norwood, a few miles north of his birthplace. He studied law at Osgoode Hall in Toronto, was called to the bar in 1923 and was created King's Counsel in 1935.

He served in the First World War with the 21st Battalion, retiring with the rank of major. He was first elected to the Commons in the 1949 general election.

First in 20 Years

He is the first lawyer to head the Ontario Liberal party in 20 years. The last was the late W. E. N. Sinclair of Oshawa. The three leaders in the interval were practical farmers — Mitchell F. Hepburn, Mr. Nixon and Mr. Oliver. Like them, he operates a successful farm and is a noted cattle breeder.

The leadership vote came as the climax to the two-day convention. It dealt with routine business Thursday morning. It followed the leadership nominations in the afternoon and heard Mr. Howe speak at an evening banquet. Yesterday morning it adopted a new 97-point policy statement unreveraled by a committee headed by Collin Cambbell of Toronto, and, after the afternoon on the leadership election.

The delegates were in a festive mood for the voting. Mel Cadesu of Hamilton led a sing-song, with Leo Gaubler, M. P. for Sudbury and co-chairman for the convention, taking over for a rousing rendition of "Alouette." J. Frank Casselman from Grenville, Dundas and George Gordon, M.P.P. for Brantford, sang impromptu solos.

Hearty applause greeted Mr. Oliver when he walked to the front of the hall to confer with Norman Mathews, Association president and convention chairman. Mr. Mathews said he had been trying to prevail on Mr. Oliver to make a speech. But the former leader preferred to wait for the final ballot. But when the issue was settled on the third ballot, the delegates insisted on hearing from Mr. Thomson and Mr. Oliver did not speak.

BOMBER

She was sitting on the verandah when she heard "a strange noise."

The parish priest Rev. G. A. Gerin, related:

"Then out of the river she saw a thick cloud of pale yellow smoke rise up and grow larger. Then came the big, rumbling explosion. It might have been several explosions in quick succession. Anyway the terrific blast reverberated in the mountains behind us four or five times, shaking everything."

At Riviere Du Loup, Gerard Lapointe, correspondent for the Quebec daily newspaper, Le Soleil, reported buildings shaken and people saying there had been an earthquake. Some women told him they saw "a ball of fire" in the sky.

Ran Into Engine Trouble

But here at St. Andre, where the series of blasts was relatively close, people feared it was something more than one of the elements to a bombing attack.

Jeannette Carlos, Le Soleil correspondent here, said eyewitnesses heard a plane first and then saw dropping from it what appeared to be a "ball" which splashed in the water.

First report of the blast came from radio station CJFP, which serves this rugged region about 100 miles downriver from Quebec City.

At the same time, Canadian transport department officials at Mount Joli, Que., later reported they had been in communication with a B-50 that ran into engine trouble. The plane was evidently on a flight from the air base at Goose Bay, Labrador, to Tucson, Ariz., they said.

Queried by telephone from Quebec, the duty officer at Limestone airfield said: "Everything is as quiet as can be here."

A dispatch from Washington last night confirmed the jettisoning of the 500-pound bombs in the St. Lawrence.

COINS UNEARTHED

Nagpur, Central Provinces, India, Nov. 11 — (Reuters) — Coins believed to date back to 200 B.C. have been unearthed in Jamula village, Central Provinces. Some were of copper and bore the figure of an elephant, the symbol of the Hindu royal dynasty of Malayas.

BRITAIN EXPORTING MORE

Hull, England, Nov. 11 — (Reuters) — Britain is exporting nearly 50 per cent more to dollar areas than a year ago, Sir Cecil Weir, chairman of the Dollar Exports Board, said last night. The figure for the last three months was about $61,000,000, compared with last year's figure of $42,500,000.

Section of Church Wall Collapses

Fall rains which weakened the earth during excavation for a basement at the United Church at Halloway, early this week resulted in the foundation collapsing and a 20-foot section of the brick wall of the church falling out.

The interior of the church was also badly damaged with a section of the floor caving in dumping pews into the excavation and upsetting the church piano. The wall collapsing during the night when no one was in church.

Through volunteer effort members of the church congregation have been excavating at the church preparatory to putting in a basement. The digging is believed to have weakened the foundation with result the ground caved in allowing the brick wall of the church to collapse.

Already volunteers are starting to clean up the rubble and work of repairing the damage has started under the direction of Cecil Hubbel, Foxboro contractor. Cost of repairs will exceed $1,000, it was stated.

This Sunday would have been the farewell service in the Holloway Church for Rev. F. A. Gilbert who has accepted another charge. The farewell service for the Hollway congregation will be held in the Foxboro Church at 2 p.m.

TAKE VARIOUS DRUGS

London, Nov. 11 — (Reuters) — Sixty soldiers next January will take a couple of pills, shove out to sea on a raft — and hope for rough weather. They are volunteers to try out the various drugs for overcoming seasickness.

NEW DEPARTURE

Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 11—(AP) — An experimental movie theatre for children was opened here last night. Adults will be admitted only if accompanied by a child.

NO CASUALTIES

Rome, Nov. 11 — (Reuters) — Unidentified assailants last night threw bombs at the front doors of the two branch offices of the Christian Democrat party in Rome. No casualties and only slight damage were reported after the two incidents, which occurred within two hours of each other.

METER SYSTEM IN TAXIC

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 10. (CP)—In future taxi rides in the Sault Board of Police Commissioners to compel all the taxi companies to install meter systems in their cars was placed before the Taxi Operators' Association last night.

The by-law is the result of a frequent fight in the city over taxi operators', Solicitor T. C. Murphy told the Police Commission. The by-law calls for fares on a basic rate of 50 cents for the first mile and 10 cents for each additional mile.

Must Maintain Canadian Army Says Lieut. Duffy

Marmora.—The annual Remembrance Day dinner of Marmora branch, No. 257 Canadian Legion held in the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening, was well attended by ex-Service men, ladies of the Auxiliary and honored guests.

President, Clayton Bedore, acted as chairman. Following the toast to The King and a succeeding sing-song, Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie, chaplain of the branch, ably proposed the toast to "Canadian Legion", instancing the width of its activities.

Guest Speaker

Major Percy Gray introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Lieut. Alan Duffy, of Belleville, former sergeant major of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

While in the main, his message, varied from that given in the same capacity last year, he reiterated his statements on that occasion, "That to keep faith with our fallen comrades we must maintain a strong Canadian sufficiently strong to check aggression."

In Korea he pointed out, an aggressive nation had been given the idea that they could take by force that which was not theirs. The sending of Canadian troops there established the fact that men will fight today in Korea to maintain the standard as of before and we should be grateful to them for it. With the assistance of the Almighty, we Canadians will not drop the torch carried along the years. Many sacrifices made by our pioneers have been made, governments of it is not sufficient to have good architecture in our parliament buildings and fine law if we have not the men to represent us in our government that we are blessed with.

To Support Boy Scouts

Advocating support of the Boy Scout movement, of which he is a district commander, he main-

CRY FROM BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

Frau Ernst Reuter, wife of the lord mayor of West Berlin, is shown reading a message smuggled through the iron curtain from a woman captive in Czechoslovakia. The slate was included in a bundle of roof slates consigned to a Berlin building firm. The short message reads: "In this slate factory are 30 German women who have been sentenced to forced labor. We are innocent, and have been sentenced only because we are German." — Central Press Canadian.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"He here for a minute, I've a date to some tall thinking but you have, you've been quiet. I didn't like the tone which Henry Sargent declared he would examine every track and cranny that might be a clue. Made me wonder if he believes it was an inside job. If he suspects the Digbys? If he does he's gone haywire."

"How can he suspect them? They were not there. That didn't get on top of Silas Pond's head evidence that someone hit him in the storm that commenced. I couldn't very well crack his own head, lock himself into the attic shop and return the key to the office, could he? Suppose we investigate the Digby alibis and find the plotting paper with the footprints in the soup with that? That's something real to worry about."

"They won't if I mount them." Stewart fells. Where to?"

"Stewart fellas don't tell all they know."

"It not where, perhaps you'll tell me when?"

"Remember your host's attack of coughing after he strained his voice yelling questions at you? Remember how? I went into the kitchen for water? That was when."

I wondered why you were gone long. There was a moment when I suspected that Henry Sargent was wondering. Tell me where you put the blotting paper. I could see Mr. Digby pick it up to my neck, remember."

"What you don't know can't be cross-examined out of you, Stewart." He came round the car and opened the door. "Be sure you get rid of the clue immediately. Interire if she sold anything this afternoon. Her father will be sick on letting her know what happened."

Judy left in her room. She is probably at the Country Club. It isn't late, though I feel as if I'd lived through a century or two since I fared forth for the Silas Pond celebration.

"She may be in the library, you and I know that Sinclair was with her after Matilda left. I wonder does it't mention that fact to your boss. Now that the fun artist was there fussing about changing his pictures, we forgot to mention that. I suppose taking Gene if she sold anything is a fool question, if she pinch-hits for you, the job she would have enough business sense to have a memorandum. How will you get in?"

She drew a key from her pocket.

"Mrs. Sargent told me to keep it so I wouldn't have to ring." He followed her into the hall.

"I want to be sure you are safe inside before I flee. Quiet as a tomb, isn't it? Feeling more—That's a second fool question. Don't worry about anything. She'll be at the gallery early. Good night."

What was the second "fool question" that had roughened his voice, Fran wondered as he closed the heavy door softly behind him. She walked along the hall thinking into the different rooms. All lighted. No one visible. Music was coming from above. She ran upstairs and knocked on the door of Mrs. Sargent's room. There was a moment's pause before a voice called "come in."

Mrs. Sargent in a purple crepe housecoat was reclining on a chaise lounge. She looked up from a book and turned down the radio as Fran entered.

"It's you dear. Henry told me to expect you. Frightful storm, wasn't it? Thunderstorms upset me." Her colorless face and tired eyes confirmed the words. "He said the Digbys had been called away, that you must stay there without them. He's right. He's always right; once, just once I wish he could be proved wrong."

"Where is Gene?"

"Gone to spend the night with Kitty Saunders. Carda, I suspect. Oh, dear, that girl is a bad influence. How was the theatre?"

Over the air came the music of a band playing, "Come to the Mardi Gras." The leader was giving out with the influence. The gay accompaniment lilted and danced through Fran's thoughts as she told of the scenes of the comedy; of the devastation the heat had wrought on make-ups; of tea at Shore Acres. She concluded.

"I don't wonder the storm upset you. Lightning laid low that historic oak on the highway."

"What a pity it is inevitable old. How was Natalie?"

"Looking wistful and apparently on top of the world."

"Poor child, she had a mean break. I wish Matilda would love Nat's ex-husband his walking ticket—perhaps he will give her up. It seems to me the older children grow the more worry they are. Nat may have her troubles but she doesn't have to make a 1939 allowance cover this year's increased outgo. Henry doesn't or won't realize how much more living costs." She opened her book, tuned up the radio.

"Sorry, I shouldn't depress you with my problems. Hope to wish you back, dear. Good night."

Before Fran closed her door she heard Mrs. Sargent say softly.

"Come out, Sha's gone."

Fran opened the window of her room and looked out to sea. Waves were rolling toward shore each crest silver plated with moonlight. Far out an occasional flash ripped open the sky. What had been hiding in Mrs. Sargent's room and why? Did Myles get away without trouble? After what had happened at the gallery anything was possible. She leaned out. No one in sight.

"Ka-chew!" The shattering sneeze rose from the shrubs that bordered the turn-around. She leaned out. "Kach—" A second sneeze broke in the middle. Her heart zoomed to her throat. Was the strangled sound tied up with the theft at the gallery? Had the "thief followed the roadster from there?

At that very moment in the garage at Shore Acres, Myles Jaffray opened the trunk of his car and removed the sheets of blotting paper and the parcel he had put there when he had stopped at the Digby entrance. He hesitated undecidingly. Drew an electric torch from his pocket and pointed it round the interior. Gone!

On the porch of the gallery Fran gazed at the limitless horizon of sky and sea. It was incredible that this same brilliant morning was in the same world that had staged yesterday's torrential rain, hail, wind, lightning and thunder of last night's storm.

She wondered would Henry Sargent be successful in keeping from his bungling wife the fact that his wife had known of it she had given no sign last last evening. She had been startled by her question when she referred to the increased cost of living. The domestic wheels at Acres did not run with soundless perfection. Was the mistress responsible? She had settled her daughter's debts-once. Had she taken the money from the household expenses budget, was she afraid that her husband would find out? Gene had—

"Dad is generous but he would not advance our allowance or increase them a penny over the alternative jail for mother or me."

That was exaggeration, of course, but after the rubbish cross-examination he had put her through last night, she could believe it.

To whom had Mrs. Sargent been calling? "Come out. She's gone"? Was it tied up in any way with the person in the border of shrubs who had sneezed? What would Myles say when she told him—A door opened behind her.

"It's my guess you were up with the birds, Miss Fran."

Howlett's nasal voice brought her face to face with the present. He was his abnormally tall, abnormally lank person, and the blinding brilliance of the early sun surrounded a shining oasis on top of his domshaped head. His large mouth spread in a smile between ears when he opened it to poke with a straw at the interstices of his horsehair shell. She had been too absorbed in Henry Sargent's instructions last night to remark attention to the deputy sheriff.

"I didn't wait for breakfast, Mr. Howlett, I was on a mission to know if you discovered a clue to the theft of the enamel. Have you news. Was anything else missing? Did Mr. Sargent say he was looking for a picture for instance? Where is he?"

"Went home to breakfast. Took Si along to the Dee's, got kinder worried about his head. He was a pretty sick fella this mornin'. Whoever hit him'll have something to pay—fall, most probable. Do you know your boss don't spend a hint of what happened to get out. It's my guess he's right. Said I want to tell nobody nothing till he come back" had been packed with enticing suggestion. Had Myles been right? Had they searched the Digby apartment? If the missing articles were found there they had been planted by the person who had left muddy prints on the kitchen floor. Lucky that Myles had changed the hiding place of the sheets of blotting paper, lucky there was a lump on top

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

OUR BEST MOUSER

Can you imagine a farmer keeping a rough-legged hawk instead of a cat? Yet, if this were possible, he would not be troubled by mice. Almost the size of an eagle, this, one of our large hawks, is the best mouser anyone could own, because it depends almost entirely on these rodents for food. When in Alaska across the continent, mouselike animals called lemmings are on the hill of fare, and, strangely enough, at times of grasshopper plagues it adopts a new diet, and the side hare.

However, man is unreasonable and stubborn; his prejudice against all birds of prey remains. The percentage of those that interfere with his happiness, by making off with his chickens, the game birds he wants to shoot, and the fish he tries to catch, is extremely low. Many are positively beneficial because they eat the pests that would destroy his valued possessions. The startling brought to America in very many years ago, has become so numerous that it is a pest in our cities. A naturalist recently reported that of 20 Cooper's Hawks considered one of the least desirable species) killed in fall migration at Hawk Mountain, Ontario, 15 had eaten starlings. Predators are really necessary to preserve the health of the species.

For such a large bird, the rough-legged hawk's feet are small, weak talons, and, as its name signifies, its legs, unlike those of most species, are feathered. Its soft, fluffy plumage, which makes flight silent, and its nocturnal habit of hunting at twilight, both tend to cause us to mistake it for an owl.

Late autumn is the rough-legged hawk's time of passage through settled Canada. The exact date is dependent on the amount of snow. Sometimes it will stay over a while in a marsh, where a stake, a fence post, or the branches of a dead tree is used as a look-out. With a swift dash it drops suddenly to the prey. It is noted for the manner in which it will hover over one spot, with beating wings.

Generally we see these heavily-built hawks only in migration flight, tails spread, keeping so high up that it is difficult to recognize them. Although individuals differ in coloring, the best identifying mark is the dark band across the body and a tail that is white except for a narrow black bar near the tip.

MacKenzie's Column:

Red China Sitting In Midst of Potential Trouble

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

As a war-weary world awaits the advent of the Chinese communist envoys to the United Nations to discuss the explosive Korean and Formosan problems, it is worthy of note that red China is sitting in the midst of potential trouble, and therefore might be in a mood to negotiate.

One hastens to add that this doesn't mean red China is in a chastened frame of mind. It is rather to suggest that her astute leader, General Mao, is bound to have been danger in the writing on the wall, especially since he is the one who has constructed the semi-circle of trouble on his borders.

Mao of course has been working hand-in-glove with Moscow. Under the "guidance" of the Kremlin he has been giving strong support to the North Korean forces against the U.N. forces.

But that is only part of Mao's activity. He has been aiding the Rebels in French Indo-China on his southern border. He has filled Burma with agents. India and Pakistan have been put on the alert by Chinese infiltration north of the Indian sub-continent.

Staking Out Own Zone

Thus far Mao has been staking out his zone of influence and operation against Tibet is definitely of that nature, since that mountain state is small and easy to him except politically. It is a sort of record over the heads of India and Pakistan.

But the scene of actual largescale hostilities today is Korea, and that is where we must look for further major trouble unless diplomacy comes to the rescue as mediator.

The job to which Mao has been assigned, as far as one can see, is to perpetuate the Korean War with the U.N. bleeding the U.N. forces. This crafty scheme naturally is aimed especially at the United States with the idea of sapping to guard their ballots.

In Detroit, where a counting error of 8,000 to 9,000 votes turned up, police locked the ballot boxes in vaults.

Kelly, who was Michigan's two term wartime governor, remarked on his post-election vacation out of the state. Williams, also taking a rest, was in seclusion.

Ultimate Winner For Governorship Still Undecided

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP) —Four days after Michigan's election of a governor his identity was still unknown today.

The ultimate winner — either Republican Harry F. Kelly or Democrat incumbent G. Mennen Williams—was hidden in a great hodgepodge of terror in tabulating last Tuesday's record non-presidential year vote.

On the latest combined official recheck Kelly led by 300 votes.

It stood like this: Kelly 934,851, Williams 934,551.

But it was almost dead certain there would be more corrections before the checks and aides were still hard at work re-examining the vote.

Not in all its 113 year history had Michigan run into one like this.

After 48 hours of a laborious balancing job, the figures, if anything, got more confused.

On one point at least there was certainty. It was indeed Michigan's closest governorship fight.

So close was it that speculation arose as to whether Michigan would know its governor's identity in time to inaugurate on Jan. 1.

With a recount inevitable, and if any court fights should ensue, the unprecedented situation was entirely possible.

City and state officials took cautious steps to preserve the ballots.

All local election officials got orders from the capital at Lansing to guard their ballots.

May Get Project By 1956 Says Hydro Chairman

Toronto, Nov 11 — (CP) — Robert H. Saunders, Ontario Hydro Commission chairman, said Friday he hopes that "in some way, shape or form, we get the St. Lawrence power project by 1956, because we need the power."

He declined comment on a statement by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York that his victory in Tuesday's United States elections was notice to the Truman administration that we want the right to develop immediately cheap power in the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers."

Mr. Saunders said: "We have asked the (Canadian) federal government to do it and we know they, in turn, have asked Washington for it."

Ten Persons Die In Hotel Explosion At Leduc, Alta.

Blast Believed Caused By Gas Seeping into Hotel

Leduc, Alta., Nov. 13, (CP)—The fire-blackened ruins of the pioneer Leduc hotel—death trap of 10 persons in an explosion which destroyed the building Saturday—symbolize the blackest day in the history of this oil-boom town of 2,000 population.

It might have been a red-letter day in the town's history—yesterday marked the official discovery of oil Feb. 13, 1937—had it not been for the explosion.

Leduc, 21 miles south of Edmonton, was to have been serviced with natural gas Saturday. The gas wasn't turned out of the mains as scheduled, but when it is, shortly, the joy of the residents at receiving this cheap utility will be overshadowed by lingering memories of the worst fatal disaster in Alberta's history.

The two-storey brick-and-frame hotel was ripped asunder by a blast heard 17 miles away shortly before noon Saturday, just as Leduc residents returned from Remembrance Day ceremonies. The hotel beverage room was to open in five minutes, and within 15 minutes it would have been filled with Leduc residents. Instead, red then, residents fear the death toll might have been closed to 100.

The explosion was believed caused by gas seeping into the hotel basement from an undetermined source. Estimates of damage ranged from $250,000 to $300,000.

Sixteen persons were sent to hospital. Seven have since been released. Extensive damage was suffered by buildings close by, and five motor vehicles parked nearby were virtually demolished. Many Badly Burned

Some Physicians Drug Addicts Says Journal

Montreal, Nov. 13 (CP)—Addiction of Canadian physicians to drugs is causing federal authorities concern, the opinion of a National Health Department official.

H. C. Hossick chief of the division of narcotic control of the department in Ottawa, wrote in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal that such cases are "handled discreetly as possible in a purely constructive way."

An effort is made to end the addiction "and it is gratifying to be able to report that there are many members of the medical profession in Canada, who, though previously addicted, are now leading normal lives and have been free for many years as the result of our efforts in their behalf."

Mr. Hossick also mentioned trafficking in drugs by some physicians. He said these physicians have no idea of what patient drugs they prescribe are "sold to other addicts at a huge profit."

Some members of the profession find the potential profit an "irresistible temptation."

King of Nepal Begins Exile In New Delhi

New Delhi, Nov. 13 (AP) — The deposed King of Nepal, his two queens and other members of his family arrived here to begin a life in exile.

The 44-year-old Nepalese monarch fled to the Indian embassy in Katmandu, Nepal's capital, last Monday, being replaced on the throne by 3-year-old grandson, Prince Gyanendra, in a palace revolution. The revolution was engineered by the state's all powerful prime minister, Maharajah Mohun Shamsher Jang Bahadur Rana.

India has not yet recognized the crowning of the exiled king's grandson Gyanendra. The child was proclaimed king of Nepal by Nepal's prime minister last Thursday.

Meantime, unconfirmed reports reached here from Nepal on the Indo-Nepalese frontier, said armed supporters of the Nepali Congress party are fighting to defend the Nepalese town of Birgani, second largest town in the tiny Indian protectorate, after Chinese communist invaded Tibet. It should be the capital of Nepal, Katmandu. The governor who was reported arrested is an alleged supporter of Nepal's prime minister.

TERMS BEING DRAFTED

Ottawa, Nov. 13 (CP) Final terms of settlement in the long railway wage-hour dispute are being drafted here by Mr. Justice C. P. McTague of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Justice, appointed government arbitrator to settle remaining points at issue between the railways and their unions, concluded hearings with the disputants at Montreal Friday.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 13 (CP)—Synopsis— A area of high pressure which brought the present cold weather down over the United States and Canada is moving slowly eastward. Cool temperatures and scattered snow and flurries were reported again over most regions on Sunday. Moderate regions have as much as 14 inches of snow, central regions four to eight inches while the southern have generally bare ground.

Temperatures are expected to remain unchanged today with a slight moderation indicated for Tuesday. Light snow in the lee of the lakes and in northern regions will continue intermittently today and Tuesday.

Manpower in U.S. Must Serve Both Economy, Army

Chicago, Nov. 13 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, United States selective service director, says U.S. manpower must serve both the economy and the armed forces.

The draft may have to be extended to 18-year-olds and to men older than 25, he told a Northwestern University radio panel broadcast yesterday.

Although there are estimated 8,000,000 men in the 18-26 age group, Hershey said, about 1,000,000 have been deferred, another 3,000,000 are veterans and a large proportion of those remaining do not meet physical or mental requirements.

He said men taken from the higher age bracket should be those who have not served before, and those not essential to industry or agriculture.

Hunt Million Americans Who Have Diabetes and Do Not Know It

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York, Nov. 13 — (AP)—A search for 1,000,000 persons who have diabetes but don't know it. They are missing out on the modern help that can bring them extra years of life and health.

The search starts with an offer of free tests this week, anywhere in the United States, to check for diabetes, one of the "big three" killer diseases. The campaign is staged by the American Diabetes Association.

The tests are simple checks of urine or blood for excess sugar, the hallmark of diabetes. Diabetes comes from a lack of insulin, a hormone from the pancreas gland. Due to this lack, the body is not able to turn sugar and starches into energy as it should, and health suffers.

In some American communities this week, doctors are offering free tests in their own offices. Other towns and cities have set up special "diabetes detection" units are-visiting factories, clubs and schools in other communities. In a few others, people are being urged to do their own testing with special kits sold in drug stores.

Finding of excess sugar in the urine or blood means possible diabetes. Further tests are necessary to make sure, because a variety of ailments due to diabetes, or some other condition.

About 1,000,000 Americans are known to have diabetes, and are under treatment with insulin or proper diets designed to keep the disease under control.

The estimate of 1,000,000 more unknown diabetics is made by the association on the basis of surveys in several towns. They found that one-half of 1.5 per cent of these townsfolk had diabetes and weren't aware of it.

CHINESE RED COLUMNS ENTER TIBETAN CAPITAL

Tibetans Accept Terms For Future of Country

Kalimpong, Northern India, Nov. 13 (Reuters)—Chinese communists columns have entered Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, after a sweep over the frontier and across Tibet, it was reported today.

Reliable sources here reported today that hostilities ended soon after the Chinese marched into the capital.

The source said the Tibetan government has accepted Chinese proposals for the future of the country.

The Chinese communists began their march on Lhasa last month.

Many Tibetans are reported to have joined the army along the way.

Indian government sources in close touch with Lhasa reported on Oct. 26 that Chinese communist troops had entered the eastern mountain district of Tibet three days earlier.

A new China (communist) news agency dispatch from Peiping Oct. 24, reported that Chinese communist army units had been ordered to advance into Tibet "to free 3,000,000 Tibetans from imperialist oppression and to consolidate the national defences of China's southwestern corner."

New Delhi Report

(Earlier today a New Delhi report, apparently outdated, said the latest report received there from the head of the Indian mission in Lhasa placed the Chinese troops about 350 miles east of the Tibetan capital.

Proposals which the Tibetan National Assembly has been discussing since last week, were understood to have contained a Chinese assurance that Peiping would not interfere with Tibet's internal administration.

The draft proposals emphasized that the Chinese government would be responsible for defence, external affairs and communications, would station a "token force" in Lhasa and appoint Chinese military advisers to reorganize the Tibetan army.

The installation of the Dalai Lama and of the Panchen Lama were assured complete freedom but Peiping would have the right to establishment of mass educational institutions and large scale constitutional and agrarian reforms.

DOUBLE MURDER, SUICIDE

Walkerton, Ont., Nov. 13 — (CP) —Provincial Police here said Howard Evarest, his wife and their two-year-old daughter were found in the kitchen of their home Sunday shot through the head. They described the tragedy as double murder, suicide.

(In Toronto, Deputy Commissioner Arthur Moss of the Ontario Provincial Police and investigators concluded that Everest shot his wife and child, then turned the gun on himself.)

Dispute of King and Premier In Nepal Flares into Revolt

New Delhi, India, Nov. 13—(AP)—The Hindustan Times reports today that Nepalese Insurgents have reached Amlikgarh, only 25 miles from Katmandu, capital of the little kingdom bordering Tibet.

The insurgents, members of the Nepalese Congress party which is allied to India's ruling Congress party, have proclaimed their own government in an open rebellion against the all-power prime minister who ousted democratically-inclined King Tribhuvana.

Unconfirmed reports from Patna, in nearby Bihar, said the prime minister of Nepal, Maharajah Mohun Shamsher Jang Bahadur Rana, had appealed to Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru to mediate the conflict. The Nepalese Embassy would neither confirm nor deny the report.

The Hindustan Times also says M. P. Koirala, leader of the Nepalese Congress party, is coming to New Delhi to meet King Tribhuvana. He may also seek an interview with Nehru.

Amlikgani is a railway terminus 25 miles from Birgani, Nepal's largest town of Nepal, which the insurgents were reported to have captured Amlikgani is about 25 miles south of Katmandu.

Unconfirmed reports said the insurgents also had captured the airstrip at Semra, 12 miles beyond Birgani.

The Nepalese Embassy, however, said the governments garrison at Birgani still was resisting the rebels and was being reinforced from Katmandu.

The rebels captured the Governor of Birgani and his family and took them to Bihar. Indian officials rescued them and gave them refuge.

An Indian government official denied previous reports that Nepali Congress party men crossed from India into Nepal for Saturday's dawn attack on Birgani.

He said information reaching his government reported that the rebels had carried out only 1950 local Congress party men and 50 Nepalese soldiers who went over to their side.

The seek to unseat Prime Minister Maharajah Mohun Shamsher Jang Bahadur Rana, whose family has controlled the kingdom since 1867. The Prime Minister last week dethroned the figurehead king, Tribhuvana Bir Bikram, replacing him with his three-year-old grandson, Gyanendra. The switch was made because the boy king, unlike Tribhuvana, is the autocratic government, it was reported.

India, though it has given refuge to the king and received him on his arrival here Saturday with great solemnity, is maintaining a neutral policy.

U.N. Mounts Three-Pronged Diplomatic Offensive to Neutralize Red China in Korea

By HAL BOYLE

With the U.S. Eighth Army in Korea, Nov. 13 (AP) — The United Nations is running up against world communism in the first real test of the red military theory of "octopus defence."

The U.N. forces attacked the North Korean foe in the field. But behind the fresh, well-armed Chinese, the shattered North Koreans are trying desperately to regroup their forces.

That is the belief of some veteran American intelligence officers. It is a hopeful fact that, although U.N. forces stripped the North Korean army of its muscle it has retained its brain.

A recent summary by Gen. MacArthur estimated that the North Koreans have only 60,000 soldiers left of an army of about 400,000. Also, of the 135,000 prisoners there was no enemy general, not even a full colonel.

Here is what these intelligence officers believe happened as the North Koreans were smartly to crack in mid-September:

General Staff Withdrew

The enemy general staff withdrew north by plan beyond the 38th parallel. They issued orders to high field officers to defend so long as possible, then pull back.

The withdrawing forces were told to reassemble at Sinuiju, on the northwest end of the Korean peninsula bordering Manchuria, or, if they could not get there, to form a short distance below the border in the north-central part of the country.

The North Korean general staff apparently figured that its best row to reorganize as large a fighting force as it can. It is an attempt to "save face" also part of a Russian-inspired program never to admit final defeat.

Strengthening from scenes of defeat in the south are being reassembled after they walk back, ragged and sometimes without weapons, across the hills.

The young youth of North Korea are being forced into service. New units are under training on both sides of the 38th.

Compressed in Small Area

The North Koreans have been compressed into about one-fifth of the country they hoped to rule. Their population of 30,000,000 from which to recruit, the reds probably have left a population of 6,000,000.

Therefore, the chief concern of U.N. intelligence is that the 60,000 troops the North Koreans still have in the field. The chief danger is the daily-increasing "token-force" of 60,000 or more red Chinese.

They are ready to try to bleed the U.N. to death in Korea by slowly attrition, by a long, relentless manpower of that country's 450,000,000?

Even if that massive power should be committed to battle, would the Soviet Union also mobilize its own vast and growing industry and its own 200,000,000 people to that same effort?

On these fulcrums the world is teeter-tottering today as men wondering whether we are at the opening of an undeclared war with China or whether the Russians and Chinese are using the threat of war as a bold bluff to win a diplomatic victory.

Astonished Doctors Rally Around Physician Charged With Kidnapping

Santa Fe, N. B., Nov. 13 (AP)—Dr. Nancy Campbell, 43-year-old Yale-trained woman doctor, was arraigned in jail today on a $25,000 bond pending trial on a charge of kidnapping a contractor's nine-year-old daughter.

The District – Attorney's office said arraignment on the kidnapping charge, punishable by a term of five years to death, would be in a week or two.

Through the night, a suicide guard stood watch in Dr. Campbell's jail cell. She had no counsel.

Dr. Campbell — dressed in men's clothes — was caught redhanded Saturday night when she allegedly tried to snatch Stamm and 30 hidden federal agents and police rushed her in the darkness. Only Go-between

"I'm only a go-between!" they said she shouted as they hurled into her, thinking she was a man.

But in her yellow convertible only a few feet away they found her bedraggled-victim — blonde Linda Stamm. The little girl was groggy from a dose of sleeping medicine and chilled from exposure to the nine-degree above zero temperature, but otherwise unharmed.

Later, after they found two more automatic guns and a .38-calibre pistol in the woman's pockets, the F. B. I. said she admitted luring the child away Friday from the Stamm's ranch estate in the wooded outskirts of Santa Fe.

Doctors and friends rallied to Dr. Campbell's aid.

The Sheffield city hall, where the communist-line Congress had engaged an auditorium for a five day session, was the scene Friday of a strongly guarded fortress. Doors of every entrance were guarded by delegates with credentials, and some people were left out in rain because they could not find their tickets. Reporters and the public were not allowed inside.

Some of the hundreds of persons who got past the screening at the doors, and some out said the practical problems of making a 1,000 mile shift in scene on U.S. territory were being completed. These problems were largely financial but delegates were taking what comfort they could from reports that the Polish government is willing to meet the cost of an adjourned meeting in Warsaw.

There, on Thursday, the travellers will open their week-long Congress to demand a Russian-style ban on the atom bomb and restriction and control of armaments.

Britain's rejection at her border of "hundreds" of delegates —including many of the Congress leaders—forced cancellation of elaborate plans in this week and arms centres.

The Congress committee invited some 2,500 to 3,000 delegates from 74 countries here. The bulk of the foreigners were refused admittance to Britain.

BRIGADE TROOPS LEAVE CANADA FOR FORT LEWIS

Actual Departure Times Kept Secret

Ottawa, Nov. 13 (CP) — The Canadian UN. force is on the move, part of it bound for Korea.

Their movement officially shrouded in secrecy, thousands of men are converging on Fort Lewis, Wash, in the country's greatest peacetime troop transfer.

The shift of the brigade's three battalions and supporting troops —largest since the days of the Second World War—started from the half-dozen bases during the weekend.

Personal departure times were kept secret for security reasons, but 22 special trains will leave at various times in the next few days with about 11,000 men from Valcartier, Que.; Petawawa, Kingston and Camp Borden in Ontario; Camp Shilo, Man., and Wainwright, Alta.

From Wainwright goes the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the unit chosen to go directly to Korea after a short staging stop at the Far East base, Camp Otts, Fort Lewis. The 900-man battalion of Pats will sail for the Far East late in December. It was undisclosed number of reinforcement and base troops.

The other two infantry battalions in the brigade—from the Royal 22nd Regiment and the Royal Canadian Regiment— are shoving off, respectively, from their training centres at Valcartier and Petawawa.

The 2nd Field Regiment of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery is moving from Camp Shilo, and Medical Corps, Provost and various groups of tradesmen are going from Kingston and Camp Borden.

They will be on the move for about three weeks, included in the five-day zone movement. It was expected, would be the three battalions and their first-line reinforcements totalling about 7,200 men in all.

Exactly the remaining troops would follow, but the whole movement was expected to be completed by the end of May.

It was uncertain just how month.

Tale of Being Kidnapped Only Imagination

Brantford, Ont., Nov. 13 — A 16-year-old boy's wild tale of being kidnapped from an Arizona ranch, slugged over the head by his captors and then released on a trip to Ontario turned out to be the product of an overzealous imagination, Brantford police discovered Saturday.

The boy, Robert Stewart, the boy greeted Constable W. Swanson in front of police headquarters.

At police station he told how he had been snatched at the Circle R Ranch in Arizona more than a week before and that his brother was still there. He said he and might be "rubbed out" by some moment.

After a bit of prodding the lad admitted the whole thing was a hoax, that he had run away from home for boys in Toronto. His father came to Brantford Saturday night to claim him.

Detectives Fire On Man, Woman In Error, Suspended

Couple in Toronto Fearful Of Hold-up as Bullets Fly

Toronto, Nov. 13. (CP) — A man and woman were fired on last night by plainclothes policemen who suspected them of attempted extortion. They in turn mistook the detectives for holdup men.

Neither C. B. Gillespie nor his friend, Edna Cairncross, was hit by the bullets. Police said they had no connection with the persons sought.

Detective John Gillespie and Acting Detectives William McNellie were suspended, Chief Constable John Chisholm announced today, and will be tried by the police commission for "indiscriminate use of firearms."

Two bullets struck C. B. Gillespie's automobile—one pierced the rear trunk, the other a side window.

Brown Bag Factor in Case

Alex McCathie, inspector of detectives, said that officials of a company whose plant was robbed twice have received a received "ransome notes" demanding $500 to $3 bills. The notes were to be put in a brown paper bag.

Police declined to give further details but said that two detectives, dressed in old clothes, were stationed on "east Gerrard" Gerrard East" in the hope they might nab the extortionists.

They saw a car pull to a stop. A woman stepped out, carrying a brown paper bag. As the detectives approached, she jumped back in and the car sped away.

Cruiser cars hidden nearby overtook the car, stopped Mr. Gillespie and Miss Cairncross and released them after questioning.

Miss Cairncross told reporters the brown bag contained garbage and that she was about to throw it into a sidewalk garbage can when she noticed two men approaching.

Then, carrying a gun, shouted: "Stop it"

"If they had told us they were police they would have wouldn't have been so bad," she said. "As it was, we thought we were being held up."

Bullet Wounds Three Persons Farmer Charged

Sudbury, Ont., Nov. 13 — (CP) — A 28-year-old farmer is in custody here today, charged with attempted murder in the strange case of a triple shooting with a single bullet.

Leon, lantern-jowed Herbert Dash is accused of firing a one-in-a-million shot from a high-powered rifle which struck his 10-month-old nephew, his sister-in-law and his wife in quick succession.

The shooting occurred in shy tiny Manitoulin Island hamlet of Ice Lake last Friday, but it was not known until Saturday that Deering was arrested. Charges were laid last night.

When the victims were brought to hospital last Friday, it was thought they had been shot by a freak bullet from a hunter's gun. But, after investigation, police arrested Deering and put him in jail here until he appears before Magistrate W. Golden at the town of Little Current on the island later this week.

Police said the shooting apparently occurred after Deering was involved in an argument with his wife over attending the annual hockey supper at Silver Water, social event of the year on Manitoulin.

Fired From 70 Yards

They said that as the car drew away, carrying the two women and child, Deering fired a heavy-calibre bullet from a range of 70 yards.

The steel-jacketed, soft – nosed slug entered the child's head, ripped through the trunk and back seat of the car. Two portions passed through the left side of the child. The bullet then penetrated the shoulder of the baby's mother, Mrs. Robert Deering, and lodged in Mrs. Herbert Deering's shoulder as she sat behind the wheel.

Deering's wife was reported in serious condition at a hospital in Little Current while Mrs. Robert Deering is suffering from severe shock.

The baby is in serious condition in hospital here where an operation was performed to remove the small piece of lead left in the elbow.

Clemency Board Studies Cases Of 16 Hitlerites

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 13 — (AP) — The Clemency Board today of Hitler's S.S. (elite guard), now under sentence or death, will know by Jan. 1 whether they are to be hanged or receive clemency.

Two of the 16 were sentenced to death in 1947, the remainder a year later. All are held in the Landsberg war crimes prison at Landsberg.

U.S. officials disclosed that a three-man committee John J. McCloy has been studying the findings of a three-man clemency board which is set up to investigate sentences of some 125 war criminals convicted at Nuremberg. A high commission official said it was a "certainty" that McCloy will make an announcement before Jan. 1.

Peace Congress Considers Offer To Hold Sessions in Warsaw

Sheffield, England, Nov. 13 — (AP) — The "World Peace Congress" met in Sheffield today to devise means of moving quickly to Warsaw, Poland.

The Sheffield city hall, where the communist-line Congress had engaged an auditorium for a five day session, was the scene Friday of a strongly guarded fortress. Doors of every entrance were guarded by delegates with credentials, and some people were left out in rain because they could not find their tickets. Reporters and the public were not allowed inside.

Two Trenton men, Sgt. J. B. Reardon and Cpl. J. C. Coutts, are stationed at Anchorage, Alaska helping to keep the big four-engine North Stars of 426, RCAF Squadron busy on the Pacific airlift.

Reports from the far north say that the greatest hardships or life at Anchorage are the low temperatures, high prices, and the 24-hour day. The airmen make up the servicing crew for the RCAF transports on the run from Trenton, Cedar Street, was taken to hospital over the week-end for treatment. The squad works on rotation, and it will be at McChord Field, Tacoma, Wash., by the end of November.

Reports Indicate Deer Plentiful In All Districts

Reports from deer hunters north and west of Belleville indicate that anyone who goes after his quarry isn't being disappointed this year. Hunters are coming in every five cars coming down from the north through Belleville report they have tied on the fenders or top.

Game authorities in that district say that the animals are plentiful, and the percentage of hunters not getting them is very small. Cars coming out yesterday had racks on top overflowing with deer. Does were a dime a dozen, and bucks are being taken out in good numbers.

One report said that one party came out Friday with a buck that tipped the scales at 280 lbs., which is a big buck of venison in anyone's language. On top of that, they had two does and a black bear to show for the trip.

Something new in this part of the country, and a very popular idea is that if you lose your hound, and he wanders into some other district, he is taken to the depot, and you can pick him up there. Three or four of such cases reportedly operating in the Burleigh-Buckhorn district and are proving very popular.

Some game authorities have long maintained that while a hound is a very valuable asset of property, a strange hound is a nuisance in camp, particularly in the area being hunted. This way, they claim, the hound is looked after properly, and in time it takes for the finder to take the dog to the depot is well worth it.

Impressive Tribute Paid City and District War Dead At Cenotaph on Saturday

War veterans of the city and district of all affiliations joined in impressive memorial tributes to Canada's war dead on Saturday, Remembrance Day, and Sunday.

Floral tributes, constituting as all-time record for the city, nearly buried the Station Street Cenotaph following the large parade that observed the day in solemn ritual on Saturday.

Said to be the largest Remembrance Day parade in the city's history, the marching veterans, medals glinting in the sunlight, swung from the Bridge Street Armouries shortly after 10.30 a.m.

Led by the crack drum and trumpet band of the No. 5 Repair Depot, RCAF, Trenton, the parade swung up Front Street to Station Street to the Cenotaph. Midway through the marching ranks was the Salvation Army Band.

Many Veterans Included

While the parade was held under the auspices of the Canadian Legion branch here, many veterans affiliated with other war service organizations were included in the ranks. The Kinsmen Club of Belleville sent a special detachment as did the Canadian Legion Pipe and Drum Band, the Company of Point Anne. Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, the Canadian Legion and Army, Navy Air Force Veterans branches here marched under their own banners.

The parade was under the command of Lieutenant Angus Duffy, and Pilot Officer Edward Regiment, with Legion president Max Matthews marching at the head. Officers of the 49th Anti-Tank Regiment RCA and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment marched behind a squadron of RCAF personnel from the Trenton Air Station.

Leading the marching column was a color party under George Hamnett.

Crowds Line Walk

Crowds of spectators lined city streets as the parade swung along to the Cenotaph. Here the crowd was massed to hold public services at the memorial. The parade formed a three quarter square about the monument.

Major Arthur Smith, Legion branch padre officer of the day, led the parade and crowd in singing "O God Our Help in Ages Past" with the Salvation Army Band accompaniment.

The Rev. F. R. Harbach, Tabernacle United Church, read the scripture. Then under silken, greyish skies reminiscent of the first Armistice Day, the large crowd and veterans bowed their heads in impressive silence.

Bugles of the 8 Repair Depot Band played the "Last Post" as the colors slowly dipped. Then "Reveille" rang out in the crisp morning air as the colors slowly rose in the air. Major Reverend Honeychurch of the Salvation Army officiated at the Rededication Prayer which was followed by the National Anthem. Major Smith's benediction concluded another Remembrance Day observance.

250 Wreaths Deposited

Nearly 250 wreaths were deposited at the foot of the cenotaph by individuals and representatives of city organizations. The wreath of the Province of Ontario was deposited by Mrs. Doris Claudette Widow of the late Gunner "Pop" Robinson, of this city, who died of wounds. She was accompanied by the president Max Matthews and Roy Madden.

The wreath of the City of Belleville was deposited by His Worship Mayor Jack Allin escorted by Aldermen Dick Potter and Harry Allen.

Members of the Canadian Legion branch continued the day's observances with a banquet held in the Bridge Street Armories, followed by a dance on Saturday evening.

Four Suffer Minor Injuries In 4-Car Crash

Four persons suffered minor injuries, several others received abrasions and bruises and damage was damaged in a four-car accident which occured near the city limits on Saturday night.

Taken to hospital for treatment were Mrs. Jean Bloomfield, and daughter Miss D. Hoven, Bloomfield, and Robert S. Shepherd and Douglas B. Max, both of R.R. 1, Ameliasburgh.

The accident occurred as a heavy car driven by Mr. Shepherd, westbound, was in a sideswipe collision with an eastbound vehicle driven by W. F. Rose of Bloomfield. The Rose vehicle was spun around coming to a stop in the centre of the highway, while the other vehicle went out of control and crashed into a ditch and rail which were following the Rose car.

The truck driven by Joseph Lamb, of Sarnia, skidded sideways and turned over on the side of the highway, while the fourth car driven by Max Morgan of Hilton skidded into a ditch, coming to rest after being sideswiped by the spinning Shepherd car, which came to rest on the 100 feet further down the highway. The Shepherd car was almost a complete wreck.

Shepherd and Max escaped with little more than facial cuts, while Mrs. Hoven was able to go home yesterday. They were taken to hospital in Dorr's Ambulance.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Constables Mc. Bride and Harding.

Seven Deer Shot By Party of Seven

Seven deer and one to go was the record todate of a hunting party from the city who flushed the bucks near Jamieson Lake, east of Bancroft.

Seven young men constitute the party which includes Bruce and Bill Bishop, Stewart Hibbard, Jim Slater, Earl Mowbray, Al. Day and Cy Gardner.

While the party has its quota, members decided to remain another day in camp in order to secure a deer for the party's guide.

Soroptimist Club Holds Successful Bridge Party

The Soroptimist Club was hostess to a successful bridge party on Friday evening in the Kinsmen's Centre. The interest evidenced in the Club's first venture toward their season's project was highly gratifying. Thirty-five tables were filled with enthusiastic players.

Mrs. V. J. White and Mr. Henry Bucho carried home the prizes for the highest score, Miss Molly Hunter and Mr. J. Stewart had the lowest score.

Mr. Claude Tice was winner of the door prize, a beautiful oil painting of spring flowers, the work and donation of Soroptimist, Mary Quinn.

At the conclusion of the game members of the club served dainty refreshments.

Soroptimist Harriet McGeary, convener of the Ways and Means committee, is to be congratulated on the success of the party.

MRS. JENNIE R. CHAMBERS (R.R. 2 Hastings)

Stirling — Ill for the past three weeks, Mrs. Jennie Rebecca Chambers died at her home near Hastings on Sunday. She was born in Rawdon township, 80 years ago, being the daughter of the late James Wright and Mary Ellen Fox and for the past two and one half years has resided near Hastings. Previous to that time she resided in Stirling for 36 years, where she was highly respected in the community.

A member of St. Paul's United Church in Stirling, she is survived by her husband William H. Chambers, five daughters, Mrs. Mark (Iva) Moir, Campbellford, Mrs. John (Bessie) McEwen, Trenton, Mrs. John (Lila) Flagler, Rossmore, Mrs. Lorne (Isabel) Palmateer, Holland's Landing, Miss Agnes Chambers at home, three sons, Leslie of Carrying Place, John and Robert Chambers at home, also 11 grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Hunting Trailer, Truck Damaged In Collision

The return home after a successful hunting trip by Arthur Scott of Woodstock, and party, was abruptly interrupted Saturday night at Cannifton when their hunting trailer loaded with hounds and hunting supplies was damaged in Cannifton.

Scott was on his way home to Woodstock, Leslie Loaded with the trophy of the chase, when in passing through Cannifton a truck driven by John F. Clapp, R. R. 7, Belleville, struck the trailer. The latter was damaged with the hounds escaping into the night. The front truck was badly damaged. There were no injuries.

The accident will be investigated by Provincial Constable Howard Tasker.

News of Trenton

Teddy Rogerson, 9, Drowned, Falls From C.N.R. Footbridge

Trenton—(Special) — Edward (Teddy) Rogerson, nine-year-old son of assessor Charles Rogerson, fell from the C.N.R. foot bridge over the Trent River here Saturday afternoon, and drowned in about 12 feet of water.

The young boy was about 150 feet from the west side of the bridge, when he slipped from the narrow girder he was attempting to walk. The only witness to the accident was Ralph Jackson, 11, who was above the Rogerson boy on the bridge. Jackson said that he heard a splash, but no outcry from the boy.

The Rogerson lad fell in the water about 4.40 p.m., and his body was not recovered until 8.20 Saturday night. Five boats took part in the search, and the body was finally found by Rex Glover, Raymond Simmons and Ted Purdy, 36 Hannah Street, about 30 feet away from where the boy was last seen.

The Rogerson boy's address was 197 Marmora Street. Ralph Jackson's 219 Marmora Street.

"COUSIN ANDRE"

Vincent Auriol, president of the French Republic, throws extensive dignity to the wind as he kisses and hugs 12-year-old Noelle Desubrees upon their meeting for the first time since the war. President Auriol was attending a ceremony in this small town in eastern France when he was warmly greeted by the little girl who called him "cousin Andre." It was disclosed that President Auriol hid in Noelle's home during the resistance, waiting for a plane to take him to London, and "Cousin Andre" was the name she knew him by when he was in hiding—Central Press Canadian.

Veterans Parade To New Cenotaph For First Time

Trenton— (Special) — Saturday's Memorial Day parade in Trenton to the new Cenotaph for the first time, was a very colorful event on a cool, sunny morning. Headed by W. A. Silver, M.B.E., parade marshal, the party left College Street School at 10:30 a.m. and marched via Dundas Street to Dundas, and through the town to the Cenotaph on Albert Street.

Units marching in the parade included the Lions Club band, the Legion pipers, the R.C.A.F. Station Trenton Band, Trenton High School Cadets and a flight of smartly dressed airmen.

At the park, the parade formed up behind the Cenotaph, while a large crowd of people formed about the front. The service opened with the hymn "O God, Our Help In Ages Past", and was followed by prayers and scripture by Rev. F. W. Jones, Rev. Mr. and Rev. G. J. Minielly, B.A.

Capt. the Rev. A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., made the Armistice Day address. Following the address, the last post was sounded, and the fallen heroes were saluted by the firing of the six-pound gun of the Frankford Supply Company of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The two minutes of silence was followed by "Reveille" and the hymn "Abide With Me."

Wreaths were then placed on the Cenotaph, and the National Anthem was played by the Lions Club band. The benediction closed the service.

Many Faiths Worship Together In Harmony

Marathon, Ont., Nov. 13 (CP) —Protestants worship together here in a white clapboard church whose congregation manages to cut through denominational differences.

Rev. Owen Barrow, 40, says that by persuading members of half a dozen denominations to concede a point here in exchange for one there, he has worked out an interdenominational service that packs the church and retains distinctive characteristics of both Anglican and United Church of Canada dogma.

When the town was built five years ago on the north shore of Lake Superior 30 miles east of Port Arthur, it was realized that only one Protestant church could be supported. The church, Holy Trinity, was built. Now, although title to the building is held by the Anglican diocese of Algoma, its $15,000 mortgage is shrinking rapidly before the combined generosity of all groups of the 1,500 Protestants in Marathon's 1,800 permanent residents.

About 60 per cent of the Protestants are United Church adherents and 30 per cent Anglicans. The others are Presbyterians, Baptists, Lutherans, Salvation Army members and persons of miscellaneous denominations.

Trailer Driver Held at Cobourg

Trenton—(Special)—A hit-and-run tractor trailer truck Friday night here smashed a railway sign and a street light globe and kept on going. The trailer part of the vehicle was hauling horses and the tractor part had sulkies tied on top of it.

The truck was finally stopped by Cobourg police when they spotted damaged clearance lights on it. The light had been damaged when the truck hit the Trenton signs. Driver of the vehicle was Josaphat LaPointe of Sorel, P.Q., and the truck was owned by J. E. Desjardins, of Sorel.

DOLLAR RATE

Montreal, Nov. 13 — (CP) — The market rate for United States funds as reported by the Bank of Canada at noon today, EST, was $1.04 5/16. Friday's noon rate was $1.03 15/16.

The pound sterling was $2.92 1/16 against $2.91 1/4 on Friday.

Marines Meet Little Opposition Near Reservoir

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 13 (AP)— U.S. Marines moved cautiously 5 1-2 miles through undefended icy hills toward the great Changlin reservoir today.

While the Marines advanced in the centre of the front, there was dogged fighting on both ends.

Behind the battleline, United Nations forces drew a solid defence line across the narrow waist of Korea. The line was completed by the junction of the 3rd division, built up to battle strength by the addition of South Koreans, and Puerto Ricans, and the South Korean 8th Division.

Reds Sorry Man

The advance Marines, bundled like Eskimos, wound through a corkscrew pass in sub-zero weather without tank support. Tank tracks churned the mountain road into a soggy mass that bogged down the heavy equipment.

Marine planes flew close cover. Even that was unneeded as the troops ran into only a scattering handful of Chinese communists. The reds were eliminated without a Marine loss.

To the west, communists appeared to be digging in or fighting delayed actions; but on the east coast they pressed for the attack.

There was no explanation for the Chinese communist failure to oppose Marines shoving through the mountains western forward the Changlin reservoir.

The spearhead of the U.S. 7th Marine regiment was within sight of the reservoir late Monday afternoon. The main body of troops with its heavy equipment, still was 7 1-2 miles from the reservoir, major source of power for northeastern Korea.

Moving Cautiously

Col. Chesty Puller, 3 Lt.tenghry, commanding the Seventh Regiment, said he was moving cautiously, despite lack of opposition, to maintain security of his flanks.

The regiment's attack with the failure of the Chinese reds to give battle, North Koreans welded together a stubborn fighting force of seven battalions on the snow-covered battlefields of the east coast.

It was one battalion of this group that took advantage of a snowstorm to push across the Organgchon River and threaten the flank of a regiment of the South Korean Capital Division. The snow shut out allied air and naval support. All seven red battalions were reported in action.

Closest to the border of any allied force was a column of the U.S. 7th Division, only 23 miles from Manchuria.

Minerva Chapter No. 138 Entertains At Installation

Minerva Chapter No. 138, O.E.S. was host to the chapters of the surrounding district for their installation of officers Friday in the I.O.O.F. Temple.

Sister Lill Jordan and Brother Bram Humphreys, retiring matron and patron were highly complimented and congratulated for their successful year. They were presented with gifts in appreciation of their services, and both were given their jewels for Past Matron and Past Patron.

The Past Matron's jewel was presented by Sister Gladys Smith, P.W.M., of Ottawa, and Brother Wonnacott, P.W.P., presented the Past Patron's jewel to Brother Humphreys.

In charge of the installation ceremony were Sister Flossie Mason, P.W.M. and Brother W. Gee, P.W.P. Sister Lill Jordan and Sister Grace Vanzer conducted a beautiful Bible ceremony with Sister Berniece Grills at the piano. Sister Ann Davison sang "Bless This House" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Officers installed were: Wor. Matron, Mrs. Ann Little; Wor. Patron, Lorne Hunt; Associate Matron, Mrs. Hilda Mathews; Associate Patron, Ralph Knowlson; Secretary, Mrs. Winifred Gunsolus; Treasurer, Mrs. Nellie Clarke; Marshal, Mrs. Violet Stark; Organist, Mrs. Alice Reid; Adah, Mrs. Meta Williams; Ruth, Mrs. June Orr; Esther, Mrs. Helen Jones; Martha, Mrs. Rhoda Grey; Electa, Mrs. Martha Armstrong; Warder, Mrs. Margaret Hunt; Sentinel, Ross Shoebridge. Committees, Mrs. Bessie Marsh; Associate Conductress, Mrs. Wilma Sherlock; Chaplain, Mrs. Yevva Robson.

Best wishes were extended the new officers and a social hour with refreshments and dancing brought the evening to a close.

OPERATORS LOCKED OUT

New York, Nov. 13 — (AP) — Long-distance telephone operators in New York City charged today they were "locked out" when they reported for work after striking equipment workers removed picket lines.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company said that the charge of lockout "is absurd."

The C. I. O. Equipment Workers went on strike against the Bell system in 44 states last Thursday in a dispute over wages and length of contract.

TWEED

District Vets Stage Parade To Cenotaph

Tweed—The Tweed Branch of the Canadian Legion held their annual Remembrance Day service in Tweed Memorial Park on Saturday. A good attendance of veterans of both the 1st and 2nd World Wars were present. The band, led by Bandmaster Sisco, United Church, and Lieut. George Heron of the Salvation Army. Wreaths were placed on the Cenotaph by the Legion, the Province of Ontario, the village of Tweed, the Chamber of Commerce, the Oddfellows and Masonic Lodges, the schools and others around town. The Last Post was sounded by Bugler Sisco, followed by Lieut. Heron and the band played "God Save the King." Benediction was the last Parade. On Sunday afternoon the members of the Legion held their Remembrance Day service in the Salvation Army citadel, with Lieut. George Heron in charge. Before coming to Tweed, Lieut. Heron was chaplain of Branch No. 92 Gananoque, and in welcoming the members of Tweed Branch, he said how delighted he was to meet with the veterans of Tweed.

At this time Y. Ardron sang as solo "O Pallal Heart" accompanied by Mrs. Heron at the piano. Lieut. Heron in his remarks referred to Paul as a good soldier of "Jesus Christ." He spoke of the sacrifices that it entailed to be a good soldier, and it takes the very best that is in him to be a good soldier. When the call came to fight for King and Country all felt the cause of Christ. Why was blood shed necessary? It was all bound up in one word, "sin" and we see so much of sin in the world today.

Jesus shed His Blood on Calvary for our sins that we might have peace, liberty and love if we accept our Saviour.

He said in closing that we here should remember those who paid the supreme sacrifice in both World Wars.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

Last Friday Belleville Collegiate honored its war dead by holding a combined junior and senior Remembrance Day assembly instead of the usual one on Wednesday. This year more than ever when we stood in the auditorium honoring the fallen of two world wars our heart went out in the fervent prayer that we will have no need to pay homage to those of a third world war.

The Girls' Athletic Society sponsored a Sadie Hawkins dance at the school Friday night. Congratulations go to the girls for thinking up something different to take place at the dance. Dogpatch came to B.C.I. Friday night and the students loved it.

This is the week Thursday and Friday night the Dramatic Club present George Bernard Shaw's play "Arms and the Man." You simply must not miss it, so hurry and buy your tickets. You don't want to be disappointed by finding the show sold out, do you?

Exams are on our heels fellow sufferers, so you had better start burning the midnight oil!

Topsy

Sharings

What a mixed up week! Wednesday was Friday. Yet Thursday wasn't Saturday. Of course if Thursday was Saturday, then Friday would be Sunday and we would have to go to school on Saturday which would be Monday. (I think)

Sports

Yippee! At long last the girls are playing hockey. We were more muscles from exercises.

I peeked in the gym the other day and saw boys swarming over "the horse", the high bar and the parallel bars. This means only one thing, "Boys' Night".

No it's not spring. It's just that Sadie Hawkins day was here last week. If you were standing in the corridor and you heard a big swish-and-and-the pounding of big feet, followed by a little swish and the patter of dainty feet, you had no reason to get alarmed. It was just some "Jane" out to get a "Jack" for the big dance last Friday night.

Do you hear weird noises coming from room 301 at noon hours? Well that's caused by "Bud" who is the hottest sweet potato player this side of "Spud Patch."

Mr. Shiels has all the luck, however, we hope he is better soon and back on the job.

The senior forms have been making speeches in their English periods lately. One student said "I hope we'll have more speeches so I can do better next time". Oh come now! Another speaker said "television is all right but students shouldn't sit in the dark for an hour and a half at a time as is often done when a television set is present" (nuff said), the doorway, and temperature was nine above zero.

The blonde school girl was relaxed now that night after agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation closed a trap on Mr. Campbell as the rescuer of the ransom money at the gate of the Stamm estate in the wooded outskirts of Santa Fe.

Mrs. Stamm, 32-year-old mother of Linda, told reporters she hoped Yale-educated Dr. Campbell never would be free again "to bring to others what she has brought to us in heartaches and fear."

"It must not be allowed to happen again—the mistreatment of an innocent child—the leaving of a little girl to the mercy of others," Mrs. Stamm said.

A. L. Zinn, lawyer for Dr. Campbell, said friends and doctors in Santa Fe had offered hundreds of thousands of dollars for bond. He said Dr. Campbell would be taken to Albuquerque tonight so he can have all the medical care necessary."

Dr. Campbell yesterday admitted he had planned and executed the kidnapping. She said she needed money, but those who know her said they find that hard to believe.

Regarded as a brilliant gynaecologist in medical circles here Dr. Campbell had a large practice, although some friends said perhaps that was why so many of her patients had been Mrs. Stamm at the birth of a so two years ago.

NORTHWEST PASSAGE

The Northwest Passage for a century has long been the greatest lure of explorers. That it is still a living issue claiming attention of future exploration is indicated in a weekend story from Washington telling of expectation and hope of scientists that ice experts will be able to predict "light ice years" when navigation of the passage, now deemed impregnable because of ice, may become a possibility as a result of present explorations and studies.

The passage is a body of icy Arctic Ocean water which extends through the north of Canada. The view has been expressed that if it is shown that ice-breakers can go through the ice during some of the seasons, it will be an important factor in the development of the North.

FORESTRY RECORD IN 1950

The season of 1950 has been better than average from the standpoint of the Department of Lands and Forests according to Chief Rangers Mulvihill at Dacre and Goodman at Bancroft. While their report notes there still remains considerable evidence of carelessness in the woods, stricter precautions and more favorable weather conditions contributed to the smaller number of fires this year. In all some 54 fires were reported and extinguished during the past seven months, 16 in the Bancroft division and 38 in the Dacre district.

The first snowfall which was general and covered a depth of four inches was a welcome sight to the ranging personnel who have a limited time for vacation early in November before scaling activities get underway on bush operations.

Of interest to Canada is value of the multiflora rose which has proven very successful in fencerow planting in the United States. Ontario department nurseries have been producing limited quantities of seedlings for distribution and several orders have already been placed through the Napanee office. Several hundreds of these plants were set out this summer in the Sandbanks forest area, Prince Edward County, and at Flinton in Lennox and Addington County forest. With regard to the success of the multiflora rose in Erie district in affording shelter and protection for small game, the Chief Ranger stated that while it is thought not a favored food, parts of the plant will sustain pheasants during severe winters and small scale experimental areas are being established in the Quinte district. The local Department staff are anxious to determine the climate range of the species and information along this line will be obtained from the test plots.

Of interest to campers and hunters is the advice given by the district office as to protecting hunting camps from damage by porcupines. It is pointed out as is known to hunters that porcupines in search of salt will gnaw at floors, furniture or other parts of the camp used by human hands, as a consequence of which considerable damage is done to the property. The instance is cited of a few years ago when a tower observer was amazed to find the trapdoor into his cabin, perched on 80 feet of steel, partially chewed up by what seemed to be porcupine's teeth. No one saw the animals but it was clear that the porcupines had followed the trail of human hands up the steel ladder. Accordingly the hunters are advised of possible advantage in leaving blocks of salt near their camp.

Deer heads are being sought by the Department who ask the co-operation of clubs and sportsmen's organizations in collecting heads for research. Especial interest centres on white-tailed deer and a study is being made of head and antler measurements. It is aimed to get at the age of the deer as determined from the teeth. Hunters are asked to contribute heads of either sex and data as to where the animal was shot.

"THE MAN OF PARLIAMENT"

Winston Churchill has been in Parliament for 50 years. No one has contributed more in this century to the prestige and virility of parliamentary democracy. Mr. Churchill was one of the greatest of war leaders, an architect of the United Nations in the Second World War. He has, at one time or another, held virtually every important portfolio in the British Government. He is renowned as an orator and as a writer, and even as an amateur artist. His career has unique distinction from the very fact that it is so many-sided.

But above all, he is a great parliamentarian. He once described himself as a "child of the House of Commons," and perhaps the best measure of his great talents is the fact that never, during the period of power he has had or has since had in his hands, has he failed to uphold the dignity of Parliament and submit to it. As long as the institution of a free Parliament has members like Winston Churchill, it will flourish. — Ottawa Citizen.

Properly, there is no other knowledge but that which is got by working; the rest is yet all a hypothesis of knowledge; a thing to be argued of in schools; a thing floating in the clouds, in endless logic-vortices, till we try and fix it. — Thomas Carlyle.

LUXURY

Luxury is a charmer
Lovely to know and fair
To see,
But with her and down to your dying day
You'll vow that you've married your enemy.

She'll give you ulcers to fret about,
Swell your knuckles and stiffen your knees.
The meals she cooks will make you stout
And you'll be swallowing pills like peas,

With silver and crystal her
table glows.
Rich are her gravies; but,
son, beware
Luxury's truly man's worst of foes.
Better are labor and simple fare.

It is possible that city council, before vacating their chairs at the end of the year, will pass a by-law prohibiting the selling of any milk unless it has been pasteurized or certified before being offered. If passed, the by-law will not take effect until May 1, 1931, in order that all milk vendors will have the opportunity to equip their dairies with pasteurization plants.

PITCHING HORSESHOES'

By Billy Rose

THE HEIR CONTENDER

Whenever an out-of-towner says, "What have you got in New York that we haven't got in Punxsutawney", I throw a copy of the Manhattan telephone directory at him. On page 1067, listed under "Missing Heirs", you'll find named Theodore W. Roth whose business it is to find money.

I first heard of this gent on a radio program and this morning, in a mood to muse and meander, I stopped in to see him at his office on West 42nd Street.

"Glad to see you," said Mr. Roth. "You don't happen to be related to a Sam Bramson of Paterson, do you?"

"Not that I know of," I said.

"Too bad," said Mr. Roth. "Bramson left a hundred thousand dollars and I'm trying to find a relative I can give it to."

"Is there much unclaimed money lying around?"

"About a billion dollars," said Mr. Roth, "mostly in forgotten bank accounts, stock held in escrow, unused insurance policies and inheritances nobody has claimed."

"What's the biggest case you ever worked on?" I asked.

"The Gerrity case, Philadelphia," said Mr. Roth. "Back in 1920, a Miss Henrietta Elvina Garrett died and left property worth forty million dollars. At her request the executors gave have claimed it, six of them have been thrown into jail, a couple committed suicide, and several lawyers have been disbarred for phoney up evidence. One of the applicants was Adolph Hitler who argued that the next of kin of Henrietta Garrett was Danzig, so money should be sent to the Fatherland. I'm happy to report he didn't get a dime."

"You meet a lot of screwballs in your profession," I said.

Mr. Roth dug into his desk and brought out a letter. It was from a woman in Massachusetts who claimed that one of her ancestors had deeded a cranberry bog to an Indian squaw, but that the deed was faulty and she wanted the property back. The boy was disclaimed, is now known as Manhattan Island.

"Every year," Mr. Roth went on, "I get one that was even wackier. A girl in Texas wrote in to say that only a second cousin stood between her and a chunk of oil land worth a million dollars. She was planning to murder her kinsman, but before going to all that trouble she'd write and check and make sure her claim to the estate would be clear and undisputed. I, of course, turned the letter over to the police."

"Do you have any trouble collecting your fees?" I asked.

"As a rule," said the plumber of family trees, "the heirs I turn up are pretty grateful. There have been a few cases, where the only thanks I got was a dirty look."

"As for instance?"

"Well," said Mr. Roth, "there was that time I notified a man I believe me when I told her I had located a twelve-thousand-dollar annuity that her life insurance had been a hard one. He had always pleaded poverty when she needed money for the kids' clothes and she had believed him. Now that she was through with him, she was quite understandably bitter.

"Sure, twelve thousand dollars was a lot of money, but it had destroyed the faith of a lifetime."

TONSILLOTOMY VERSUS TONSILLECTOMY

The second decade of the twentieth century that the principle (not theory) of focal infection was established as a working principle by Rosenow, Billings and others. But the craze for removing tonsils and adenoids preceded that by a good ten years.

Just what inspired the doctors in the relentless assault upon the children in the first two decades of the century is now difficult to define. For one thing the adenoid myth had gained wide popularity, and the youngster caught in the act of mouth-breathing was almost automatically branded adenoidal and corralled with a dozen others for a trip to the "clinic" where the eager operators "performed" tonsil and adenoid operations on the wholesale plan.

Once a youngster was equipped with adenoids, there could be no question about the tonsils. In the winter season the spring of children have large tonsils and most parents are early persuaded that those "bad" tonsils should come out.

The answer may have been the belief and practice of physicians in the past in regard to the significance of tonsils and adenoids in children. A few doctors today, I am happy to observe, recommend the wholesale removal of tonsils and adenoids. Perhaps the most destructive part of this dangerous operation upon from three to seven children in one family is the matter of unseen, quick publicity. . . . pictures and humorous comments all around.

In any case, when the enlarged tonsils obstruct breathing or the adenoidal mass is interfering with hearing — make the child seem "dumb" — then, by all means, let teachers and parents of low intelligence quotient—there is still hope. . . . But the operation should be risked in a major operation. The destructive operation of tonsil may be clipped, snipped or sliced off instantaneously on either side of the soft palate by means of the instrument known as the tonsillotome. This may be done with or without anesthetic, according to the character of the child. There is no more pain and involves no greater danger than the extraction of a tooth—and a few youngsters require anesthetic for that.

This slicing off is called tonsillotomy. It was the method universally employed in removing the tonsils forty or fifty years ago. From 1905 onward "improvements" in the tonsillectomes and assorted new instruments were introduced and the tonsil became the trick "specialists" devised a more spectacular operation to perform with gadgets. That's how tonsillectomy with its appalling mortality rate became fashionable among the eager operators.

The tonsil and adenoid craze may be ascribed to two factors, I think. First, the circumstance that the medical profession is made up so largely of yes-men—doctors who cannot and dare not think for themselves but get all their views or principles readymade, approved or "accepted" by their masters. Second, popular credulity in respect to the pretensions of "specialists."

I have specified here "repeated" by that the radical operation, tonsillectomy, is the best possible treatment in occasional instances —for example malignancy (cancer), syphilis (chancre) or actinomycosis (known as lumpy jaw in animals), although electrocoagulation (surgical diathermy) may be preferable in some cases of actinomycosis.

In earlier talks about the tonsils I have mentioned that in many cases there are still safer alternatives for tonsillotomy. Where very large tonsils or enlarged tonsils and redium or radium emanation (radon) treatment, together with proper block ventilation or drainage of the sinuses (nasal) and Eustachian tube and cause ear trouble or deafness.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Vitamin A is Vitamin A

Our family doctor sells us vitamin A capsules, 25,000 units, for $2 and says he makes no profit, which seems queer to us a service. Blank & Blank's vitamin A capsules, same strength, cost $3.10, while So-and-so sells them for $3.35, same quantity. (R. V. Answer—There is only one vitamin A, no matter what vendor's name is on the package.) The difference that cost the least. This applies as well to aspirin tablets, penicillin tablets and many other medicines which are standardized and sold under a general brand or trade names or labels.

STIRLING

Euchre Proceeds Go to Equip Hospital Room

Stirling—The Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter of the I.O.D.E. held a successful euchre and bridge party in the Legion rooms, Stirling, on Thursday evening last. There were twelve tables of euchre with the prizes as followed: Ladies' high, Mrs E Cook; ladies' low, Mrs. N. Heath; men's high, E. Morrow and C. West (tie); with E. Morrow winning the draw; men's low, C. Davidson.

There were four tables of bridge and Mrs. E. Warren and Mrs. R. Phillips won the prizes. Mrs. Albert Fraser made and donated an angel cake iced in pink. Mrs. E. Wells drew ticket 36 and proclaimed Mrs. E. Morrow the lucky winner.

The I.O.D.E. members served refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cake, pickles and coffee.

The proceeds will go to their fund to equip a room in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

TEN PERSONS

ed and some identified only by personal effects, were removed from the hotel wreckage by frantic rescue workers who did not turn over the last bit of rubble until last night. One of the victims remains unidentified.

The other nine killed were: Mrs. Norman Miller, Athabaska, Alta., a waitress in the hotel coffee shop; Crysta Megley, 12-year-old daughter of the hotel owner; two hotel beverage room employees, Steve Fenniak and Emil Abelt; oil drillers Allan J. Powell, 30, and Art Mannville, 52, both of High River, Alta.; Elmer Baird, 36, Edmonton, a Public Works employee; and Bill Brohman and Fred Kincaid of Leduc.

Still in hospital are Mrs. H. H. Hutmer, 32; Mrs. Leona Crouch, 36; Dennis Kuckinski, 26; Donald Neer, 25; Nadia Megley, 17; Mrs. John Johnston, 23; Mrs. Toby Hiller, 19; Neil MacDonald, 32, and William Davies, 31. Kuckinski is from Edmonton and MacDonald from Calgary. The rest are Leduc residents.

Separate Funerals

Separate funerals will be held, since about half the victims will be buried at other centres. A coroner's inquest opened yesterday but was adjourned, possibly for two weeks.

The blast caught most of its victims on the lower floors, where they were trapped or maimed by falling wreckage before fire cut off escape. A few persons were hurled to safety as the building buckled. Others jumped out of windows. Some clambered to safety through a maze of bricks and splintered wood.

One of the many residents who rushed to the aid of the trapped was railroad worker Joe Mersk, father-in-law of Steve Fenniak.

Only Could Hear Screams

"It was terrible," he said. "At I rushed to the building all I could hear were screams, screams, screams. I helped one man out. He had a broken arm and was in terrible pain. There was one girl we could not help. I saw a woman on her hands and knees trying to crawl out. She too was screaming. But we couldn't help her. She was too far inside the wreckage and, before we could get to her she disappeared."

Bob Doyle, 37-year-old worker from Winnipeg and Vancouver, escaped violent death for the third time when the blast hurled him clear of the hotel. He had been sleeping in his room. Doyle said he walked away from two plane wrecks overseas in the last war.

Clunese Evans, who operated a garage about six blocks away, said he discovered gas leaking into the garage from the service line about five minutes before the hotel explosion. He was seeking gas company officials when the hotel rocked the town.

MADOC

Dr. Jeffs Speaks To Local Home And School Club

Madoc — On Tuesday evening the Madoc Public School Home and School Club met for their November meeting in the Public School with a good attendance.

The guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Jeffs, Medical Officer of Health for Lennox and Addington County. Dr. Jeffs, who was introduced by Dr. S. R. Beatty, gave an interesting address, his subject "Basic Services of the County Health Unit".

These services cover a wide scope and reach into all sections of the community. One of the important points is the help given by the public health nurse who, with her car, reaches the isolated parts of the county, visiting homes where there are new babies and checking on cases of communicable diseases.

Dr. Jeffs covered many important phases such as child welfare clinic, water sanitation, and pasteurization of milk.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker by Mrs. Kel-Kincaid.

Two films followed on the "Migration of Birds" and "Coffee From Brazil to You". The meeting adjourned followed by a social hour.

Flash Told World Of Peary's Feat, Operator Retires

Halifax, N.S. (CP) — Gordon Spracklin, 65-year-old telegrapher, has sent his last message in a career lasting half a century.

When the Newfoundland-born Spracklin finished punching his last message on the keyboard of a Canadian National Telegraphs automatic teleprinter recently, he timed off a career during which he filed enough words to fill many books. One of those messages was the flash that Peary had discovered the North Pole.

Starting with the Reid Newfoundland Railway in 1900, he grew up with wireless telegraphy and reached his prime as an operator when the Morse sounder was in full use. He finished at a time when the telegraph key is in the decline.

High point of his career came when he was the one-man Marconi station at Battle Harbor, Labrador, On Sept. 8, 1909, he relayed from the station at Indian Harbor, further north, the biggest news story since the beginning of the century. Commander Robert Edwin Peary was on his way home after a second and successful attempt to reach the North Pole.

When the intrepid navigator sailed his ship Roosevelt into Battle Harbor, the event brought newspaper men flocking to the little outpost. John W. Regan got there first for The Associated Press.

Missed Big Date

For two weeks, Sprackin recalls, he pounded out news copy. He was so busy he couldn't keep a luncheon date with the famous explorer.

Sprackin, who has seen a lot of men come and go, remembers that even Peary made errors of judgment. Peary carried no wireless with his ship—he "had no faith in it".

Sprackin's life reads like an adventure story. From his start with the Reid Railway at his home town of Brigus, Nfld., he moved to the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company at Cape Bay. Then he worked at Battle Harbor and other lonely spots, including Sable Island, graveyard of the Atlantic. He looked after his father's fishing business in Labrador for a few years and then sailed to Russia.

After that came a hitch with the Western Union at North Sydney, N.S., before joining the C.N.T.

Now, he wishes he had gone to sea when he was a young fellow.

"I feel like a fish out of water," he says.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONAL

On Honeymoon Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Deline, of Campbellford, Ontario, are on a honeymoon trip to the United States, following their marriage in the United Church parsonage, in Campbellford, on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith officiated.

The bride is the former Helen Lorraine Dalgleish, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dalgleish, of Campbellford. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Deline, of Havelock.

On their return, the couple will reside in Campbellford.

WEDDINGS

RODENBURG—RAMONDT

Picton—The Dutch Reform Church at Bloomfield, was the scene of an interesting wedding at 10:30 a.m., Sunday, Nov. 5, when two young Canadians were united in marriage by Rev. M. Andre. Joanna Ramondt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ramondt, became the bride of Paul Rodenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roelof Rodenburg, Holland.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white velvet made with full skirt and train. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a halo of white chrysanthemums. She carried a bouquet of white 'mums.

The witnesses were Jack Weyn, cousin of the bride, and Jay Ramondt, brother of the bride.

For travelling to their new home near Aylmer, the bride wore a grey suit with black hat and black accessories.

SILLS—WEAVER

Rawdon. — Mount Pleasant United Church on the Rawdon circuit was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, Nov. 4, at 2 p.m., when Lorna Isabel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Harold Sills, son of Mrs. J. C. Sills, of West Huntingdon, and the late Mr. Sills, in a double ring ceremony with the pastor, Rev. H. C. Vachavic, officiating, amidst a setting of ferns, and baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Betty McConnell played the wedding music and Mr. Arthur Hassall, was soloist.

The winsome bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white nylon over taffeta, fashioned with tucked bodice, Peter Pan collar, and full skirt. Her fingertip veil was held by a floral headdress of roses and lily-of-the-valley and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Miss Ruth Rose, of Toronto, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Jack Bush, Frankford was bridesmaid. They were gowns of blue and white nylon reproduction made on similar lines to the bride's and carried cascade bouquets of yellow 'mums.

Miss Carol Beckett, of Harold, made a charming flower girl, gowned in yellow taffeta and carrying a nosegay of white 'mums.

Mr. Russell Sills was groomsman for his brother and the ushers were Mr. Frank Weaver, of Belleville, and Mr. Donald Sills, Roslin.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. The bride's mother received in a frock of wine faille with black accessories, assisted by the groom's mother, wearing navy blue, both were rose corsages.

Mrs. Sills chose for travelling to Iroquois Falls and points north a forest green gabardine suit with brown accessories. On their return they will take up residence at West Huntingdon.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Belleville, Napanee, Roslin, Niagara Falls, and Toronto.

Canadians Ignore Non-Shrink Cloth Being Shown in Britain

The writer of the following was one of a party of Canadian newspaper women who toured British industrial areas as guests of Britain's Dollar Export Board and Canada's Dollar-Sterling Trade Board.

By KAY REX

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Manchester (CP) — An anti-shrink fabric being manufactured here is popular in sterling currency countries. But Canadian buyers aren't showing much interest in it.

Canadian buyers are telling the British textile manufacturers that the average Canadian woman doesn't wash her summer dresses — she has them dry-cleaned. That's why, they say, the Canadian gals wouldn't be interested in the anti-shrink fabric.

Meanwhile it's being snapped up by women in New Zealand and Australia.

That's one of the bits of information nine Canadian women journalists picked up in a visit to this British textile centre. They learned, too, that the British have developed a new fabric called the Canadian market with their goods. Canada is the only small export of the United States textile trade to Canada. They want to regain a little of the territory they lost during the war.

They're putting every ounce of effort into the job.

In downtown Manchester the Cotton Board's 10-year-old cubic design and style centre puts on some six exhibitions a year to give manufacturers and designers an idea of what is popular in the textile world in other countries—Canada included.

"Our shows here have a tremendous range and enable our manufacturers to see what Canadian manufacturers are successfully putting out," said Kathleen Glover, secretary of the centre.

Some 14,000 "cuttings" of fabrics popular in North America have been shown so far this year.

"The exhibitions give the manufacturers and designers a lot of information which otherwise they would have to globe-trot to get," said Miss Glover.

The textile people have found simple designs and bright colors — both in dress and furnishings — are most popular in North America.

There was evidence of this in the colorful array of "export" fabrics in the show-room of the Calico Printers Association. It included many lines which had a red figure-motif against a wheat-colored background. This material is being used effectively either in rumpus room or Summer cottage and resembled fabric one often associates as familiar in Quebec.

Mrs. Frank Finkle gave a "Temperance" reading. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Finkle, read the invitation to the next meeting at Holloway Street Church Nov. 15th.

Mrs. E. B. Finkle, group leader, was in charge of the program, using the worship service from the Monthly. Readings were given by Mrs. L. Finkle, "A First Impression of Canada", "A Week in Life", Mrs. Bleecker; "They Became One In Christ", Mrs. A. Finkle.

Mrs. Bleecker read a few Japanese proverbs and Mrs. E. Finkle gave a quiz on Japanese proverbs.

An interesting discussion between "The United Church and Canada" and the "Kajodan" was given by Mrs. B. Miles and Mrs. A. Finkle.

Mrs. Barkindale closed the meeting after which the hostess served delicious refreshments and social half hour was spent by all.

Personals

Several from here attended the Tales banquet in Picton on Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Finkle and girls spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. B. Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnston of Hazelton.

Miss Gena Vanderwater of Peterborough spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Col. and Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater.

Women's Activities

ROSLIN W.A.

Roslin — The November meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Fred Gray with 17 present. The president, Mrs. H. Hyde, presided.

Rev. L. Arthur Page conducted the devotional prayers. The Scripture reading was given by Miss L. Wilson.

Final plans were made for the bazaar and euchre to be held on December 6th, in the Parish Hall. The president extended a few words of welcome to Rev. and Mrs. Page at this, the first meeting since their arrival in the parish, which Rev. Mr. Page is now in charge.

Mrs. S. Stirk, leader for the evening, was in charge of the program. A reading, "The Little Cross in Flanders", was given by Miss H. Wilson. Mrs. Stirk gave a reading "We Die a Little." A piano, "The Touch of the Master's Hand," was given by Mrs. Fred Gray.

The leader conducted a tree contest.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time was enjoyed.

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

The November meeting of the Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. E. B. Finkle Tuesday afternoon with 10 members present.

Mrs. Barkindale, the president, opened the meeting, stating that the theme was "One In Christ".

Reports of the sectional rally were given by Mrs. Barkindale and Mrs. Scarles.

The president, Mrs. Frew, presided over the meeting, and read a poem entitled, "Smiling". Mrs. V. Hagerman officiated at the piano.

Mount Pleasant ladies presented the devotional based on "thankfulness", Mrs. R. Hoard read the Scripture lesson and presided at the piano. Mrs. F. Jeffs gave a paper on "thankfulness". Mrs. M. McMullen rendered a vocal solo. Readings were also given by Mrs. M. Wiggins, Bethesda; Mrs. K. McKeown, Bethel; Miss Marion Carlisle, Carmel; and Mrs. E. Moe, Master, Beulah-Ivanhoe.

Mrs. E. Colden of St. Thomas sang with Miss Edna Tanner as accompanist. There was also a solo by the W.A. secretary, Mrs. M. Davidson. The W.A. president, Mrs. G. Dobbs, spoke briefly. The service closed with "Blest Be the Tie That Binds".

The Salem ladies served bountiful refreshments of fruit bread, cookies, cakes, tea and coffee. The booths for the bazaar were nicely arranged with a good display of fancy and all goodies, lotions, flowers, vegetables and apples, all did a thriving business. The president was pleased with the finances of the afternoon.

SALEM W. A.

Rawdon — On Wednesday last Salem W.A. members held a "mum" to six societies, Beulah W. A., on the Ivanhoe Circuit; St. Thomas W.A., Mount Pleasant, Rawdon W.M.S., Bethel W.A., Bethesda at White Lake W.A., and Carmel W.A.

The president, Mrs. Ernest Sarles, opened the meeting, and read a poem entitled, "Smiling". Mrs. V. Hagerman officiated at the piano.

German Nurses Go to Africa

Pretoria, (CP) — A total of 130 German student nurses, plus 6 physiotherapists, 2 radiographers and occupational therapists have been recruited by the Transvaal provincial administration and will arrive in South Africa by the end of December.

The nurses were selected in Germany by Mrs. C. Searle, director of the Transvaal's nursing services. She said she was pleased here that "they are a very good type of girl," and almost all had received university education.

INDIA BUILDS ON

New Delhi (CP) — The Indian Railway locomotive workshops just opened here are designed to make India self-sufficient in locomotive engines for the future. For the first year three locomotives will be built, ultimate aim is 120 steam boilers and 50 spare boilers annually.

Women's Canadian Club Hears Entertaining Talk on Literature

Each year since 1921, the Women's Canadian Club has held an Armistice Day annual luncheon. At this extra special function there has been an extra special guest speaker, and the year was no exception; for they were privileged to have, on Saturday afternoon at Albert College, Dr. Eric Emmett O'Grady, professor of Literature at Ottawa University, who gave a scholarly address, on "Levity and Learning in Literature."

Delightful Music

For one — half hour preceding the luncheon and address, delightful selections, including Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois", "Largo" from the New World Symphony; "Gavotte", by Mingus, and "Now Thank We All Our God", by S. Kay-Elert, interwoven with the two themes, "I'll Tell You They have Not Died", and "Land of Hope and Glory" were pleasingly rendered on the Hammond wave organ by Mary Deacon, with artistry and deep feeling. These numbers, accompanying with shafts of sunlight which flooded the Honor Roll of the room, had quite the supreme sacrifice, brought into strong relief the two sides and the poppy wreath at its base which added to the fine effect.

A delicious luncheon was then served, which followed, made a visual and mental picture not soon forgotten.

Following the luncheon in Ackerman Hall, the president, Mrs. Ira Wallace, Mrs. W. J. Doyle, president, after welcoming the former Jean Sharpe to the city, extended a cordial welcome to the new members, introduced Dr. O'Grady as "a Canadian and distinguished Canadian, to his audience.

Nuggets of Gold

Dr. O'Grady who smilingly prefaced his remarks by giving a brief definition of a professor as "one who talks while others sleep," went on to say that modern literature as the study of fossils. The late George Bernard Shaw used to say that his education was interrupted when he was sent to school; and Lowell, poet, professor of literature and modern languages at Harvard, had also learned to remark, that freshmen brought in fresh learning, but that the seniors never took anything away. "Gems, nuggets of gold in literary hills", stated the speaker, "of our modern literature are different way; they had their sense of humor as well as their serious side."

As an example of this, he again referred to the late Shaw's remark, stating that when one is studying his works they should bear in mind, that Shaw was a product of the Victorian Age. Shaw was writing plays when Swinburn and Brown-ing were writing poetry. He considered himself superior to Shakespeare, and delighted to write his own plays. Shaw was a master of repartee, the art of saying something that they think the one spoken to bereft of defence.

A Sharp Tongue

During one of his play reviews, some one in the gallery hissed. Quick as a flash Shaw looked up and remarked, "There are three things that hiss: a snake, a goose and a fool. Stand up and be identified." At another time when he was treating the well-known lines, "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse," someone gave a horse-laugh, and without even stopping his speech, Shaw added, "Quite saddle on your rounder ass." One day a friend of his, who was not particularly intellectual, was boasting about to on by saying how much he loved his dog, and to prove it showed little wearied of the prattle, remarked, "What loyalty, after what a master did to you!"

George Bernard Shaw had a sense of humor, but he was conscious one, Politically, he was a Fabian socialist, some tenets of which, Shaw included in his writings. The Fabians moved slowly, working out their theories for success. One of Shaw's friends was Gilbert Keith Chesterton, who is reported to have put on earth to say 'no' to Shaw. Their philosophies were diametrically opposed, and many were the arguments that ensued. During one of which, Shaw said, "Chesterton will say, 'If you were on a desert island, and allowed to take only one book would you chose?' Thinking Chesterton, who was a theologian while he, Shaw was an agnostic, would say, 'the Bible', and so start an argument, but Chesterton outwitted him, and replied, 'Robinson's Guide to Shipbuilding.'"

Shaw was a great destroyer of Victorian ideals, but he had no use for pretense, and would exclaim "Oh, Mr. Milton, you have put me to sleep!" Shaw's reply was brilliant, and many were the arguments that ensued. During one of which, Shaw said, "If you were on a desert island, and allowed to take only one book would you chose?"

Canadian Experts Keep Them Flying on Korean Airlift

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

McChord Air Force Base, Washington (CP)—They rolled the 30-ton giant into the hangar and the ground crew swarmed over it like ants burrowing into a great silver log.

Almost a week later they rolled it out again, refreshed after the major overhaul and ready to tick smoothly on the 10,000 mile haul to Tokyo and back.

The men who keep 'em flying for the R.C.A.F. Korean Airlift Squadron had turned out another professional job.

Who are these men who make a squadron operational but whom you never hear about?

Take Cpl. Bill Widger, for instance. The 46-year-old Calgarian has been an airframe mechanic for 10 years. He worked on the Battles, Kittyhawks, Hurricanes, Ansons, Lysanders and Mosquitoes — among others — before North Stars were ever built.

"Everything back of the fire wall is my business," he says. By this, he means all control surfaces are his responsibility — everything but the engines. Ailerons, fins, rudders, flaps, undercarriage, nosewheel: all these must be in perfect working order. If an aileron should jam, a score of men might die.

Good Machines

Stocky, craggy-jawed Widger says "I suppose aircraft become just like patients after a while and you look after them like a doctor. You jab 'em here and there and find out what's wrong. After that, you have to put it right."

He stuck his screw driver in his pocket and leaned back against the work bench. He looked at the North Star, encased in scaffolding as men dug into its vitals.

"Seems funny about the North Star," he said. "American design, British engines, Canadian modifications. She's got good engines. She's a good plane."

Any pilot here will tell you the same thing and that no engine was beat the Rolls-Royce Merlin. And they add that the ground crew keep them that way.

"That plane will barrel through anything" was the way FO. Jack Santarelli of Montreal put it.

FH. Lt. Gord Wash, D.F.C. and bar, of Hamilton says: "I flew B-29s in Alaska. After those, handling a North Star is like stepping from a horse and buggy into a new car."

Sgt. Ed Jacobsen of Kenora, Ont., has been an engine mechanic in the R.C.A.F. for 13 years and joined the squadron from Centralia, Ont.

His job is to see that the engines turn over and keep turning over.

Well-Trained

Another task is training new men. "It takes three to four months to train an engine mechanic," he says. "There's a good deal of natural ability to it, though. An engine mechanic is more or less born, not made."

This can be pretty credible to any layman, gazing at the incomprehensible jungle of rods, valves and feed lines. Beside an engine, the myriad dials and switches of the cockpit are a piece of cake.

A ground crew man who has to be able to—and can—fathom the intricacies of the cockpit is LAC. Bill Tigges of Ottawa. He's been in the R.C..F. two and a half years.

"The instrument trade is pretty new," he says. "All I do is modifications, modifications." He exhibited a new flow-meter, about a third the size of the old one.

"Modifications are what make a better aircraft, though," he said.

Cpl. Leo Mancuso of Toronto is an electrician, has been for eight years. Before 1942, he was a draughtsman. He served in Europe, as well as on a good percentage of airdromes in Canada.

Mancuso is responsible for all electrical circuits in the North Star. With four men, it takes five days to cover them all from nose to tail on a major check, which comes every 400 flying-hours.

Airframe mechanic, engine mechanic—in the old days they were called fitters and riggers—instrument mechanic and electrician do not cover the whole range of ground work. There are radio men, calibration experts, radar mechanics.

There are 14 six-man air crews on the squadron. To keep them flying it takes more than 400 men like Widger, Jacobsen, Tigges and Mancuso.

3RD HILLIER

Third Hillier—Mr. and Mrs. W. Dalnard spent the weekend at Toronto, guests of Mrs. Dalnard's sister, Mrs. Ethel Wilson.

Mr. D. Boyle was in this district on Monday collecting for a surprise for Mr. and Mrs. A. Lloyd of Hillier, who have moved to Wellington.

On Wednesday evening the surprise was held at Hillier Town Hall. Mrs. Jack Campbell read the address. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd were presented with a clock and table. Mr. Lloyd thanked all. Mrs. Lloyd also replied.

Dancing was enjoyed. Music was furnished by Mr. R. Spencer and Mr. W. Wight.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Allison of the Front Road are moving to Mr. S. Thompson's farm this week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Miller are moving to Mr. G. Baitley's farm.

Misses Florence and Irene Collier spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Collier.

The recent hobby fair at Hillier town hall put on by the Hillier Institute was a success. Many articles were over 100 years old. $40 was cleared during the afternoon and evening. The November meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 23 at the home of Mrs. C. Benway.

MARMORA

Donald Shannon Shoots Large Bear

Marmora—While Donald Shannon, Jr., of Marmora township, was hunting deer, north of Crowe Lake on Monday, he ran into a large bear. He shot seven shots and ran out of ammunition, before his quarry was brought down. The bear weighed about 250 pounds.

Marmora—Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sabine are in Toronto, the former attending the Liberal Convention as alternate delegate from the West Hastings Association.

Mr. Charles Sopha has returned home from a trip to Sudbury district this week.

Mrs. Fred Fox is visiting relatives in Peterborough.

Mr. John McCormack, of Trenton, is visiting relatives here and taking advantage of the open deer season.

Mr. Michael Shannon, Mr. R. E. Maloney and Mr. John McCormack have returned from a deer hunting trip near Barrie's Bay.

MILFORD

Bald Head Eagle Is Shot by Local Hunter

Milford—An adult bald head eagle, with a wing spread of seven and one half feet, has been shot by some local hunter in the South Marysburgh township area.

Once plentiful in Great Lakes region, bald eagles have been greatly reduced by sportsmen and egg hunters. These monarchs of bird world are protected by law in Ontario. There are only 13 bald head eagle nests in Prince Edward, Leeds and Frontenac counties.

PICTON

Rev. Allen Green Describes Work At Outpost Mission

Picton — Rev. Allan Green, a missionary from the Columbia Coast Mission, gave a most interesting address, illustrated with colored slides, describing the work of the mission in the Parish Hall of the Anglican Church on Thursday evening.

This outpost mission, servicing 300 miles of coast line in British Columbia is unique in that the isolated settlements, churches, and schools are visited by mission boats. One of these ships, that regularly visits these outpost settlements is equipped as a hospital and carries a nurse and doctor on board.

Injured lumbermen and any sick people of the district are carried on this ship to hospitals in the district or to Vancouver. The offering taken in aid of the work of this mission met with a generous response.

Sign Language Proves Eloquent

Denver, Nov. 13 (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolff celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary yesterday. With the three-tiered wedding cake and the little group of friends, it was much the same as similar parties.

There was one difference. Neither of the sparkling-eyed pair said a word. They haven't throughout their marriage. Both have been deaf and unable to speak since they were children. Their eloquent sign language conveys their thoughts.

Peterborough C I Football Teams Oust B C I Squads

By DON DOLAN

On Saturday afternoon, at Nicholls Oval in Peterborough, the Collegiate Institute football junior and senior rugby teams defeated B.C.I. juniors and seniors. In the junior game, P.C.I. blanked the locals 24-0 to take the round 41-0 while the Peterborough seniors dumped B.C.I. seniors 32-11, thus winning the round 64-12. Both Peterborough teams have earned the right to compete in the C. O. S. S. A. finals.

In the junior game, B.C.I. and Peterborough played to a scoreless first period. However early in the second quarter, the P.C.I. offensive machine began to roll and before the half ended, had obtained a 12-0 lead by virtue of a touchdown by Grafstein and another T. D. on a pass from Stewart to Turner. Langhorne converted both of these major scores.

Scores in Third

The rest of the scoring took place in the third stanza. Once more, the ever-dangerous Stewart hit Turner with a pass in the end zone for a Peterbough touchdown which Langhorne converted. Stewart set up the final homester's score as he carried the ball from his own 45 to the B.C.I. 25 with a brilliant run. Grafstein caught a pass from Stewart and ran over the B.C.I. line for another major. Langhorne's kick split the uprights to give Peterborough a 24-0 lead.

Stewart paced the winners with a spectacular display of running, passing and kicking. Lang-

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

HOME IS A FRIENDLY PLACE

You may have noticed that people naturally gather in certain homes—because they are such friendly places. Neighbors drop in for an evening . . . children bring their playmates. We all feel welcome! It's so easy to be hospitable . . . to make your own home a real meeting place for your friends. Such homes are the heart of any community . . . the inspiration for "Good Citizenship".

Art Class Chickens Also Provide Meals

Saskatoon, Sask. (CP) — Thirty students at King Edward School here brought 15 eggs and one clucking hen last Spring. They built a pen in the attic, put the hen on the eggs and soon had 15 chicks.

When school closed in June one of the students took the chickens to his parents' farm, and returned in September with 10 full-grown chickens.

Then the chickens went to art class one day, to natural science class later. The class studied their whole life cycle, and then completed it. They ate the chickens at a class dinner.

22 Fatalities In East Canada During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Seven persons lost their lives in two separate multiple drownings in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

They were among the 22 fatalities recorded by The Canadian Press. All told, there were 10 lives lost by drownings, eight in traffic accidents and four from various other causes.

Sunday had eight fatalities—all drownings; Ontario, nine; and the Maritimes five.

Hormidas Asselin, 42, and his wife, Rose, 34, parents of 10 children, were among four persons who were drowned at Bryson, Que., last Saturday night when an automobile crashed through the barrier of a dead-end street and plunged into the Ottawa River.

Charles Lance, 66, and his wife, Delima, 59, parents of Mrs. Asselin, were the others. All were of Campbell's Bay, near Bryson.

A similar fate was met Sunday by three men in a taxi which went out of control and plunged from the highway into La Boulee River at St. Faustin, Que. Drowned were: Taxi-driver Paul Dubé-Zapointe, 31, of Lac Supérieur, Roger Bourcier, 29, and Jean Marie Carere; near Arthur Dufour, 21, of St. Faustin.

At Chicoutimi, Que., Arthur Blanchette, 47-year-old father of five children, was found Friday drowned in a sewer in which he was working.

Bodies Found Sunday

Ontario's nine fatalities included the death by asphyxiation in a tourist cabin on the outskirts of Delhi of Willis Deteun, 21, and George Clement, 35, farm workers who recently came to Canada from Belgium. Their bodies were found Sunday, and coroner R P McCallum said they died from the fumes of a gas heater.

Edward Rogerson, 9, was drowned in the Trent River at Trenton Saturday when he fell from a foot bridge. Gordon Petty, 35, was killed at Pickering when a sheet of gravel collapsed on him while he was digging in a pit.

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of Helen Mae Krueger, 22, at Lambeth, near London; Michael Oros, 52-year-old transient, near St. Catharines; and Teddy Hansen, 3, at Hamilton.

Patrick John Anderson, 29, and Fred Bard, 30, were killed by a car while changing a tire in Guelph, Ont. Bard was thrown against the front fender of his own car, tearing it off, while Anderson was hurled 54 feet, police said.

Boat Capsizes

Edward Clarke, 15, was drowned at Annandale, P.E.I., 40 miles from Charlottetown, Saturday when his boat capsized during a hunting trip.

Raymond M. Parlee, 26, of Sussex, N.B., was killed in a two-car crash at Midland, N.B. James J. Horvath, 23, died in Sidney, N.S., hospital Saturday from injuries received in an industrial accident.

Separate traffic accidents Saturday claimed the lives of Stephen G. Hall, 29-year-old Indian of the Eel Ground Reserve, and Wilfred Ramsay, Jr., 16, of Chatham Head, near Newcastle, N.B.

Martintown, Ont., Nov. 13. — (CP)—A child who insisted on returning to bed to complete her afternoon nap had to be rescued three times from her blazing home Saturday in this village 12 miles northeast of Cornwall.

Irene Jacques said she had to enter the home three times to rescue one of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lalonde while fire was gutting the inside of the frame house. Damage was estimated at $2,000 in the fire which left seven people homeless.

CRITICALLY INJURED

Cornwall, Ont., Nov. 13. (CP) — A 13-year-old girl was critically injured Saturday night when a transport truck in which she was riding was struck by a train at a level crossing at Finch, 21 miles northwest of Cornwall.

Raymond M. Parlee, 26, of Sussex, N.B., was killed in a two-car crash at Midland, N.B. James J. Horvath, 23, died in Sidney, N.S., hospital Saturday from injuries received in an industrial accident.

Separate traffic accidents Saturday claimed the lives of Stephen G. Hall, 29-year-old Indian of the Eel Ground Reserve, and Wilfred Ramsay, Jr., 16, of Chatham Head, near Newcastle, N.B.

Great Stuff, Nickel!

Yes, Nickel is a wonderful help in keeping food pure in hotels, hospitals, restaurants and ships, equipment used in handling food is generally made of "Monel" or Stainless Steel. These metals are glass-smooth, non-porous, rust-proof and sanitary. They last for years and years.

Range tops today are being made of Ni-Resist—a cast iron containing Nickel. Ni-Resist range tops and lids do not sag or warp. They last longer.

Gleaming surfaces around the soda bar are "Monel" too. They're bright, sanitary, easy to keep clean.

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees in Canada and also help pay Canadian railwaymen, lumbermen, iron and steel workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

Blueprint for East New U.S. Foreign Aid Plan Set Forth

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP) — A blueprint for a vast new American foreign aid program, including economic help to Western Europe beyond the scheduled end of the Marshall Plan, was made public by the government last night.

It probably will form the basis for President Truman's foreign economic recommendations to the new Congress.

The President made public a global survey of economic prospects and American aid in the light of the communist threat and the western rearmament program. The survey calls for far-reaching developments in American policy to provide help running into billions of dollars over the next few years—perhaps $8,000,000,000 or more.

Truman released the report, prepared by Gordon Gray, former Army secretary, as a document deserving "the attention and study" of the American people. But administration officials said there is no doubt that its main recommendation will largely shape the resident's foreign economic proposals in his opening message to Congress in January.

This will pose squarely the issue of how long and how much the United States wants to give or lend Atlantic countries to help them rearm and strengthen their political and economic life against the threat of communism.

Had Hard Sledding

The administration had hard sledding getting funds from the present Congress to finance the third year of the Marshall plan for Western European recovery. There is every indication that it will have a rougher time with the New Congress in obtaining approval for an extension of help to Europe beyond the scheduled end of the Marshall Plan June 30, 1952.

The attack of the enlarged Republican opposition may not be, however, so much on the point of furnishing some assistance as on the related issues of how much and under what conditions.

In the main, Gray proposed action along three lines:

1. Foreign assistance—a vastly expanded U.S.-aid program carrying billions not only for Europe but also for under-developed areas—Africa, Asia and Latin America.

2. Domestic economic policies —drastic revision of American tariff, shipping, agricultural and other internal policies which Gray described as conflicting with U.S. foreign economic policies aimed at helping friendly countries produce and sell more goods for dollars.

3. Conditions of aid—the report takes the line that United States, using aid agreements and distribution as a lever, should continue to insist on high performance by other countries in carrying their share of the load.

PICTON

350-Pound Bear Shot in North By Gregory Cole

Picton — A black bear weighing 350 pounds attracted much attention on Main Street, Saturday. It was shot by Gregory Cole who, with a party of local hunters, was staying at Carl Rogers' camp at 50 Thousand Island Lake, near Denbigh. More than six feet along the back, the big animal had a beautiful coat of fur.

In the party were also Jim Cole, Joe Shelley, Cyril Wrese, Reg. Wilkinson, Chester Storms, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Gregory Cole. The party got three deer, one of them a large buck.

Members of hunting camp home for the weekend report good hunting but few had got their full quota.

Desmond MacDonald returned with a bear which weighed 150 pounds.

Mrs. Gregory Cole got three shots at a big bear which was swimming in the lake but it managed to get away.

1,000 Veterans Join in Parade To Cenotaph

Picton — The largest parade in many years featured the Remembrance Day service in Picton on Saturday. Nearly one thousand veterans and members of the active and reserve army took part, and were joined at the Memorial by many hundred citizens. Following a light fall of snow, which left in its wake a cold breeze, the sun broke through the clouds during part of the service.

Taking part in the parade from the Legion hall were veterans of two wars, wearing berets, medals and arm bands, members of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery(AA), 127 and 128 Ack-Ack Batteries, members of Hastings and Prince Edward Reserve Regiment, and 125 members of the 50th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery, A.A., of Brantford which was here for weekend shooting, along with their band. The RCSA trumpet band was also in attendance. Members of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary were grouped at the memorial and the guard of honor was composed of Sgt. C. H. Glawson. Bdrs. R. T. Hibbert, B. R. McMillan, S. A. MacDonald, RCSA.

After the hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past', Rev. E. V. C. Lewis read a Psalm and Rev. W. R. Pair gave a memorial prayer. In a brief address, Rev. Mr. Clean stressed the sacrifices of those who gave their lives and urged that all be worthy of them. Stressing the heritage they had left for future generations, he urged that effort be made to not only preserve it, but to contribute something which would make us be remembered, also.

Following the poppy wreaths were placed on the memorial as names were read by Rev. Hope Swayne, Dean of the Province was placed by Mrs. Ralph Grimmon and that of the County by Mrs. Sohie of Amelisburgh who had five sons in the service.

Addiction to Drugs Is Relatively Light

Toronto (CP)—Canada has between 3,000 and 4,000 known drug addicts, says K. C. Hossick, the man responsible for narcotic control. This compares with a population of nearly 14,000,000.

Mr. Hossick, chief of the Division of Narcotic Control, Department of National Health and Welfare, writes in the Canadian Medical Association Journal that some 2,000 of these have come to the attention of authorities by being involved in drug violations.

The balance, while unconvicted of any offences, are definitely known to be addicts.

Mr. Hossick also writes that an "increasing number of cases of personal addiction" by doctors has been noted in the last few years. However it was "gratifying to report" that many doctors previously addicted now are leading normal lives because of efforts of the division to help the victims in breaking the habit.

MARMORA

Veterans Attend Divine Service

Marmora—Marmora Branch no. 237 and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion paraded to St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday evening for the annual Remembrance Day Service. Major Percy Gray was in charge of the parade. Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie, chaplain of the branch was in charge of the service. In the continued absence through illness of the organist, Mrs. L. R. Rundle, Mrs. John Hickey took the duties of organist for the service. The two lessons were read by the lay leader, Comrade W. J. Cottrell.

Following the processional hymn "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," the Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Comrade George Brooks and after the offertory the National Anthem was sung. The Chaplain's message dealt with aspects of the two world wars as noted by the fighting forces and the stand that must be made continuously by our race for the preservation of democracy.

LAUNCH CAPTURED

Naples, Nov. 13 — (Reuters)—Italian coast guards last night captured a motor launch flying the British flag after a running gunfight off the island of Capri. They said they found four tons of contraband American cigarets on board. Coast guards said the launch had been sailing just off Capri with all lights dimmed.

Counting all the little ones, the number of islands in the British Isles is about 5,000.

MARMORA

Can. Legion Branch Visits Local School

Marmora — Visitation of local schools by members of Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion in keeping with Remembrance Day, was completed on Friday afternoon.

Ex-Sergt. W. J. Cottrell attended Marmora Separate School shortly after noon recess, where introduced by Miss Mary Shannon, principal, he gave an address on the moral values of the comradeship begotten in the overseas forces and the good spirits maintained by warriors in spite of odds. A poppy was given to the teachers and scholars.

At the high school later in the afternoon Major Percy Gray accompanied the same speaker and in an introductory speech called attention to the activities of the Canadian Legion. The topic chosen by the speaker was "The Glory of the British Nation."

Both addresses occupied the major part of the hour weekly devoted to the Literary's Society's program. Here again poppies were distributed. The speakers were thanked by the principal L. Begley.

TRAIN SKI TEACHERS

London (CP) — The Council of Physical Recreation will operate 40 "dry" ski training courses for 600 potential ski teachers in Britain and Northern Ireland this Winter. After January, the "graduates" will go to Norway for finishing sources.

SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville — Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Caldwell attended the chicken supper at the Point Anne United Church on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Isabel Topping and Frances were weekend guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. Ridley Wallbridge and Mr. Wallbridge, Trent Road.

Mrs. Horace Wright, Belleville, was a recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Isabel Topping.

Rev. and Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. John Kent called on Miss Polly McFarlane who is on the sick list at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Goodfellow.

Mrs. Gordon Sager, of Oshawa, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Percy Howard and Mr. Howard.

Miss Erma Bell spent the weekend with her father, Mr. W. N. Bell, in Deseronto. Mr. Bell has just returned from an extended visit to Barrie and Hamilton.

Miss Dorothy Dowdell, of the O.P.P. office, Belleville, has been spending her vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Dowdell, also spent several days in Toronto with her sister, Mrs. Pattison and Sergeant Pattison.

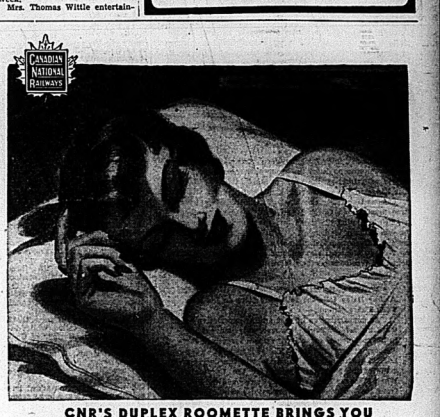
The friends of Mrs. Herbert Houston are glad to see her home from the hospital.

Mr. Alvin McKenzie had the misfortune to injure his back, while at work and is confined to the house.

A brush demonstration was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Topping; there were 12 ladies present.

Mr. William Houston has added two billiard tables to his place of business.

Friends in the village extend their sympathy to the family of the late Mr. George Caldwell who passed away during the past week.



Mrs. Thomas Wittle entertained the ladies of Holy Trinity Church Guild on Thursday evening; after the usual business refreshments were served by the hostess. Arrangements were made for a euchre party to be held at the same home next Thursday.

The following men of this community are on a hunting trip to the north of the county. E. Uena, Bruce Reid, Ray Cook, Russel Bennett, Charley Lloyd, Harry Uens and Russel Wescott.

Writing of the late Grover Cleveland Alexander, Arthur Daley (tells the following story in his New York Times column:—

As superlative as he was and as superlative as were his achievements, however, only one episode in his spectacular career will remain forever in the memory of baseball fans, his sentence of Tony Lazzeri with the bases filled to win the deciding game of the 1926 world series for the Cardinals. When Manager Rogers Hornsby summoned Ol' Pete from the bullpen in that dramatic seventh inning of the seventh game, the Rajah looked quickly into Alex' eyes. They were clear.

Alex shuffled to the mound and Lester Bell handed him the ball.

"Pete," he said, "there are three men on base."

Alex looked over at first. He looked at second. He looked at third. An amused grin spread across his weatherbeaten face.

"I'll be damned if you're not right," he drawled. "There's no place to put the batter. I reckon I'd better strike him out."

He did. Perhaps that should be his epitaph.

Detroit, Chicago Win Twice During Weekend as Toronto's Unbeaten String is Snapped

(By The Canadian Press)

On the basis of team performance to date, Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks loom as the only clubs capable of overhauling Toronto Maple Leafs in the race for the National Hockey League title.

The Hawks and the Wings were the only teams to win twice in a heavy weekend schedule, thus staying within striking distance of the pace-setting Leafs. They are also the only teams that have beaten Toronto this season.

Montreal Canadiens, who started the season fast but now have gone eight games without a win, salvaged only one point in two games. They're fast skidding to the level of the hapless New York Rangers and Boston Bruins.

The Leafs appeared far from invincible at home Saturday night as the Red Wings snapped their unbeaten streak at 11 games, 3-1. Toronto hadn't lost since dropping their season opener at home to Chicago, 2-1, back in early October.

But the Leafs recovered quickly in Boston Sunday, rolling up the highest score of the season while blanking the Bruins 7-0. It was goalie Turk Broda's fourth shutout in the 12 games played to date.

On Sunday, the Wings stretched their string of unbeaten games on home ice to eight by whitewashing Canadiens 4-0.

Meanwhile Chicago who had whipped the Bruins 4-2 in Boston Saturday, travelled to New York and added the Rangers to their list of undefeated games to six by whipping Rangers 4-1. Saturday night's other game saw Rangers and Canadiens battle to a 1-1 tie in Montreal.

Gets Second Shutout

At Detroit, 12,991 fans saw young Terry Sawchuk record his second shutout of the season after missing by three minutes in Toronto Saturday. He had 22 shots to block while Detroit's Terry McNeil handled 23.

The Wings jumped into a one-goal lead in the opening frame and sewed up the decision with a pair of tallies in the first three minutes of the middle session. Jim McFadden closed out the scoring in the final period. The other scorers were Metro Prystal, Sid Abel and Gaye Stewart.

The action was rugged with 13 penalties being called while defencemen Glenn Hall of Canadiens and McFadden came out of it patched up, Hall with 11 stitches taken for a cut over his left eye. McFadden needed three to close a gash.

Boston suffered the added humiliation of seeing a large group of disgruntled fans among the crowd of 8,523 walk out on them five minutes before the final bell.

Veteran Harry Watson and rookie Danny Lewicki each contributed two goals as the Bruins absorbed their fourth whitewashing of the season. Joe Klukay, Sid Smith and Max Bentley completed the rout.

Doug Bentley Hero

In New York, Doug Bentley almost personally put the Rangers down to their seventh defeat in 12 starts as his goal performance Pete Babando and Bert Olmstead each tallied once as the Hawks ran their record to five straight. Jack McLeod tallied for Rangers.

Toronto's largest crowd of the season—14,325—saw a hustling bunch of Wings pile up a 5-0 lead before centre Cal Gardner broke through Detroit's close-knit defence to score with three minutes to go.

Big Centre Howe, Prystal and Gerry Couture scored for the Wings.

At Montreal, 14,569 fans saw far more rough-house than good hockey as Rangers, with a reshuffled line-up, and the Canadiens battled to a stalemate. Ed Kullman scored for Rangers and Elmer Lach for Canadiens.

Bill Mosienko, Don Morrison, Babando and Roy Conacher tallied for the Hawks at Boston Saturday, while Phil Maloney and Fern Flaman connected for the Bruins.

COOPER BIG GUN

Cobourg, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Cooper of Cobourg Galloping Ghosts kicked four singles and scored a touchdown Saturday to spark a 13-1 victory over London Falcons. The win gave Cobourg a 12-point edge in the first game of a home-and-home, total-point series for the championship of the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate A league.

Next game will be played in London next Saturday, Nov. 18. Winner of the series will meet the Quebec champions, probably Nov. 25, on the home grounds of the Ontario team, to decide the Eastern Canada championship.

Owners Scan Roster for Draft Proof Players

(By The Canadian Press)

With more and more young stars leaving the ranks to don army and navy uniforms, big league baseball executives now are scanning the minor league rosters for over-age "draft proof" players.

Already such young stars like Art Houtteman, Curt Simmons, Eddie Yost, Preston Ward, Danny O'Connell, Billy Martin and Joe Adcock have either been inducted or are earmarked for induction into the armed services. Others like Ewy Palica and Maurice McDermott are awaiting final decisions by medical boards. More are certain to follow.

So don't be surprised if such 30-ish stalwarts like Cliff Melton, Augie Galan, Bert Haas, Don Padgett, Cookie Lavagetto and Elmer Riddle are pulled out of the moth balls and given another big league title.

"Gangsters" like Bill Voiselle, Johnny Lindell, Ed Sauer, Lou Klein, Bill Salkeld, Steve Souchock, Bob Chipman, Mickey Haefner, Marvin Rackley, Hank Behrman and Ferris and Dick Wakefield appear a cinch to return for another fling.

Veteran British jockey Gordon Richards rode his 200th winner of the season Saturday equalling the record of the late Fred Archer in riding 200 winners in each of five consecutive seasons.

Richards' victory aboard J. V. Rank's Zabeyade in the Sandown Counties Handicap over seven furlongs here was the 4,166th in his career.

It was the 10th occasion the 45-year-old Richards scored the "double century" in 29 years in the saddle.

Willie Goggin of White Springs, N. Y., came from behind Sunday to win the $10,000 Savannah Open Golf Tournament by two strokes with a total score of 280. He fired a three-under-par 69 final round.

Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C. finished second with a 282 total. One stroke behind in third place was Jim Ferrier of San Francisco with 283.

McMaster Marauders of Hamilton unbeaten this year in winning the Intercollegiate intermediate football title, want a chance to show their stuff in the College Bowl, Dec. 2 or 9 in 1951.

Ivor Wynne, who has done wonders in his two years at McMaster coach, said Saturday he'll bring the matter up next March at the annual meeting of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union.

The same request was made last year and the union favored it. But no action was taken because addition of the Marauders to a league which now includes Western, London, Kingston and Montreal would have created schedule problems.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker won the $20,000 added Bay Meadows handicap Saturday, stretching his imposing string of victories to 200 since hooking home the favorite. Frankly, by 1½ lengths. Time for the 1¼ miles was 1.49 2/5.

It was Shoemaker's third triumph of the afternoon, enabling him to extend his string of victories to 324 for the year. This puts him five ahead of Joe Culmone for the United States national riding honors.

Robert Burns, London, Ont., motorcycle driver, suffered serious injuries Sunday in a crash during a 50-mile novice race at the Darlington International Speedway.

Burns was listed in critical condition with internal injuries. Three other drivers involved in the crackup were not seriously injured.

Two players—Joe Aguirre of Winnipeg and Lindy Berry of Edmonton — were recipients of trophies prior to Saturday's western football final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos.

Aguirre, an import end from Los Angeles Dons, was presented with the Dave Dryburgh Memorial trophy as top individual scorer in the Western Interprovincial Union regular schedule. Berry, quarterback last year with Texas Christian, was named the most valuable player in the league. He was awarded the Jeff Nicklin Memorial trophy.

The Maritime Amateur Hockey Associatinon has asked for suspension of forward Don Oberholtzer of Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association's major series.

Oberholtzer, with Guelph's Junior champions last season, recently turned out with the Flying Dutchmen after being sidelined with a minor operation. Oberholtzer signed a playing card with North Sydney Victorias of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League last night but has refused to join the club, officials said. JP

Mel Mullen, diminutive forward who started his junior A hockey career with Guelph Biltmores two years ago played with St. Catharines Teepees last season, is back where he started.

Unable to come to terms with St. Catharines this year, he has signed with Guelph and will probably be in the lineup Wednesday when the Biltmores play in Windsor.

Weekend Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

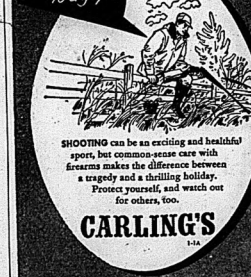
Doug Bentley, Chicago, who scored twice as the Hawks defeated New York Rangers 4-1 and extended their winning streak to 5 games.

Terry Sawchuk, Detroit goalie, who kept his edge clear as his mates routed Montreal Canadiens 4-0.

Danny Lewicki and Harry Watson, Toronto, who each scored two goals as the Leafs walloped Boston Bruins 7-0.

Turk Broda, Toronto, who chalked up his fourth shutout of the season.

Gerry McNeil, Montreal, and Chuck Rayner, New York, who turned in sparkling performances Saturday as Canadiens and Rangers battled to a 1-1 tie.



Metro Prystal, Detroit, who scored once and assisted once as the Red Wings snapped Toronto's winning streak Saturday, downing Toronto 3-1.

Five Teams Remain in Hunt For Grey Cup Berth; West Eliminates One of Them Today

(By The Canadian Press)

Five teams remain in the fight for the senior Ontario hockey honors, but either Winnipeg Blue Bombers or Edmonton Eskimos will be eliminated today.

The Bombers forced today's third game of the best-of-three Western playoffs by defeating Eskimos 22-12 in a cold weather tilt at Winnipeg Saturday.

In the east, Sarnia Imperials bowed out to Toronto Balmy Beach by an 18-10 score, which gave Beaches the Ontario Rugby Football Union championship, 35-31 in the two-game total-point series.

The victory earned Beaches the right to meet either Hamilton Tiger-Cats or Toronto Argonauts in the eastern final, last stepping stone to the Grey Cup game.

The Tiger-Cats came from behind to defeat Argos 13-11 in a close, hard fought game at Hamilton, Saturday. The Four Four winner won't be decided until Wednesday at Toronto, when the two teams meet in the final game of their total point series.

While the Grey Cup hopefuls were working on their destiny, the intercollegiate loop was settling a few of its own.

In the final game of the schedule, UUniversity of Western Ontario Mustangs upset the league leading McGill Redmen 21-10 to force a post season playoff at Montreal next Saturday. University of Toronto Blues pulled another surprise by spoiling Queen's Golden Gaels a 5-1 lead and then winning at Varsity Stadium.

An icy northwest wind and 18-above-zero weather provided the setting for the Winnipeg-Edmonton game before 8,300 chilled fans. It was probably the coldest game seen in the West this year. Three players—Rollin Prather and Don Durno of Edmonton and Roy Gardiner of Winnipeg —were ejected for slugging.

Change of Officials

The brawling brought about a change of officials for today's deciding game, with Seymour Wilson and Sam Richardson of Toronto as referee and umpire, and Cliff Rosebrough and Andy Bester of Winnipeg as judge of play and head linesman.

Two of Winnipeg's three touchdowns were scored on forwards, Tom Casey tossing to Ian Glab for one and quarterback Jack Jacobs hitting player Johnny Stroppa to Tommy Ford for 63 yards.

Halfback Mike King scored Edmonton's first major, dribbling a Winnipeg fumble for 30 yards. Bill Stukus, another former Toronto player, hit Dimitri Golombef from the Winnipeg 20 for Eskimos' other touchdown.

The Bombers were favored to win the final game today, but there was no indication of overconfidence in either camp. Eskimos won the series opener in Edmonton last week 16-17.

At Sarnia, was an old story that spelled defeat for the Imperials—shifty Carl Galbreath. The high-scoring Toronto Beaches halfback took the sting out of a Sarnia rally with a spectacular 40-yard dash for a major with seven minutes left in the game. Galbreath was largely instrumental in Beaches' 17-11 win over Sarnia the previous week.

Lead All the Way

Toronto led all the way, getting an early start on first-quarter touchdowns by quarterback Gerry Tuttle and halfback Billy Haddleton. Wally McIntosh recovered a Beach fumble in the first 15 minutes for Sarnia's first major, and Johnny Chorostecki got the other after a march from midfield after Joe Kane fumbled an Imperials' kick.

Stan Heath, one of the top passers in Canadian football this season, provided the spark that carried Hamilton to the close win over Argos.

A crowd of 14,000 unhappy fans sat quietly in Civic Stadium as Argos ran up a 10-0 first-quarter lead with Heath riding the bench. Joe Krol, who outkicked Hamilton's Fred Kljek consistently, opened with a 35-yard single. Then Ulysses Curtis ran the end for a major from 10 yards out which Nick Volpe converted. Volpe added a placement from the 25-yard stripe.

Heath Came On

Tiger-Cats came to life when Heath came on, and although he didn't figure directly in the scoring, Hamilton came through to make it 10-9 at the half on a touchdown by Ralph Bartolini and a convert said field goal by Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones.

Krol added another single in the third quarter but Hamilton came through in the final period with a single point when Volpe went yonged on Klijek's kick and the game-winning field goal off the boot of Jones.

The Tiger-Cats will be weakened for Wednesday's final game by the loss of hard-hitting Bill Gregus, who must report for duty in the U.S. army Wednesday morning. Argos will be without Doug Smylie, injured a week ago against Montreal, but Bill Bass, brilliant import half, may be back.

At London, Ont., McGill suffered its first defeat of the season—and it was a crucial one too.

Intercollegiate rules call for a playoff only if the second-place team defeats the first-place finisher at least once during the year. The victory earned Western the playoff as well as giving them sole possession of the runner-up spot.

McGill had a 10-6 lead at half-time as a result of a field goal and a convert by Fred Wilmot, former Calgary Stampeder player, a single by Gene Robillard and a touchdown by Harry Irving, another former Stampeder. Bob McFarlane had converted Bob McNichol's major for Western.

Dominate Scoring

The Mustangs dominated the scoring in the last half with touchdowns by McNichol and Blake Taylor, a single by Jack Gray and a convert and placement by Bob McFarlane.

In Toronto, the Varsity Blues were outplayed in every department except kicking by the Golden Gaels. The long-distance booting of Al Hair kept them out of serious trouble and also resultment in a single point in the second half.

A placement by Tip Logan and a safety touch on Eric McIlveen's tackle of Terry Housley behind the Blues' goalline made it 5-1 for Queen's at the three-quarter mark.

Varsity came to life suddenly in the final 10 minutes with Norm West passing to Housley

Mohawks Defeat Eastern Winners By 5-1 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

The two top teams in the American league collided last night —and Cincinnati Mohawks came up with, so easy, 5-1 triumph over Buffalo Bisons. The Mohawks head the league's western division while Buffalo is ahead in the eastern section.

In the four other games of the night Cleveland Barons beat New Haven Eagles 7-3, Indianapolis Capitals beat Springfield Indians 6-5, Pittsburg Hornets edged St. Louis Flyers 3-1 and Hershey Bears downed Providence Reds 2-1.

Cincinnati is a single point ahead of Cleveland at the head of its division. Buffalo heads up the eastern section by three points.

Goalie Emile (The Cat) Francis kicked out 36 shots for Cincinnati and allowed only one to get past him. The Mohawks scoring was spread among Gerry Plamondon, Fern Perreault, Jackie Gordon, Ivan Irwin and Gilles Dube. George Pargeter beat Francis in and Bill Bewley twice for three of Toronto's four completed tosses. Bewley carried the play to the one-yard line and Bob Garside, who scored the game-winning touchdown against Queen's in the schedule opener, repeated the performance for a major that Jimmy Bell converted.

the third period.

New Haven, low team in the eastern division managed to get a two-goal lead but Cleveland rallied up seven goals in 30 minutes to win. It was the Eagles' 14th death in 17 games.

Walt Hergesheimer of Cleveland and Ernie Trigg of New Haven each scored twice. Red Kane got the other Eagle marker.

Murdo McKay, Les Douglas, Ray Ceresino, Roy Kelly and Glenn Sommer were the men who got the rest of the Baron's goals.

Indianapolis won over Springfield with Gordon Haldy counting the winner at 14:18 of the finale. Johnny Wilson counted twice for Indianapolis and Ken Hayden and Bronco Horvath did a similar chore for Springfield.

Freddy Glover, Enio Sclissizi and Benny Woit were Indianapolis marksmen The odd Baron goal went to Kelly Burnett.

Pittsburgh, in fourth place in the western division, climbed to within two points of St. Louis by beating the Flyers. John Ashley scored the winner on a long screened shot. George Milligan scored for St. Louis and George Armstrong for Pittsburgh.

Hershey jumped out front of Providence in the first period and then held the Reds to a single counter. Playing coach Jack Crawford and Andy Szuminski, one-time New York American, scored for Bears and Pete Kapusta for the losers.

Weekend Games Help Tighten Junior 'A' Race

(By The Canadian Press)

A look at the tightly-bunched standings of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior 'A' schedule today will show that things are different this season in the 10-team league.

No longer are there signs of a runaway by the league-leader as has happened in recent years when Toronto Marlboros or Windsor Spitfires dominated the regular schedule.

Three weekend games helped tighten the margins separating the first eight teams. They also shoved Toronto St. Michael's deeper into ninth place and pushed the winless Waterloo Hurricanes further down in the cellar.

St. Catharines Teepees, who lost to Oshawa Generals 3-2 in overtime Saturday, still lead the League but they're only four points ahead of eighth-place Stratford.

In the other Saturday game, Galt Black Hawks defeated Waterloo 2-1 to edge ahead of Guelph into fourth place. In Toronto Sunday the two Toronto teams hooked up, Marlboros moving into second place tie with Barrie by pasting St. Mike's 6-3.

Senior action saw the last-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen down the league-leading Toronto St. Michael's 3-2.

The Dutchmen had to stave off a third-period drive by St. Mikes to win. After a 1-1 first period Kitchener-Waterloo took a two-goal edge in the middle frame and held St. Mike's to one goal in the last period.

Kitchener scorers were Harvey Jacklin, Dinny Flanigan and Jim Pernfuss, Dusty Blair and Johnny Meldrum scored for Toronto.

Fight Brings Penalty

A first period fight between Fred Sandford of the Junior St. Mikes and Don Cockerline of Marlboros featured the Sunday game at Maple Leaf Gardens. Each got five-minute penalties and additional 10-minute misconducts.

Both goalies were hurt but continued to play after being treated. Don Lockhart of the Dukes was hit on the head in a goal-mouth scramble and Tom Battaglia stopped a hard shot from Gusy Karrys with his teeth.

In Galt, Waterloo Hurricanes stretched their winless streak to 11 games, They have salvaged but one tie this season.

Tony Poeta put Galt ahead in the second period, but Gord Bonface evened it up in the last frame. Len Cooke decided it for Hawks.

Bobby Attersley scored the overtime goal that put Oshawa top St. Catharines. The win moved Generals into a three-way, fifth-place tie with Windsor and Guelph.

St. Kitts had an edge in play in the first and third periods, but didn't have the "get-off" punch. Wayne Brown scored for St. Kitts at 9:31 of the first, and Herve Delordy nullified it with only three seconds to go in the period. Harry Sinden put Generals ahead 2-1 only to have Don McCombe knot the score again to force the extra period.

Two games are scheduled for Tuesday, Kitchener — Waterloo visiting Hamilton in a senior contest and St. Catharines playing host to Stratford Kroehlers in the junior loop.

The R.C.A.F. has a code language all its own —brief, concise for quick, clear understanding.

"Vampire 555...Clear to Land" (Control to pilot) "555...Roger" (Pilot to control tower)

In those few words, a clear-eyed young Canadian pilot in a stream-lined Canadian jet knows that the field is clear—that it is time for him to "come in"—and confirms instructions.

Perhaps YOU, as another alert young Canadian want to "come in" too.

The R.C.A.F. has immediate need of young men to train as PILOTS • RADIO OFFICERS • NAVIGATION OFFICERS

If you are between the ages of 18 and 24, physically fit and can meet the educational requirements, there is an immediate opening that will give you valuable training in the modern field of aviation, and an opportunity to serve your country in a vital arm of its defence.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Currently there seems to be an epidemic of worries about two bid responses. These doubts are born in the minds of cumbersome players who transfer them to others at the bridge table.

Let me show you the easiest way to remember all responses to an opening of two in a suit. Know first, of course, the basic order of choice of bids: T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump.

An opening of two in a suit promises nine tricks or more. Know nothing more about it. Care not about big or little cards. Simply have nine tricks and you have an opening two bid.

If you are wonder of an opening two bidder, look first to see if you have a sure trick (ace or K Q). If not, respond first with two no-trump. Then follow T-A-N until game is reached.

With a sure trick, follow T-A-N at once; continue to follow T-A-N until game is reached. With only this additional: If partner bids four no-trump, reply with the ace and king convention.

South opens with a bid of two hearts when north has this hand:

♠K J 9 8 7
♥6 4
♦K 6 3
♣8 5 2

Lacking a sure trick, two no-trump is the first reply by north. Indeed he has a strong biddable spade suit. But first he signals lack of a sure trick with a bid of two no-trump.

On the next round north will show his spade suit. By then the opening two bidder will know how the wind blows. He will know the responder has a biddable spade suit but no sure trick in his hand.

Why is this so important? The opening two bidder says: he has nine tricks. If responder has a sure trick there may be chance for a slam. Opener must know this before he gets shamblings.

Thus, if responder shows the spade suit at once, opener has a right to expect a sure trick there as well. He may wreck the joint. Too many losers are made by confusers.

Hollywood, Nov. 13 (AP) — Longtime singing star Kenny Sealey, here to prepare her life story for the screen, says the modern songstress don't have the stuff that made the oldtimers great.

"They don't have to work for it," said Miss Sealey as we lunched with Benny Fields, her husband and a singing star in his own right. "These young girls have everything handed to them. They are placed before a microphone, they get a big publicity build-up and suddenly they are stars.

"But they have no individuality, no style, no heart. They all sound alike. Back in the old days we had stars like Nora Bayes, Fanny Brice, Belle Baker, Sophie Tucker, Marian Harris. Each one was different. We could all play the same vaudeville bill and the public wouldn't mind. Because each of us had a different style.

Blossom who made "After You're Gone" and many other song hits famous, said the youngsters lack the training of their elders.

"I started out as a kid in San Francisco," she said. "I had years of training before all kinds of audiences — honky-tonks, clubs and vaude — before I hit the Broadway bigtime."

That Feeling

Blossom had to "feel" her songs. Once, when she was starring for Florenz Ziegfeld, she asked to have a song removed from the show because she didn't feel it. "I am Ziegfeld and you will sing it," the producer shouted.

"I am Seeley and I quit," she answered. And she did.

Blossom, who has made a few appearances in recent years, hinted that she might return to the business after her film biography comes out. The younger singers might well watch her act and see how it's done.

MARMORA

Wreaths Placed On Cenotaph By Vets, Citizens

Marmora — Remembrance Day services under auspices of Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion were held both at Marmora and Deloro on Saturday morning. At Marmora, the Legionnaires assembled at the Legion Hall and under command of President Clayton Bedore paraded to the Memorial Hall to be joined there by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. A short service consisting of two readings and prayers by the Rev. Geo. D. Young and the two minutes silence with Last Post and Revelle being sounded by Comrade W. H. Deering, was followed intently by a fair sized number of residents, considering the cool temperature.

Wreaths Placed

Wreaths were placed beneath the memorial tablets by the following: Mrs. J. M. Brownlie for the Province of Ontario, Mrs. Frank Leal for the Ladies' Auxiliary and President Bedore for the Canadian Legion. At Deloro for the second successive year, employees of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited, assembled at Deloro hall in observance of the hour. Ex service men paraded under Lieutenant Percy Gray and with the general public being represented the hall was well filled. Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie chaplain of Marmora Branch of the Canadian Legion, conducted a brief service of prayer and scripture reading which closed with the National Anthem. Wreaths were deposited by R. G. Walsh, general manager for the company and by Reeve C. H. Buskard for the village of Deloro. Last Post and Revelle were sounded by Comrade G. Brooks preceding and succeeding the two minutes silence.

At St. Paul's, Marmora, the Union Jack was flown at half staff.

Smoker Enjoyed

Attended by about one hundred and fifty Legionnaires including representatives from Sibling, Madoc, Havelock and other branches, a smoker was held in Marmora Legion Hall on Friday evening. Past President Norman Hipson, chairman of the Entertainment Committee was in charge. Films of the Carling Conservation series were shown and a sing song was also indulged in. Refreshments were served in course of the evening's program.

AT THE BELLE

Stars, Technicolor, Wonderful Music In "3 Little Words"

"Three Little Words," now in its 4th and final day at the Belle Theatre, offers a big technicolor musical with a heartwarming story, eleven of America's best-remembered song hits of the past quarter century and a great cast topped by Fred Astaire, Red Skelton, Vera-Ellen and Arlene Dahl.

The new picture is based on the lives of Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby, with Astaire playing the late Kalmar and Skelton cast as his teammate, Ruby. Vera-Ellen enacts Jessie Brown, Kalmar's vaudeville partner and later his wife, and Miss Dahl plays the former film star, Eileen Percy, who became Mrs. Ruby.

In top supporting roles are Keenan Wynn, Gale Robbins, Gloria De Haven, Phil Regan and Harry Shannon.

Together with its song and dance cast, they have made "Three Little Words" one of the season's eye-arresting and exciting treats.

An exception program of Junior Features precedes the Feature attraction including, a funny Tom and Jerry cartoon "United States Mouse," Paramount's newsreel, and a beautiful MGM Filmpatrick Travelatalk, "A Wee Bit of Scotland," in color by Technicolor.

MARK TRAIL

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, November 14

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Inject spirit, confidence into day's activities and half your battle is won. Be consistent, ready to learn, and avoid ill temper, too fast decisions. Moderation!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — With optimism and proper timing of action and things generally, you can achieve fairly well. Be conscientious, friendly salesman will bring in most orders; you can do likewise.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Enlivening influences. Don't be side-tracked by fear of lack of confidence, you can make good. Necessary tasks, business or personal essentials can be gainful.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Propitious time for home and personal duties, for matters needing attention. Don't permit pleasure to rule over obligations; watch this temptation today.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Favorable aspects for research, business contacts, financing, manufacturing of essentials. Let the less important wait awhile. Be on the job, and keep smiling.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Generous rays for matters close to your requirements and capability. Stick to your last, each man to his own now for best results. P.M. can be enjoyed especially with family.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Check up on obligations, unanswered letters, unkept promises (especially to loved ones and others due). Can be smooth, pleasant period if give-and-take is there.

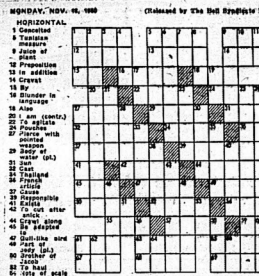
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A day one might misjudges; tendency to go all out in excess of one's budget, over-strain, be unwisely enthusiastic. A happy and sane schedule will bring best results.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Hold on to what you have by guarding each move, checking outside motives and approaches, being accurate. Don't sign risky long-term contracts or commit self to large deals.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Especially favored are well-planned deals, making future business setups, mechanical and electrical undertakings. Domestic and home affairs have clear sailing if properly managed.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Some latent contention may confront you now. Be not unwisely susceptible. But don't let anything get you down; make you lose faith. The pendulum swings up as well as down.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Planetary configurations on upgrade. Should be able to turn in a splendid day, maybe accomplish more than expected. Educational and scientific effort encourage; also sane romance.



YOU BORN TODAY have a fine outlook generally for remaining months of '50. If you forget worrying about what others think and be your own true self you will forge ahead, and enjoy a happier, more contented life. Don't be tense, don't take on more than you should for health's sake. Especially proficient as doctor, nurses, critics, musicians, chemists, business officials. Develop your education, mental acuteness is your big gift from God. You like fun, good living. Relax often; enjoy self safety. Birthdate of: William II, English king; Robert Fulton, inventor of steamboat; Veronica Lake, actress.

Mystery Challenge To Detectives

Columbus, O., Nov. 11 (AP) — Columbus police today had a new mystery to challenge arm-chair detectives.

The victim, Mrs. Jean Liggett, told police an intruder entered her kitchen through an unlocked door yesterday and neatly stacked all the kitchen chairs upside down.

Then he balanced a teacup on each of the upturned legs—and vamoosed.

That's all there was to it. Nothing else was touched.

Western Canada Farmers May Find Prowess Weaker

Toronto, Nov. 13 (CP)—Western Canada farmers who consistently cart off most of the world championships awarded at the seed show of the Royal Winter Fair, may find their prowess weakened a bit this year.

Fair officials say seed men in the west report 1950 has been a poor year, August frosts having been mainly responsible.

The 8-day agricultural show, pageant and contest— one of the world's biggest farmer shows—opens here tomorrow.

The seed show, in a change started last year, now is an international competition, and the front-bit Western Canada farmers will have American seed growers from 10 midwest and northwest states as well as all other Canadian provinces after their laurels. There are 756 entries.

World championships in the six seed divisions were won last year by Mrs. Amy Kirkby of Erickson, B.C. for wheat; John Klhuk of Hairy Hill, Alta., for oats; and Albert Kessel of Rosetown, Sask., for rye; Theodore Despatie of Hanmer, Ont., for potatoes; and W. Bordell of Hanna City, Ill., for corn.

Mrs. Kelsey also sent her wheat sample to the international livestock exposition in Chicago and won the wheat queen title, while Mr. Kessel won rye king honors. The Royal Winter Fair named the Chicago world champions" while the Chicago exposition awards the title 'King' or 'Queen'.

Horse Show Biz Attraction

Perhaps the fair's biggest box-office attraction is its horse show. Last year the show featured the famous RCMP musical ride, 32 picked Mounties on matched horses in an intricate precision exhibition taught by a sergeant-major.

The stars this year are eight white stallions. Some of their most startling effects are obtained by immobility—classic poses on their hind legs.

The horses are the renowned Lipizzaner from the Spanish riding school in Vienna. Four centuries of tradition back the superb snow-white stallions, and their riders attired in old-world liveries with epaulettes, coats and black hip boots.

Each night there will also be international jumping competitions with teams from Great Britain, United States, Chile, the Republic of Ireland, Mexico and Canada.

Business Man Enters Ministry Of Episcopal Ch.

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (AP) — A 41-year-old business man today said he has given up the "final scramble for the almighty dollar" to enter the Episcopal ministry.

J. Phillip Bartlett, a seminary student at the University of Southern California, said he sold a thriving farm machinery business in San Diego because the business world was not working it."

By everyday standards he was well left, Bartlett said, but he felt there was something lacking in his life.

"I was forced to follow certain ethics which were not Christian" he explained. "They were not ethics that would put a man in jail, but modern business is cutthroat and dog-eat-dog for the small business man who is trying to survive."

Four Rescued From Icy Ledge

Glasgow, Nov. 13. (Reuters)— Three men and a girl trapped on an icy, ball-swept ledge near the summit of the 2,891-foot high Black Peak in Argyllshire, Scotland, were rescued today.

They had been roped together all night, with a sheer drop of 100 feet facing them if they slipped, while a rescue party clambered up the rugged peak.

DROP COLOR BAN

Johannesburg (CP) — The barristers society of Johannesburg has abolished the color bar which prevented non-Europeans from becoming members. It is now the only bar association in South Africa which did not endorse a color bar was that at Capetown.

Refreshments were served under the direction of E. J. Batson, Mrs. J. Hedges, Mrs. Smith and Phil Dodds.

New Sacred Heart Church Hall to Open With Bazaar

A Marmora — Chicken dinner. For 75c, believe it or not.

The dinner will accompany the opening of a new hall in the basement of Sacred Heart Church here November 14, 15 and 16. The opening is to be a bazaar that will take up those three days.

The new hall was started about four months ago by excavating under the church, and while it won't be fully completed, the 30th annual bazaar will be held in it. The largest hall in the village, it is 100 feet long and has a width of 40 feet. A modern kitchen has been built in the southeast corner measuring 20 by 22 feet.

A new furnace will heat both the hall and the church, and will provide for air conditioning. The floor of the church proper has been supported by structural steel and the ceiling of the hall has been covere t with ten-test to make it soundproof. The stage which runs almost the full width of the hall has a depth of 16 feet. Authorities state that the hall will hold about 400 people.

Walls of the hall are plaster over a cement base and are painted grey. New steel chairs upholstered in red leatherette have been purchased.

But that chicken dinner!

Rev. D.C. McClellan Guest Speaker at H.&S. Association

The regular meeting of Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association was held last Thursday with a good turnout for the health meeting. A welcome was extended by the president, Mrs. R. Foote, who announced plans for "Get-acquainted Night" to be held during November.

Alderman William Argue explained tentative plans for a health program for the city and approximate cost. Approval of general body was given to cooperate with other Home and School Associations in running advertisement in local paper to show their support of such a program in the forthcoming election.

The new executive was introduced by Mrs. Foote.

After a brief business period the program was turned over to Mrs. H. Townsend who was in charge.

Students who were in charge of Miss Harrison, director of Physical Education at Collegiate, presented forms of rhythmic drill and folk dances.

Guest of the evening—was the Rev. D. C. McClellan, of Ontario Hospital Home and School.

He was introduced by Rev. E. F. Church, his city.

Educational Film

Before showing the film, Mr. McClellan spoke briefly, explaining hazards of beverage alcohol and also the fact we have to act as a teacher. The film, "Alcohol and the Human Body", was educational.

He was thanked by the principal of Prince Charles School, Mr. E. Bateman.

The meeting adjourned after which a social half hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Livery and her committee.

Attendance prizes were won by Miss Blue's and Mr. Frederick's classes from Queen Mary School and by Miss Arkles' and Miss Peck's classes from Prince Charles.

SURROUND REBELS

Manila, Nov. 13 — (AP) — Six hundred communist-led Hukbalahap guerrillas were reported surrounded today by about 5,000 government troops 40 miles north of Manila.

The army said 16 Huks were reported killed last night in the first contact.

Twelve Philippine Air Force Mustang fighter planes strafed Huk concentrations.

Has Neat Solution To Keep Nurses From Quiting Jobs

Stratford, Nov. 13 (CP) — Dr. Howard Hazel has what may be a solution to the problem of nurses leaving the profession as soon as they complete training. More handsome interiors might keep the nurses on the job because they would want to wait for the low-paid interns, Dr. Hazel suggested at a meeting of the General Hospital Trust Friday night.

Ripped Out of Shoes

Guelph, Ont., Nov 13—(CP)—It'll be hard to get a ripped right out of their shoes, two men changing a tire at a Guelph intersection were killed instantly early Sunday Patrick Anderson, 29, and Fred Hard, 30, were struck by a car driven by John Doyle, 23, of Guelph. The driver, who said he had been blinded by headlights of an approaching car, was later charged with dangerous and careless driving.

LICENCES GRANTED

Toronto, Nov. 13. (CP)—The Ontario Liquor Licence Board today announced the granting of Liquor Licences to Canadian Legion branches in Tillsonburg and Chatsworth.

Little Benny's Note Book

Today in school Miss Kitty was telling us about our conscience, saying, Life has been discribed as an endless struggle, and one of the most fortunate of us have to struggle at some time or other with our conscience. When we say our conscience is herting us, it is only another way of saying that the good in us is fighting against the evil in us, words we are wrestelling with our conscience, and if the battle seems to be going the wrong way, always remember that an honest confession is good for the soul, she said.

Being the end of the subject and the beginning of the spelling lesson, and when I got home ma was sewing up in her room, and I said, Hay ma, are those apples ripe yet?

Meening the baskit of apples a frend of pop's sent'shim from the country, and ma said, No they're not, and they wont be ripe till they start to rot.

Meening I wasn't allowed to start eating them yet, and I went down in the basemelt and looked at them, thinking, Heck, you can't even tell by the pale color. Sometimes the healthiest looking people are just sunbernt. Oh boy, wont we have a good serprise if she finds out they're ripe already, I said.

And I ate 4 and had a stumick ake that kept getting worse instead of better, and I thawt, G, I wonder if it's realy my conscience herting me, or me.

And I went back to ma's room, saying, Hay ma, is an honest confession good for the stummick as well as the sole?

If I knew what you were talking about maybe I could anser more intelligently, ma said, and I said, My conscience herts. I ate 4 of those apples for a experiment for your sake, and by conscience herts like anything, I said.

The result being bicarbonate of soda, in hot water, taisting fierce but working perfect.

Sforza Discloses Proposal Was Not Carried Out

Rome, Nov. 13 (AP) — A proposal, never carried out, by which Italy and Red China would have apparently Communist China-wide control of the United Nations was disclosed by Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza in a speech to parliament.

The minister's disclosure was made during a debate of Italian government foreign policy while he was discussing Italy's non-recognition of the government of Communist China.

Russia has consistently opposed Italy's entrance into the U.N. but Sforza did not refer to the Soviet Union by name in telling of the proposal.

Sforza stated that some months ago, taking into account "the importance of our commerce with China and the life of our Catholic missions," consideration was given at the opportune moment to the recognition of the Mao Tse-Tung government "which today represents almost all of the territory of China."

He added however, that if China is going to embark on "military enterprises contrary to International Law — evidently a reference to Chinese troops in Korea — the Chinese have put their foot in it—"it is clear that also for this reason recognition of Mao Tse-Tung will have to wait.

Says Russian Plan Is Unacceptable

London, Nov. 13 — (AP) Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said today a Russian plan to end the armed occupation of Germany is "unacceptable."

Bevin hinted strongly that Britain will therefore reject a Russian bid for a four-power meeting to discuss the removal of troops and the unification of Germany under a single government a proposed at Prague recently by Russia and her East European satellites.

Britain Will Lend Yugoslavia 5 Million Pounds

London, Nov. 13 — (Reuters) — Britain is to lend Yugoslavia £5,000,000 to buy food in an effort to avert a famine threatening the country, it is reliably learned.

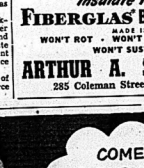
A usually well - informed source said today that Britain's Ambassador to Yugoslavia will advise Marshal Tito of the loan tomorrow.

Yugoslavia has been facing starvation as a result of a countrywide drought which ruined this year's crops.

Yugoslavia has also asked the U. S. for economic aid.

Wanted to 'Grow Up And be a Soldier'

Boston, Nov. 13—(AP)— It's taps for the "little soldier". Ten year old Earle C. Mace, Jr., died yesterday of haemophilia, a blood disease from which he suffered nearly all his life. His nickname from nurses at children's hospital where he had had long treatments. They said the boy told them he wanted to "grow up and be a soldier."



TRY TO ESTABLISH IDENTITY

Kingston, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Provincial police are continuing their efforts to establish the identity of a well-dressed, elderly man whose body was found in a field about 10 miles east of here Friday.

The body was found lying about 1,000 feet from a dance hall on No. 2 Highway.

Pockets of the man's clothes contained only two pipes, a tobacco pouch and an empty billfold.

New Liberal Chief Asks Royal Probe On Gambling, Vice

Toronto, Nov. 13. (CP)—Walter C. Thomson, the new Ontario Liberal leader, has called on Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative government to appoint a royal commission "with wide scope and extended powers" to investigate gambling and vice conditions in Windsor.

In an interview at his Pickering farm yesterday with the Toronto Star, Mr. Thomson said the royal commission should take over the Windsor investigation from the reorganized police commission of the city which is studying conditions following a provincial police report that gambling and vice flourished.

"Surely Mr. Frost would welcome the suggestion that a thorough-going investigation be made into conditions in Windsor or any other locality where the liquor trade is lifked with widespread vice," he said.

In another Windsor reference, he said: "The people of Ontario demand to know what active or passive part was played by provincial police officials stationed in the mess of degradation uncovered in Windsor."

In the interview, Mr. Thomson attacked the government's handling of liquor administration, education, forest resources and social security. He said the government had not implemented the report of a royal commission it appointed to study the management of forest resources and that it "has placed our vast forest resources at the disposal of a handful of men who operate the pulpwood monopoly."

Four Drowned, Car Crashes Through Barrier

Bryson, Que., Nov. 13—(CP)— Four persons were drowned and two escaped when an automobile crashed through the barrier of a dead-end street here late Saturday night and plunged into the Ottawa River at this upper Gatineau valley town. Those who were: Hormisdas Asselin, 42, and his wife, Rose, 34, of near-by Campbell's Bay, the parents of 10 children; Charles Lane, 66, and his wife, Delima, 59, the parents of Mrs. Asselin. The two who escaped were Edouard Dubeau, 40, of Otter Lake, Que., the driver of the car, and Emile Gallant, 62, of Campbell's Bay.

Dubeau and Gallant smashed a window in the sunken two-door coach and swam to the surface where they were picked up by a rescuer.

Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Lance and Mrs. Asselin were recovered Sunday night, but the body of Mrs. Asselin was not with the others. It was thought he may have escaped from the car and was drowned before he could reach the surface.

THREE DROWNED

St. Faustin, Que., Nov. 13 — Three persons were drowned early Sunday when the taxi in which they were riding went out of control on the highway near here and plunged into the La Boulee River. Dead are taxi driver Paul Dalcourt, 31, of Lac Superieur, Rober Bourguioon, 20, of Lac Carre, and Arthur Dufour, 21, of St. Faustin.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Search me, how soon he'll be back, Myles." Howlett shook his head and poked with the straw simultaneously. "He said he was 'late' to 'pound the family' Court House to send along a fingerprint expert. It's now after 8 o'clock and he'll have to wait till he comes. Had your breakfast, Fran?"

"No. I was anxious to get here to wait for it at Rocky Point."

"Same here. I was awake at the crack of dawn. We'll take over Betsy's kitchen. You know how to make coffee?"

"You forget you are speaking to a girl trained by Rebecca Harding."

"Like heck, I do. Glad you can get a laugh out of this mix-up. I'll bet Selden's got through there will be some subsequent crossing of wires. We'll go through the small gallery. Come on." He grinned, "I'm always saying, 'Come on,' to you, and you always bristle with resentment."

Howlett blocked the doorway. "Don't suppose I ought to let you in, Myles. Mr. Sargent said to—"

"Forget it, Sheriff, you wouldn't let a lady starve, would you? Be a sport, now!"

"This town'd get the moon for you, if you wanted it, Myles, but you'll have to take the blame if Mr. Sargent rows." Howlett hesitated. He paused as he stepped aside to let them pass. "It's my guess I may lose the deputy job for letting you in. Mr. S. is a heavy taxpayer. He's got influence."

"I'm a heavy taxpayer, I've got influence. If he makes trouble, I'll see you through, Sheriff. Come on, Fran. There's a gallon." They crossed the entrance to the accompaniment of a mumble of protest behind them.

"The door of the cabinet is still open."

"What's the idea of whispering and tiptoeing, woman?" Myles inquired in a loud voice. "It gives me the willies. Probably left open for the fingerprint expert to examine." On the threshold of the sunny blue and white kitchen he stopped.

"Gone!"

"Who's whispering now? What's gone?" Fran asked Myles.

"The footprints." He crossed the room slowly, peering intently at the marbleized linoleum. "Not so much as a smooch left."

"Mr. Sargent and Howlett must have wiped them up." She turned from the open door of the icebox. "How about bacon and eggs —Midday?"

"Sounds like the beginning of a perfect day. This is a good time as any to remind you that I am no longer a major. If it would not be too much of a strain, how about using my first name?"

"Address the trustee of Rebecca Harding's estate so familiarly? I wouldn't dare."

"I hate sarcasm in women."

"So do I, I hate it in anyone. I'm sorry. I seem always to be saying, 'I'm sorry,' to you, Mr. Jaffray."

"Now that is nicely washed up, let's proceed with breakfast. How can I help?"

"Find the silver and set the table. Know how?"

"You forget you are speaking to a boy partially raised by Betsy Digby, the prize housekeeper of the village."

His part of the preparations completed, he stood watching her at the electric range.

"Like cook?"

"When I have to. I wouldn't select it as a career. Why do you ask?"

"You are forking those eggs in the double boiler as if your life depended on a successful scramble, as if you are tremendously interested in what you are doing."

"I am. To do a job as well as one can takes the drudgery out of it. 'The Voice of Experience,' speaking. Breakfast is ready, sir."

"This is the life," he approved as they faced each other across the table in the sunny breakfast nook.

"Great morning after the storm," Myles said. "Reminds me of those days in the Arctic. Say, how do they go? I've got 'em.

Every day is a fresh beginning,
Every morn is the world made new.

Said first by one Susan Cook-lidge, in case you're interested, Miss Harding."

"You shouldn't be wasting your time in this Maine village, Jaffray," you laying on The Invitation to Learning program."

"I appreciate my hardly earned erudition. Boy, those eggs look like fluffed gold. Any day you need a reference I'll swear that Rebecca Harding's niece is a real cook and makes delicious coffee. More and more I am being convinced that if I had a daughter I'd like to have her brought up by Aunt Becky."

"I'll wager the daughter will object. 'Advice from one who I'm so full of inhibitions—'

"Your aunt and her generation had another name for them—principles."

"Maybe. Suppose we stop giving Fran Phillips featured billing and talk about something else." She leaned toward him, whispered, "Did you get a clue from the footprints on the blotters?" He shook his head. "Had they dried and left no trace? I was afraid of it."

"Worse than that. Hold onto your chair — light. This will set the room spinning. They've disappeared."

"Disappeared Gone!"

"Softly, softly. These walls may have ears as well as eyes. I wouldn't put it past them. Listen. He told of what had happened, when we discovered the muddy footprints, before I drew the shades. Doubtless he was hidden in the shrubs—when I slipped the blotters into the wood box outside this door."

"He must have been soaked to the skin. Why not get a search warrant and go through every kitchen in the village looking for a wet suit of clothes drying? It couldn't possibly be dry by this time."

"How explain the search warrant? Your hide doesn't want publicity, remember."

"Right. Your reminder brought down the suggestion like a spent rocket. I got the search warrant idea from whodunits, learning by them also that a man's house is his castle till the law says 'Open.' Even if our burglar saw you put the sheets of blotting paper into the wood box, when could he have taken them out of the roadster?"

"Only chance would have been when I went into the Sargent house with you. Perhaps he hung on the back of the car from the Digbys'. Sounds corny as the dickens, but I can think of no other explanation. No sign of him when I drove into my garage."

"Fran—perhaps it was the sneezer."

"What sneezer? Expound your theory, woman, talking about!"

She told of the sneeze which had risen from the shrubs, of its stranged succession, of Mrs. Sargent's low, "Come out. She's gone."

"Now what do you think?"

"Too complicated. Can't think so soon after breakfast."

Of course he could, equally of course he was evading answering her, she decided.

"What do we do next?"

"Await developments while we give an imitation of two persons who are at peace with the world. Meanwhile, Fran, your suggestion that we snoop around for a wet suit of clothes is getting my intensive consideration."

"You might also watch out for a person with a head cold."

"Miss Phillips?" The summons boomed from the small gallery. Fran sprang to her feet.

"The voice of authority. I'm all gooseflesh. Something is about to break."

"Take it easy. Remember I stand between you and your bogeyman."

"That gives me more shivers. It suggests that he may suspect me, that I may be the fall guy." His quick laugh was infectious. She smiled in sympathy. "What's so funny about that?"

"The ease with which you, with your Rebecca Harding training, get off a slang phrase. Where do you pick them up?"

"I see by the papers—"

"You and the Digs. That 'fall guy' is cockeyed thought. Isn't it time for you to report on your job, to open the Gallery?"

"It is. I didn't think of that simple explanation of his summons. I hope I'll get a chance to wash these dishes before Mrs. Betsy returns. I don't want her to find an untidy kitchen. Yes, Mr. Sargent," she called in reply to another booming "Miss Phillips," and followed her voice.

He was pacing the floor of her office. Stopped abruptly and faced her. How much of her heart did he suspect? Her head ached with a cartwheel and came right side up again to resume its hard hammering. He scanned, rewed his eyeglasses and tapped the left lens against his right thumb.

"How long have you been working for me, Miss Phillips?"

Here it comes. I get my pay check and am eased out, Fran decided. Her lips parted to reply.

"You needn't answer, I know. You have been here long enough for me to trust you implicitly. I hope you have the same feeling toward me."

Amazement tightened her throat to "clears of exile!" Fran shut out the astonished tribute.

"I have, Mr. Sargent. Thank you."

"Don't thank me. Thank yourself that you have chosen to be the sort of person who inspires trust. Close the door."

With the feeling of facing forth on an uncharted sea without compass or rudder, Fran shut out the reassuring sound of Myles' voice talking to the sheriff on the porch.

Wonderful! Her voice, if you would grope your way toward Sargent's, would be a guide for one of finding a helping hand.

"Sit down, Miss Phillips. Hen-ry-ry!" the command interrupted her reflections. "You appear as if poised to take off in a relay race." After she was seated he faced her from the other side of the desk.

"I understand Sinclair came to this town to see you."

Surprise widened her eyes. Blake had been far from her thoughts.

"I thought from what you said the day of the preview of Mr. Eckhard's pictures that he came to sell you a painting, Mr. Sargent, an item you wanted very much."

"That was another reason for his coming. He offered me a Constable. Do you know what it is?"

"No, sir. I wouldn't know a Constable if I saw it."

Briefs From Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

London (CP) — Spike, a yak at the Regent's Park Zoo, normally keeps up with the fashions. He showed disapproval of a visitor's suit by inserting a horn in the sleeve and ripping it up to the shoulder.

Nottingham, England (CP)—At a local fair 600 persons won a total of 10,000 goldfish by throwing celluloid balls into bowls. Then the winners went to a lecture — on goldfish breeding.

Ipswich, England (CP) — The East Suffolk Health Committee heard a complaint from a village father that he had to put his three children to bed himself because a temporary housekeeper from the committee went home to tea. The health committee chairman said, "father should do his bit".

London (CP) — Everyone, including the bridegroom's mother, smiled as pictures were taken of a wedding group in West Norwood. Then the mother, Mrs. Florence Townsend, 57, was taken away for treatment of a broken arm she had just suffered in a fall.

Yalding, Kent, England (CP) — Local farmers estimate that poor weather conditions last summer caused total damages in this district of more than $3,750,000 to crops.

London (CP)—It's not necessarily laziness that makes an African sit down a lot while working, says the Colonial Medical Research Committee. It may be the expression of a physiological need caused by "the earlier fatiguing of the sweat glands".

Stratford - on - Avon, England (CP)—The last privately-owned building here with Shakespeare associations has been acquired for the purchase of Hall's Croft, to be opened as a Shakespeare centre. It was the home where Shakespeare's daughter Susanna lived with her husband Dr. John Hall, a 16th century half-timbered building.

London (CP) — An advertisement in a local paper was pretty explicit. It said: "Wanted, house parlourman and cook-general, must be pleasant, intelligent couple, no children, prepared to offer efficient, courteous, willing and unlazy service."

Kingston-on-Thames, Surrey, England (CP) — Botanists are faced with the mystery of how more than 20 alien plants came to be growing in a bomb-crater near here. If they had been in the bomb they would have been destroyed and one theory is that a visitor from Europe sewed the seeds as a prank.

Abbotskerwell, Devon, England (CP)—Drama on the farm near here you can hear a mooing duet by Portia and Juliet. All the cows are named after heroines from Shakespeare's plays.

London (CP) — Damaged in bombing attacks in 1940, the long room of the Customs House here has been re-opened for business. The historic room has been rebuilt to fit modern requirements of the customs service.

Yalding, Kent, England (CP)—An outside speaker used by farmer F. W. Masters here was 18½ inches in circumference, weighing 3¾ pounds.

DIES OF INJURIES

Cornwall, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Rollande Vaillancourt, 13, of Casselman, Ont., died in hospital here Sunday night of injuries suffered when a transport truck in which she was riding was struck by a New York Central passenger train at a level crossing at Finch Saturday night. Finch is 25 miles northwest of Cornwall.

She had suffered a skull fracture and severe burns. Truck driver Girard Dupuis was less seriously injured and four-year-old Pierre Vaillancourt received head bruises.

Mr. Peabody and the end of the rainbow

● You could have knocked Mr. Peabody over with a feather.

For there, right through the window of his own room, came a rainbow. And at the end of it was a huge pot of gold!

As he approached it to see if it was real, he heard the sound of bells. "The whole town has heard of this!" thought Mr. Peabody. "That's why the bells are ringing." And the sound of the bells grew louder . . . louder . . . LOUDER . . .

Mr. Peabody awoke with a start. The alarm clock beside his bed was ringing . . . ringing . . . RINGING. Shutting it off, he sighed sadly, got up and dressed.

At the breakfast table Mr. Peabody read his newspaper. In it a speaker was reported to have said that old-age benefits should provide everybody with enough to retire on.

"Hmmph!" snorted Mr. Peabody to himself. "More rainbows! I like the idea of additional help for older people. But to build the kind of comfortable old-age income I want, I fully expect to need all my life insurance — and maybe more. It gives my family protection now. And it covers my own special needs in a way no mass programme could possibly do."

Arriving at the office, Mr. Peabody, like millions of other Canadians, began another day of earning and saving for his future security with life insurance.

"Even without pots of gold, it's a pretty good world," he said to himself. And as he worked, he began to whistle softly.

NONE OF 58 SURVIVES AIR CRASH IN ALPS

Pilgrims Perish Three Hours After Vatican Audience

News of Disaster Kept From Pope Until Morning

Cold Weather Cuts War Activity

(By The Associated Press)

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 14 (AP) — A frozen silence settled today over Korean battlefields.

Temperatures of six above zero virtually paralyzed the northwestern front, where an estimated 90,000 Chinese communists faced the concentrated United States 1st Corps. It was even colder in the east.

Ice-slipped winds swept down from mountain peaks on the quilted Chinese and on shivering Americans, may still in summer uniforms the U.S. Eighth Army was rushing Arctic clothing to the chilled troops.

Parka-clad Marines pushed through frozen hills in the centre of the line toward Changjin reservoir and its great hydro-electric development.

Farther east, two regiments of the U.S. 7th Division marched along ice caked roads in sub-zero weather toward the Manchurian border, 30 miles away.

Wilds of 40 miles an hour made it difficult for fighting men of the 7th Division to breathe. Their hands and feet were numbed by the cold.

A thermometer carried by a tiny wind-tossed plane above them registered 21 below zero. AP correspondent Tom Stone said on overnight visit but the 17th Regiment and the 31st "Polar Bear" Regiment.

Sleds and excavat carried heavy weapons and equipment through the mountain roads north of Pungnan.

Red mortars opened up on the troops three hours before they started the march toward Kapsan, 15 miles northwest. Other 7th Division units reached the Pungnan reservoir, 35 miles southwest of Pungnan, without seeing the enemy.

Vatican City, Nov. 14 (Reuters) — Less than three hours after kneeling before the Pope to receive his personal blessing yesterday, 49 Canadian pilgrims lay amid the wreckage of a crashed plane in the French Alps.

The pilgrims had persuaded the Air Charter Company to delay the departure of their Paris-bound plane from 8 a. m. local time to 2 p. m., so that they could attend the special audience in the gleaming marble Clementine Palace.

They got their wish.

There is a tragic ring now in the Pope's blessing to them, published today by the Vatican.

He said: "Le Nouvelle France (the historic name for Quebec) has been truly privileged and favored by God in an exceptional manner."

After the audience the pilgrims took off from Rome. Less than three hours later their plane smashed into a mountain peak in the Alps. All 58 persons aboard are believed dead.

First reports said the Pope was immediately informed of the crash, but the Vatican today admitted that it was not told of the tragedy until he awakened this morning.

Offers Special Prayers

The Pope today offered special prayers for the victims and ordered cables despatched to their families and to the government of Canada.

News of the disaster was kept from the Pope until this morning so as not to disturb his rest. At 75, he has been in frail health.

All the pilgrims aboard the ill-fated plane were in Rome for the Sanctification — the last stage before becoming a saint — of a pioneer Canadian nun, Mother Marguerite Bourgeoys.

The Pope told them yesterday at their private audience that "the time has come to assist at the glorification of the Blessed Marguerite, you have felt that you were repaying, in part at least, a debt of gratitude too great ever to be repaid.

"It is impossible to assess in all its value the long and successful effort of her role in spreading Catholicism in your beautiful country," the Pope said, speaking in French.

Msgr. Paul Emile Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, will say a Requiem Mass in St. Peters tomorrow for the crash victims.

Msgr. Leger will also read special prayers for the crash victims when he officiates this afternoon at a ceremony in Rome in praise of the Blessed Marguerite. The joint ceremony, attended by Frenchmen and Canadians, will be held in the French Embassy Church of St. Louis.

Expressed Grief

A statement issued by the airport said the plane's flight plan showed a course along the French south coast, then north. This course would have skirted the treacherous Cascade of the Alps where the plane crashed.

The statement added:

"The location of the crash clearly indicates that the pilot . . . instead of following the route laid down for him to Marseille and Lyons, made straight for Lyons (across the Alps) perhaps with the intention of cutting short his journey."

The statement suggested that a strong gale blowing across the plane's line of flight through the Alps might easily have driven it further into the mountains than the navigator might have thought.

It added that the pilot had accurate weather reports for the original course but none for the actual course including the mountains, though the weather there was not greatly different.

Original Plan

Paris, (Reuters)—The Canadian pilgrim plane that last night hit a plane crash in the Alps were originally to have flown home in a Trans-World Airlines plane rather than the private charter plane which crashed, a tourist agency spokesman said today.

Roger Guillevin, of the French tourist agency which arranged the pilgrimage, said that the Canadian government would not allow them to use the T.W.A. plane.

TIBET-CHINA STRUGGLE SAID TO BE 'ALL OVER'

Agree on Peace Terms, Fighting Has Ceased

Kalimpong, India, Nov. 14 — (Reuters)—The struggle between the Tibetans and Chinese communists advancing into Tibet is "all over" an Indian government spokesman said here today.

Communist China and Tibet have agreed on peace terms and fighting has ceased, the spokesman said, since "Lhasa and Peiping have been able to reach agreement over relations between Tibet and China."

A tentative agreement provides for Tibetan recognition of Chinese suzerainty, with China assuming responsibility for Tibet's external relations and control of defence, the spokesman added.

China will maintain a token force in Tibet but will not interfere with the Dalai Lama and the Panchen Lamas, heads of Tibetan theocracy.

She will build and maintain, at her own expense a network of roads throughout Tibet.

Announcement of peace terms came only a day after Tibet's appeal to the United Nations for help against Chinese aggression had been received at Lake Success.

The Indian government spokesman confirmed that Tibetan "People's Troops" and a small Chinese "token force" had arrived in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa.

Governor Williams Leading by About 1,500

Detroit, Nov. 14 (CP) —Michigan's see-saw race for the governorship settled fairly firmly today into the column of G. Mennen Williams, the Democratic incumbent, an unofficial total of officially canvassed figures in all but two of the state's 83 counties showed.

With canvasses only partially complete in populous Wayne (Detroit) and Oakland (Mt. Clemens) counties, but all the rest of the state's canvassed figures in, Williams held a 1,406 vote lead over Republican Harry F. Kelly, the state's term warmtime governor. The unofficial totals:

Williams 935,165
Kelly 933,759

An error of 500 votes in the Oakland (Pontiac) County total was corrected today in favor of Williams, giving him his narrow lead of this morning.

RECEIVES AWARD

Ottawa, Nov. 14 — (CP) Several Canadians were among those among those receiving awards at an investiture today at Government House.

Next-of-kin were there for four who had been honored posthumously.

Mrs. M. M. Reilly of Trenton, Ont., received the M.B.E. for her husband the late FO. Mathew Joseph Reilly.

Quebec Province Shocked By News of Air Disaster

Montreal, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Candles burned today in scores of Quebec churches, in big cities and tiny villages, as anxious relatives and friends said prayers for the safety of nearly 50 Roman Catholic pilgrims from the province who were aboard a Canadian airliner which crashed in the French Alps yesterday.

Throughout the province there was a sense of shock as details piled up concerning the tragedy that proved to be the worst air crash involving Canadians in history.

The DC-4 airliner, called the "Canadian Pilgrim," was carrying 51 passengers and seven crew members from Rome to Paris on the first leg of their homeward trip from Holy Year celebrations in Vatican City. Many of the passengers had an audience with the Pope before they took off yesterday.

Due to bad weather conditions and rugged mountain terrain, search parties in the crash area found it difficult to reach the Canadian airliner and learn the fate of those aboard.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in Montreal to make a speech tonight, set the note of sorrow for residents of Quebec. The Prime minister, a devout Roman Catholic, a native of Quebec City and a graduate of Laval University there, kept in close touch with night and day the Canadian Press for details. He expressed the fear that some of his friends might have been aboard the plane.

Most of the passengers were from Quebec City or neighboring towns and villages.

Dozen Priests Aboard

The pilgrims came from such little villages as St. Gregoire de Montmorency and St. Philippe de Neri, and from big cities like Quebec and Montreal. There were nearly a dozen priests aboard and one was a noted scholar and lecturer Dean of the Faculty of Canonical Law at Laval University, Quebec.

Provincial Treasurer Onesime Gagnon missed the plane at Rome by five minutes. "My God, my God! I knew many of them on that plane!" cried his assistant colleague, Game and Fisheries Minister Camille Pouliot, when informed of the scene of the tragedy.

The two ministers represented the Quebec government at Canada's Resurrection of Marguerite Bourgeoys, famed Canadian founder of the centuries - old religious order of the Congregation of Notre Dame.

Officials of Curtiss Reid Airtours, Ltd., of Cartierville, Que., owners of the Canadian Pilgrim, worked far into the night compiling a list of passengers aboard the plane, which had made 30 roundtrip flights to Rome with pilgrims since last April.

Special Prayers Said

Roman Catholic Church dignitaries and congregations throughout the province expressed shock at the reports of the crash, and special prayers and masses were planned throughout the province.

The passengers ranged from the old to the young, and included married couples. Adrienne Pelletier, of St. Jean Port Joli was 70. Marie Deslet, of Ste. Catherine was only 23.

Msgr. J. Alderville Bureau, 47, was one of the leading clergymen and a prominent figure in the Quebec Liberal Administration. Other priests came from towns like Arvida, in northeastern Quebec, and St. Agathe de Monmorency. One of the passengers was Rev. Paul E. Arsenault of Quebec. His brother, also a priest, intended to make the trip but changed his mind at the last minute.

One Labor Official

One passenger was a Labor official — Arthur Pelletier, 50, of St. Gregoire de Montmorency, president of Local Textile Workers' Syndicate (C. C. C. L.) at the big Montmorency Falls textile plant.

One of the most difficult problems facing officials was the compilation of passengers, with church, diplomatic, Italian and aviation officials all trying to discover exactly who was on the plane.

There were only three Montreal passengers, the Montreal passengers, but most of the crew were from here. Air Commodore Leonard Mac Malcolm Maclsaac of a Montreal suburb was making his first flight for the company.

"He was a station manager before," said his English-born wife. "They needed an extra man." There are two small Maclsaac children.

Stratos Maroulis of Montreal, whose name was on the passenger list, planned to return home until Wednesday.

Mr. Bicoulis, 52, had been on a visit to Greece. Several days ago he cabled home: "I don't like it here here and I'm going to try to get home earlier."

Virtually all of the pilgrims went to Rome by ship. Several parties of pilgrims broke up before Rome — several hastened to their home and took passage aboard the airliner. Others still were in Italy when they left on the steamship Columbia or will sail on the Nepigon when it is due to arrive in Canada Dec. 15.

The Canadian Pilgrim was the only Canadian aircraft operating on an international charter service. Curtiss - Reid, oldest aviation company in Eastern Canada, also operates a flying school and limited charter service out of Montreal.

Canadian Pilgrim Passenger List

VENEZUELA GOVT. CLOSES BORDER AFTER UPRISING

Acting President's Assassination Cause

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 14 (AP) — Venezuela closed her borders today and suspended civil liberties following the assassination yesterday of her acting president, Lt.-Col. Carlos Delgado Chalbaud.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was clamped on the oil-rich country's 4,000,000 population after the government announcement that Delgado, head of a three-man military junta which seized control of Venezuela in 1948, had died of gunshot wounds.

The Venezuelan embassy in Bogota announced last night that Delgado had been surrounded by a score of men while driving from his home to the presidential palace. He was taken to a building on the eastern outskirts of Caracas where six bullets were pumped into his body.

(An embassy spokesman said Rafael Simon Urbina had led the attack and had been arrested with five or six other men. The spokesman said a state of siege had been imposed in Venezuela and that foreigners had been warned not to join the disturbances.

(Venezuelan sources in New York identified Simon Urbina as an old-time revolutionary.)

Curfew restrictions prevented the filing of news dispatches from Caracas last night.

Inquest Ordered In Death of Trio

Walkerton, Ont., Nov. 14. (CP) —An inquest has been ordered in the death yesterday of an unemployed painter and his wife, and their two-year-old daughter, police said it was a case of double murder and suicide.

Provincial Constable Arthur Moss of the Ontario Provincial police said at Toronto it was believed Howard Evers shot his wife, Marie and their youngest child, Linda, then killed himself with .22-calibre rifle on himself.)

Police said at the time of the shooting were two other children Gloria, 7, and Betty Ann, 11.

Gloria was found playing out of the farm where the Evers lived, and her son, Eddie, discovered the bodies, Evers' sister, Mrs. Phillip Voelkel of nearby Neustadt, told police Eddie appeared to say he had shot his wife.

The child's body was discovered on a couch in the kitchen. She had a bullet hole in her head. Mrs. Evers was slumped over the couch in a kneeling position. Evers was lying on the floor in the living room with a rifle resting partially on his body.

Both the child and the mother had powder burns on the face.

No apparent motive for the slayings could be found by police. The family moved to the farmhouse three weeks ago.

Most of Those On Airliner Were French Canadians

Holy Year Pilgrims Were On Way Home From Rome

Grenoble, France, Nov. 14 —(CP)— A team of French mountain guides today sighted the wreckage of the airliner "Canadian Pilgrim" and sent back reports indicating that all 58 persons aboard had died in the crash.

The big plane, carrying French-Canadian Holy Year pilgrims home from Rome, crashed into the side of Mont L'Oblou in the French Alps during a snowstorm last night. It was the first disaster involving Holy Year pilgrims.

Rescue teams, who had toiled upward throughout the night battling snowdrifts along the way, sighted the wreckage this morning through a hole in the clouds that lifted briefly. Mont L'Oblou rises to a peak 8,500 feet high. They were unable to reach the spot until "The Cross of the Pigne" when the clouds lifted.

A radio message received from the guides said: "The airplane seems to be completely destroyed."

Wreckage Scattered

"The wreckage of the fuselage is scattered in a mass of fallen earth at the foot of the North Wall of Mont L'Oblou at a spot looking over the Isere River."

A gendarme said the plane had apparently hit the top of the mountain and disintegrated in the air. There was no chance of any survivors, he said. Human remains were scattered all over the northern slope.

The plane was on its way to Montreal from Rome via Paris when it struck. It was carrying 13 Roman Catholic priests, 13 of them Canadians. Nearly all of the 38 laymen among the passengers were from Quebec Province, three entire crew of seven were Canadians.

Photographs of the Pope, who had blessed the pilgrims shortly before they took off from Rome after weekend beautification ceremonies of a Canadian nun, were found scattered in a forest several miles from the crash scene—apparently carried by mountain gales.

Scraps of a diary written by one of the pilgrims told of an audience with the Pope and of reciting the rosary imploring the mercy of heaven before boarding the plane.

A trail of yellow in the snow, probably oil, marked the slithering fall of the shattered plane after it first struck the mountain.

"We saw the wreck as the fog lifted for a brief moment," one of the rescue party reported.

In case there were any survivors, stretcher bearers from Grenoble, 30 miles from the foot of the mountain, stood by. Five ambulances were also brought from neighboring villages.

The Canadian plane, christened "The Canadian Pilgrim" when it was blessed by Montreal last spring, had safely made 30 round trips between Rome and Montreal.

Bodies Scattered About

The wreckage, with the bodies scattered about on the mountainside, was found by mountain

Say Unpaid Bills Turning Up In Kidnap Case

Albuquerque. N. M., Nov. 14—(AP) — Police are turning up unpaid bills and duplicate wedding debts and threatened eviction in investigation of the activities of Dr. Nancy Campbell, charged with kidnapping a little girl last weekend.

Investigators are delving into two other matters, police said:

1. Evidence that the prominent 43-year-old women's physician had been "doling out" drugs to a number of individuals."

2. Discovery of $800 in traveler's cheques found in her car which are part of $1,000 reported stolen earlier this year from the Santa Fe office of Dr. Eric F. Haunner.

Dr. Campbell is in hospital awaiting arraignment in a week on a $25,000 bond and signs of her yesterday.

The popular doctor, dressed like a hobo, was found in Taos Fe Saturday night as she picked up a box containing $20,000 ransom. In a car nearby was blond Linda Stamm, nine-year-old daughter of Mrs. Florence Stamm.

Statement Says Plane Strayed Off its Course

Rome, Nov. 14. (Reuters)—Rome airport officials said today that the chartered plane that was carrying Holy Year pilgrims which crashed in the French Alps yesterday had strayed off its course.

A statement issued by the airport said the plane's flight plan showed a course along the French south coast, then north. This course would have skirted the treacherous Cascade of the Alps where the plane crashed.

The statement added:

"The location of the crash clearly indicates that the pilot . . . instead of following the route laid down for him to Marseille and Lyons, made straight for Lyons (across the Alps) perhaps with the intention of cutting short his journey."

The statement suggested that a strong gale blowing across the plane's line of flight through the Alps might easily have driven it further into the mountains than the navigator might have thought.

It added that the pilot had accurate weather reports for the original course but none for the actual course including the mountains, though the weather there was not greatly different.

Original Plan

Paris, (Reuters)—The Canadian pilgrim plane that last night hit a plane crash in the Alps were originally to have flown home in a Trans-World Airlines plane rather than the private charter plane which crashed, a tourist agency spokesman said today.

Roger Guillevin, of the French tourist agency which arranged the pilgrimage, said that the Canadian government would not allow them to use the T.W.A. plane.

New A-Age Development May Change Thyroid Diagnosis

St. Louis, Nov. 14—(AP)— A new atomic-age development which may "revolutionize" the diagnosis and treatment of thyroid disease — including thyroid cancer—was announced today to the medical world.

It's a new application of a radiation-detection instrument called a "scintillation counter."

Doctors describing it said its instrument "should largely replace" the well-known Geiger counter in various other medical applications dependent upon the detection of atomic radiation.

They said it even opens up the possibility of unrestricted use of a variety of radioactive materials for research in hospitals, industry and agriculture.

At present these materials are restricted to use by certain specially-equipped institutions because of powerful radiation hazards.

The doctors told the Southern Medical Association, meeting here, of use of the instrument in diagnosing thyroid disease. In this application it detects "rays" of radioactive iodine given to patients as a tracer material. The iodine settles in the thyroid gland and a diseased condition can be determined on the basis of radio-active signals given off.

Up to now the Geiger counter has been the only instrument used for that same purpose.

But the scintillation counter was described as 100 times more sensitive than the Geiger counter in detecting certain kind of atomic ray.

Habitants Get Ready for Season Pork Pies, French-Canadian Foods

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, Nov. 14 (CP)—This is the time when the "Habitant" settles down to hard winter work and turns to thoughts of hot pork pies, headcheese, homemade sausage and lard making.

A cupboardful of other pork by-products constitute Quebec province's principal contribution to the menu.

For this is the season of "Les Cretons" — when Quebec farmers pick out one or more pigs for slaughter and housewives make the tasty foods and recipes handed down from generation to generation.

The variety of foods from the one animal is astonishing. Most of them will be kept in a frozen condition until Christmas and New Year's Day.

Then there will be such tidbits as "cretons," a heart-warming "ragout de pattes" mixed with hare and burned flour sauce, delicious "tourtieres" and "rotis" by-product of a finely-spiced roast of pork, the "cretons" (pronounced tourtayr) to mention the most exotic.

"Cretons" are known as greaves or crackling—a sort of delicious yellow substance left over after pork has been cooked. "ragout de pattes" is pig's foot stew and is strained de rotis is roast pork dripping, which, after gelatine is added, becomes a dark brown bread spread. "Tourtieres" are pork pies.

The French word "cochonnaille" literally means "pigmeat." But in French Quebec its use is the form "les cochonnailles" implies the whole ceremonial surrounding these heavy winter foods, from the killing of the victim to the final by-product.

Rotary Club Hears Address On Air Force

Reminding the clubmen that war is not inevitable, Air Commodores W. W. Brown, RCAF, Trenton, said that the best protection against hostilities is preparedness, in an address to the Rotary Club on Monday.

The role air power would play in the even of war constitutes three phases, he said. First the tactical role in support of the Navy and Army; secondly, maintenance of air superiority to be used with all armed services; thirdly to destroy the enemy, his supplies and sources of supply.

Reviews Role

Reviewing the role of the RCAF in the Second World War, Air Commodore Brown said coastal training commands were maintained on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards; functional commands were located in appropriate areas in protect Canada; air material commands were established; as were air transportation commands at Montreal and Ottawa. The Maritime Air Command met anti-submarine and convoy duties on the Atlantic and on the Pacific its activities extended to as far north as Alaska.

The best possible personnel, carriers and equipment are needed, the speaker reminded his listeners that the Prime Minister had told Canada that active steps would be taken to secure the best possible personnel and equipment. A forty per cent increase had been noted in the armed services which meant a 7,000 increase in the air force.

A modern air force needs highly trained personnel and costly equipment if it is to function properly.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Harold Mott with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Phil Morrell.

The club's newest member Rotarian Jay Sprague, Mountain Lake, was introduced by Rotarian Stan. Barber.

NOTICE TO HOUSEHOLDERS!!
DO YOU WANT 20c MILK?
As most of you know milk has advanced from 1c to 2c per quart in most Ontario markets these past few weeks.
The Belleville milk distributors are doing their best to keep the price from advancing and we don't think you appreciate our efforts. We are losing hundreds of bottles every week. Most of them are going into the garbage pail. Unless you co-operate and see that all bottles are returned to the dairies daily we will have no alternative other than to advance the price 2c per quart, as these bottles cost the dairies 12c each in carload lots.

Obituary

MRS. HARRY BARNES (Oshawa)

The death occurred suddenly in the Toronto General Hospital, on Saturday evening, November 11, of Jessie Dunning, beloved wife of Harry R. Barnes, in her 64th year. Mrs. Barnes suffered a heart attack while visiting Varsity Arena with her husband to see her son, Albert, play hockey and was rushed to hospital after arriving at the hospital.

Born at Plainfield, Ontario, on June 15, 1887, Mrs. Barnes was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert Dunning. She was married at Carnbillon, Ontario, on July 18, 1906, and had been a resident of Oshawa for 28 years.

A member of the Centre Street United Church, she was an ardent hockey and baseball fan.

Besides her husband, she is survived by six daughters and three sons, Mrs. W. Bowrin (Verna), Mrs. N. L. Petre (Kathleen), Mrs. E. Waldron (Dorothy), Mrs. F. Brown (Jean), Mrs. E. Branton (Audrey) and Miss Eleanor Barnes, all of Oshawa; Albert of Oshawa, Fred M. Barnes and Edwin (Ted) Barnes, all of Oshawa. She was predeceased by a daughter, Mrs. Nina Morris, and a son, F. Maxwell Barnes, who was killed in the last war. He was a member of the Winnipeg Highlanders on September 12, 1944.

Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. G. Miller of Cannifton; a brother, Harry Dunning of Toronto and 14 grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from the Armstrong Funeral Home at 2 p.m. (D.S.T.) on Tuesday, November 14, conducted by Rev. F. J. Whatley, minister of Centre Street United Church. Interment will be in the Oshawa Union Cemetery.

LORD BURDETT (BUD) BYLES

Stricken after getting out of bed, Lord Burdett (Bud) Byles well known local constable with the Ontario Provincial Police, passed away at his home early this morning at his home 73 Goldfale Road. He was in his 53rd year.

Although he had complained during recent weeks of not feeling well, Constable Byles was on duty at the Belleville Headquarters Monday morning. Attending the funeral of a long term friend, the late Arthur Sykes.

Born in Middlesex, England, son of Henry P. Byles of Ottawa, and the late Sara Byles, Constable Byles had been with the Ontario Provincial Police for over 30 years and recently had been presented with a long service and good conduct medal. Inspector A. MacDougall, termed him as a "conscientious, loyal and obedient constable." He had been stationed at Belleville for five years and in all has served a total of 30 years in this city last July after service in Barrie and at Thornhill.

He was a veteran of the First World War, and was a member of the United Church.

Surviving are his father in Ottawa; his wife, the former Islay Lewis, Washington; one daughter, Dorothy Anne Byles, at home, and two sons Donald and Gordon of Barrie. There are four sisters, Mrs. J. McGee and Mrs. L. Sherwin of Toronto, and Mrs. Sara Howard and Mrs. J. Kettles of Ottawa, and three brothers, L. Byles, R. Byles and G. R. Byles, all of Ottawa.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

GEORGE HENRY FREE

Ill for the past five weeks, George Henry Free, 44 Yeomans St., died Tuesday in the Kingston General Hospital. He was in his 78th year.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Free, Mr. Free was born at Thomasburg where he had farmed for many years. For the past 16 years he had lived in Belleville. He was a life member of the Masonic Order at Tweed and was also a member of the Anglican Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ina Kerr and one daughter Mrs. Edward (Isabel) Heasman, Stirling, and two grandchildren, Dennis and Maria Heasman.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 14 (CP)—Prices were generally mixed as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Industrials were mixed following five successive sessions of advance. Utilities, golds, agricultures, constructions, foods, refining oils and textiles showed just about as many gains as losses in moderate trading. Manufacturing companies and banks tended higher and papers, liquors and retail stores had a majority of losses.

Base metals opened strong but then weakened.

Senior golds were mixed while junior golds drifted slightly lower with gains and losses limited to pennies. Western oils were quiet and irregular. Royallite was down 1-4.

Section Of Church Wall Collapses

Congregational members of the United Church at Halloway, 10 miles north of the city, had no idea they were in for a major church repair job when they started last year to construct a basement. Before the basement was completed the church foundation gave way allowing a large section of the church wall to collapse. Mrs. Bell was working at the church late the night before but the wall collapsed when no one was around. Cost of repairs to the church are estimated at well over $1,000.

MARMORA

Frame Residence Stood on Spot Over 80 Years

Marmora—The removal of the two-storey frame residence that for over eighty years has stood on the corner of Matthew and Burstall Street to site north of Gilbert Steenburgh's residence on Burstall Street, attracted considerable attention on Monday. At dusk it occupied the centre of the street about midway between its old and new sites. The dwelling about twenty by forty feet in dimensions was erected for the late Charles Clairmont, well known blacksmith, who with his brother Eli, also of that trade, occupied homes on McGill Street in 1885 according to the Directory of Hastings County for that year. Upon the death a few years ago of Miss Celina Clairmont, eldest and last surviving daughter of Charles Clairmont, the property went to John Clairmont, nephew of Miss Clairmont, who recently disposed of it to Don Ross, who is now building a new theatre on the site for the Bruce McLeod interests of Kitchener. The erection of this theatre occasioned the moving of the residence.

TIBET-CHINA

The spokesman added that there had been no clashes between Tibetan government troops and Chinese forces "for the past many days."

Will Shelve Case

Observers here suggested that the Tibetan case to the United Nations will most probably be shelved in view of the direct settlement between Peiping and Lhasa."

Tibet, remote land of monasteries, has been ruled for centuries by the Lamas and is so inaccessible that few foreigners have penetrated its secrets.

When either the Panchen Lama or the Dalai Lama dies search is made for a boy born at the instant of his death. If the monks find certain tokens present, he is then recognized as the reincarnated Lama.

China had claimed sovereignty over Tibet under a treaty signed in 1720 after China had helped Tibet during some internal troubles. But she had exercised no direct control since Chinese officials and garrisons were driven out of the country in 1912.

The first announcement of the slaying, broadcast on the country by Defense Minister Marcos Perez Jimines, one of the two surviving members of the junta, gave no details of the attack.

Delgado led the bloodless coup of Nov. 24, 1948, which toppled the leftist regime of Romulo Gallegos, whose Accion Democratica party had swept the polls 11 months earlier. Delgado, Perez Jimenez and Lt.-Col. Luis Felipe Llovera Paz became the ruling junta.

Make Public Cable

The Venezuelan legation in Havana last night made public a cable containing the text of Perez Jimenez' announcement. The defence minister pledged that order would be maintained and the killers would be punished.

"Because of such a grave event," the announcement said, "it is necessary to dictate the measures indispensable for maintaining order and security, and we (the junta) . . . are proceeding with the greatest energy, within the scope of the laws to investigate the facts of the deed. The guilty party will receive the punishment he deserves.

Some Venezuelan circles in Washington considered the assassination as the climax of a struggle for political power between Perez Jimenez and Delgado. They said both men wanted to become the country's constitutional president.

And, because it is so sensitive, it allows use of as little as 1/250th the amount of radioactive iodine required when the Geiger counter is employed. This makes it possible to give repeated tests without danger to the patient.

It's this sensitivity to extremely small amounts of radiation that points to the possibility of using the instrument in still other fields of medicine, agriculture and industry, the doctors said.

They explained that use of radioactive material now is restricted by the Atomic Energy Commission to certain specially-equipped laboratories because of the need for employing relatively-large amounts of the materials when a Geiger counter is utilized as the detection instrument.

MOST OF THOSE

guides at 1 p.m. (6 a.m. EST), 14 hours after the plane disappeared in a flash of fire 30 miles south of this town in southeastern France last night.

The wreckage was about 85 miles from the spot where an Indian Constellation crashed less than two weeks ago with 48 East Indian seamen and crew. None of the bodies of the 48 lost in the Constellation crash has been removed because of the hazardous terrain.

In the case of the Canadian airliner, guides expressed belief the bodies could be brought down to the valley.

The plane's passengers, who included an Italian Roman Catholic priest on his way to take up an appointment in Ottawa and an American traveller, had joined 1,200 Canadians in an audience with the Pope only a few hours before yesterday's take-off from Ciampino airport in Rome.

Torn Passport Forms

As searchers toiled up the mountainside today they found scraps of paper—pictures of the Pope and the Vatican, and torn passport forms. An early report sent back from a rescue official said hope of finding any of the 53 alive was "practically nil."

One of the scraps of paper was a page from a diary written in French—and of the victims were French-Canadians. It said:

"It now is 1445 hours (2.45 p.m.), we just flew over the Isle of Elba (in the Mediterranean) and we are still entranced by the magnificent ceremonies we saw in Rome. We sang the "Ave Maria."

Rescue workers said the plane touched off a rocky shoulder of the mountain and slithered into the forest below, scattering debris as it fell.

1,500 Feet From Peak

The wreckage was sighted at about the 7,000 foot level, 1,500 feet from the peak.

Hundreds of mountain guides who located it radioed that they were still about an hour's climb through falling snow which made the going difficult. The team had been climbing all through the night.

Prominent among the Roman Catholic clergymen aboard the plane was Msgr. J. A. Bureau, 46, scholar and former dean of Canonical law at Laval University in Quebec.

Another prominent Quebec citizen was Ulysse Demers, 51-year-old professor of pharmacy at Laval. He was travelling home with his wife, Glorida.

Immediately word was flashed to Rome, Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec, left by special Italian plane for Grenoble. He was accompanied by Col. A. Chevrier, military attache of the Canadian Embassy at Rome, and Camille Pouliot, Quebec Province Minister of Game and Fisheries.

Pouliot was a member of his government's delegation at beatification ceremonies Sunday for Marguerite Bourgeoys, a nun who lived three centuries ago in what now is the city of Montreal.

Chartered to Fly Pilgrims

The DC-4 was chartered from the Cartierville, Que., firm to fly the pilgrims between Montreal and Rome.

The pilgrims had gone to Rome for the Beatification ceremony last Sunday of Marguerite Bourgeys, who founded the Order of the Sisters of Our Lady in the Canadian wilderness 300 years ago. The ceremony, last beatification of the Holy Year, attracted 1,200 Canadian Roman Catholics, including several bishops and scores of priests.

There was no indication of what caused the plane to come down. Villagers at three points in the area 30 miles south of here said they heard two explosions and a "glow of fire" as it hit the mountain top after a plane flew low over their hamlet.

Ranking clergyman aboard the plane was Msgr. J. Alderville Bureau, former dean of the faculty of canonical law at Laval University, Quebec.

Another prominent Quebec citizen listed was Ulysses Demers, professor of pharmacy at Laval.

The pilot was listed as Orville Alfred Olmstead, 28, of Montreal. His co-pilot was Robert James Henderson, of Willowdale, Ont.

Also listed on a manifest for the "Canadian Pilgrim" was Romano Mercantini, described as a member of the Apostolic delegation at Ottawa. Ottawa sources, however, said he was not on the staff. The Apostolic delegate himself, Msgr. Ildebrando Antoniutti, had reported safe in Rome.

Two Explosions

Onesime Gagnon, Quebec Provincial treasurer, missed the flight. He arrived at the airport five minutes late. His cabinet colleague, Fisheries Minister Casgrain, was awakened in his Rome hotel room, said: "My God, my God! I knew many of them on that plane".

The big skymaster took off from the Ciampino airport for Paris on the first leg of their journey at 2:15 p.m. (8:15 a.m. E.S.T.) yesterday. It was due at Orly airport, Paris, at 7:25 p.m. Orly received no word from it.

Witnesses at St. Etienne, north of Mont L'Oblous, and Corps, said they heard two explosions and flames leap up from the mountainside at about 5:30 p.m. They calculated the plane hit south of the village of La Croix de Pigne, a region beset by fogs and rain in summer and heavy snow in winter.

One Honeymoon Couple

Two of the passengers were a honeymoon couple, Ernest Timmons, 27, of Ste. Anne de La Pocatiere, Que., and his 25-year-old bride, the former Aline Michaud.

The victims ranged in age from 22 to 70 years. Youngest was Marie Troilet of St. Catherine, Que. Oldest was Adrienne Pelletier of St. Roch Des Aulnaies, Que.

There were no children among the victims.

Several of the 10 pilgrims who were crowded off the plane in Rome yesterday said that Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Michaud of Plessisville, Que., left 19 children at home.

The plane was a DC-4 operated by Curtiss-Reid Airtours Limited of Montreal especially for Holy Year pilgrimages.

THREE HYDRO MEN HURT IN COLLISION

One Millbridge and two Bancroftburn hydro workers were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital at Peterborough on Monday following a collision between two trucks 18 miles west of Peterborough.

In hospital are Thomas Sandford, 32, who suffered a fractured hip and Woodburn Hannah, 42, with facial and scalp cuts, and Edgar Davidson, 40, of Millbridge, who was treated for scalp wounds. The three men were riding in a hydro truck when it was in collision with another truck. The driver of the other truck and his wife were not injured.

TACTICS AT INCHON

Many readers must have devoted more than usual attention to a news story a few days ago telling that the strategy used by General Wolfe to defeat General Montcalm by scaling the Heights leading to the Plains of Abraham at Quebec had been the study of one of the great commanders of this age, General Douglas MacArthur, United Nations commander of the expedition to intervene in Korea on behalf of the country's South Koreans. It was 42 years ago MacArthur studied this plan of strategy while a student of tactics. The result was the victory of Inchon.

Every schoolboy and school girl will recall the story of the evening before the Battle of the Plains of Abraham, how Wolfe questioned his officers about the manner in which the fortress of the New World should be taken. Consensus of opinion of his officers was that they believed that the frontal assault would be the better manner of attack and Wolfe's reply was that as he thought so Montcalm likely thought so too and he (Wolfe) would accordingly not do so but would order the scaling of the steep cliffs. That way came victory.

It would seem a long way from war as fought in the manner of fighting in 1759 to that taught at the school of tactics attended by MacArthur and to the battle that would be fought at Inchon. But MacArthur has shown the continuity of military strategy one great lesson of which meant at least a great modern day victory in a far away part of the earth.

MacArthur did not forget that lesson of battle history and applied it to war in a far different way. In a struggle of mighty armies, tanks and airplanes, with which Wolfe's armor and Montcalm's would contrast so sharply.

BRIGHTNESS IN CLOTHING

Men in the British Isles are in for a term of greater brightness in their clothing. According to the United Kingdom Information Service one of the latest ideas is to weave highly-colored threads in with the quieter tones, so that dress materials will give a bloom of color to the whole fabric without dominating it. According to the style of weave these colors may come out as flecked effects or the minutest of checks or as a colored eye in a hit-and-miss pattern. Only the finest worsted will be used possible to pick out the color threads with the naked eye. But they are there and they leaven the whole. There are also the designers who design styling cloths for the sunshine markets.

Fashion and style in the years we have play no small part in the drama of life. They enrich experience and it is a fortunate fact in the nature of man and woman to devote no small attention to matters of dress. They are utilitarian in as far as they suit the wearer at his work or play.

It seems like a law in nature that color and design should occupy the attention of all animate nature. The bird's plumage serves a utilitarian purpose as well as that of beauty. Under such influences there has been developed under the kindly laws of nature a great variety of birds in varied coloring, all suiting the purpose of nature.

In a somewhat similar manner it might be regarded as a law in human dress which accommodates itself to the opportunities which the world provides mankind and with human progress.

Color and style play no small part in the place they occupy in the stirring of human beings. How far nature has gone in the enhancing of beauty in dress is seen in the present infinite variety of styles and variations of color to suit the mood and the occasion. For instance a man of a century ago might have boasted of the styles of clothes, but he could not, with the world provides mankind and with human progress.

To most people the brighter world of coloring today is a most desirable development—something to be thankful for by men people can now express themselves in those common things known as clothes through form and color.

Color and style have made a brighter world in no very long stretch of time, it is a far step from the older styles to the modern dress which everyone can wear thanks to the progress of industry and science and business.

"STONEBOAT" IS STILL USEFUL

The stoneboat is the irreducible minimum in transportation equipment. It consists of two heavy planks, firmly bolted to crosspieces to keep them together. A chain on the front for a set of whiffletrees completes the "vehicle," says Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Prime virtue of the stoneboat is its ease of loading.

It is commonly used to move heavy loads short distances, particularly in getting boulders off the fields. Efficiency is naturally low, since the stoneboat slides along the bare ground without the semblance of roller or wheel to reduce the friction.

Many millions of tons of stone and other heavy material have been and are still moved in this way.

Many sections of the country can show miles of stone fence, built from material hauled in stone boats.

JUST LIKE A MAN

The women folks of me declare:
"His eyes and ears are everywhere.
Yet strangely blind he seems to be
To things we wish that he would see
And strangely deaf will he appear
To much we say for him to hear.

"A faded dress or dowdy hat,
His eyes will never notice that.
'Why don't you help them?' he'll shout,
Discovering news we've talked about.

A party's planned a week ago.
He'll cry: 'Why don't you let me know?'

Believe the women if we can.
That is the way of every man.
The things he should he never knows,
Is blind to what's beneath his nose,
But if it's none of his affair
His eyes and ears are everywhere.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

THESE STATES

Here are some unrelated notes about various impressions of these United States:

• • •

Both Miami and Texas have a casually method for promoting highway safety. When there's a fatal accident in Miami a large white cross is the scene with the statistics of the number killed or maimed. Seems to take a lot of weight off the accelerator pedal.

It's sobering enough to drive America's main highways. Hardly a day goes by without seeing the evidence of a violent crackup.

America's super-markets seem to have gone as far as they can go in packaging. Almost everything is gift-wrapped in attractive packages or cellophane or in deep-freeze cartons.

In prettying up their products some commercial packaging goes than fair. The nation's largest meat-packer, for example, puts out a devilishly clever package of bacon in which only the lean meat is visible because of a laminated cardboard of the same color which when you get it out of the wrapper.

Probably the most universally disappointing product on the U.S. market is the Mars bar. We've tried them all and have yet to find a brand that didn't taste like old flannel. The package itself looks tastier.

The amount of ignorance about Canada is appalling. In New York a Yellow Cab pulled alongside us at a stop light. Driver leaned out and asked: "Say, what's the name of that town in Canada . . . Vancouver? That's north of Chicago, isn't it?"

But rarely everyone is extremely interested in making a visit "up there." When we get that to Canada, they say they ought to do some heavy selling on what they've got to offer. Best way I know would be a weekly program on one of the American radio networks with Canadian talent.

Vignette: A large, raw-boned Texan comes spurring into Amarillo like an ox came into the wayside cafe and bar where we stopped overnight. Attired like his horse, brimmed hat. Deftly rolled himself a cigarette. Gazed around the dining-room with cold, killer eyes. Then he ordered a root beer, teetered on his high-heeled cowboy boots over to the juke box and put on "Our Lady of Fatima."

The American who is having it tough these days is the World War II serviceman with a family and an income between $3000 and $5000. This is a type we find frequently in the trailer camps.

Most of them, since they left the service, have been playing a wait-and-see game, hoping that the nation's economy would level off enough for them to start building their own homes.

Now, with inflation at its worst record, controls in effect and more expected, and the nation committed to heavy armaments, perhaps for years to come, many of these young-old men are regretting their early decision.

From what we've seen, it's impossible to build any kind of decent home in this country for less than $10,000. Every city has its housing schemes, some with $100 down, payments of $100 a month, but the new subdivisions we've seen are pretty awful. Houses full of whom are married with family. Most of them shockingly like those emergency wartime efficiency houses that have, regrettably, lost favor.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 14, 1930

The civic political pot may be boiling, but if it is, few have heard any rumblings. The storm promises to see one of the quietest mayoralty and aldermanic elections in years. Sometimes it is advisable to come out before the contest is fought. Interest is bound to lag unless there is some important question to be placed before the electors.

A mighty big sturgeon has been caught in a net near Big Island Bar, at Amherst Island, in the Bay of Quinte. The sturgeon tipped the beam at 125 pounds and measured six feet in length and nearly three feet in girth. Reginald Milligan and Robert Hickey made the catch.

F. and the Bugle Bands rendered selections.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO WHOM WE OWE

It would be a good thing if we often took the time to think of all the kinds and degrees of our indebtedness. Not monetary ones, for those we all prefer to pretend the indebtedness that we owe to God, to others, and even to ourselves.

Our very creation was a miracle! And so we owe to God our life—our birth, and then we owe the Him this immediate and continuing earth, with its endless wealth of treasures, out of which were put here for our enjoyment and profit, "without money and without price."

The countryside, through which you may motor your car, fills easily belong to you, if you merely love and appreciate it. The ocean is not for sale, but it is yours if you love it. So it is in a number of things, all free for the world. People can well become rich from the things that they have seen, and which are given to them inward pleasure. We owe to every poet or other writer, oh so much, for his entertainment, inspiration and pleasure.

None of us can create anything of beauty without it being of some direct influence upon others, and to a very large degree we become debtors to others and others debtors to us. We all ought to have a Thank You clerk within our heart to send out thanks to others for the simplest kindness or appreciation. In no other coinage can we settle such a debt.

We are eternally in debt to anyone who has loved and sacrificed their all upon the field of battle for freedom, but we can adequately pay for the debt that we owe to those who sacrificedfirst their all upon the field of battle for freedom, but we can uncomplainingly contribute to every opportunity to secure the peace for which they died.

To ourselves do we owe much for the powers which we have been planted there. We may be a disappointment to others, at times, but we ought never to be a disappointment to ourself. We owe it to ourself to be more than which we are capable, "For service rendered unto others is the way have his own pay day!

BODY FOUND NEAR OTTAWA

Ottawa, Nov. 14 (CP)—Body of Thomas Williams, 53, missing from his home since Nov. 2, was found Sunday in thick bush on the city's outskirts.

His throat bore knife wounds, but a coroner's examination disclosed the cuts were not sufficient to have caused death. He believed to have died of exposure. A rusty knife was found near the body.

Mr. Williams, who suffered from a heart condition, left home Nov. 2 saying he was going to find a job.

LIKES POLICEMEN

Montreal—(CP)—Michael Genest, 2½, may want to be a policeman when he grows up. Found wandering on the street at night by his playmate, he was apparently in playing an important part in the creation of a communist empire, but neither China nor any other satellite has equal partnership with Russia. The sovereignty of each and every one of them rests in Moscow.

The foregoing is an important prelude to the projected appearance of a Chinese communist delegation at the United Nations, and discuss the explosive Korean situation which has in it the possible making of another global war. The aim of the Chinese delegation is to neutralize China by convincing her that the U.N. forces haven't any designs on her territory, and plan the creation of a united and democratic Korea which will in no way threaten China.

The United Nations strategy does an important step further. Having established the good intentions of the U.N. operations in Korea, the Chinese delegation is making it clear that continued Chinese intervention in Korea will result in strong action.

HABITANTS

During the month of les cabanes à sucre, the countryside shrieks of the pigs can be heard in the countryside. The habitant performs an annual job that would discourage the city dweller from eating sausages for the rest of his life.

The farmer doesn't lose a moment in getting down to the popular vein. He picks up the bleating animal, and, as his wife holds the pig's head, he ties the tiny bladder. He then proceeds to "frotter à cochon," and fragrant dried garden herbs, and pepper, and salt. Finally, this will become the typical Quebec blood pudding, which, through the city housewife gets in a store.

From there the animal is taken over an outdoor fire where its hair is burned off, and the skin is crisped. In some districts it is customary to "boucaner" the pig, crunch the crispy ears after they are cooked.

There is hardly a bit of the pig that is not used. The head, cooked and jellied, is kept whole for Christmas, or used to make headcheese, a rather coarse but highly tasty jellied type of dish.

Quebec's cold winters are probably a reason for these traditional foods brought out by the farmer's wife during the winters cold occasion. Another is that long ago, the French settlers found it a highly economical to feed and with the housewife's ingenuity, concocted one of the happiest foods to eat.

MacKenzie's Column:
Moscow Behind Red Aggression In Korean War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

We folks of the West would like to know—or at least should know by this time—that Moscow is behind the Communist aggression in Korea.

We know that this is part of the Soviet plot to throw us off balance militarily, and at the same time to weaken materially by so to whittle us down to Russia's size.

However, the people of Asia as a whole don't know these facts. Even the millions of communist China, who are in the war, don't know them.

Over the years the Chinese have been bombarded by the communist government at Peiping with propaganda that they are defending American aggression in Korea. They are being told that the United States is behind the program of imperialism in the Orient.

As a matter of fact, informed Chinese nationalist quarters tell me there is no question whatever whether the Chinese communist leader, General Mao Tse-Tung, has figured out just that what his position is as regards the Russians. Many think he pictures himself as having a junior partnership in the creation of a great communist empire in Asia. China will play the leading Asiatic role.

If that is what he thinks, he is due for a rude awakening. He certainly is playing an important part in the creation of a communist empire, but neither China nor any other satellite has equal partnership with Russia. The sovereignty of each and every one of them rests in Moscow.

The foregoing is an important prelude to the projected appearance of a Chinese communist delegation at the United Nations, and discuss the explosive Korean sit-

TWINS RUN IN THE FAMILY

When you have read that through three or four times perhaps you will answer it proves anything. I'm lost and anyway I am not an expert on authority on anything except pure Prize buckwheat (from world headquarters, the Birkett Mills, Penn Yan, N.Y., of course) pancakes with plenty of butter on also, whichever you have handy, and genuine maple syrup from New York, Ontario or Michigan. In the halcyon days I would have added plenty of unboiled coffee too, but even at 95 cents a pound the stuff called coffee today, which we never touch, makes those twin daughters have each borne children, one having twin sons. The reader sends a family group picture — father, mother, four daughters, seven grandchildren. The oldest daughter holds her twin tots, the youngest also holds her twin boys. Unless I'm completely kerflummoxed this settles the old belief that twins are for good.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Syphilis Test

When a food handler's card is required for work what blood test is necessary? If the test shows any trace of syphilis is the person "cured"? Is it the same blood test they use for a marriage license? (W. T.)

Answer—Wassermann test for syphilis, laboratory. Before making the test can give no personal information. Ask you to your own doctor to find out whether you have syphilis. The Wasserman test is the oldest in use and in the case of the applicant for a marriage license.

Slower and Milder

The throbbing in head from which I suffer is slower and milder as you described. My doctor suggested I should use sodium salicylate tablets (which he prescribes for me) and the result seem o. k. Should the headache (J. S.)

Answer—A tablet containing 1 grain of sodium salicylate is equivalent to a tablet containing 1/200th or 1/100th of a grain of acetylsalicylic acid (commonly known as glyceryl trinitrate—just so we know exactly what we're getting properly confused, you understand), but its effect is slower and milder. Only way to be sure either tablet is not inert is to feel their disadvantage in pain and headache for a short time after a full dose. In the booklet G V 3 about heart and artery troubles I tell how to use nitroglycerin. For a copy send 5c and stamped self-addressed envelope.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Strict laws and punishments to deter men from driving cars while drunk are important. But a man who is drunk yesterday may be even a greater public menace at the wheel of a car than one who has not touched a drop. Here's why.

A man with a hangover, in whose blood no trace of alcohol can be found, is a dangerous driver. His reflexes are disconnected, and he is often in a nasty temper. Add to it an irritating headache. Nearly all the world he feels a grudge. He is likely to put on sudden bursts of speed, to accelerate over intersections, to cut out and cut in. In a state of nervous irritation from yesterday's or last night's excesses, he is more liable than even a drunken man to make those moves that result in accidents on the busy flow of city or highway traffic.

A drunken man is advised by his friends not to attempt to drive. Or they restrain him. He is easily detected in traffic by the police and other motorists who notify the police. But a man with a hangover is undetectible. The hangover has no more right to drive a car than a drunk has. But there appears to be nothing that can be done about it.

For there are any number of people who are subject to indigestion that is the first of the symptoms of a hangover—dizziness, woozhess, bad temper, jittery nerves, and so forth. People in all stages of illness are driving the streets every hour of the day. Some will be killed in a head on crash tomorrow of a heart attack are overcome by fumes from a leaky exhaust today or forty or fifty miles an hour.

The police check up on the brakes of rattletraps. But rattletrap drivers, with gallstones, a bilious complex, with pernicious arthritis, migraine, undetected diabetes, incipient tuberculosis, undetected other mechanical defects far worse than shiny brake linings, are driving the streets today.

Blood tests for drunks are a step in the right direction. But if, in one year we are to have 1,750 people killed and 32,682 injured in Canada in motor 'accidents—more than two thirds of them innocent parties—we might reasonably look a little deeper than drunk alcohol when medically testing an erratic driver.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

A DISTINGUISHED PROFESSOR

The president of a church college has written this interesting account of a campus encounter:

"One of the valuable members of our campus community was a Latin professor who for thirty-five years was a living demonstration of joy in one's work. He was employed by the college in 1911, after temporary service in construction, company as watchman on a campus building project. He was under strict orders to let no one pass, and the light of this commission he refused one evening to admit the president of the college to his own guests. The president was so impressed by this fidelity, even though it seemed a little overdone, that he promptly gave Angelo Santoro a full-time job.

"Over the years, doing all kinds of work as if it were some great mission, he kept whistling from something within himself in delightful and moving ways, this Italian Catholic workman taught the campus community, the majority of whom were Presbyterians, a lot that both John Calvin and John Knox never quite made clear. His remarkable portrait now hangs beside the pictures of the men and women the college is proud to have graduated. He was one of our best 'professors.'"

Brain Impulses Show Fosbraey May be Abnormal

Picton, Nov. 14 (CP) —Delicate "brain wave" measurements, a scientific method of gauging mental conditions, have revealed that James Fosbrey's reactions could be abnormal, experts testified yesterday at his murder trial.

R. E. Nourse, counsel defending Fosbrey in his second trial on a charge of murdering his wife in Napanee a year ago, said it was the first time in Canadian legal history that measurements of brain impulses had been introduced as evidence. He added, however, that the practice is fairly common in England.

Dr. Dennis White, director of the department of electroencephalography at Kingston General Hospital, said abnormality of the type found in Fosbrey's brain would tend to lower his resistance to anti-social impulses.

Fosbrey's brain waves were measured in a four-hour examination Nov. 5. The examination involves the use of 16 electrodes fastened to the head, one in each ear and two in the nose. Impulses picked up are recorded on charts. These charts were placed in evidence Monday.

The trial today moves into its eighth day. Fosbrey has already testified about events which led to the slaying of June Fosbrey, 25, in a snowbank at Napanee last Nov. 26. She was stabbed shortly after Fosbrey returned from England.

Fosbrey was convicted in his first trial June 18. He was granted a new trial five days before he was to be hanged and also won a change of venue from Napanee to Picton.

Intended to Leave

Fosbrey had previously testified that just prior to the stabbing his wife had told him she intended to leave him and live with another man at his common-law wife.

Dr. White, asked what effect this admission would have on Fosbrey, said that from the examination he would expect an explosive, emotional outburst. "which might well be of an aggressive nature." He added that the outburst would be immediate, poorly-reasoned and poorly-controlled and might well manifest itself into physical violence.

Additional testimony relating to Fosbrey's mental condition and collected by a commission from relatives in England was read into the evidence yesterday.

The relatives said Fosbrey had claimed to have seen a green-eyed cat although no such animal existed, had smashed his fist through a window and had shown a tendency to play with children. They said he suffered a head injury in a 1937 car accident and that his eyes had died lately.

Dr. Charles Shepherd, an English psychiatrist, told the commission that Fosbrey could be suffering from schizophrenia. A Toronto psychiatrist had also testified that Fosbrey suffers from a split or dual personality.

Importation Ban Lifted by Dept.

Ottawa, Nov. 14 (CP) — The Agriculture Department yesterday announced immediate lifting of the ban against importing of eggs, poultry carcasses or parts of carcasses.

The ban will continue to apply against importation of live poultry.

The ban against the importation of live poultry, eggs and raw poultry carcass was imposed last July 11 following a serious outbreak of Newcastle disease among poultry flocks in British Columbia. Many flocks were destroyed in an effort to halt the spread of the disease.

Since then, the situation has improved sufficiently to permit imports of poultry eggs and carcarcasses.

Liberal Leader Asks Reduction Of Gasoline Tax

Toronto, Nov. 14 (CP)—Walter Thomson, in his first public address as Ontario Liberal leader, last night accused the Progressive Conservative government of ineptitude in the control of provincial affairs and called for a reduction in the tax on gasoline.

Mr. Thomson, elected party leader at a convention last week, pictured Premier Frost as "emblematic of a tottering government" in a 15-minute free-time provincial affairs address broadcast for delivery over an Ontario CBC network.

"The province has lost much in the failure of the Conservative party to negotiate fiscal adjustments with the Dominion of Canada," he said, criticizing the government's failure to sign a grant-in-lieu-of-taxation agreement with Ottawa.

Mr. Thomson contended that the province was collecting too much in gasoline taxes. He noted a government statement that it had $500,000,000 for roads and said that if this was the case "then they have entirely too much of the gasoline taxpayers money."

"When you consider that tax on gasoline is one-third or 33 1-3 percent of the retail selling price of gasoline we are paying too much. The motor car is a necessity, not a luxury."

Suggests Extra Subsidies

Mr. Thomson suggested that extra subsidies be given to municipalities which have heavier snowfall to help place them on equal footing with more temperate areas in regard to snow removal.

A federal member of parliament for the constituency of Ontario, Mr. Thomson also demanded that the government immediately implement the recommendations of the Kennedy report on forest conservation; more equitable distribution of hydro for rural areas, and renewed a suggestion that a Royal Commission with broad powers be set up to investigate law enforcement in Windsor.

He concluded with a request to the people of Ontario to send him "letters of constructive criticism telling me of your trials and tribulations, significant in your present state and the manner in which you feel these difficulties could be remedied."

Council Opposes Application For Annexation

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 14 (CP)—Kingston Township council intends to oppose an application by this city for permission to annex certain sections of the township.

Reeve Harvey Hawkey said a township brief is being prepared for presentation to the Ontario Municipal Board when it meets here Dec. 12.

Township organizations, also opposing the annexation, are holding meetings to draw up similar briefs.

The entire village of Portsmouth is included in the annexation scheme by the village council has informed Kingston that it will not oppose the application.

Four Student Leaders, Paper Are Suspended

Montreal, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Decision to suspend publication of the McGill University Daily, official undergraduate newspaper, and four student leaders until senate meeting Wednesday was announced yesterday by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor.

The action was taken by the committee on student discipline as a result of publicity the daily had used in advance of a student party in the McGill Union, and for infraction of university regulations in connection with the sale of liquor at the entertainment Saturday evening.

The entertainment was held as part of the student effort to raise the objective of $5000 in the combined charities drive now being held on the campus.

The suspended students are: Boris Gardavsky, president of the Student's Society; James Cartier, president of the McGill Union; John Scott, editor of the McGill Daily, and Douglas Campbell, chairman of the committee which produced the show.

An article in Friday's daily announced that the Saturday night "monster extravaganza" would feature "dancing, gambling, games and drinking." Three girls were also to donate their net-stockinged "ankles, calves and thighs" for a game of hoops, and rye and Scotch were to be served, the daily said.

The show was "much (more than expected," the undergraduate newspaper said yesterday. Approximately 600 guests drank only 300 quarts of beer and 12 bottles of hard liquor, the newspaper reported. It added that games of chance yielded $200 and the party was tabbed "one of the best evenings' entertainment in a long time though complete decorum was maintained."

Mr. Cartier said in a statement "we will ask the senate to accept our apologies in allowing this affair to develop the way it did. The over-enthusiasms of the charities committee to make this some thing a success, produced unfortunate results."

FIVE MEMBERS KILLED

Altoona, Pa., Nov. 14 (AP) — A kerosene explosion and fire in a tiny-over-crowded house converted from a two-car garage last night killed five members of a family of eight. The three others were critically burned.

The blaze killed Mrs. Nellie Ebbert, 37, and four of her children—Neal, 12; Evelyn, 9; Joyce, 8; and Elaine, 2.

The explosion apparently came when Mrs. Ebbert attempted to prime a wood stove with Kerosene.

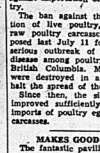
POACHING MORE SERIOUS CRIME

Ottawa, Nov. 14 (CP) —Fisheries Minister Mayhew said yesterday that "fish poaching in Canada is a more serious crime than horse stealing."

"It is no joke—there is far too much poaching," he said in addressing a luncheon meeting of the directors of the Fisheries National Interest.

Council of Canada.



Mr. Mayhew indicated his department plans steps to prevent poaching when he said it was "not going to let it get by in the future."

He cited the poaching salmon on their way upriver to spawn, as well as berry lobsters, as examples of crimes against the na-

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Semark, Belleville, Ont., wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Patricia June, to John Gordon, son of Mrs. Catherine Boyd, Halifax, Nova Scotia, and the late Jacob Boyd, the marriage to take place on Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7 p.m., in St. Thomas' Rectory.

Mrs. George Conners, 2nd of Thurlow is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

The many friends of Mrs. Arthur Casey, of Hallowey, will be glad to know she is convalescing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Denyes, 74 Catherine St.

Mrs. Edith Squire, 165 East College Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keegan, have returned from St. Thomas, after attending the funeral Saturday morning of their grandmother, Mrs. T. Luscombe.

Mrs. Ruth Atkinson, St. Catharines, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. H. Brankish, Nova Scotia Bank Apts.

Mrs. Charles McGuire, (nee Peggy Jeffs), is seriously ill in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Earl Bird, Foxboro, underwent a major operation in the Belleville General Hospital, Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Latchford, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sable, and Mrs. Delbert Latchford, motored to Toronto, on Sunday, to visit Mr. Carl Sable, who is a patient at the Sunnybrook Hospital, and found his improvement satisfactory.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Allin, 165 East College Street, have returned home after attending the funeral of the latter's mother, the late Mrs. W. Luscombe, St. Thomas, Ont. Mrs. Allin has been spending the past month with her mother, who has been seriously ill in St. Thomas.

Women Teachers Meet

The November meeting of the Belleville Women Teachers' Federation was held last week. Following the supper, Miss Hazel Thompson led a brief business discussion. Miss Jean Price gave the report on the fall conference held in October. The program for the evening was in the charge of Queen Alexandra School, Miss Elva Elson introduced Mrs. Neilsale, the guest speaker. Mrs. Neilsale gave an account of her recent trip to England. She told of conditions in post-war England and showed the group with humorous stories of her shipboard experiences.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONAL

Mrs. R. McCaul, Kilmarnock, Scotland, accompanied by her sisters, Mrs. J. Burns, Lancaster, N.Y., and Mrs. and Mrs. S. Pollice, Philadelphia, Pa., were recent guests, of their brother, Mr. Hugh Gray, whom they had not seen in 30 years, and also of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gray, Jr., Belleville, R.R. 5.

Assoc. Favors Public Health Plan For City

A large gathering of parents thronged Queen Victoria School last night at the Parents Home meeting of the Home and School Association. From 7:30 until 8:30 all the classrooms were open for inspections with the teachers and Grade 1 helpers in attendance, providing an excellent opportunity for parents to see the work of their own and other children and to discuss questions of progress with the teachers.

In the more formal part of the meeting, the Association listened to a talk by Alderman William Argue on the proposal to set up a health department in the city, on which a vote is to be taken at the forthcoming elections. In a brief address, Mr. Argue put forward the arguments of those supporting this measure, and his views were strongly endorsed in the ensuing discussion. A motion allowing the Association to contribute its share toward a projected advertisement regarding Public Health in Belleville, was carried unanimously.

Mrs. Lennox Smith reported on the card party held last month which provided a very pleasant evening for a considerable number of people. The president announced that the skate sale would take place next Saturday afternoon, under the direction of Mrs. C. Powell. The attendence prize was won by Miss Welbourn's Grade I.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Whitney Dill, provincial forestry officer of the Department of Lands and Forests, was introduced by Mr. Lennox Smith. Mr. Dill spoke on the natural resources of Canada. In spite of all the recent exciting discoveries of such items as minerals, oil and natural gas, Canada's main resources still lay in her forests. His talk was illustrated by a film on forest laws and conservation introduced by the U.S. Forest Service for the Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Dill was expressed the thanks of the Association to Mr. Dill.

WEDDINGS

TRUMPOUR—SAGRIFF

White and pink chrysanthemums and evergreens formed a lovely background on Saturday, November 4, at 9 a.m., in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, for the marriage of Mary Marjorie Sagriff, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. Patrick Maurice Sagriff, and the late Mrs. Sagriff, to William John Trumpour, of Belleville, son of Wilfred Laurier Trumpour and Eliza Catherine Potter. The Reverend J. V. Buckley officiated.

Sister Mary Philomena, organist, provided the wedding music, and Miss Carolyn Forhan, soloist, sang before the ceremony "Ave Maria" and during the signing of the register, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother".

The radiant bride, who was given in mfrriage by her father, wore a gown of gardenia white satin and lace, fashioned with fitted bodice and full skirt, long tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. Her full-length veil was held by a headdress of pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a nosegay of red roses.

Mrs. Laverne Sagriff, of Marysville, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honour, wearing a gown of pink, brocaded taffeta with matching headdress, and carrying a nosegay of deep, pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Jackie Delorme, and Miss Dorothy Waddingham, both of Belleville, gowned in blue, brocaded taffeta with matching headdress and carrying nosegays of pale pink carnations.

Mr. Ralph B. Beasley, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsman. Mr. George Trumpour, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Vincent Sagriff, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Dutch Mill Inn, Trenton, where the bride's stepmother, gowned in navy blue silk crepe with navy accessories and corsage of cream roses, was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore greyish blue silk crepe, with wine accessories, and corsage of cream roses, in receiving the guests.

For travelling to Toronto, Hamilton, Peterborough, and Port Perry, the bride chose a midnight blue ensemble with navy accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Trumpour will reside in Oshawa.

Out-of-town guests were present from Kingston, Enterprise, Oshawa, Picton, Millier, Wellington, Demorestville, Milford and Marysville, Ont.

McCURDY—COLE

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the scene of a recent pretty wedding when Barbara Marie Cole, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cole, became the bride of Eugene James McCurdy, of Saskatoon, Sask., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McCurdy. Reverend Father John Buckley, officiated.

The wedding music was provided by Sister Mary Paulacoste and the soloist was Miss Carolyn Forhan, who sang before the ceremony, "Ave Maria" and "I Love You Truly".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of white satin, fashioned with molded bodice, long sleeves ending in lily points over the hands, and sweetheart neckline, the bouffant skirt cascaded gracefully in a long sweeping train. Her full-length veil of embroidered silk tulle illusion was caught by a corsage of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Bettenfield roses.

Miss Carmelette Cole, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was gowned in pink taffeta, featuring a tight-fitting bodice, floor-length skirt of pleasing fullness, matching gauntlet length gloves. She carried an umbrella bouquet of Autumn flowers.

Mr. John Cole, of Belleville, and brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. Lew Harback, of New Hamburg, and Mr. Reginald LaRoche of North Bay.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with Autumn flowers. The bride's mother, gowned in blue sheer with black accessories and corsage of red roses, received the guests.

Following the reception, the young couple left for points unset the bride becomingly gowned in a green ensemble with black accessories, and corsage of red roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. McCurdy will reside in Belleville.

Guests from out-of-town were from Tweed and Deseronto.

HISTORIC SPOT

Deer Island, a scenic spot at the southern tip of New Brunswick was first settled in the middle of the 18th Century.

The Child and Mental Growth Theme of Talk to H.&S. Assoc.

A very well-attended meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and Schools Association was held last evening in the school auditorium. After the preliminary business had been conducted Mr. William Logue was introduced by the President, Mrs. R. D. Arnott. Mr. Logue explained that under a by-law, ratepayers are to vote their wish concerning the setting-up of a health department, in the city, and that he had come along to tell the meeting briefly just what that would imply. He stressed that "prevention was better than cure," and that a health department with a full time medical officer of health was most necessary in a city of this size. He quoted facts and figures and asked that everyone should give careful thought to the question soon to be submitted to them.

A very fine musical interlude was presented by a small choir composed of pupils from Grade VII, under the direction of Miss Hart. "The Last Post" was played by Barry Wright (Queen Mary School) and Leslie Smith (King George School), and it did great credit to the musical ability of the instrumentalists and the little choir, who sang "Taps" as their finale. The solemnity of the numbers chosen was maintained, and the effect was perfect. The singers were: Adrienne Campbell, Pauline Gibson, Rita Batchelor, Janet Dewsbury, Reg. Wilson, Stephen Schwab, David Deacon and Andrew Robb.

The speaker of the evening Mr. A. E. Kelly, who was introduced by Court Miller, explained that he was going to present his subject "The Mental Growth of the Child" as a discussion rather than a lecture. This was with the purpose he had enlisted the assistance of the following panel, for teachers —Mr. Anderson, Miss Young, Miss Osborne and Miss Robinson; for parents, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Court Miller.

Mr. Kelly stressed mental health as the total all-round well-being of the child, and then proceeded to deal with the various aspects of the child depends on a sense of well-being from the earliest baby-hood days, often on a day to basis, so to speak, of a successful mental journey through childhood to adolescence and the adult.

The difficulties in kindergarten of adjusting himself to the new life of school are great and many, and it then that parents and teacher form the centre of the child's life, A child has a growing right to develop his own ways, and as he journeys through the primary and junior departments of school he has ample opportunity for choice and independency action, so that from all the child is an assured self-confident individual, acting freely and animal friendships, and giving and receiving affection.

The existing pattern of independence, as developed during this period, continues for the rest of the adolescent growth of the child, and even on through life.

With adolescence, much of the new found assurance is temporarily shattered, and during the adjustments of this time, the child can benefit greatly from help, sympathy and understanding from parents and teachers. At all stages, and most especially here adults can reassure children about the normality of growth, and with patience and affection can achieve much.

All members of the panel contributed parent, and school views along the paths of this discussion, to supplement the points expressed by Mr. Kells, who, towards the end, had a word to parents. It is the worries of parents which cause upsets most detrimental to the child. Competition, comparisons . and petty naggings are flung at the child until he becomes highly wired and retarded.

"Your child is an individual," commented the speaker. "Why try to mould him to another's pattern?" Two mothers expressed by knowing through what stage the child is struggling in its mental development tasks, can show understanding and acceptance of the codes and behaviour patterns of that stage, and thus give invaluable assistance in leading the child towards good mental health.

Mr. Wilson in tendering a vote of thanks, said how much everyone had enjoyed the discussion, and the fine and unique manner of presentation.

Refreshments, convened by Mrs. A. Sprague and Mrs. G. Robertson, and the mothers of grade 2, and coffee served by Mrs. Martinson and Mrs. Sherman, were served at the close of the meeting.

Need For Improved Nursing Service Stressed in Address

Members of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry met recently at the Nurses' Residence of Belleville General Hospital with a good attendance of private duty nurses.

Miss Madaleine M. Baker, Registry adviser, Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario of London, was the guest speaker. Miss Baker brought considerable information regarding Community Nursing Registries in other cities. It was interesting to note that many of these registries are financed through annual grants from their city councils; membership in their district Community Chest; donations from their local hospitals, to whom they rendered invaluable 24-hour service.

The Belleville Registry has been financed through the efforts of its members, and several money raising projects.

Miss Baker was introduced by the acting president, Mrs. Alice Reg'N., and thanked by Mrs. Wyn Donaldson.

In her remarks Miss Baker said nursing today is a profession—al challenge and a public responsibility. There are three main factors which influence constructive evaluation— (1) nurse training from the educational standpoint; (2) nursing service rendered by the nurse; (3) relationships—the nursing profession has to the community.

These are closely related factors, in fact, they are each integrated with the other.

Miss Baker stressed the need for itsgroved and extended nursing service. She said, "The patient is our first responsibility.

For sometime the demand for nurses has exceeded the supply. We have endeavored to meet this crisis by assigning private nurses on a priority basis to the most critically ill.

"Conservation of nurse power is very important. We must promote continuous study that will result in formulating a plan to give the people what they require. Nurses cannot remain this task alone. We need and we want to work with the public toward fulfilment of this objective.

"Plans should embrace obligations both to the people we serve, and to the nurse. We must be careful to set sound realistic attainable goals, and let us remember that—The great and worthwhile things in this world have not been brought about by accident. There is first the vision then the planning, and finally the toil.

Shared nursing care, that is, two patients cared for by one private duty nurse will assist in bridging the gap that now exists. There are many cases that could be adequately cared for under this plan. Continuing education for the graduate nurse, was pointed up as necessary to keep abreast of the changing times."

Miss Baker commended the local organization on the community service they provide. There are twenty-eight community nursing registries in Ontario. A majority of which are supported in part by public funds through city grants, and community chests.

TCA Stewardess Retires After 6,487 Hours Flying

Montreal (Special) —After flying the equivalent of 52 times around the globe a "million miles", TCA stewardess this week returned to earth. With close to eight years service to her credit, Dorothy Gilmore, 31, who has flown longer and further than any other of the airline's stewardesses, retired with a healthy total of 6,487 hours and 1, 297,400 miles flown and 151 trans Atlantic crossings.

The Maritimer, who will be married this month to a Montreal project engineer has flown over every TCA route, including Montreal-London and Montreal-Bermuda and the Caribbean.

She was aboard TCA's first North Star flight from London to Montreal in April, 1947.

After thousands of hours of flying, Stewardess Gilmore has a few travel tips to pass on to Canadian women planning a trip by air. And the principal one: "Don't wear hobble skirts."

"Many women passengers today," she says, "change into a casual blouse and skirt or slacks for long journeys by air. They arrive at the airport in suits, change in the aircraft's powder room once aboard, then they're back into their suits about an hour before pedaining."

She suggests a good rest before a long trip and encourages passengers to chat with the flight attendants.

"Stewardesses are always happy to inform air travellers of the time, the altitude, the speed and position of the aircraft and any number of other interesting facts about the trip."

A shoe salesman says that white shoes may be cleaned with a damp (not wet) cloth and pure, mild soap. Wipe soap off with a clean, damp cloth.

Hungarian Top In Dress Design

Vancouver —(CP) — Madame Fazuil, who left her dress factory and salon when she left Hungary dominated Hungary five years ago, has become British Columbia's top fashion designer.

It took her only three months and 15 minutes to reach that goal —three months establishing herself in Vancouver and 15 minutes after a public dress switch won her the top award at the British Columbia competition of fashion design.

The contest was sponsored by Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority and 700 fashion-wise spectators were on hand.

The slim brunet said:

"All I had was a simple outfit and a pair of riding boots when I had to skip out of Budapest in 1945.

"The urge to design cannot be stamped out easily and in Budapest there was no room for my career either under German —or later—Russian red regime."

She travelled on foot into Austria where she spent four years in the United States zone, working for the military government for a while.

There she also worked for theatres designing costumes, But the atmosphere in four-power occupied Austria wasn't satisfactory and she grasped the chance to move to Canada.

"Here I am and here I stay," she said. "It's good to be a Canadian."

Proves Small Baby Can Grow Normally

Toronto, Nov.—CP—Do babies abnormally small at birth later grow to normal adult life?

Mrs. Edwin Diplock, 36, is one proof that they can. She weighed one pound eight ounces at birth, and now stands 5 feet 2 inches. She has had five children, all weighing over six pounds at birth.

Mrs. Diplock was born in North Sidney, N. S., and was nursed by her mother. She was anaemic until she was 13.

At birth, she said, "my arm was so small the doctor could put the ring from his finger up it. I was put in a shoe box, wrapped in cotton wool and kept in cot, and kept in an oven four months."

A twin brother, also underlater—Russian red regime."

Canadian Advance Party Of Special Brigade Finds Korea Dirty Corner of World

By DAVE MCINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

PUSAN, Korea, Nov. 14—(CP)—The Canadian advance party of the special brigade is bunked down and happy as possible in this dirty corner of the world.

The 250 men have taken over a couple of old school buildings on the side of a hill overlooking this city, about the size of Saint John, N.B.

The barracks are as far as possible away from the filth of the streets and open sewers. One of the first jobs was to clean the buildings thoroughly before installing the kitchen, shower and so on.

From the waterfront, a paved road of sorts leads across a drawbridge to a steep hill. The pavement gives out at the bottom of the hill and from there on the dirt road is scarred by deep ruts and rocks.

At the top, past an old stone gate, sits the former school building. When the Canadian moved in, there were cots and that was all. There were no lights, drinking water or heat of any kind. There were holes in the floors and panes missing from the windows.

Latrines Primitive

The latrine was a primitive open building near the barracks. The stench from it was indescribable. The medical officer blew his top when he took a look, ordered an immediate overhaul.

Still, the Canadians say they've got better than they had bargained for. They had thought they would be sleeping on a dirt floor, hadn't counted on wooden floors and cots. And most of them had seen as bad in Italy.

In a couple of days things were ship-shape, and the first mail the men had received in more than a month brightened the scene more than piled bathrooms and mattresses could have done.

Commanding officer Maj. R. M. Bourgeois of Gravelbourg, Sask., was pleased with his men.

"Look at those creases in their trousers" he breathed admiringly as the men stepped from the ship.

Maj. Andy Anderson of Digby, N.S., the M. O., said nobody had been sick aboard ship except the men "who ruptured themselves eating."

Pte. Ed Prichard of Montreal said: "The last war was a mutton war, this is a weiner war."

During the last week on the ship, the troops got weiners several times. That was their first meal ashore, too.

The Americans fed the Canadians in the second school building, about 200 yards along the side of the hill, until the Canadians got their own kitchen set up.

The first meal was ready and waiting when the men reached their barracks. The menu: Weiners, tomato sauce, carrots, string beans, fruit cocktail, cherries, brown or white bread, chili sauce, vinegar, peanut butter. That night the men got ham, soybeans, asparagus, macaroni and cheese, peaches.

Spr. Norman Darnforth of St. Thomas, Ont., said: "We've usually had to wait hours for our first meal and then get cold tea at the end of it. This was really something."

Like 90 per cent of the troops, Pte. Honore Belanger of Montreal had all his hair shaved off while on the boat.

Formerly of the Maisonneuves, Belanger said, "It's a long way from wife and boy."

Pte. Alex Roy of Toronto, a cook, dashed around looking for his stoves. Several Koreans did most of the carrying and sweeping. The Canadians posted guards all over the camp, since theft is a major occupation in this country.

Settled for Hearts Game

Five craftsmen settled in right away for a game of hearts. They were burning incense in an ashtray on the cot up on the second floor of the building.

The players were Cpl. Roy Rollingson of Moose Jaw, and Jimmy Maybin, Mike Ritchie and Wally Bovington, all of Toronto, and Mac Harvey of Granton, Ont.

Pte. Allan Harper of Wolfville, N.S., looked on and bemoaned the fact he had given away his deck of cards. Pte. Sheldon Henshaw of Wolfville discussed the Annapolis Valley apple situation with trooper Bill Murphy of North Sydney, N.S.

Spr. Raymond Lesdden of Saint John, N.B., looked at the card players and said: "They'll have us working hard enough in a couple of days."

A group sat on their cots and discussed what they thought would happen to the main force of the battalion when it arrives next month. They included Pte. John Thomas of Belleville, Ont., Raymond Fleet of Sydney Mines, N.S., Mike Hanson of Guelph, Ont., and Gnr. Deg Sherry of Outremont, Que. Ex-Canadian of Shubenacadie, N.S., quietly shined his buttons and boots.

Hands Kit

Outside, where a cool breeze whipped dust across the dirt parade ground, Lt. Bill Penny of North Sydney guarded kit just unloaded from the boat. Others stood around talking with Americans or getting shoeshines from the ragged little Korean boys who cluster about all the camps here.

In the officers' room—just the same as the men's, incidentally—Lt.-Col. Andy Mcfie of Charlottetown produced a scatter rug from his kit and laid it proudly between the cot and that of Capt. Andy Foulds of Vancouver, the C.O. was trying to scrounge another blanket. Near his cot hung the bouquet of flowers given him by a Korean woman at the pier.

Bitterly Cold

In the other school building, the Canadians bed down with Americans. Lt. Bdr. Jim McCarey of Kingston, Ont., mentioned sadly that "it was his 1951 wedding anniversary. Cmr. Pete Sytar of Edmonton tried to drum up a little barter with a Korean storekeeper.

The first night was bitterly cold in the unheated barracks. Some managed to borrow sleeping bags from the Americans. The rest just shivered in their blankets.

Nearly everybody went out the first night to have a look at the town. Down the hill, the Canadians rubbed shoulders with the Thailanders, Turks, Australians, British and Americans. Curfew for Koreans is 8 p.m., for all troops 10 p.m.

Next morning, Pte. Lorne Holtzie of Ashcroft, B.C., Danny Segin of Edmonton and Jimmy Wanlandy of Fort McMurray, Alta., were among the first to ask: "Where can we scrounge a stove?"

LONG SEPARATED

Brantford, Ont., —(CP)— Two sisters who last saw each other 44 years ago when one left England to come to Canada have just been re-united. Mrs. Florence Reeve greeted her sister Mrs. Harry Riches of Norfolk, England, visiting Canada with her husband.

LOCAL GUNNER IN FINAL TRAINING

Drug Inspector Gets Medicine From Herb Doctor

Washington, Nov. 14 — (AP) — Every Job has its thorny side.

The United States Food and Drug Administration yesterday told of the experience of one of its inspectors sent to check up on an "Indian herb doctor" in Oklahoma.

He posed as a patient. The "doctor" told him he was suffering from diabetes and prescribed doses of his medicine.

"After the inspector was forced to drink a full glass on the premises — which he did with great effort — he took away a fruit jar of the nauseating medicine," the F. D. A. said.

Chemists found it was made of "ground-up hoof, horn and other external animal growth, milk, water and small amounts of nitrates."

Man in Ocean Turns into Buoy

Seaside Park, N. J. Nov. 14—AP—A man turned into a buoy last night.

Army pilot Lt. William Murphy, on a routine flight, set off an all-day search yesterday when he reported seeing what he thought was a man parachuting into the ocean.

It turned out to be weather bureau radio equipment attached to a parachute and buoy.

New Horse Goes His Old Route

Stratford, Ont., Nov. 14—CP—A few score Stratford people didn't get their milk on schedule Monday because a new horse was on the route. The horse and milkwagon started out together from the dairy. The milkman left the wagon to make deliveries and went his usual way. It took two hours and about eight miles of truck patrol around city streets before they got together again.

BOOST DANISH RESORT

Copenhagen—(CP)—An all-out drive is planned to put the Danish island of Borholm in the Baltic on the world tourist map. The 150-square-mile island is an eight-hour sea trip from Copenhagen.

Canadian Retail Stores Show Increased Sales

Ottawa, Nov. 14—CP—Sales in Canadian retail stores are going up, the Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday.

It said retail stores showed a "marked" gain of nine per cent in September over the corresponding month of last year, the over-all advance was 6.2 per cent.

The biggest gain was in sales by appliance and radio stores and motor vehicle dealers, which reported increases of 27 and 25 per cent, respectively. In motor sales, the bureau said the gain indicated demand for new cars still is considerably higher than a year ago.

Jewellery store sales were up 18 per cent, by far the largest gain for this trade this year. Other notable gains were shown by furniture stores and garages and filling stations, both up 16 per cent, and by family clothing stores, up 9 per cent. Food store sales increased eight per cent.

Men's clothing was the only backward trade, sales being down five per cent from a year earlier. Restaurant receipts just failed to hold their September, 1949 level.

Says Husband Gave Her 50 Black Eyes During Year

Chicago, Nov. 14—AP—Mrs. Marion Domick, 26, told the court yesterday that her husband, Alfred, 26, "has given me about 50 black eyes during the past year."

Domick, a construction foreman, said "that isn't true, your honor. I only gave her a black eye about once a month."

A divorce hearing on Mrs. Domick's cruelty charges is pending.

Mail Truck Driver Accused Concocting Hold-Up Story To Hide Theft of $11,000

Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 14 (CP) —The driver of a Royal mail truck was accused early today of concocting a phony story of a hold-up to cover up the theft of $11,000 in banknotes destined for the Royal mint at Ottawa to be destroyed.

After lengthy questioning and discovery of the money, intact, in a field, Robert Hyatt, 40, of nearby Kingsdale was charged with theft from the mails, one of the more serious offences under the criminal code.

Hyatt was found slumped over the wheel in a deserted part of Kitchener by a policeman who noticed that the truck hadn't moved for a couple of hours.

After treatment for head cuts at Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital, he told police he had been slugged by a red-faced man who jumped into the cab of the truck when it stopped for a red light.

Police said there were 32 mail bags in the truck, but they thought it odd that the supposed hold-up man would know exactly which one contained the money.

Old banknotes are often sent to Ottawa by registered mail to be destroyed to make way for new currency. However, deliveries of parcels containing the banknotes are staggered to avoid possibility of hold-up men learning the route.

BIOGRAPHER DIES

Los Angeles, Nov. 14 — (AP) — Mrs. Aniela Strakacz, 53, biographer and friend of the late pianist Ignace Jan Paderewski, died Saturday. A native of Warsaw, Mrs. Strakacz married her husband, Wylwyn, here when he was secretary to Paderewski while the latter was Polish premier.

"SALADA" TEA

A name to endure Quebec

Centuries ago an ancient village stood where the waters of the St. Lawrence narrow suddenly. The Algonquins called that place Kebec—"the narrowing of the waters." Thus, says tradition, did the Province receive its enduring name.

Distinguished and historic, Quebec today keeps pace with Canada's giant strides toward a great future. During the past decade alone a tremendous hydro-electric development has harnessed Quebec's water power to drive her industrial wheels. And from her vast timberlands come huge supplies of pulp and paper to feed the presses of the world.

Much of Canada's greatness stems from Quebec, this nation's oldest province. And in preparing for the future Quebec draws upon a rich cultural heritage from the past.

Remembrance Day Services Held At Armouries

Madoc—Remembrance Day service was held in Madoc armouries last Saturday morning, with a fair representation of Madoc citizens in attendance. Reeve John Kincaid acted as chairman for the service. On the platform were resident ministers of Madoc village who took part in the service, Rev. M. W. Hastip, Rev. V. A. Plager, Rev. J. F. Lane and Rev. G. Harvey Good, who gave the address for the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Good reminded his listeners of the two World Wars and the possibility of a third world war. He said the men of the two wars had made the sacrifice by giving and making the supreme sacrifice in order that there might be freedom and a better world of law and order. It was up to the peoples of today to not fail them and it was only by living right and harmoniously together that the faith could be kept.

Appropriate Hymns

The hymns used for the service were "Unto the Hills" and "O Valiant Hearts". Mrs. Adams sang an appropriate solo.

Following the singing of the National Anthem, R. Co. of H. & Fr. Ed., Reserve Batt., Major Joe Naylor, company commander in charge, members of the Madoc Legion, Veterans of World War I and 2 came to the Cenotaph where wreaths were placed, including, Province of Ontario, Madoc Legion, Madoc Village Council, Madoc Branch Women's Institute, and the 155th Battalion. This wreath was a gift from Lieut.-Col. E. S. Webb, of Toronto, in memory of the Madoc men who was in command of the Madoc platoon at Madoc armouries in the First World War. Lieut. Webb will be well remembered by the older citizens of Madoc. Last Post and Reveille were sounded by bugler W. Vollick.

Low Altitude Record at 147 Feet

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, Nov. 14 (Reuters)—The world low altitude" parachute record has been claimed for Brazilian parachutist Fernando Jose Montero. He jumped out of a plane at 147 feet above the sea and opened his parachute 45 feet up. He was watched by officials of the Brazilian air ministry, who are claiming the record for him.

Ontario Cattle Move into Barns From Pastures

Toronto, Nov. 14—CP—Cattle were moved from pasture to stables on most Ontario farms when cold weather arrived during the last few days, the Ontario Agricultural department said today in its weekly crop report.

Fall ploughing is continuing in some counties, including Haldimand, Ontario and Carleton, but is reported almost finished. Farmers are busy completing fall work.

Essex county reports fall wheat growth satisfactory and going into winter in good condition.

Two Pullets Try To Reduce High Cost of Living

Mr. Fred L. Smith, of Wooler, has come up with one for Ripley. Mr. Smith has a number of pullets, just under seven months of age. On Friday, while collecting the eggs, he found two oversize eggs. The one measured 6¼ inches long and 6½ inches around. The other was 6 inches long and 7 inches around. Each weighed a quarter of a pound.

Say "Loud" Ties Losing in Favor

Manchester, England (CP) — Many women will cheer the news that "loud" ties, those blazing emblems of men's victory over the dullness of modern dress, may be on the way out.

At least manufacturers in this textile centre have noticed a decided falling off in outside demand for the big-patterned cravats. The flamboyant hues of recent years have added oomph to the costume of Mr. Average Canadian, may be giving way to discreet colors and quiet designs which have never varied in their popularity over there.

That's what nine Canadian women journalists found out when they visited a British textile display here. They saw both the "loud" and the "quiet" ties. The former, they were told, was decidedly an "export" product although the other style appeared to be gaining in poularity overseas.

In Ottawa the head of the women's wear section of one department-store agreed that sales of the "big panels" have been slipping in the last six months. The fashion of the pastel designs —"the real gentleman's tie"—are coming back in style.

"We feel the neat tie is our bread and butter," he said, "with the others—well, we're taking a chance."

TO OPERATE AS DEFENCE TEAM?

A woman has been selected for the first time in history, for a post of authority over the army, navy and air forces. Secretary of Defence George C. Marshall has announced that he has recommended to President Truman the appointment of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg of New York, as assistant secretary of defence in charge of manpower and personnel problems in the armed forces. Mrs. Rosenberg was a confidant of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. — (Central Press Canadian.)

Briefs From Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

Gorleston, Norfolk, England—(CP)—Mrs. H. M. Mills some time ago threw a bottle into the sea, with a message inviting whoever found it to spend a holiday at her home. Now she has an acceptance from Hans Absen, who lives on the west coast of Denmark.

Harrow, Middlesex, England—(CP)—An unopened letter dated 1885 was found by a worker stuck to the varnish in a mailbox. It contained a cheque for the equivalent of $116.

Durham, England—(CP)—Students "kidnapped" Mrs. H. Rushford, the mayor of Durham. She was released when a Women's Club she was to visit paid over a "ransom" in the form of a contribution to charity.

Carshalton, Surrey, England—(CP)—Fans at local cricket fields will pay 12 cents apiece to help meet the cost of a £50,000 insurance policy against injury from loose balls.

Whaddon, Buckinghamshire, England—(CP)— It's surprising what you can pick up. A sweater made of sheep's wool—gathered from hedges where it had stuck —was shown at a handicraft exhibition here.

Wisbech, Cambridgeshire, England—(CP)— Local high school girls have "adopted" a sufferer from leprosy and will raise money to help pay for his treatment.

London—(CP) — Bookmakers collected a total of $21,900 for the dependents of recent mine accidents at Knockshinnock and Creswell, in Derbyshire.

London—(CP)—Joseph Baker, 32, was sent to jail for three months for loitering. In his defense he said "sometimes I walk around for 17 days without sleep."

Guildford, Surrey, England — A local garage proprietor wondered why he wasn't making as much money as he should. Then he discovered that he was losing one gallon of gasoline in every 10, because of a faulty gas pump.

Chobham, Surrey, England — (CP)—Six-year-old Arthur Shearing was among little winners at a local bird show. The boy has had his own aviary since he was three years old.

Bristol, England—(CP) — The thief who stole a spare tire from Dr. G. S. Andrew's motorcar probably felt sick afterwards. The tire was contaminated with jaundice specimens, split when a bottle of the specimens was broken some time ago.

700 HOMELESS

Manila, Nov. 14. — (AP) — A fire which swept a commercial centre on the Southern Philippine island of Mindanao Saturday left 700 persons homeless, the Philippine Red Cross reported today. There were no reports of injured persons.

Rosetown Farmer Wins World Barley Crown

Toronto, Nov. 14 —(CP)—The wraps are off today on the 22nd Royal Winter Fair with its 30 acres of everything a Canadian farmer grows or raises.

A mixture of post-graduate agriculture course, old home week, Roman holiday and world fair, the "Royal"—is set to have about 400,000 persons click its turnstiles before the cows go home Nov. 22.

It was preparation day yesterday, but most show judges didn't let any grass grow. They announced four of the six world championships the Fair awards—a day before it officially opened.

Albert Kessel of Rosetown, Sask., brought additional fame to his 480-acre farm—which he calls Vimy Ridge in memory of the battle in the First World War in which he served—80 miles southwest of Saskatoon.

His 1949 rye champion was second best in this division this year, but he won the world's barley crown with a sample of Hannchen, a two-rowed barley, and also a grand championship in flax —this is not a world title—on a redwing sample.

He was seconded as rye champion by Chris Morck of Dickson, Alta., a newcomer to championship competition, who exhibited a sample of prolific spring rye.

The world championship in corn was awarded for a second straight year to E. W. Doubet of Hanna City, Ill., and Arthur Sudarick of Palmer Rapids, Ont., kept the potato crown in Ontario by succeeding Theodore Despatie of Hamel, as 1950's best spud producer.

With each world championship goes a trophy, an inscribed tray and $100 in cash. General Manager C. S. McKee says the Royal is the biggest all-inclusive agricultural show in the world, but it isn't a huge money-maker. Its annual budget is about $400,000 with one-quarter of the revenue from government and municipal grants. Agriculture associations across Canada also dig down into their denims to help.

MADOC

Remembrance Service

Madoc—On Sunday morning, Trinity United Church observed Remembrance Day at their regular morning service. Special patriotic hymns were sung and a beautiful solo by Mrs. Adams, "I Vow to Thee My Country" with Mrs. Reid as organist. Rev. J. F. Lane, the minister, spoke on "Patriotism" to country and to church, leaving with his congregation a very worthwhile message.

Flowers had been placed at the pulpit by Miss Ella Adams in memory of her mates and Madoc boys who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War II.

Personals

Mrs. Dave Barton, of Toronto, spent a few days with Mrs. Rosewald Dafoe.

Wellington and Mrs. Munro of Troy, N.Y., spent the weekend with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Munro.

Miss Edith McDermid, of Marlintown, is spending a few days in Madoc with Mrs. Clarence Farrow and other friends.

Dr. S. R. and Mrs. Beaty attended graduation ceremonies of the Royal Conservatory of Music at graduation hall, Toronto, on Thursday evening when their daughter, Miss Phyllis Beaty received her licentiate diploma and is now A.R.C.T. (Associate, Royal Conservatory, Toronto).

Mrs. Walker Cluffe, of Ottawa, spent a few days with her sister Mrs. C. F. Aylesworth. On Saturday Mrs. Cluffe returned to Ottawa accompanied by Mrs. Aylesworth who will spend a week in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Munro and children, of Smiths Falls, visited Mr. and Mrs. George Duffin during the weekend.

Miss Ruth Silvester, Mrs. Silvester and Miss Smith of Belleville, called on Madoc friends on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wheal, of London, were recent friends in Madoc during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Foote, of Kingston, spent the weekend with relatives in Madoc.

HUNT REINFORCEMENTS

Montreal, Nov. 14 — (CP) — McGill University Redmen today were on the hunt for reinforcements as the result of their 21-10 defeat by University of Western Ontario Mustangs Saturday.

The Redmen, suffering their first defeat of the Intercollegiate Football League season, returned here Sunday a crippled and bruised team.

FINED IN OWN COURT

Chatham, England, Nov. 14— (Reuters) — Magistrate William Holding, 69, was fined £10 in his court yesterday for reckless driving his car near a street named after him.

Low Power Rates Dependent on Developments

Windsor, Nov. 14. (CP)—Consumption of low electric power rates in Ontario is dependent on completion of the St. Lawrence River Power development by 1958, Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, said yesterday.

The St. Lawrence scheme would need at least five years for completion, and it is necessary to begin construction early next year he told a service club meeting.

New York State power authorities and the commission agreed two years ago on plans for the St. Lawrence development, he said. The project needed only government approval to be started.

"If we are forced to add new steam plants, your hydro cannot continue to supply low-cost power in abundance, steam power can be provided, but it is costly.

Steam generating plants now are being built at Windsor and Toronto, he said. The federal government has urged the United States government to agree to the St. Lawrence Power development.

Development of power sources on the river would not interfere with any future plans for the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway project.

Mr. Saunders also said the commission hopes that no power restrictions on consumers will be necessary this winter. While cooperation would play a large part in determining whether a return of last year's restrictions was necessary.

Deer on Highway Causes Damage To Automobiles

Fort Erie, Nov. 14—(CP)—Deer on the highway caused damage to two automobiles Sunday night. In the first, John Karn, 19, of R.R. 3, St. Thomas struck a large buck causing $250 damage to his car. Later, Robert W. Brubaker, 33, of (360 Frederick St.) Kitchener had his windshield broken and $50 damage resulted when he car hit a deer.

Looks for More Trade Between Canada, UK

Montreal, Nov. 14 — (CP)— George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, returned from a brief visit to Britain Monday confident that Commonwealth trade was on the increase.

Mr. Drew, who left for Britain a week ago today, returned this morning via a British Overseas Airways Corporation plane. He said in a brief statement that he had gone to Britain to give two speeches, one to a meeting of the Canadian Club and one to a meeting of industrialists, and to meet trade organizations.

"I was very much encouraged with what I saw," he said, "and I think there is very prospect for increased trade between Britain and Canada."

SPECIAL SERVICE

London — (CP) — Persons using a telephone booth near a north London radio station were startled by radio music when they put their pennies in the slot. An official explained that coins suspended in a certain way produce a current capable of picking up radio waves.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ANOTHER YEAR STARTS!

Saturday, the moguls of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association go into the annual solemn conclave in the Yellow Room of the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. And what is expected to be a record gathering of delegates will convene to thrash out the business of this flourishing organization, the cradle of hockey in Ontario.

* * *

Herb. Carter of Stratford, Ont., who has done a man-size job as a member of the executive, vice-president etc. for the past six years, will take the chair as president for the coming year. He succeeds Otto J. Hardwick, the reeve of Bolton, Ont., another gentleman who goes on the record as doing plenty for the moppet hockey players of the province.

* * *

Popular Jack Christie, OMHA secretary, and brother of Andy Christie, well-known in these parts as a hockey player for different Royal Canadian Air Force teams, will embark on his seventh year as secretary.

Speaking of minor hockey, it won't be long before Memorial Arena rings to the excitement and noise of the youngsters. The Belleville Hockey Association's minor hockey program calls for the operation of six bantam and six midget teams with a juvenile squad thrown in for good measure.

However much remains to be done before the kiddies get under way, and there is no time like the present for getting things in motion. Youthful players should remember they must have their birth certificates, and if their parents haven't got the places of origin at hand they can be secured at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Entry forms must be secured and properly filled in before any youngster can play. These can be secured at Jack McNab's sporting centre, Front Street. Remember kids, you MUST have a birth certificate, and a completed entry form before you can become eligible to play.

* * *

As a reminder, it is recalled that juvenile age limit is UNDER 18; midget is UNDER 16; bantam UNDER 14 and peewee UNDER twelve. Remember you must be under the maximum age limit by November the 1st.

* * *

The various groupings and playing hours will be announced in this column at a later date. Again, you youngster fellows are reminded to secure your birth certificate and complete an entry form. Boys not conforming with these regulations will definitely not be permitted to play.

COACHES NEEDED!

There is a definite lack of coaches and referees in the Minor groups of the B.H.A. and help is urgently needed along these lines. The expansion of the midget and bantam groups into six-team affairs naturally calls for added coaches and referees, and anyone interested is asked to get in touch with Stanton "Stefler" Lloyd of the Bantam Group; "Toots" Holway of the midget groups, or Fred Elgie or yours truly for the juvenile squad.

* * *

Officials and directors of the Belleville Hockey Association are doing a fine job in promoting and carrying on minor hockey in this city. Last year they had the groundwork for five teams and this year have expanded their activities so as to embrace thirteen minor squads. Every man has a lot to do — and is doing it, gratis. They are working hard to give the kids of the city the opportunity to develop their natural hockey talent, and their only reward is in that development and what it will do for the boy, the team and the city.

* * *

And it is a man-size job handling a bunch of hockey-crazy young fellows whose hearts and souls are in whether they will make the team or not. They roar, some 200 of 'em and there will probably be more than that this year, when the curtain rises and it is no sinecure trying to sort the hockey wheat from the tare. And one of the tough parts of a job like this is having to tell some shining - eyed youngster that he cannot make the grade this year. There's a bit of heartbreak in it for the kids, but the most of them take it in good grace and come back another year.

* * *

The Ottawa District Hockey League gave the Brockville junior "B" team its blessing and smiled them on their way to the eastern group of the Junior "B" setup in this part of the province. So now the eastern group is comprised of Brockville, Gananoque, Queens and Kingston. The Brockville squad is being coached by Jack Danby who had stiff hopefuls out to the initial practice the other day.

Ottawa Claims "Inside Track" For Franchise

(By The Canadian Press)

Ottawa sports promoter T. P. (Tommy) Gorman said Monday Ottawa has the "inside track" for the International Baseball League franchise now held by the Jersey City Giants.

He said he expects to know finally "in a week or so" whether the franchise will come to Ottawa. Other cities in the running are New Haven, Conn., Reading, Pa., and Scranton, Pa.

Mr. Gorman said the action of the league yesterday in approving a transfer removed the last barrier to negotiations for bringing the Giants here.

Mr. Gorman, owner of the Ottawa Nationals of the class C Border League, said that when he last spoke to Horace Stoneham of New York, who owns the Jersey City franchise, he was "very, very favorably impressed" with the possibility of Ottawa as the new site."

Harry Peace has been re-elected president of the Central Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, it was announced in Toronto yesterday. Peace piloted Canadian wrestling at the 1948 Olympic Games.

An Ontario Hockey Association Senior League with the Allan Cup as its goal will launch its schedule next Friday.

Convener Larry Hansell announced yesterday that teams from Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Port Colborne, the Woodstock and Brantford will form the loop.

With two exceptions this is the same league which operated in senior B company during the last two years. Grimsby and Crowland have dropped out.

Lou Boudreau, deposed manager of Cleveland Indians, is going to be given his unconditional release—at his own request.

The baseball club's president, Ellis Ryan, made the announcement last night. It means, he said, that Boudreau will be a free agent "in a little over a week from now."

This puts an entirely new slant on Cleveland's plans for Boudreau's future.

Although he was fired as manager, Lou still was the property of the Indians. Ryan said at the time the club was trying to arrange a major league manager job for Boudreau—or get him a player job.

"In taking this course," said Ryan in a statement, "the Indians have lost an opportunity to make a beneficial trade for Boudreau in the event that a new managerial post falls to materialize."

"But as we've said from the start, we are anxious to co-operate with Lou Boudreau 100 percent in doing what he considers best for him. He has requested his unconditional release so he shall have it."

This deal means that Boudreau no longer is the property of the Indians. His name goes on the waiver list tonight and every club in both major leagues has the opportunity to speak up for him.

Possibility of a trade between New York Rangers and Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League was seen in New York today.

Boston coach Lynn Patrick arrived in the town yesterday and immediately went into a conference with Ranger manager Frank Boucher. Patrick coached the Rangers last year.

Both the Bruins and Rangers are mired in the lower regions of the standings. The Bruins are last with six points and the Rangers fifth with eight points. Both teams have won only one game.

Col. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, said yesterday the winner of the Friday night fight involving Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Billy Graham of New York, would be recognized as the outstanding challenger for the welterweight title.

The crown now is worn by Ray (Sugar) Robinson.

Gloomy Hamilton Tiger-Cats officials said last night it appears certain that halfback Bill Gregus will miss Wednesday's Big Four football finals because of his prior engagement with the United States army.

Gregus has been ordered to report at Toledo, O., at 9 a.m. Wednesday. At 11:15 p.m. the same day, Tiger-Cats square off against Toronto Argonauts, whom they edged 18-17 in the first game of the two-game total-points playoff at Hamilton Saturday.

After a hurry call on the long-distance telephone, club president Ralph Cooper said draft board officials at Toledo were sympathetic but not helpful. It appeared that only an 11th hour reprieve direct from the Pentagon in Washington could help.

Gregus, who attended North Carolina's Wake Forest College, had enrolled for an extension course at McMaster University here. He was granted a draft deferment several weeks ago but Friday received notice to report.

Tiger-Cats have a replacement handy for their plunging ace in Merle Hapes, the former New York Giants back who coached Hamilton Tigers last season. He has been working out with the team as assistant backfield coach and is in good playing shape.

Detroit Tigers announced yesterday the signing of southpaw relief pitcher Earl (Lefty) Johnson, 31-year-old former Boston Red Sox hurler whom they picked up as a free agent.

Johnson pitched for Boston's Louisville farm club in the American Association season, winning seven games and losing six.

Subsequently he was given his outright release and made free to deal for himself for a new job.

President Halon Mizener of Winnipeg Blue Bombers said last night he won't know until Wednesday whether the 1950 Western champions will leave for the east and the Grey Cup final in Toronto Nov. 25.

"We expect to have all this information after the Big Four final Wednesday," he said. "We hope to train as close as possible to Toronto."

The amiable Bomber president added: "One thing is sure—we'll be flying down."

Canada's junior East-West final will be played in Hamilton Saturday, Ivan Fitton, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union's junior committee, announced yesterday.

Hamilton Junior Tiger Cats, defending Dominion champions who eliminated Montreal N.D.G. 22-7 Saturday, will meet either Winnipeg Eight Industry or Vancouver Blue Bombers. These two teams play a sudden-death game for the Western Canada title at Winnipeg tomorrow night.

Whether the junior final will be an afternoon or night game depends on whether Hamilton's senior Tiger Cats get into the Eastern Canada senior final. If they do and play in Hamilton Saturday, the junior game will be a floodlight contest.

Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League will be managed next year by Al Vincent manager of the Tulsa club in the Texas League, the Buffalo Evening News said yesterday.

The Texas club said Vincent's signing would seal a new working agreement with Cincinnati Reds.

Three Centres For Toronto Leafs Providing Punch

Montreal, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs today hold a comfortable lead in the National Hockey League standing, and no small credit is due centres Max Bentley, Cal Gardner and Ted Kennedy who hold down the three top scoring positions.

The Leafs, who have lost but two of the 14 games played to date, have 21 points, four more than the second - place Detroit Red Wings. Chicago Black Hawks trail the Wings by one point, with Montreal Canadiens coming next with 12. New York Rangers, with eight points, and Boston Bruins, with six, round out the standing.

In the individual scoring race, Bentley picked up one goal and four assists last week to bring his total to 11 in five more than Gardner and Kennedy.

Maynard of Montreal, top goal scorer with nine markers to his credit, made little headway and blunted the attack is tied for fourth spot with Tod Sloan of Toronto and Gerdie Howe of Detroit with 13 points.

However, Sawchuk only allowed four goals in three games this week, giving him the best goals-against record in the league. In 14 games, the lanky rookie has let 20 pucks get past him for an average of 1.67.

Toronto also holds the rather dubious record of being the most penalized team in the league with 157 minutes spent in the penalty box.

League bad man is Tony Leswick of New York, who has served 26 minutes, two more than Fern Flaman of Boston.

Don Oberholtzer Given Release Dutchmen Claim

Kitchener, Nov. 14 (CP) — Officials of the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen said yesterday that Don Oberholtzer was given his release weeks ago by a representative of the North Sydney Victorias.

They were replying to a claim by Maritime Amateur Hockey Association that Oberholtzer ignored a signed contract with the Victorias. The association is asking the C.A.H.A. to suspend the Kitchener-Waterloo forward.

Oberholtzer got into action last week for the first time this season after a brief operation. Manager Bob Bauer said today that the player had been signed for North Sydney by Howard (Swat) Mason, Ontario representative of the club.

Later, when the Flying Dutchmen decided to operate this season, Mason was said to have assured Bauer and Oberholtzer that he was in the clear and granted him a release.

Winnipeg Bombers Climb From Last Place to One Year To Take Western Title

Winnipeg, Nov. 14—CP—From last place to the top of the heap.

That's the jump Winnipeg Blue Bombers completed yesterday as they knocked off Edmonton Eskimos 29-8 in the deciding game of the western football union's best-of-three final in Osborne Stadium. Eska had won the first game, 17-14, but the Bombers came back Saturday to win 22-13 and force the final game.

Last year Winnipeg finished a poor last in the four-team league. Under coach Frank Larson for a second year, the 1950 Bombers bounced back easily to top the league standing. Then they set back as Edmonton and Saskatchewan Roughriders battled for the other playoff berth.

Now the Bombers can sit back and await their eastern opponent in the Grey Cup final in Toronto Nov. 25. Three teams—Toronto Argonauts, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Toronto Balmy Beach—still are in the running in the east. Bombers' departure date is not yet set.

Displaying power in every department yesterday, Bombers took a 20-7 half-time lead, then coasted the remainder of the way.

A solid Bomber line gave the backs good protection in the opening half enabling them to run up their decisive margin. The forward wall then smashed through to stop the Edmonton attack before it got rolling in the last half.

Quarterback Indian Jack Jacobs, formerly of Green Bay Packers, topped Bombers' scoring parade with 13 points on two touchdowns and three deadline kicks. Tom Casey and Tommy Ford were the other majors. Joe Aguirre converted three of the four touchdowns. He also accounted three other points when placement attempts went wild or short and rolled to the deadline.

The Stukus brothers combined for Edmonton's six points—Bill scoring the touchdown in the third quarter, and coach Annis booting the convert.

Over in Nine Plays

There seemed little doubt as to the outcome after the first four minutes of play. Bombers marched downfield after taking the kickoff. In nine plays they were over the Eskimo goal line for a touchdown by Jacobs. Aguirre converted.

Before the first quarter ended, Jacobs booted a 50-yard single. Aguirre's field-goal attempt was wide for another point; and Casey plunged eight yards for a touchdown, converted by Aguirre.

With Jacobs calling the brilliant game from the T-formation, Bombers made the only score in the second quarter. Jacobs went over from one yard out after Casey had moved the ball into scoring position with two brilliant off-tackle smashes. Aguirre again converted.

Statistics show that Bombers had a wide edge in the play in the first half, with Jacobs completing 10 of his 13 pass attempts for 102 yards. Four more were thrown in the last half, with three going incomplete and the other intercepted. Bombers moved the yardsticks 13 times in the first half, compared to Edmonton's five.

Edmonton made their best showing in the third quarter when they got their lone converted touchdown and had six first downs to Bombers' one. Their downfield attack was sparked by quarterback Lindy Berry, former passing ace for Texas Christian. He completed nine of 12 passes for 105 yards in the quarter.

Two Other Imports

Generally on the receiving end were two other imports ends Morris Bailey and Rollin Prather. Scatback Doug Fryer, former Toronto Argo, also turned in some brilliant running.

Winnipeg's third quarter touchdown, prior to Edmonton's score was a gift. On a reverse play, Bob Paffrath tried a lateral to Fryer but the ball went wide. Speedy Tommy Ford picked up the ball in stride and roared goalwards without a hand being laid on him. Aguirre's convert missed, but Bombers led 25-0.

The Eskimos never quit trying, and were finally rewarded when Berry-to-Bailey pass ended on Winnipeg's one-yard line. Bill Stukus plunged over for the major. Annis entered the game for the first time to boot the extra point.

It was Bombers along the ground for Eskimos through the air in the fairly-evenly-matched last quarter. But it was Winnipeg who capitalized, scoring four points on two deadline kicks apiece by Jacobs and Aguirre.

Booing Does not Affect Riding Of Hot Jockey

Baltimore, Nov. 14—AP—"The more they boo me, the better I like it," said Joe Culmone. "It makes me ride harder, better, want to win more."

Apparently the 9,873 fans at Pimlico race track yesterday weren't aware of this. For the 18-year-old Sicilian, hottest jockey on the east coast, failed to win with any of his six mounts, five of which were either favorites or co-favorites.

There wasn't a murmur of disapproval for Culmone on any of his trips back to the unsaddling enclosure. Race followers are notoriously fickle, but this crowd obviously felt that if Culmone couldn't win with a horse no rider could.

The shutout was an unusual experience for the 107-pound youngster, who came to the United States after the war and has been riding regularly less than two years.

What made it particularly disappointing was his failure to gain round on Willie Shoemaker, with whom he is battling for the 1950 National Riding Championship.

Performing at Hollywood Park, Shoemaker has surpassed Johnny Longden's mother's record of 919 victories, set in 1948, and now has 926.

Shooting for Record

Culmone has been to the winner's circle 219 times this year and is confident he'll overtake Willie. What he's really shooting for is the all-time record of 388 wins established in 1906 by Walter Miller.

He has 41 more days of racing at Pimlico, Bowie and Tropical Park in which to do the trick.

As for the boos that weren't there yesterday, Culmone thinks that they might have helped.

"I remember one day at Goldstream when I finished out of the money in four straight races. Boy, did they boo me! So I just came back and won the next four."

When the dark-haired youth arrived in U. S., he had some visions of gaining fame as a prize fighter. He had gone only a little riding on the farm back in Sicily.

He changed his mind while lounging in a pool room one day. A radio blared the description of a horse race. Just learning to speak English, Joe asked for an explanation of the broadcast.

When he got it, Culmone declared: "I ride horses."

And any horseman who's seen him will tell he does—just about as well as any rider to hit American tracks in recent history.

Seattle Approved As Site for Gold Cup Race

Boulder City, Nev., Nov. 14—AP—The American Powerboat Racing Association approved Seattle last night as the site for its 1950 Gold Cup trophy race.

This will be the first time the event, which corresponds to auto racing's memorial day classic, has been staged west of Detroit. It is scheduled for August. The invitation was extended by the Seattle Yacht Club.

The association wound up its convention here without taking action on a proposal to eliminate multi-engined gold cup boats from its competitions.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Carl Johnson of Detroit, chairman of the Gold Cup Racing Commission, said rule changes were being considered which would limit Gold Cup boats to 2,500-cubic-inch displacement.

Bob McFarlane Leading Scorer Of Intercollegiate

Toronto, Nov. 14—(CP)—Bob McFarlane of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs is the individual scoring champion of the Intercollegiate Senior Football Union for the second time.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that the big backfielder, the college leader in 1947, topped the union this season with 39 points. He got five Saturday as the intercollegiate schedule ended.

This is the final year at Western for McFarlane, member of the Canadian Olympic team in 1948 and holder of the Canadian 440-metre record. In his six games he scored three touchdowns, three field goals three singles and 12 converts.

Fred Wilmot of the McGill Redmen, who comes from Calgary, ranked second to McFarlane with 30 points. A place-kicking expert, he got his points on one touchdown, two field goals, two singles and 17 converts.

Fred Irving, another McGill player from Calgary, stood third with 20 points on four touchdowns.

Ab Demarco Far Ahead in Scoring Race

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Ab Demarco, veteran playmaker of the Buffalo Bisons, is far ahead of the field in the race for individual scoring honors in the American Hockey League. In 16 games, the 34-year-old ignite has scored 15 goals and assisted in 17 others for 32 points—an average of two points a game.

Last season, in 70 games, Demarco piled up 94 points to finish second behind Cleveland's Les Douglas, who tallied 100 points last year. Douglas now is in a six-way tie for 12th place with 17 points.

Demarco holds a nine-point edge over three rivals—Kelvin Burnett of Springfield, George Sullivan of Hershey and Jackie Gordon of Cincinnati, who have 23 points each.

Among the goaltenders, Pittsburgh's Gil Mayer is the leader with a goals-against average of 2.33. The five-foot-six defenseman has allowed only 33 goals in 15 games. Harvey Bennett of Providence has the most shutouts, two.

Ray Garlepy of Hershey has spent the most time in the penalty box, 85 minutes.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Elva Tythe says she knows her bid replies. Also that the order of choice of bids is T-A-N; take-out, assist, no-trump. What bothers her now, it seems, is what to do after the first round.

An opening of two in a suit is forcing to game. With no sure stick, responder first replies with two no-trump. This much is now well known. But what does responder do next?

On all subsequent rounds he follows T-A-N until game is reached. If he has a biddable suit he shows it. Without such he insists if he has support. With neither he bids three no-trump.

South opens with a bid of two hearts when north has this hand:

♠K J 9 8 7
♥6 4
♦K 6 3
♣8 6 5 3 2

Lacking a sure trick, the first north reply is two no-trump. It does not deny a biddable suit. It does not deny support for hearts. It it does is deny having a sure trick somewhere in the hand.

Having thus given this signal, north is not released from any further bidding. He must help continue to a game contract of some kind. He then follows T-A-N.

Suppose the second bid by south was three no-trump. Since this is a game contract, north could pass if he had nothing more to show. But he would takeout to four spades to show his biddable suit.

This being a game contract, south would pass. Unless he saw a chance to make slam with the aside suit promised by north. But except a slam, he did not say why? The north first reply was two no-trump. This was a definite tip that north had no sure trick. It was a warning that south must not ignore. Clear signals are sufficient to make a pair efficient.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 14—(AP) — Hollywood is making a picture behind guarded doors.

Does this sound familiar to you? Hollywood is often making secret pictures. The unkind might add that some of them should be kept a secret.

The latest picture to be made under atomic-plant security is called "The Thing". What is "The Thing"? Ah, that's why the picture is a secret.

I was the first outsider permitted on the set. Having signed my loyalty oath, I was ushered in.

The entire cast was recruited from unknowns. They were gathered in rapt attention around the thing that is "The Thing". To get onto the set I had to agree not to describe the thing in print.

So that's what "The Thing" is. For some priceless details, I consulted Howard Hawks, topflight director of such works as "Red River" and "Air Force".

Science Fiction

"The story takes place near the North Pole," he related. "An American settlement, posted to watch for atomic attack, hears a big noise. An expedition goes out to see what it is. They discover a flying saucer from another planet and near it, 'The Thing'. The frozen 'thing' is brought back and a careless soldier throws an electric blanket over it. This thaws it out and 'events start happening.'"

Hawks feels that science fiction offers a chance for Hollywood to escape the overworked plot formulas.

I asked Hawks why he chose an unknown cast.

"Because they are much more believable," he answered. "Besides, unknowns are much more fun to direct."

AT THE BELLE — A romance overshadowed by grim drama draws Barbara Stanwyck and John Lund together in the new film starting today at the Belle. It's Hal Wallis' "Top Man of Her Own," the story of a woman engaged in a desperate masquerade.

AT THE McCARTHY — One of the hardest tasks of T-man Burt Lancaster's life is arresting counterfeiter Edmund Gwenn as lovely Dorothy McGuire looks on in a scene from the poignant 20th. Century-Fox comedy, "Mister 880", opening Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Gwenn plays a junk dealer who counterfeits $1 bills and leads Treasury Agents on the longest, merriest chase in the history of the department.

Five Canadians In Cast of Show At the Gardens

Toronto, Nov. 14. (CP)—At least five Canadians were in the cast of Ice-Capades of 1951 when the skating show opened at Maple Leaf Gardens here last night.

One of the stars was Mary Lou Landreville of Schumacher, Ont., product of the widely-known figure skating training centre at the McIntyre rink in Schumacher. Mary Lou is in her seventh year with the show.

She starred in a comedy routine, penthouse romance, and later played bride in the stuffed' doll number, raggedy rhythm.

Joan Comerford, 21, of Oshawa, Ont., Gertrude Graf, of Kitchener, Ont., and Herb Cowman, of London, were others in the cast. For 16-year-old Patti Pattison of Toronto, it was a special thrill to be playing before hometown friends.

K-W TEAM WINS EASILY

Kitchener, Nov. 14 (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate entered the Western Ontario secondary school senior football semi-finals yesterday with a 38-0 victory over Stratford.

The Scarlet Raiders were in command all through the game and Stratford was unable to carry the ball for a first down. Best Stratford gain was eight yards and even that was nullified by an offside penalty.

Carl Hecquard, Jack Joenig, John Price, Jamie Hall and Arn Bollinger carried touchdowns for the winners who now play London Beck here Saturday in a sudden-death semi-final.

No Examination Prior to Fight Says Promoter

Antigonish, N. S., Nov. 14 (CP) — Gillis MacKinnon, promoter of a fatal boxing match near here Nov. 4, testified at an inquest yesterday there was no medical examination before the bout.

Alexander Childon, 24-year-old middleweight, died in hospital several hours after being knocked out in the second round of a scheduled six-rounder by Roy Sutherland. Both men weighed 150 pounds and hailed from nearby villages.

(Nova Scotia's two Boxing Commissions have jurisdiction over Halifax and industrial Cape Breton. There is no authority to regulate bouts in this area).

Two of Chisholm's brothers — Charles and Joseph — said he had complained of headaches and sore ribs before the fight. They said he was involved in a car accident previously and his family had asked him not to enter the fight.

The inquest was adjourned to Friday.

TEACHERS HELPED

Orangeville, Ont. — (CP) — Teachers helped build Orangeville's $350,000 high school to be officially opened on Jan. 1. Principal H. Cline and four teachers worked as laborers, bricklayers and electricians to help out during a shortage of labor.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Very promising indications for intelligent, honest and earnest effort in trade, industry, profession. Student, teacher, scientist, journalist, critic and government officials honored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Abundant friendly rays today but there is a warning from Saturn's aspect not to make drastic changes involving heavy expenditures or much change unless necessary. Occupational work advances.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Another fine day in a generous Gemini-month. Writers, advertisers, promoters of worth while projects and ideas, researchers in mid-dlyine, science, the military among many favored now.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Moon, Mercury and the Sun in excellent aspects present a bright picture for sincere efforts, your general assets and talents. Be wisely careful making changes, decisions.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Should be a productive, encouraging day. Be enthused. Make good use of every minute, advantage, heed astute advice, don't be averse to helpful criticism. Show your winning smile.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—Very intriguing, friendly aspects. This day offers all mental workers new incentive to expand, improve knowledge. A day for personal gain in business and private interests.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Perhaps not all favorable for purely private interests but stimulating, helpful day for general matters. Manufacturing, transporting and handling military, government needs top ranking.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio)—Today is a benefic one between days that stress great need for caution, patience, economizing. Extend yourself some now, make strides in your daily work; plan, too, for future gains.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter sill in tendency presages a time for some extra effort on your part for fulsett returns. Other planets are benefic and it can be most productive, gainful period.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)— Delicate work in medicine, science, surgery; handling tools, machinery, airplanes, vehicles under fine aspects. Study, care of health, interest in public welfare freshly stimulated.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius)—Your planet Uranus now spurs the heeding or restrictions about, sudden decisions, changes in plans or usual routine. A day for steady progress but not for spasmodic extremes.

February 21 to March 20— (Pisces)—Bright, promising outlook. Your special interests and occupation especially favored with general matters concerning home, family. Mars, government, community needs.

You born today have great energy, breaks personality, much talent and capability, yet may be unsteady in temperament, too pictorial at times. You like to gather knowledge. Information about many things, stay to travel and meet people. You are efficient, helpful in emergencies, have a knack for anticipating public needs, family's likes. Can succeed at any honorable work for which you are trained, educated or have a liking. May have talent for writing, mechanics, the stage, screen

Self-control imperative. Birth date: Wm. Pitt, Eng. statesman; Sir Wm. Herschel, noted astronomer; Vincent Astor, financier.

LIFE OF WOULD-BE ASSASSIN IN THEIR HANDS

The U.S. federal grand jury, conducting hearings on the government's request for a murder indictment against Oscar Collazo, one of the two Puerto Rican terrorists who tried to shoot their way into Blair House recently, is shown leaving municipal court in Washington, D.C., on their way to the U.S. district court where they handed Judge Edward Tamm a four-count indictment. They indicted Collazo, who is recovering from a bullet wound in a Washington hospital, on two counts of first degree murder and two counts of felonious assault. The murder indictments are for the fatal shooting of White House Guard Leslie Coffelt. The assault charges, for the wounding of two other guards. — Central Press Canadian.

WORDS OF ARMS AGREEMENT BECOME FACTS

Part of a motorized convoy of approximately 1,000 U.S. troops is shown rolling into France from Germany en route to establish a highly important port supply base at Bordeaux to receive American arms shipments for Europe. This crossing of the frontier was made between Kaiserlauten and Homburg, near Saarbrucken. — Central Press Canadian.

IRANIAN PRINCESS TO WED U.S. MAJOR

Major William Wambold, U. S. air attache at Teheran, Iran, is shown with Princess Guiti Kadjar, niece of former Shah Ahmad, last ruler of the Kadjar dynasty of Persia, to whom the American major is reported engaged. It is understood that the Iranian and U.S. governments have permission for the marriage. Major Wambold, who hails from Lakeport, Cal., is 31, and has been in the U.S. Air Force since 1942. — Central Press Canadian.

P.M. Service

YOUR CAR'S BEST FRIEND

The one, sure way to avoid expensive repair bills is to detect and correct "little" troubles before they have a chance to develop into big ones. That's the money-saving, worry-saving idea behind the *Preventive Maintenance service your Ford-Monarch Dealer and your Mercury-Lincoln-Meteor Dealer offers you. P.M. Service means more than chassis lubrication and an oil-change . . . it means that every vital part of your car is checked and double-checked by your dealer's expert servicemen, using factory-approved equipment, factory-approved methods and Genuine Ford Parts.

P.S.—IMPORTANT! . . . If you haven't yet had your car or truck winterproofed, see your Ford of Canada dealer for Complete 5-Way Winterizing Service! Drive in today . . . then drive with confidence and comfort all winter long!

*Preventive Maintenance spots "trouble" before it happens . . . saves you money . . . saves your car!

N. Zealand Seeks National Dish

Aukland, N.Z. CP — Complaints of poor cooking standards in New Zealand have led to a search for a national dish. So little originality has been shown. Nearly half or a large number of people admit preferred meat lunch, mint sauce, new potatoes and green peas.

Restaurant proprietors declared scurvy list steak and eggs was about as far as the average New Zealand imaginative cook would go.

Search for unusual New Zealand dishes has produced these candidates—Toheroa soup, mutton birds and whitebait fritters.

The toheroa is a shellfish which was a favorite with the Maoris. It produces a soup which is rather an acquired taste but which has won unstinted praise from many overseas visitors. There is a regular demand for canned toheroa soup from enthusiasts abroad who have tasted it in New Zealand, but the shellfish occur in only a limited number of places and are not plentiful enough to permit a large trade.

Whitebait are another delicacy favored by the Maoris but which have won favor by Europeans. The birds are species of Petrel. The fat young birds have been a favorite with the Maoris in burrows used as nests. They are smoked and preserved and make a very tasty dish when well cooked to eliminate the fat.

Whitebait fritters consist of about an inch long, are netted from large shoal fish in the estuaries. They are said to be a different species from whitebait sold in other countries and to have a distinctive flavor. Whitebait fritters are a favored delicacy and make large numbers of New Zealanders.

Moscow Says Chinese Sign for A-Bomb Ban

London, Nov. 14 (Reuters) Moscow radio broadcast last night said more than 223,500,000 Chinese people"—about 47 per cent of the population—have signed a Stockholm peace appeal calling for a ban on the atom bomb.

Little Benny's Note Book

We dont have any more dogs in our house on account of pop always having bad luck with the dogs we have fried, poisoned, and some chewing up everything he didnt want chewed up, and one getting sick without getting better, and tonite after supper I was watching him smoking to himself, and I said, Hay pop, our teecher red us a story the other day about a boy being a man's best frend.

Yeah man? pop said, and I said, Any man, I mean you for instance, if he was kind and I

Well, come to think of it, I can think of a lot of ways a dog can help a man, except pop said.

Making me start to feel lucky, I said, Like how, pop, and he said a short haired dog gets short hairs all over a man, and a long haired dog gets long hairs all over him, each according to his ability, so a man has an incentive to keep brushing his clothes, which is certainly a good thly for him.

Me thinking, Heck, and pop said, Also a dog can help a man even more expensive than coffee, a dog could be trained to feed that a man has to cut down on his own food, and that's a splendid thing for a man, and a dog could be trained if a bergler happens to brake in the night, the dog will be as quiet as a mouse so as not to wake the man up and tempt the bergler to murder him, and also a dog has often saved a man's life, pop said.

Well anyways, pop, you know the dog and berry map we got on the evening? I said.

Well I went in there just for luck, and there's a reward for the dog in there and he treeted me just as if he thawt I belonged to him, and I asked the man if he would let me take him home on approval, and he said he would if you wrote him a letter saying you agree to do so. So the man is waiting, I said.

Tell him he'll need all his patience, pop said.

Being the sad end of the subject.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Sindy Eckard's work, notice the bold use of sharp light, they are put in with a palette knife, Constable used that method in his later years as he became increasingly occupied with the expression of light, air and movement."

"How large is the canvas?"

"Thirty one by thirty eight. It follows his style of the early thirties, when his skies are masses of soft, warm gray color, the edges touched with liquid silver. Sinclair delivered the painting yesterday morning, brought it in his car. A Constable sold the other day in England for £5,850. I was so sure the one he offered was genuine that I made him a down payment on it."

"Isn't it the real thing? Blake wouldn't cheat—"

"Sit down again Miss Phillips. Don't get excited, I don't know whether or not it is a genuine Constable, it's gone."

"Gone, was the burglar after that last night?"

"I can't figure it out. If the person who stole it is planning to sell the canvas, he's crazy. The news of the theft will spread through the artistic world, the thief would be apprehended promptly."

"Are you sure you remember where you put the painting?"

"Yes."

"Blake said there was a crowd in the gallery all afternoon."

"He was here!"

"Yes. Mr. Sargent, helping Gene, He stayed till closing time. Have you thought that the Constable might have been carried off by a visitor at the gallery who figured that he, or she, would be supposed to be a purchaser of one of Eckard paintings?"

"That doesn't hold water because it is well known no picture may be taken away while the exhibit is on. I was convinced that the person who took the Constable swiped the Byzantine enamel and the Apostle spoons. Couldn't have happened while Gene was here. Someone broke and entered, was hunting up the painting, or already had found it, when Si arrived, someone who had prepared the way by the faked call to the Digbys. The muddy prints on the kitchen floor and the jump on Si's head prove it."

"That statement ruled out suspicion of the Digbys. Allah be praised. The thief hadn't had to do much breaking and entering with a key on the outside of the kitchen door. Neither she nor Myles had told of Mrs. Betsy's forgetfulness. Why drag her into the line-up? What would be the reaction if he knew that prints taken of the muddy tracks had been stolen? What was the object of this interview behind a closed door? Gave her a creepy feeling that a trap was about to spring. She had told all she knew about the theft last night. He had stopped his restless pacing to come to anchor before her desk. Now what?

"As I told you and Myles Jaffray I don't want a hint of what happened here yesterday to get in the air. With the exception of the thief, you and he, Howlett and I are the only persons who know. Si still thinks he was hit by lightning, just as well to let him believe that for the present. You'll have reason to agree with me when I tell you what we found in the repair shop."

Fran's heart took off to her throat and as speedily grounded. She'd had a premonition that she would be mixed up in this and here it was. Indignation ousted fear.

"Please stop dramatizing, Mr. Sargent. Tell me right off quick what you found in the repair shop—which I'm very evident you believe will 'affect me.'"

In answer he drew from his coat pocket, something covered with soft white paper, carefully unwrapped it. With his hand thrust into the toe, he set a high heeled gold sandal with ankle strap on the desk. It looked like one of the pair she had worn the evening she and Myles Jaffray had sat on the porch and heard the song coming from the boat.

"Yours, Miss Phillips?"

"It looks like mine but there must be other gold sandals in this community. Where did you get it?"

"In your apartment upstairs."

"In my apartment?" Eyes wide with unbelief she stared at him. "Why did you go there? Did you think you would find the enamel box and the spoons?"

"I did not. I told you we would search every crack and cranny, didn't I? We found the prints of a woman's slipper on the dusty floor in the back of the repair shop. Then we looked for a shoe that fitted them and found this."

"You are on an entirely wrong track, Mr. Sargent. I was in the repair shop yesterday, I left here at two o'clock for the Theatre, had been back here about fifteen minutes when I telephoned you what Myles and I found on our return."

"I know all that, I've figured it out. Had you loaned the gold shoes?"

"No, sir."

"I am trusting you to tell me whatever you discover about this, no matter where or to whom . . . remember that, to whom— the trail leads. The sandal prints in dust led to a lot of old frames leaning against the wall. Behind the junk we found—"

"The missing Constable!" she supplied jubilantly, forgetting for the moment that her gold sandal was under suspicion.

"No."

He tapped his eyeglass against his thumb with maddening deliberation, cleared his throat.

"The Apostle spoons."

At the white sink in the sunny kitchen Myles Jaffray attacked the used breakfast dishes. Fran had planned to restore the room to order before the return of the Digbys, but two cars with potential customers had driven in while she was talking with the sheriff which meant that her work for the day in the gallery had begun. It was up to him to take over.

He thought back over the many times when, as a boy, he had washed and dried dishes for the comfort of being near heart-wise mixing Betsy. A motherless kid had moments of loneliness that a child with two parents never experienced. As he dipped cups and saucers into an iridescent, sparkling mountain of suds—she'd given him the dickens for being so lavish with soap flakes — he thought of some of the tragic moments in the last six years when, he had been told that he would again return to the town of his birth, he would have rated the prophecy dream stuff.

A plane roared above the house. His eyes followed its flight over the top of the highest hill until it disappeared. He thought of the day he had jumped into a dense forest on a mountainside to take relief to the crew of a wrecked Flying Fortress that had started for a tough target without benefit of fighter protection. Others had volunteered for the rescue but he wouldn't send one of his men. He had been trained to give more than basic first aid. Added to that, there was one chance in ten that the paratrooper who went down would come through. It was his job. A miss in landing, even a half mile from the crashed plane, might mean hours of wandering through impenetrable forest, if he lasted that long, and death to those to be rescued.

He impatiently mopped his [illegible] en. He and Ken had talked of her and planned so [illegible] she belonged to him. Cup in hand dish towel in the other, he gazed unseeingly at the blue and gold world outside the window. Fran. So that was how it was. Whatever touched her was his concern. He nodded, admitted under his breath:

"That's the way it has been and I didn't know it, that's the way it is, and that is the way it will be—forever." He added aloud: "You've made a quick switch from the past to the future, Mr. Jaffray."

An "Inside Story" about Maple Syrup

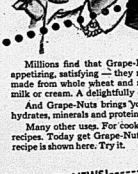
1. Aluminum means a lot to your breakfast! Your griddle-cakes taste better with good maple syrup. And the best syrup is made from sap that is collected in aluminum pails.

2. Maple sap must be well-protected to preserve its delicate flavour. Farmers using aluminum find this "food-friendly" metal preserves colour, taste and flavour perfectly.*

3. Aluminum is used for tapping-pegs, containers and evaporators, too. The increasing use of aluminum in the industry means higher-quality syrup for you.

*Quebec farmers receive Federal and Provincial aid in replacing old-fashioned sap pails with aluminum. Other aluminum members fully conform to all pure-food laws.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE



Natural minerals in food and water immediately discolour aluminum utensils. Natural salts in foods cause this deposit. For example, the iron in spinach leaves a deposit on aluminum; the acid from tomatoes or rhubarb discolours the deposit.

FORMOSA FUTURE HOT PROBLEM FOR U.N.

U.S. Allies Reluctant To Discuss Matter

Lake Success, N.Y., Nov. 15 — (AP) — The United States plans to bring the question of Formosa's future before the United Nations today but no potential American Allies appear willing to pick up this political gunnite.

A spokesman said the U.S. waits to the opinion of other countries on what to do with the big island — last-ditch headquarters of Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist regime and focus point of the serious political battle in the United States.

Chiang's government and the Russians contend that Formosa is Chinese territory and not a subject for U.N. discussion. Russia's Jacob A. Malik said, however, that the delegation would have something to say on the subject.

Spokesmen for several other members made it clear China does have no intention of expressing any opinion until the U.S. explains its plans in regard to Formosa.

The question is scheduled for debate in the 60-country political committee as soon as a vote is taken on a resolution asked for by the return of Greek children, kidnapped during the civil war, to their homes.

American sources said the state department still was working on an 11th-hour policy revision and even after that question comes up formally today, it would keep an open mind.

Opposition to Acheson Grows Behind the Scenes

Washington, Nov. 15 — (AP) — A struggle over Dean Acheson's tenure as secretary of state appeared today to be building up behind the scenes of the Truman administration.

In the aftermath of last week's Democratic election reverses, official informants who cannot be named said that two conflicting lines of advice are being directed toward President Truman. These are:

1. Acheson must go because he is a political liability; and

2. He must be kept in office under Republican fire because to let him go now would jeopardize the foreign policies for which he stands and hurt the President politically.

At the moment there is every indication that Truman does not intend to let the secretary out. Associates say the two maintain a close friendship based on mutual admiration. Acheson himself has declared he has no intention of resigning.

The argument that he should go now, reportedly pressed by Acheson's critics within the Democratic Party, holds that the Congressional elections proved the secretary to be a political handicap and that he lacks popularity if not the confidence of much of the country.

Political observers in touch with sentiment in the Democratic National Committee and among Democratic senators say the weight of opinion in those quarters is against Acheson.

The issue probably will not come to a head until the new Congress with its bigger Republican minority gets under way. What happens then probably will depend on Acheson's ability to get along with Congressional leaders — both Democratic and Republican.

Acheson Urges 'Great Deal of Common Sense'

Washington, Nov. 15—AP—State Secretary Dean Acheson said today that the United States must do everything possible to prevent Communist China's armed intervention in Korea from plunging the world into "a tragedy of the most colossal nature."

Speaking at a conference of representatives of 200 organizations of the state department, Acheson also said that the world is passing through a very, very dangerous period of history which seems to get increasingly dangerous as it develops.

"It seems to me," he continued, "that disaster can be avoided but it can be avoided only if we exercise a great deal of common sense in our policies and in our leadership throughout the world."

Eleven Escape Fire

Brockville, Nov. 15 (CP) — Eleven persons escaped from a fire that swept through the rear section of a double house in the city's central downtown area Tuesday night. None was injured.

The occupants of the building were Borden McConeghey, who discovered the fire; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Burns and their six children age two to 13 years; Sarah Thompson and Florrie Veley.

Groombridge, England, Nov. 15 (AP)—Khalifa Ali Fadel, 52-year-old Egyptian servant, found himself a country gentleman in this Sussex village tonight — because he kept his promise.

As a boy of 17 in Cairo he asked two English spinsters for employment—but had no references.

"I told them my word was my bond and I would serve them well," Khalifa recalled.

He was engaged for £5 ($25) a month, and kept his promise for 35 years — doing the cooking, housework, washing and ironing — until the second of the two Englishmen, Miss Emmeline Hodge, died recently.

When Miss Hodge's will was opened, Khalifa found that he had been left the bungalow where the trio had lived since they left Egypt in 1924. In addition he left the interest on investments of £9,400.

Although Khalifa plans to go on living in the house, he will change his kitchen and does not use the rooms in which he served the ladies their meals.

More Initiative Urged by Editors In News Reports

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15—(AP)—United States newspaper men were urged today to use more initiative in reporting and to stop excessive reliance on the flood of "handouts" from government press agencies.

A criticism of government press releases was contained in a report to the 17th national meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association. The report was prepared by a subcommittee on domestic news. V. M. Newton, Jr., of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune and Herald, was chairman.

Newton's group called for more "digging" and less dependence on handouts to get all the facts—not just the facts that government officials want to give the public.

500 Attend

The convention, expected to draw around 500 managing editors from throughout the United States, opened business sessions here this morning and will continue through Saturday.

Russell Brines, who heads AP's Korean war staff, was today's principal scheduled speaker. Brines is chief of the AP bureau in Tokyo and accompanied Gen. MacArthur on his trips to the Korean war front.

The veteran war correspondent said in an interview yesterday that Americans are hoping to avoid war with communist China while, in reality, the war already is underway.

"The American public hardly realizes—and it must realize—that the fighting in Korea is now a large-scale war against communist China," Brines declared.

Mountaineers Start Climb To Recover Broken Bodies Of Pilgrims Crash Victims

Corps, France, Nov. 15. (CP)— Crack French Alpine mountaineers, warmly outfitted against the cold, started the arduous climb up Mont O'Blieu today to recover the broken bodies of 56 Canadians and two others whose plane was ripped apart Monday on the wind-swept crags of the French Alps.

Rain and hail, which had hindered search operations yesterday and Monday, abated during the night and the peak where the four-engined Skymaster crashed could be seen from the village of Croix de Pigne.

Local mountain guides pointed out long streaks of oil shining in the sun, near the place where villagers said they heard an explosion just before the chartered DC-4 plunged into the mountain.

"Pieces of Bodies"

Search parties found the wreckage of the plane yesterday. They said little remained but "pieces of bodies" of the 49 Canadian Holy Year pilgrims, seven Canadian crew members, an Italian priest and a stewardess.

At first party of 80 will bring the bodies down to Pignes, while another group will go down to the Corps-la-Salette, from where they will be brought to this little French Alpine village.

During the night French army trucks and radio cars took up positions in surrounding villages to await the bodies.

A mountain-climbing expert said last night it would take six climbers to bring down each body. All should be at Pignes by nightfall. It will take the burial party five hours to climb from Corps.

Cables Used

Eugene Pelissier, postman of the tiny mountain hamlet of Palafol, and 70 other mountaineers were making today's first attempt. It was planned to lower the bodies 1,200 feet by means of cables used for sending logs down to the valley.

They were to be followed by 60 more mountaineers, while another 60 went to La Croix de Pignes to prepare the church to receive the bodies.

Hardy rescuers yesterday grouped through snow and fog to reach the scattered remains of the plane on the desolate 8,000-foot mountain. They called off operations when treacherous weather threatened their safety after they had reported "No survivors."

Argonauts Lead Tigers 16-0 At Half Time On Greasy Field

Toronto Argonauts led the Hamilton Tiger-Cats 16-0 at the end of the half in the sudden death playoff game for the Big Four championship at Varsity Stadium this afternoon.

First Quarter

Brown fumbled at the Hamilton six and Westlake scooped up the ball to carry it over. The touchdown was called back, however, because Whaley blocked out a Hamilton player, Whaley made up for it quickly, scoring the successive forwards from Dekdebrun, the second over the goal-line. Volpe converted the touchdown, making it 6-0 for Argos.

Stocks intercepted a Heath forward at the 31 and raced to the Tiger-Cats 20. On third down Volpe kicked a perfect place-ment from a wide angle at the 25, making it 9-0 for Argos as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

Hamilton, still trying to move the yardsticks for the first time couldn't get either a ground or pass attack started. Heath punted to midfield. Don Scott gathered in a Dekdebrun forward, stealing the ball out of McDonald's hands for a 16-yard gain to the Hamilton 29. Two plunges netted a rouge, putting the Argo lead to 10-0.

A blocked kick by Wedley led to a second Argo touchdown. The ball bounded off the Argo end into touch at the Hamilton 11, giving Argos possession with a 10-yard penalty. Dekdebrun hit Toogood with a nine-yard forward. Curly plunged for three, then Dekdebrun found Toogood again and he lateraled to the payoff. Volpe converted, making it 16-0 for Argos in the game 27-13 in the series

KOREAN FORCES FUTURE CAUSES SPLIT OPINIONS

U.S. Officers Disagree On Communist Intent

BY HAL BOYLE

Chongchon River front, Korea, Nov. 15—AP—American officers are in sharp disagreement over what the future holds for United Nations forces in Korea.

One general officer said he feared the Chinese communists were mounting an offensive drive on the former North Korean capital of Pyongyang which would chop up the U.N. forces and split them in the middle.

Another officer predicted the war would be over by Dec. 1. A third said that if the reds cannot achieve a diplomatic victory then the Chinese will continue fighting throughout the winter.

The situation was a puzzle throughout the army, with a guessing game going on over the outcome.

Col. Ernest V. Holmes said he believed the war would be ended during the first week in December—and was willing to be quoted.

"I doubt that we will ever go near the Manchurian border," he said. "Some damn fool might cross it and cause trouble."

Lt. Col. Jack Shuster said, however:

"There is a possibility the Chinese are shifting to the centre of our line for a drive on Pyongyang and a full-scale effort to outflank the western half of our front."

He said the reds may be holding positions on the Chongchon River front merely to give time for an offensive drive.

Many military men feel the war has now become a diplomatic battle which could easily develop into a third world war—if the Chinese come into North Korea in full force.

A general said he believes the Americans on the Chongchon River front could drive forward 10 to 15 miles without meeting material enemy resistance. Then he added:

"The reds have nothing to lose at all to gain by keeping the Chinese fighting us."

He concluded that if the Russians and Chinese communists can achieve a decisive diplomatic victory then "we will close the war amicably."

Plane Found Wrecked Contained Six Bodies

Oklahoma City, Nov. 14 (AP) —Highway patrol headquarters said today a Forest Ranger reported finding the wreckage of an airplane and six bodies in an isolated mountain area in Eastern Oklahoma near the Arkansas border. The ranger, Paul Boyd, 14, said last night he heard a plane crash in the area.

NOTED LUTHERAN DIES

St. Louis, Nov. 15 (AP) — Rev. Dr. Theodore Graebner, 73, noted Lutheran educator and author, died here today. He was a professor at Concordia Seminary here for 25 years and editor of the Lutheran Witness from 1914 to 1948 and the author of more than 90 works . . . including religious treatises and handbooks, church histories, biographies, essays and articles for encyclopedias.

Midnight Curfew In 'Lounges' Is Considered

Toronto, Nov. 15—(CP) — A midnight curfew for liquor sale in all dining lounges in Ontario is reported under consideration by the Ontario Liquor Licence Board. They now close at 2 a.m.

All licences come up for renewal next March 31, and the midnight shutdown could be made general at that time.

Premier Frost declined comments today on government plans in this regard, but said the licences issued recently for places in which liquor is sold with meals have contained the midnight closing restriction.

Dundas Refused Power to Annex Adjacent Area

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP) Application of the town of Dundas to annex 965 acres of Wentworth township was refused today by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The Board found that residents in the area are practically unanimous against the annexation and in its decision said "it must be taken for granted that an annexation should bring some measure of benefit to the owners of the residents on the lands to be annexed, and these owners must be considered fairly good judges as to that."

It found that certain areas close to the town possibly should be annexed but town authorities did not seem to be satisfied with anything but the full amount of land applied for.

Australian's Love for Jap Girl Surmounts Opposition

Tokyo, Nov. 15 (Reuters)— Weeping all through the ceremony, Frank Weaver, the Australian who wants to be a Japanese, married his Japanese wife the second time today because the Australian government would not recognize his first Japanese-style wedding.

He was brought up before a border police scort and taken back to jail to continue serving his one year sentence for entering Japan illegally.

The story of Weaver's love for Japan and his determination to return to his Japanese wife has aroused widespread sympathy here. It has become almost an issue now, for Weaver's conviction of illegal entry into Japan dates from his sixth attempt to rejoin her.

He married the girl while serving with the British occupation force two years ago. Four times he tried to come back and failed. The fifth time he was arrested and deported.

Deportation—fees him again when he has served his sentence.

Jet Engines to Ward Off Ice Will Go into All-Weather Fighter

BY JAMES J. STREBIG

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 15. (AP)— The first jet engines equipped to ward off ice and also carrying an all-weather fighter guard will go into a new all-weather fighter, the General Electric company announced today with Air Force permission.

The engine is the North American F-86D (formerly known as F-93), a modification of the F-86 Sabre, holder of the world speed record at 671 miles an hour.

The F-86D has a redesigned nose incorporating radar for searching out an enemy in the air. The fuselage has been lengthened to permit an afterburner or jet booster in the tail. Such boosters add as much as 40 per cent more power.

The engine, the General Electric J-47-17, has several new features announced at the first public showing of the company's jet engine laboratory and production facilities. These include:

An electronic control system which designers said gives the pilot "finger-tip control" of both the engine and the afterburner.

Hot-air heating of critical parts in the nose of the engine to eliminate the danger of loss of power due to icing.

The new engine is expected to give the F-86D extra power for interception operations, which call for a high rate of climb.

Commies Reported Still Withdrawing Toward Manchuria

Allies on Shores of Korea's Two Largest Reservoirs

Seoul, Nov. 15 (AP) —United Nations troops advanced cautiously over the frozen battlefields of North Korea today against negligible opposition.

South Korean troops ran into the only heavy fight in a sawtoothed gap for a couple of hills on the western front near Tokchon.

American Korean troops reached the shores of North Korea's two largest reservoirs which produce power also for Manchuria. They sent patrols inside the ancient walled city of Yongwon and probed out in front of their lines. The Commonwealth 27th Brigade advanced half a mile and patrols entered Pakchon on the northwest front.

They found well-prepared but abandoned defences, with signs that Chinese communist troops only had left them. Some points were abandoned so hurriedly that munitions and supplies were left behind.

An intelligence spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said he had no idea why the Chinese were abandoning their positions.

A U.S. 1st corps spokesman on the western front said the Chinese are using North Koreans as a screen to fight U.N. troops while Chinese reds prepare stronger defence lines to the rear. He said Chinese officers are regrouping remnants of the North Korean Army into effective fighting units.

There was no explanation of why little or no opposition was encountered around the great Changjin and Pujon reservoirs. Defence of these two vital dams had been cited as one probable reason Chinese red troops poured into Korea.

Parka-clad U.S. Marines, wending through gorges so narrow that their artillery could not follow, took Hagru at the southern tip of Changjin reservoir without opposition.

Hauled-on Sleds

To the northeast the U.S. 7th division's 31st Regiment hauled its guns and supplies on sleds in the northern snowy shores of Pujon reservoir.

The 7th Division's 17th Regiment ran into some artillery, mortar and rifle fire in a twomile advance into Kapsan, it within 28 miles of the Manchurian border on the road to Kanggye. One U.S. tank was knocked out.

But Maj-Gen. David Barr, division commander said:

"The biggest enemy is cold, miserable cold and bad weather."

Temperatures as low as six degrees above zero have frozen much of the battlefront. The forecast was warmer Friday with perhaps the first general snowfall of the season this weekend.

But the war didn't wait for the weather to warm up.

Thirty B-29s fire-bombed Hoeryong in northeastern Korea, northernmost target of the war.

An air spokesman said the communications and military supply base, once a major link in Japan's military network in Korea, was left a mass of smoke and flames.

Hoeryong is a city of 450,000 on the Manchurian border. It is the hub of five highways linking Manchuria with Korean seaports, mining areas, and the present snow-covered northeastern battlefront.

Fifth Air Force pilots said they killed about 700 communists in strafing and rocket attacks in support of the South Korean 6th and 8th divisions on the western front.

Anglican Primate 'Seriously Ill'

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP)-Most Rev. George F. Kingston, Primate of the Church of England in Canada and Archbishop of Nova Scotia, is "seriously ill," hospital attendants said today.

Condition of the 61 - year - old Primate who suffered a heart attack Monday while here for the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Churches, was unchanged from yesterday."

Cubist Painting Hung Sideways

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—AP—Artist Stuart Davis' painting at the city art museum's Missouri exhibition and quickly spotted his error—hung sideways.

Perturbed, he pointed out that he had clearly marked "top" on the back of the painting. Officials said they had noticed this but titled the work better on its side.

The painting which brought the conflicting views was a cubist artist's conflict in water.

It did not win a prize.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 15 (CP) Snapshot Warm humid air from the Gulf of Mexico spread in Western Ontario early this morning bringing rain, closely skies and warmer temperatures. The rain is quite general across south and north central Ontario and is expected to change to shower type of precipitation and move northeastward across the lower part of the province.

BRIGHT FLASH LIGHTS SKY SAYS YOUTH

Bruce Cannon, 282 John Street, was walking across the Catholic School grounds, Monday night 7:25 and all of a sudden, he tells the Ontario Intelligencer, a bright flash of light lit up the sky. Bruce says that the light streaked across the sky from the east, and only lasted a few seconds.

He's positive it happened, and says that for a short period, it was just like daylight.

SCHOOLGIRL ESCAPES INJURY IN ACCIDENT

Thirteen-year-old Marion Rowland, 178 Bleecker Ave., escaped with little more than a shaking up this morning when she rode her bicycle into the side of a passing car at the intersection of Bridge and Church Streets. The girl was taken to the office of Dr. George Faulkner for examination and later continued on to school.

Robert Hart, R.R. 1 Belleville, was proceeding south on Church Street and after stopping for the stop sign was proceeding across Bridge when the westbound 10 o'clock Grafted into the rear fender of his car, Mr. Hart got the girl in his car and took her to the doctor's office where it was said she had suffered no serious injury.

LOCAL MAN GIVES POLICE MERRY CHASE

A man giving his name as Ronald Pushie, 165, Church Street, led police a chase early this morning before he sought refuge in the washroom of the local restaurant. He was apprehended as he emerged and arrested on a vagrancy charge.

Earlier the officer had seen Pushie in the back alley of a Front Street business place and, as he knew about the condition the man he broke into a run, eventually darting into the restaurant.

Still earlier the man had been seen at a K. of C. bingo and when he avoided we gave a good account of himself was asked to remain until police arrived. He is then believed to have disappeared down a fire escape leading from the washroom window only to be seen in the alley by police.

BARTON CRONK HEADS MILK PRODUCERS GROUP

Barton Cronk was named president of the Prince Edward Concentrated Milk Producers at their annual banquet held Monday night at the Presbyterian Church in Picton. Approximately 100 members and their wives attended. Harold Noxon was elected secretary.

Directors appointed were: Sam Deeter, Milford; Lorne Hall; Herb Creasy, North Marysburgh; Howard Dulmage, South Marysburgh; Lorne Hall, Ameliasburgh; Branscombe, Hallowell; Rae Ferguson, Hillier; Clark Sprung, Hamburg. Milton McCartney was named auditor.

BLOCKED PIPES CAUSE OF EXPLOSION

Failure of a Gordon Street resident to have the oil stove serviced before the cold spell of last fall was believed responsible for a run for the local fire department, reports Fire Chief Ellis, after that carbon had built up in the pipes with the result that fumes could not escape and an explosion resulted, damaging the pipes and causing a new set to be bought. The damage was caused except to the pipes and a hurry-up call to the hardware store remedied matters.

Builders Hear History of Architecture

William A. Watson, local architect, spoke to the monthly meeting of the Belleville and district Builders' Exchange in Latimer's Town Room last night, and traced the history of architecture throughout the ages, and explained an architect is and does.

The term architect has been used to describe the master builder since the dawn of history," Mr. Watson said. "Throughout the early civilizations of Egypt, Greece and Rome, architecture was an art, in honor as the "mother of the arts."

Mr. Watson told of the rebirth of the art during the 15th century, and its influence on the architecture of today. The future of architecture promises to be no less spectacular than the breath-taking achievements of the past," he said.

The architect works close to centres of population, and in Canada in 1949, 1220 architects had registered with their provincial associations. Less than one-third were women. Ontario and Quebec have the bulk of the total, with New Brunswick the distinction of having the fewest registered architects.

Science of Construction

"Architecture is the science of construction and the fine art of building," he said. "The architect first determines the owner's needs and then, in his words, 'prepares sketches of the layout and exterior in order to give the client a clear idea of his solution to the problem. The next step is the preparation of working drawings for the use of the ajse nature of the work, the materials to be used, and the methods of construction.

After the tenders are called and the contract signed, throughout the construction period "the architect gives his personal attention to the work." He visits the site regularly for inspection, and must exercise the impartial judge between the interests of the owner and contractor.

The governing body in architecture in Canada is the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada (R.A.I.C.), a federation of provincial associations. Each of these associations have powers to establish rules and regulations governing professional conduct and to examine the qualifications of applicants for registration as architects.

Creative Art

The architect must be at once a creative artist, a practical scientist and a business man," Mr. Watson said, "A thoroughly sound knowledge of scholarship in language, mathematics and science" is required for those who wish to take a university course in architecture. Recognition as an architect is possible without the university course, but it is a long road.

"It is the ambition of every architect to leave some lasting building," he said. "From the first thinking on a project through the completion of the many months, and sometimes years, pass by, but throughout the whole period, the desire for a faultless project persists."

Chairman for the meeting was Fred Eigle.

Refuses to Ransom Britons by Turning Over Refugee

London, Nov. 15 — (AP)—Britain has refused to "ransom" an RAF officer and an Army private held captive in East Germany by turning a Russian officer refugee over to the Russians, the Foreign Office announced today.

The British Ambassador in Moscow "will continue to press" for the release of Flt. Lt. J. W. Driver and Pte. John Brunt, held by Russian authorities for more than nine weeks.

The British Office said Russian authorities "intimated that their return would be facilitated by the surrender of a certain Soviet army lieutenant who had deserted from the Soviet forces in Germany."

Driver made a forced landing in the Soviet zone Sept. 5. Brunt, a guard on a military freight train, was accidentally left behind after the train halted in the Soviet zone.

Union Applies For Consent To Prosecute

An application for consent to prosecute the Belleville Lock Company and the Belleville Artisans Company has been made to the Ontario Labor Relations Board by Local 532 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. It was stated today by Glenn Bedell, president of the Local.

In the application for consent to prosecute the union alleges that the Belleville Lock Company and the Belleville Artisans Co. have conspired to deprive their employees of their right to belong to the Union or their choice, and have conspired to lock out the employees during a term of collective agreement, and have sought by intimidation and coercion to compel the employees to refrain from continuing to be members of the Union.

Local 532 of the U.E.W. also charges that the Belleville Lock Company and Belleville Artisans have conspired to violate the collective bargaining agreement.

Mr. Bedell stated that the union was pressing for a reconvening of the conciliation board and that an early hearing was expected.

Bears! Bears! Everywhere the Hunter Looked There Was Nothing But Bears

Had fabled Goldilocks carried a high powered rifle and met five bears instead of three on her forest foray, this story would not be written.

It proves, however, that truth can be stranger than fairy stories, and the "Goldilocks" of this piece is a man-sized hunter who sought the elusive buck and doe near Denbigh and ran into a modern version of the famed fable.

He is George Wartman, of Bradford, Ont., member of a party of six who haunted the snow covered deer runs, and came home with a full quota of trophies of the hunt, which included one bear.

Wartman, looking for deer on a lonely run, stiffened in his tracks when a large bear loomed up in front of him. His rifle cracked, and the bear stumbled in its stride.

Around him the thicket suddenly stirred and crackled into action. Three smaller bears bumbered out into the runway, but a sharp scuffling noise behind him caused Wartman to turn his head. Twenty feet away the fifth member of the bear brigade ambled down the run. Wartman whirled and fired and the brute rearguard action was nipped in the bud as the animal fell dead.

The remaining bruins apparently thought discretion the better part of valor and lumbered off through the woods. Wartman, satisfied with the turn of events went back to camp.

Other members of the party included Mrs. and Mrs. Orville Davies of this city, David Bauder, Veron, Ont., and Don and Russell Bauder of Kingston.

Mrs. Davies (Audrey) and her husband are well-known here as figure - skaters. She is a veteran of the deer runways. This year was her 14th consecutive quest for the venison — and one of her unlucky ones. Over the period of 14 years Mrs. Davies has accounted for eight deer with her trusty rifle, but she does not recall how many "misses" she has to her credit.

This year she saw a pair of deer through her gunsights but her effort goes down in the "miss" column. She uses a 250-3000 Savage rifle.

Quite naturally, it is inferred that the eldest of the hunting party is associated with the culinary department of the camp. But Mrs. Davies, She leaves the kitchen fatigues to the mere males of the species and says she is out on the trip to hunt. And she does.

Noted Artists Selected for Concert Series

The Community Concert season starts locally next Monday night with the appearance of Oscar Natzka, bass. Mr. Natzka, a New Zealander by birth, is described as having a rich deep bass voice of rich warmth.

Mr. Natzka served six years with the Canadian Navy during the war, and the Artists Selection committee of the series considers itself fortunate to have secured him for the opening concert.

Second in the series will be Mildred Dilling, harpist, who has appeared in the city before and is coming back by request of the concert-goers.

The January selection is Sascha Gorodnitzki, a fine amazing and brilliant pianist, also in a repeating role. He has been here before, and was so pleasing that he is being asked to perform again.

The Lotermouth Quartet, a string ensemble, will appear in February. An added attraction for that concert will be the appearance of the pianist Marisa Regules.

The final concert in March will be given by the American tenoro-soprano, Eileen Merriman, who has become a favorite with concert audiences everywhere her appearance is being looked forward to here.

The artists committee points out that although four concerts is the usual number in the series, this year they were able to add a bonus. This was possible only when money is left over after the artists' fees are deducted.

District Maker Wins High Honors At Winter Fair

For what is believed to be the first time, a Belleville man, at the Royal Winter Fair, at cheese maker from Central Ontario won high honors in the person of Mr. Tom Heath, maker at the Wilton factory, Lennox and Addington county, in the reserve grand championship, his cheese scoring 98.25 points.

Mr. J. L. Irwin, honorary president of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' association, said this was the first time a Central Ontario maker had taken honors above honor. Mr. Heath is president of the Central Association.

Two other cheese made from the district, D.A. Harvey, Quinte Milk Products at Bloomfield, and Murray Heath of Rylstone Factory, also won prizes at the Royal. The exhibition cheese sold for 40 cents for white, and 45 cents for colored.

"A GOOD PLACE TO DEAL"

Warns Highway Pedestrians to Be More Cautious

Too many pedestrians, in the opinion of Police Chief Walter Probert, have the careless idea that a driver at night can see them just as easily as they can see a lighted car approaching from way off down the road.

"Any motorist knows," he says, "who has to walk on the road will assume the worst—that the oncoming motorist won't see him in the dark. Pedestrian carelessness is now arriving at a time when large numbers of persons are still using the streets, both on foot and in cars and trucks. Chief Probert suggested that persons having to walk along streets or highways in the dark should wear some distinguishing article.

To prevent drivers being blinded by approaching lights, it is now the duty of anyone driving in the city use their lower "passing" lights. Oncoming traffic is endangered unless lights are "dipped", he said.

INNOCENT OF MANSLAUGHTER

Lindsay, Nov. 15 (CP) — An Oshawa auto worker, John Morris Forget, 18, was found innocent of manslaughter but convicted on the lesser charge of dangerous driving last night. He was sentenced by Mr. Justice Spence in Supreme Court to six months in jail.

The charge arose from a highway accident Sept. 2 near Cobconk when Forget lost control of his car on a hill. It ran wild, crashed through a gate, hit a boulder, struck a garage and house and ended up by crashing into a four-foot pile of logs. Forget's friend, Charles H. Booth, was killed.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Industrials firmed in dull trading as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Continuing yesterday's listless tendency papers, constructions, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed majority of fractional gains in the groupings.

Base metals advanced to new high ground for the third straight session. International Nickel led with a gain of ⅞ and Hudson Bay, Steep Rock, Quemont and Sherritt Gordon were ahead. Mackeno and Acadia-Uranium were the most active issues, slipping pennies.

Juniors and Senior gold producers drifted lower in quiet dealings with gains and losses limited to pennies. Home and Royalite added ¼ in a firm western oil list.

KILLS WIFE, CHILD, THEN SUICIDES

Lives of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Evers and daughter Judy were all suddenly ended in the unexplained impulse of the father. They had two other children. — Central Press Canadian.

Neighbors of Howard Evers, Arthur Juergens and Gordon Weber examine the rifle which, police say, was used by Evers to kill his wife and child and then himself. The bodies were found in the rented Evers home at Neustadt, near Walkerton, Ont., after he had called a sister to say he had shot his wife and one child and was going to shoot himself. — Central Press Canadian.

Credit Granters' Assoc. Organized

Establishment of a local Credit Granters' Association is well under way. The association has a membership of local businessmen interested in the problems of credit, and its main purpose will be to provide a round table around which problems may be thrashed out local or other credit problems.

Last night, the association held its first monthly meeting, after weeks of preparation. Elected to a steering committee were Harry Knott, Doug Dimpfl, Ben Vanover, Mel Richards, Art Francis, Bill Dunning, Morley Lovelace and Don Purdon.

The general manager of the Central Ontario Credit Exchange, J. Errol Wilson, was chairman for last night's meeting, and explained the purpose of the association to the businessmen present. King Evans, president of the Credit Granters' Association of Toronto, spoke to the group on the new credit regulations as laid down by the federal government.

Actual first meeting of the group was held over a month ago with a round table discussion. Last night, more than 30 local men attended, and more are expected in the future. The association hopes to provide a gathering place for those interested in credit, to discuss credit problems and to offer guidance. Also in future plans are addresses by experts in fields vital to credit.

The Bellevilla branch will be affiliated with both the Canadian and the international association.

Canada's Need

Saskatoon, Nov. 15 —(CP) — Immigration Minister Harris said last night that the greatest challenge before the Liberal government is getting more people into Canada.

Addressing a rally following the biennial Saskatchewan Liberal party convention, he said he was optimistic and enthusiastic regarding Canada's growth in the immediate future.

David's Electric Shop Celebrates 10th Anniversary in Business

Completing ten years' successful business operation in the city and hosting of a new and modern store front as well as interior renovations, David's Electric Shop at 240 Front Street, this week is holding "open house" for its wide customer clientele. David's Electric Shop featured electrical appliances, radio and television sales and service and records.

A gleaming new front of royal blue vitrolite and chrome has been provided giving the store a more appealing window display space. Inside there is a new tile floor, also new display arrangements and other renovations which make the store exceptionally attractive. The new store will further improve the service rendered to its clientele over the past ten years.

Mr. Enos David started his business in the city in 1940. From a staff of one the business has had steadily growth and now employs a staff of ten persons. Mr. David has had 26 years experience in business and it is his firm belief there is no substitute for quality supplies, good service, hard work and honest dealing.

"A business prospers only in relation to the service it renders in the community, and the quality of wares it offers to its customers," Mr. David stated.

As sales representative for products of Canadian Westinghouse, Beatty Bros., RCA Victor, Philco, Philips, Coleman and many others, the motto of David's Electric Shop is "We Sell the Best, and Service the Rest." And in the words of the proprietor "We mean it."

Wall Collapses Then House Burns

Simcoe, Ont., Nov. 15 (CP) — Fire early today destroyed the house of two families whose previous dwelling was wrecked last week by collapse of a wall.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bailey and their three children and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Moore and their son had moved only yesterday. They fled uninjured from the fire when aroused by a neighbor, Mrs. Ina Maswcat. An overheated stove caused the blaze, firemen said.

Hit-Run Guerrillas Use Many Tricks To Disrupt Lines

Tokyo, Nov. 15 — (AP) — Hit-run tactics of North Korean guerrillas continually disrupt U.N. supply lines. Here is how they operate, as described today by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters:

To ambush a motor column the communists wait until the vehicles are in a designated area and try to destroy the lead and rear trucks. Then they rake the entire column with automatic weapon fire. They run when a sizeable armed force appears.

Against tanks they use a type of torpedo — a cylindrical mine about seven or eight feet in length, properly placed, this explosive charge can overturn a tank.

The guerrillas also have lowered sacks full of explosives on tanks in narrow canyons from long poles or ropes.

Fire on Palace

On a number of occasions a group of eight or ten guerrillas allowed themselves to be observed. Challenged, they dropped their guns and raised their hands as if to surrender. But as they moved forward, concealed guerrillas opened fire.

Similarly, groups of 50 or more reds buried themselves at the patrols in suicide charges. While U.N. troops met this attack, other reds circled the flanks and rear to envelop the patrol.

Chinese have been constructing flak traps with destroyed tanks which are brightly painted to attract attention of fighter-bombers. Anti-aircraft guns are placed on hillsides around the decoy and they open fire when the planes come in to bomb.

Another trick is to don white armbands to give the appearance of being security troops or police and thus approach a U.N. position. Then they open fire once inside the position.

Hard to Spot

The guerrillas are hard to spot. They go through U.N. lines by mingling with thousands of refugees. Some of them carry no weapons, but they erect roadblocks which later are manned by armed bands.

A spokesman said U.N. patrols have a few tricks, too, but he didn't describe them. He said there is no evidence that the widespread guerrilla activities are directed by a central headquarters. Instead guerrilla bands operate as individual units.

The spokesman said they have not scored any important successes.

Sight of Nude Figure Startles London Citizens

London, Ont., Nov. 15—(CP)—Traffic came to a standstill. Drivers speeding through Windsor Ave. from Wortley Rd. to Ridout St. stopped their cars dead.

They stared and stared.

Housework came to a standstill, too, as housewives stood at their front windows and watched.

Cherchez la femme, the saying goes.

And there she was . . . the woman, we mean.

She stood dressed only in a pair of tan stockings, with one leg planted firmly in one garbage can and the other leg placed in another. She faced the road, her eyes gazing seductively into those of every motorist who stopped.

She wasn't the blonde gentlemen are supposed to prefer.

But her brunette beauty had charms enough to halt traffic.

Alas, another woman decided she was too charming. She dragged her away from the road to a back yard and left her there.

The brunette beauty had been a Hallowe'en joke a couple of years ago, a store dummy dressed for the occasion.

When Hallowe'en was over the lady lost her clothes and finally it was decided she took up too much space in the basement. She was taken apart and put in the garbage.

But some passerby was kinder. She was put together again and placed here so she could be public. But she's hidden away once more.

Contends Newest Dogma Dangerous

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—(CP)— Rt. Rev. C. M. Nicholson of Halifax, moderator of the United Church in Canada, contended the recently proclaimed Roman Catholic dogma of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary "draws near to heresy."

"It is dangerous to push Christ one more step away," he said in an address yesterday before a regular meeting of the Presbytery of Ottawa.

"This assumption dogma is an attempt to push back the mystery of Jesus to Mary and some time one will have to think of Mary's mother. So why not back to Adam?" he asked.

Dr. M. C. MacDonald of Toronto, associate secretary of the board of home missions, told the Presbytery the growth of Canadian cities has imposed a need for 500 additional United Churches in this country.

This would cost $2,000,000. The Church was planning a spring campaign to raise $1,500,000. The remainder of the required amount would be supplied from existing funds.

GRIEVOUS LOSS IN AIR DISASTER

The whole world has been shocked by the tragedy of the loss of so many lives in the crash of an airliner against peak of the Alps as the craft was making its way to Canada with 58 persons aboard. They had been on a religious mission to Rome in connection with the Holy Year ceremonies. The great majority of the people aboard were from the Province of Quebec. This is explained by the fact that the pilgrims had gone to Rome to present at the beatification rites of Marguerite Bourgeois which took place last Sunday. She was the founder of the Order of the Sisterhood of Our Lady in the early days of this country and lived about three hundred years ago. About 1,200 Canadian Roman Catholics had gone to the city of Rome to attend the ceremonies.

The tragedy was one of the worst on record, every one of the 58 aboard, including the crew, having perished in the disaster. It is believed.

The people of Canada mourn for those who were so wrtfully deprived of life in the tragedy, which appears all the more poignant in view of the exalted spirit and attitude of devotion which they who had travelled to Rome had felt.

People of all faiths both in this country and in other lands extend their condolences and sympathy in the dark hour of this tragedy which has deprived the Province of Quebec and Canada of so many of their citizens.

NEW FORESTRY VEHICLE

The intensification of interest in the growing wealth of forests is not confined to a few countries but many nations now feel the importance of their woodlands. The eye of the experts and leaders in forestry is to the future.

Lumbering as an industry is linked up with the mechanical progress which has been made in so many lines. For instance in Norway there has been developed a new type of vehicle which soon may bring about important changes according to the News of Norway service. It consists of a tractor-wheeled trailer with a 30-h.p. caterpillar truck, which carries a lifting crane. In a demonstration a load of over three tons and measuring about 140 cubic feet was hauled through the dense woods and loaded on lumber trucks. Whatever obstacles there are, like underbrush, large rocks, tree stumps and soggy ground are overcome with the greatest ease. There are those who saying seen the invention in action, believe if it can stand the test of long and hard use, logging may become practical throughout the year instead of being limited to the fall and winter when the ground is covered by ice and snow.

SAVING WOUNDED

In early wars most deaths were caused by wounds and diseases, a relatively small proportion being killed in action. Even in World War I many died who could have been saved by modern standards of World War II prefilled, Windsor Star says.

It is not that the medical corps was less diligent. It was rather that new drugs and methods of treatment had been evolved which, with rapid transportation, made expeditious available in giving men proper treatment and getting them to hospitals. So the eight percent of the wounded who died in World War I was reduced to 4.5 in World War II.

Now news from Korea shows less than two percent of United States wounded die from their wounds. This may be due, in part, to the North Koreans not having available such destructive weapons as the Germans had, but it is also because of improved methods of treatment.

The way to avoid casualties of war is to have no wars. But, if there are wars, it is some solace that men now live who in previous wars would have died.

MONEY "STORIES"

Two million dollars of Canadian "folding-money" is turned ever day at Ottawa. These are the ones, twos, fives and tens which the bank branches pick up every day, bills that are torn, worn or accidentally dirty.

This large fire is located close to the spot where they once stepped out into the Canadian scene as crisp, unblinkied paper money.

Indeed a measure of happiness and sorrow is generally associated with the bill which gets around. If each bill were able to tell its story before being tossed into the fire, the recorders would have enough notes for a million book plots.

Bills, large and small, exchanged countless times keep company with the rich and the poor, the intellectuals and the nitwits, the clever and the foolish, the timid ones and the daring. They become a vital part of the celebrations, the crimes, the quarrels, the sacrifices, the expressions of both generosity and cupidity — the gamut of human emotions, human experiences. — Fort William Times-Journal.

PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the big billboards of the Canada Savings Bonds campaign is causing considerable controversy in the cities where it is being shown. It is a large black slate on which a few childishly - drawled words are drawn.

Some people declared hotly that the billboard was meaningless. Others affirm that it attracts attention and is a good educational advertisement.

The art and science of advertising is divided into sects, like religion. Each sect has its followers and nothing in religion to exceed the absolute faith of these various practitioners and no gentleman in holy orders can excel a high class advertising man in asserting the creed and dogma of his particular faith.

When the art of advertising was young—and all you have to do is read Dickens to see how old the newspaper or magazine to realize how young it is—there was little there creativity in any exciting or provocative ad. But new billboard for the Canada with every year of the growth of Savings Bonds.

the art, it has become more difficult to devise an advertisement that will effectively seize the public attention.

One school of advertising believes doggedly in repetition, tireless repetition. And this school both in radio and in printed advertisement. They devoutly believe that goods can be dinned into the public ear. Others may be glad that this school found its faith on price tags; another on being nimble and keeping the product in step with the constantly changing tastes and whims of fashion.

There is another school of advertising, that of the Big Bore. When a man is engaged in building up a great enterprise, what more natural than he should suppose he knows more about advertising than anybody else, including professional advertising men? The ads designed by the Big Bore are usually recognizable. As a rule, they stink. It could be that Prime Minister St. Laurent could be building up a great enterprise, but a new billboard for the Canada

RELIGION CAN SHRINK

Some time ago while taking a holiday in a little village, I attended the village church. It is a huge structure capable of seating a thousand people. No doubt when it was built a hundred years ago, it was well filled every Sunday. Today there are usually only a hundred people gathering at the morning service.

What has happened? Well, of course, the population of that part of the country has decreased considerably. There are probably many other reasons why the decline has taken place but the one I would reem, stand out prominently, is,

In the first place, the churches in that part of the country appear to have lost their hold on sound Christian truth. The preachers are rationalists, and little by little they have dropped first this Biblical teaching and then that until their messages today are little more than well-written essays.

Furthermore, the church has become a middle class community and has been overrun by the rich and sophisticated folk from the cities. Pleasure has been put first in life. The church is regarded as a place to be used only for weddings and funerals.

Here, as elsewhere, religion has became insignificant to people who love the modern world and its gadgets.

could have happened," the youngster went on, "because a couple of days before the opening who should come in and plunk himself down at one of my tables but Mr. Rodgers.

"He recognized me, and when he quizzed me about what I was doing in a waiter's get-up, I told him I had taken the job so as to be near my wife. The story seemed to tickle him, and when he went back to the theatre I understand he held a rehearsal to repeat it to Oscar Hammerstein and Josh Logan, the director. An hour later the three of them came into the chop house looking for me, and the next morning I was on the stage of the Shubert learning the lyrics of 'There is Nothing Like a Dame'."

"Cute story," I said.

"There's more to it," said Bill. "A couple of days later I showed what happened and wrote it up, and as a result I got a couple of television nibbles. Then the nicest thing of all happened. One night auditions for 'Kiss Me Kate' were held in parts in 'South Pacific'. My wife—her stage name is Evelyn Colby—has also been singing and dancing, so we tried out for the show together. Director of us, however, got picked—Evelyn."

"Doesn't sound like too good a beginning."

"It wasn't," said Bill, "but we figured there wasn't any point in moping about it—the important thing was not to be separated. So when the show went up in New Haven to break in, I went along with Evelyn. "Haven't I seen you in something?" I asked.

"If you didn't blink," said the youngster, "you might have noticed me in the chorus of South Pacific."

"Still with the show?"

"No, I left it a few months ago to try my luck at television."

"Show business is a tough racket," I oracled.

"I haven't found it so," said Bill. "Matter of fact, ever since I got to town it's been one good break after another. Incidentally, your friend, Dick Rodgers, was responsible for the first one."

"Dick Richard of the score?" I asked.

"Well," said the youngster, "it started when Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Hammerstein were holding auditions for the chorus of the parts in 'South Pacific'. My wife—her stage name is Evelyn Colby—has also been singing and dancing, so we tried out for the show together. Director of us, however, got picked—Evelyn."

MacKenzie's Column:

Sees Chances of Peace and War Closely Balanced

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer.

This is one of the conclusions in Liddell Hart's latest modern book, "Defence of the West" (William Morrow and Company, New York). Amplifying this, somewhat forbable appraisal, he says:

"One may doubt whether any government—or another war, but it is hard to see how it can be avoided if the present tension persists. The 'iron curtain' that now divides the world fulfills its name all too well in preventing peaceful communication, but it is only a thin curtain in other respects. A large extent of it has no strength as a military barrier, and it is on a weak point of spine the roaring on either side of it."

What Conflict Would Mean

Referring to the devastation and impoverishment resulting from the last war, Liddell Hart foresees the consequences of a new conflict as likely to be far more terrible. He figures there are three ways in which another world war might be detonated.

One way would be a direct clash between the United States and Russia. Another would be a conflict between Russia and states other than the U.S. A third would be the latter's sphere of interest — for example, a clash between Russia and the western members of the Atlantic Pact.

"A third way," says the author, "is from a conflict arising between states that the two giant powers respectively support — a duel that the 'seconds' begin and the principals join in."

Liddell Hart says the Pacific is the most likely area where a direct clash between the United States and Russia might arise. The other two cases are likely to develop anywhere in Europe, the Middle East or south-east Asia.

"An outbreak in Europe," says the author, "would be the most dangerous, both in its form and in the future of western civilization."

Mayor Aaron Horovitz said the matter could be considered by the 1951-52 council.

Letter to the Editor

Lauds Advertising Policy of Dairy Farmers

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

One of the pleasanter signs of these noisy and not over-sedate days is the decision of the dairy farmers to "up and speak for themselves" in the advertising columns. From my viewpoint, it is a long step in the right direction — even if, also, it is some eighteen months behind schedule. Long ago, I urged in the building of new days and new ways; that the sweet milk flesh the spotlight on one of the weak spots in the farmer's marketing technique; i. e., its perishability for voicelessness; the root cause why the cry customer has been taught to forget the farmer, and to take him (and his basic service) for granted.

Along this same sunny side of the news, certainly it is heartening to see that the Canada Packers, in which Canada's population is donated by the 13,000 by the end of 1950. The facts reported in the above story by the Bureau of Statistics are: That the 13,291,600 figure at Sept. 1 was a gain of 300,000 from June 1, 70,000 up from the figure of July 1, and a rise of 285,000 in the last 12 months. That the natural increase (births minus deaths) between 22,000 and 26,000, should give encouragement to every Canadian. That, over a long term, every citizen will be a beneficiary of a greater and better nation — more productive and happier at home, and safer and more respected abroad.

It need hardly be stressed that 25,000 new customers mean a great fiber within the domestic market, each month, is smart business for agriculture, and will play a vital role in keeping Canadian industrial wheels humming.

Three Hunters Suffer Burns As Stove Explodes

Mindemoya, Ont., Nov. 14 (CP) — Three American hunters are in Mindemoya hospital suffering from serious burns, the result of a stove explosion in a hunting camp stove in their hunting cabin near Sandy Lake, north of Silverwater, late Monday night.

The three are Thomas Francis, of Willoughby, O., Jack McIville, of Perry, O., and Fred Merrick, of Painesville, O. They were brought to hospital here last night.

Four other members of the hunting party, all from Ohio, suffered burns as well, but they have left the district and they were not detained in hospital.

WHAT MAKES TONSILS "BAD?"

Occasionally I make an arbitrary statement here which I am unable to substantiate or corroborate with scientific evidence or the opinions of recognized authorities. When I do so I try to make it clear that I am giving my own opinion or belief and that I am no authority.

I venture to say that it is purely a question of the doctor's opinion whether the tonsils of an adult are "bad" enough to warrant the major operation—tonsillectomy. In only a small minority of cases in which the patient's chronic or recurring ailment is ascribed to focal infection, from a septic focus in the tonsils, is the presumptive septic focus or small abscess proved to exist in fact. If it were actually located the surgical or other treatment could be applied to the affected tonsil, not to both tonsils. There may be cases on record in which I have never heard of tonsillectomy for "infected" tonsils being applied to one tonsil only.

Further, while a great many doctors could make a shrewd guess than I could, from confirmation of the patient's medical history, present condition and from examination of the throat, whether either or both tonsils may be "bad" or "infected." Even when examination reveals infection it is still a matter of the doctor's opinion whether it is the cause of the patient's chronic or recurring ailment.

This being admitted—I'll be happy to print any dissenting opinion expressed by a reputable physician and withhold the physician's name—it follows that in each case the doctor is under conscience say that there is a fair chance that removal of the tonsil, drainage of the infected pocket, disinfection, sterilization or pasteurization of the infected portion may prove beneficial to the patient's health.

There is a good reason why we hear little about focal infection today, in contrast to the prominence of the subject in literature and practice thirty or forty years ago. It is because the anticipated cure or improvement so seldom occurred after the "bad" tonsils had been removed. That does not necessarily mean the focal infection principle was wrong. There is no question in my mind but that Drs. Rosenow and Billings established this principle on sound, scientific grounds. Unfortunately a lot of doctors who never learned what it was all about abused the principle in practice.

And lazy laymen and far too many doctors have been taught to regard tonsils, both the faucial or visible tonsils and the pharyngeal tonsil on the rear wall of the throat, as "no good" stuff that had the soft palate, as more or less pathological tissue and as "growth" rather than tissue of functional value, and hence the readiness of those uniformed people and doctors to get rid of the tonsils as an intelligent individual might get rid of cancer.

The presumptive presence, even the proved presence of a septic focus, an infected crypt or chronic tonsillitis does not, in our era, justify the attempt, always at the risk of life—your doctor seeks who so blithely submit to tonsillectomy should remember this, if you are at all fond of living—to remove the tonsils.

With all the assurance acquired by many years of intensive study in the clinical problem, I unhesitatingly assert that the attempt (it is nearly always just an attempt) to remove the tonsils entirely, in the ill-conceived manner known as tonsillectomy, as treatment of infected tonsils, is unwarranted, in our present state of knowledge. There are other less radical and less invasive methods available today, which methods are at least as effective as radical surgery can be at best, and both safer for the patient.

These methods which I'd choose for myself if I had infected tonsils, rather than submit to radical surgery, are (1) instantaneous diathermy coagulation, (2) snipping or slicing of the infected tonsils with the galvanic or electro-coagulation—that is, a series of office treatments known as surgical diathermy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SENSE OF WONDER

Our first consciousness is one of wonder. Little by little the mysteries and secrets of the earth are revealed to us and then, what commands attention the first sound of a bell attracts the senses of a child. All life is unfolding of wonders. Even advanced age remains alert to them.

Each Autumn seems to have just a little bit more beauty of color to it than the ones remembered. Sometimes I regret that what is seen, for the moment at least, seems to surpass all former experiences. This is hardly possible to us when we cling to our sense of wonder, and keep it alive.

I can never forget the inspiring example of a science teacher that I had in college. He made us all feel excited as he explained the discoveries that man had made, and of the issues behind them all. His gestures, the glow in his eyes, and his reverent, attitude kept us spellbound. Well could he have said: Never lose your sense of wonder.

The green earth, with its hills, mountains, streams, bodies of water, its rock formations, and the rich and heavenly bodies above about our travelling earth, are all awe-inspiring and filled with wonder today as when first sensed. Indeed I feel that they become richer in the measure of our understanding of them and the increasing knowledge that comes to us year after year.

Even with all the knowledge we have of this earth, with its natural formations, its plants, trees animal life, bird and insect creations, we are prone to overlook at the meaning of it all. We are reminded of the Creative Mind there—All Wisdom, All Love and Power—and from other sources.

Britons Believe They Won't Be Involved in War Soon Mrs. Wood Tells Kiwanians

"We in England cannot believe that we are going to be involved in a third world war". That was the most distinctive point of an address given at the Kiwanis luncheon yesterday noon by Mrs. Gwen McGregor-Wood, chairman of the British section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Mrs. Wood, reviewing the state of affairs in Britain today, said that while the processes of the nation were staggered by the last war, that if we can hang on now, "the next generation will do better with this old world".

Mrs. Wood is currently on a lecture tour in the United States and told Kiwanians that coming to Canada "feels like coming home". She said that she was immensely struck by the nervousness of most Americans, who are anxious about "the slippery social slope down which they imagine Britain to be sliding." To the contrary, Mrs. Wood said, "all parties in England support such social measures as the National Health Act. The plain fact", she said, "is that people are getting the good attention which they never got before. It is the finest social measure in any country."

Supported by All

The speaker said that the fear that the United States has of socialized medicine is entirely unfounded, and that the welfare state in itself is "one supported by all parties."

Britain has made great strides in the education field, Mrs. Wood continued. Free education is now provided for students in secondary schools, the number of teachers has risen tremendously, and far more students are going to universities on scholarships.

Nearly 52 per cent of the students at Oxford now receive grants to attend, a long step from the days when Oxford and Cambridge were considered the playgrounds of the rich. Private and Independent schools still thrive, and are making a great contribution to the forward movement.

Housing is still a problem in Britain, with as many looking for accommodation now as there were in 1945 due to lack of repair during war years, bombing, increased marriages and a rising birth rate "In addition," Mrs. Wood said, "two workmen in 1938 did as much in a day as three workmen do now".

Suffer Lack of Proteins

With regard to food, Mrs. Wood said that "all sections of Britain are suffering from a lack of protein. For ten-and-a-half years, Britain has been short of meat, eggs, milk, cheese and fats." The result of this shortage is now evident in adolescents, and particularly workmen.

"We stuffed them with buns, bread and margarine", she said, "and now they are dying at the rate of 400 per week from tuberculosis. That lies very heavily on our hearts." At present, Mrs. Wood said, there is a move afoot to ask Canadian and United States families to take in a family from Britain which has one member suffering from tuberculosis. The ill member could be treated, and the rest of the family could be employed here. In that way, the family could be kept together. At present, there are 840,000 such people in England.

Lack of Perspective

With regard to the United States again, Mrs. Wood said that England is "distressed to find the feeling that war is inevitable, in the United States. England thinks the United States has a lack of perspective and balance about the situation".

Mrs. Wood continued to ask that men in executive capacities encourage the education of young people and to aid women in taking their part, in influencing the world. She urged them to encourage and make it easy for women to take part in local and world affairs.

And the executive, Mrs. Wood said, should have six basic qualities, according to scientific research: he should be able to take time to think, to take himself away from details; every day he should get to know someone his junior, and to encourage him; he should be able to evaluate his own work to the extent of knowing whether or not others are interested in it; he should devote part of his time to a cause not directly connected with his own work; he should see what changes can be made in methods and experiments and what new patterns he has established; and lastly, he should be constantly on the alert for tradi; tions to break.

Mrs. Wood was introduced by her brother-in-law, Jack Wood, and thanked by program chairman, Fraser Fulton. Harold Carruthers and Phil Huddlestone led the singsong.

Canada's Outlay May Amount To Billion Dollars

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 15—CP—Chinese communist troops should not deter Canada in her policy of trying "in every way possible" to prevent the Korean war from spreading, External Affairs Minister Pearson said last night.

In a speech dealing with the problem of containing communist aggression, Mr. Pearson said Canadians should assume, "until we are obliged to believe otherwise that Chinese red troops are in Korea for a limited purpose of "a protective and border mission." However, he promised that "aggression will be met wherever it arises."

The address, a dinner sponsored by the local United Nations Association branch and the Chamber of Commerce, followed an earlier speech here in which Mr. Pearson said Canada will probably have to spend about $1,000,000,000 next year for military purposes.

He said that the amount is 40 per cent greater than this year's defence budget.

Mr. Pearson said he hoped Canada would not be asked to support any U. N. action to extend the Korean fighting "unless and until it is clear that Chinese communist forces have been sent to Korea on more than a protective and border mission."

Future actions by the Chinese communists may show they intend "an unlimited aggression against Korea and indeed against the United Nations."

If that happened, the U. N. would have to recognize the fact and "enlarge the field of action of the United Nations commander."

Canada sought to avoid giving anyone an excuse for extending the scope of the Korean war.

"Nothing should be done in the establishment of a united and free Korea which could carry the slightest menace to Korea's neighbors," Mr. Pearson said. The safety of the Manchurian and Siberian frontier was "of prime concern" to the two communist governments.

The same desire "to localize the conflict and prevent it from spreading" dictated Canadian policy regarding Formosa, Canada would be happy to support a U. N. resolution authorizing continuance of the neutralization of Formosa by the United States fleet "so long as the war in Korea makes that necessary," Mr. Pearson said.

"We are in some doubt, however, as to whether any more comprehensive action by the United Nations over Formosa could usefully be taken at this time."

Two Little Girls Will be Given Home Says Uncle

Walkerton, Ont., Nov. 15—(CP)—Two little girls, orphaned by what police call a double murder and suicide, will be given a home, their uncle said Tuesday.

Laurence Yeack, uncle of Gloria Evers, 7, and Betty Ann Evers, 11, said he and his wife will give them a home with all the care possible. His announcement followed the deaths yesterday of Howard Evers, unemployed painter, his wife, Marie, and their youngest child, Judy, at a farm house seven miles south of here.

(Deputy Commissioner Arthur Moss of the Ontario Provincial Police said at Toronto it was believed that Evers shot his wife and four-year-old child, then turned the .22-calibre rifle on himself.)

Suffering from shock, Evers' sister, Mrs. Gertrude Vocikel of nearby Neustadt told of answering the telephone yesterday. She said it was her brother and he said: "I shot Marie and Judy. Now I'm going to shoot myself. Get ready for the funeral."

"I didn't think he really meant it," said Mrs. Vocikel, sobbing. "I told the police later and they didn't tell me what happened until they said they wanted to ask me some questions this afternoon."

An inquest has been ordered into the deaths.

WEDDINGS

PHILLIPS—FROST

In Scott's United Church, on Saturday, Nov. 11, at 2 p.m., a pretty wedding was solemnized by the Rev. C. W. Neelands, when Jean Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost, of Belleville, R.R. 2, became the bride of Harry Floyd Phillips, of Belleville, R.R. 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips and the late Mr. Fred Phillips. Ferns, potted chrysanthemums and baskets of mixed flowers provided a lovely background.

Miss Shirley Badgley, cousin of the bride, rendered the wedding music, and Mrs. Avery Martyn, soloist, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer", and during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the charming bride was gowned in fuchsia chiffon velvet with matching headdress and mitts of net, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Ella Phillips, of Hamilton, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of midnight-blue taffeta with blue velvet trim and headdress of pink braided tulle with pink and navy plume tips. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Phillips was flower girl, demure in her floor-length frock of orchid taffeta and pole bonnet headdress and carried a spray of yellow carnations.

Mr. Maurice Dafoe, of Frankford, R.R. 2, was groomsman, and Morley Phillips and Lawrence Dafoe, brother of the bridegroom, and cousin of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Parish Hall, Frankford, to about 70 guests. The bride's mother, gowned in teal blue, with black accessories and corsage of roses, was assisted in receiving by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of black and white crepe with black accessories, and corsage of white 'mums.

Later, the young couple left for a wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and the United States, the bride travelling in a three-piece ensemble of navy gabardine, matching the bridegroom's suit, with pink and navy accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Upon their return, they will reside at the bridegroom's home.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Trenton and Belleville.

HUGHES—THOMPSON

On Saturday, Nov. 11, at 2:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson, Moira, a wedding of local interest was solemnized by the Rev. Morley Clarke when their daughter, Ada Luella, was united in marriage to William Lyall Hughes, of Tweed, son of Mrs. J. S. Hughes, and the late Mr. Hughes.

Mrs. Morley Clarke provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly gowned in royal blue silk velvet, and wore a corsage of Bettertime red roses.

Miss Dorothy Thompson, was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing wine silk velvet with corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. Jack Cook, of Moira, was groomsman.

The wedding dinner was held at the bride's home, which was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and white bells. The bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by tall, white, cathedral candles in silver sticks.

The bride's mother received, wearing navy crepe assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in black crepe. Both wore corsages of Bettertime roses.

For the wedding trip to New York, the bride chose a beige wool jersey dress with navy box coat and hat, and navy accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will reside in Toronto, upon their return.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Belleville, New Toronto, Cooper, Tweed and Roslin.

Miss C. Maloney Tells of Training Needed for Deaf

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association was held recently at St. Michael's Academy, with the president, Mrs. F. Cushing, in the chair.

Sister Mary Timothy's class won the monthly prize for having the largest number of mothers present.

A letter from Sister Mary Andrew was read, thanking the members for the nice luncheon they arranged for the Separate School teachers when they convened recently in the city.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker, Miss C. Maloney of the Ontario School for the Deaf staff, was introduced by Mrs. G. Donoghue, who told of the University course for the teachers of the Deaf, which Miss Maloney completed in Manchester, England, during the past year. This course was under the direction of Professor Ewing and his wife Dr. Ewing who are recognized as the world's most successful education of the deaf.

Miss Maloney spoke first of her pearl's course on the habit of caps of deafness. She warned parents of the signs of early deafness, and stressed the school child relationship so that the child could be more easily understood.

Trained in Rhythm

The deaf child must be trained in rhythm as he lacks the ear-drum common to every day life. In all activities the child has free choice and should be encouraged to play early in life. Living alone is not just a matter of the absence of others but it is living apart from a group even in their presence. This also applies to the hard of hearing and to others who become deaf in later years.

Frustration is the result of not being able to communicate or express feeling or desire. The need for communication for the deaf child is urgent. Teachers should be expert skilled observers and here Miss Maloney noted that speech, lipreading and language are inseparable. Dr. Helen Keller said that "learning to talk" was the most valuable part of her education.

Private Audience

The speaker then reviewed parts of her European tour, describing Rome as the museum of all ages and the native land of arts. The highlight of her tour was the privilege of having a private audience with the Holy Father at his summer home at Castel Gandolfo, and also a public audience at St. Peter's, at which 50,000 people were present.

Passion Play

Miss Maloney told of being present also at the Passion play at Oberammergau. This play lasted for eight hours but to the audience seemed a short time. She spoke of the history of the play and how the leading part were the people of Oberammergau, who had been born and lived in the village.

Other parts of the tour were covered lightly. Scotland, she said, was noted for its hospitality, and Ireland was noted for its greenness and its churches, and the great faith of its forefathers was visible everywhere.

Mrs. F. Cunningham thanked Miss Maloney on behalf of the association for her most interesting and instructive talk.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

That an army marches on its stomach is true, only under certain conditions. It won't march unless the food is seasoned.

An Army Quartermaster Corps experiment proved this point in 1944. One group of soldiers was given seasoned food, another group unseasoned chow. The first group worked in a perfect-by normal way. Those who ate their meals without seasoning were unable to work after four days.

Seasoning is achieved in a number of ways: with salt, with flavoring vegetables such as onions and garlic, with herbs such as thyme and bay leaves, with condiments like vinegar and mustard and with spices like cloves, pepper, etc.

Spices are most effective when used whole rather than ground. Whole black pepper known as peppercorn, whole cloves and whole allspice have a fresh stimulating aroma which is lost in ground spices when these products are ground and left standing on the shelf.

Use whole spices when simmering boneless smoked pork butts. Put the cabbage in for cause we ter in which the pork butt was simmered. Cook the cabbage only until semi-tender. Pour a hot sweet-sour sauce over the cabbage to dissolve sugar. Pour sauce right before it is brought to the over cabbage in serving dish.

Smoked Pork Butt, Dutch Cabbage, Serves 4-5.

1 boneless smoked pork butt, 1 1-2 pounds.
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon whole black pepper
1-3 cup brown sugar
1 medium size head cabbage
1 whole egg
1-4 cup sugar
1-4 cup vinegar
1-2 cup hot light cream
1-4 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon, dill chopped fine

Wash pork butt. Cover with cold water. Bring water to a boil. Remove scum. Add cloves, whole black pepper and brown sugar. Simmer slowly until pork butt is tender when pierced with a meat fork. Remove meat from pot. Keep in a warm place. Strain cooking liquid. Return liquid to pot. Bring to a boil.

Wash cabbage. Cut out heart. Cut cabbage into pieces about 1 inch square. Break up chunks.

Put cabbage in boiling liquid. Cook 5 minutes, no longer. Drain cabbage. Save liquid for reheating meat if necessary.

Beat 1 egg until white is no longer visible. Add hot cream, sugar, vinegar, salt and dill. Stir

Busy Belles Learn Points in Fine Dressmaking

The second meeting of the Busy Belles was held on Friday last at Frances Young's with three girls present. One point to remember when buying cotton—see that the pattern is printed straight on the material. The next meeting is on Thursday night at Velma Wallbridge's.

Selecting a pattern—choose a pattern that has instructions written on the pieces and explained clearly. Select a simple pattern and check it when you get it to make sure it is the right size ordered and all pieces are there.

Study your instruction sheet, note the width of seam allowed. Put the name on every piece.

Shortening a pattern—shorten a skirt pattern—below the hips—a sleeve—halfway between wrist and elbow; waist—between bust and waist.

Enlarging a pattern—slit it and insert a piece of paper where it needs making broader.

Preparation of material —shrinking—place material folded in a pan of luke-warm water until thoroughly soaked through. Take it out unfolding slightly and hang up to drip dry. Straightening—pull threads on each end to straighten material. Take measurements and record in record book then check with pattern.

Each one made a bound buttonhole. The roll call for next meeting is "a line in clothes that suits me."

Frances served delicious refreshments.

CAMPBELLFORD

Students Receive Diplomas at Commencement

Campbellford—A large number of parents and friends filled the Campbellford High School auditorium to over-flowing on Friday evening, when 31 students received graduation diplomas during the annual commencement exercises.

G. Stephens, secretary of the Seymour Agricultural Society, presented awards won at the fall fair to students in the art, home economics and shop work classes.

Mr. M. McKeown presented awards for the local track meet, and Mr. S. Brecken, B.A., principal of the Norwood High School presented the Ferguson Shield to the students for having the highest number of points in the inter-school meet held last month.

The program continued with the cadet awards, presented by E. E. Derling, Northumberland county musical festival medals presented by Miss M. I. Stephens and intermediate school certificates presented by A. Armour.

A number of vocal solos and vocal duets kept the audience entertained throughout the program.

Guest Speaker

Guest speaker of the evening was G. W. Keith, of Lindsay, acting principal at the Campbellford High School for the previous school term. He spoke on "Building Canada," and referred to many instances in which individuals had placed the welfare of their country ahead of their own personal desires. He ridiculed those who lacked foresight and understanding to do their part in supplying the needs of the teaching staff to carry out a proper educational program for your young people of today.

Mr. Keith cited various instances where the proper education of students was seriously curtailed due to lack of funds which the community had, but which in many cases, were spent on less important projects. Mr. Keith believed that many members of various school staffs had the same attitude as he had, "Give us the tools, and we will finish the job."

R. McKeel, chairman of the board, presented the High School Board scholarships and also the J. E. Birks' Memorial Scholarship, and the Northumberland County Dominion - Provincial Scholarship.

Graduates

Mr. A. K. Loucks presented secondary school graduation diplomas to J. Benson, J. Bright, J. Fgown, B. Darrah, R. Goacher, A. Hay, G. Heath, R. Huycke, M. Kelly, H. MacDonald, E. Massie, G. McCulloch, J. Mull, R. Nicholls, D. Ridde, S. Petherick, J. Simpson and D. Vice.

Honor Diplomas

Honor graduation diplomas were presented to A. Arthur, R. Bennett, J. Doherty, B. Ellis, P. Goodfellow, E. Hall, B. Loucks, K. Moore, J. Pierce, R. Stinson, R. Sutton and A. Taylor.

Miss Aldyth Hall captured nine first class honors in the nine subjects she took last year and is at present attending U. of T. She gave the class valedictory address after which the exercises were brought to a close.

Canadian Mine Wants Young Men From Britain

London, Nov. 15 — (CP) — A Canadian mining company hung out the help wanted sign in London today. It said 300 "young and virile" miners are needed to work around Porcupine, Ont.

An announcement from Ontario House quoted H. M. Ferguson, superintendent of Hollinger Gold Mines, as saying the company is interested less in experienced miners than in young men aged between 20 and 33—and preferably married.

Immigrants who take jobs will be paid 96 cents an hour for a 48-hour week, with an increase after two or three month. Bed and board arranged by the company would be provided for $12 to $14 a week, and every effort would be made to obtain suitable housing for wives and families, expected to arrive six months to a year later.

The announcement said the company is prepared if necessary to advance passage money, which would be repaid by salary deductions in the first year of employment. Details of company-sponsored insurance, saving, medical and hospital plans also were given.

Ontario House did not say why the miners are being sought in Britain. But a dispatch from Toronto, published recently in the Daily Graphic, said the company wants men who are not afraid to face life in a bush city.

"Timmins . . . has paved streets and central heating now, but is still surrounded by miles of trackless bush," the dispatch said.

No Hallucination Monkeys Really Swing in Trees

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 15 — (AP) — Cincinnatians didn't need to worry about their sobriety if they saw monkeys swinging through the trees last night.

Eight Rhesus monkeys escaped from a cage as they were being unloaded at general hospital for experimental purposes and late last night they still were at large in the Corryville and Walnut Hills neighborhoods.

One nimble police sergeant — Malvon Hoffman — climbed to a rooftop and got within five feet of one of the escapees before the monkey went swinging away through a tree to another roof.

A woman reported to police that one monkey peered in a window at her home, made faces and frightened her dog.

'Peace' Conference Row

British Press Questions Measures Taken by Govt.

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 15 (CP) —As the short-circuited world "peace" congress moves from Sheffield to Warsaw, British opinion seems divided on the wisdom of the official security screen which barred many delegates.

While no British newspaper except the Communist Daily Worker expressed anything like regret that the delegates are leaving, a number said in effect that the government's strong action is a blow to British freedom.

The Liberal Manchester Guardian and the Imperialist Daily Express, in agreement for once, strongly opposed measures which they say torpedoed the conference.

The stultification of the Sheffield Congress is nothing to be sorry about,' the Guardian commented editorially. "But . . .the British government's illiberal panic is a blow to what little remains of freedom in the world."

W. L. Andrews, well-known writer for the Conservative Yorkshire Post, took a different view. While he would rather have seen truth prevail at Sheffield, it should not be said the government was wrong to bar men it considered potentially dangerous.

"Many of those who wanted to visit Sheffield," he wrote, "were trained political agents who meant to create hostility against the British government."

The congress provoked some interesting correspondence. Konni Zilliacus, a former Labor member of Parliament, expelled for following the communist line too closely, confessed in a letter that he had been one of the original members of the Paris Peace Congress, and had broken with it because of its attitude towards Yugoslavia.

"The acid test and my breaking point came," Zilliacus wrote, "when the Yugoslav communist regime refused to bow (to the authority of the Soviet communist party; if the Partisans of Peace had been what they confessed to be, they would not have committed themselves to one side or the other in this conflict."

Zilliacus—a year ago strongly pro-Soviet though not a communist—added that he has no use for a "peace movement run by persons (whose) job it is to recruit all-in support for . . . the Soviet Union, right or wrong."

What's the Miracle of Canada?
The miracle of Canada is the reward of its thrifty people; it is a standard of living brought by men and women who believe in spending and saving wisely. The average Canadian, for example, owns his own car and his own home. He pays his bills when due. His pattern of living is excellent.
When the pattern breaks
But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside service.
3 out of 4 choose Household
HFC—HOUSEHOLD FINANCE—specializes in making cash loans from $50 to $1000 to these basically thrifty people. Because HFC service is prompt, friendly, dependable, 3 out of 4 Canadian families prefer to borrow from HOUSEHOLD FINANCE. Your phone book lists office nearest you.

Chevrolet's Reputation makes Chevrolet the Leader!

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

The high reputation of Chevrolet... its makers... and its dealers... were three main reasons why Chevrolet led all other makes in popularity, according to recent impartial surveys among automobile owners!

What safer guide can there be than reputation, when it comes to choosing a motor car? For reputation is based on the day by day and year by year experience of Canadian motorists — driving their cars in every Canadian season, on every kind of Canadian road. Every car can claim top quality. But only one car can be Canada's favorite in popularity, in sales, in value — with the highest reputation in all parts of the country . . . and that's the car to buy! Recent nation-wide surveys among automobile owners have established beyond question that Chevrolet is the leading car in reputation, three ways — the high reputation of the car itself; the high reputation of its manufacturers, General Motors; and the high reputation of Chevrolet Dealers. What safer guide can there be? You simply can't go wrong when you buy the leader — Chevrolet!

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She married love young—now she's restless

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years old and have been married for four years. Now I am in love with another man who lives in another state. My husband wants to go to that state to live and I am afraid that if we go, I might see this man and something dreadful would happen.

My husband is so good to me. He buys me everything I want. Please tell me what to do.

Mrs. A. G.

Dear Mrs. A. G.:

One of the reasons why it is foolish for girls to marry very young is just because things of this sort so often happen later. Girls in their teens should be free to have fun with lots of friends, instead of taking on the responsibilities of married life. Unless they do have fun at the time it is normal for them to do so, they almost always feel unsorry about it when they are older and unable to go around the way they'd like to.

I don't very much indeed if you are in love with this man. What's think is that you have this feeling of restlessness and frustration that comes from having been tied down too young, and you'd like some excitement.

You could make a great mistake if you did anything that would make trouble for you with this husband who is so good to you. You had better be thankful that you have this kind of man for a husband, and make up your mind to appreciate your good fortune.

Stop day-dreaming about romance with other men, and if your husband does take you to this other state to live, avoid the other man if you can, and if you can't, remind yourself that it's your husband you love, so I'm sure you do, and that you would not want to hurt him by playing at love with anyone else.

Maybe He Was Just Being Polite

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A little over a year ago I met a boy of 17, two years older than I am. After the second or third a couple of nights a week for six months, he asked me to go steady. I liked him very much, but a girl has to think these things over, so I asked for a few days to consider it. When I was ready to give my decision which was yes, he said he had changed his mind and didn't want to go steady after all.

Shortly after, I moved to another neighborhood and didn't see him for eight months. When I did see him, he said he was still interested in me, but though he has my 'phone number, he hasn't called.

Do you think there is something false about him, or that he is just stubborn and waiting for me to make the next move? I like him very much and I don't want to lose him if I can help it.

Cynthia.

Dear Cynthia:

If this chap hasn't made any effort to get in touch with you, then it sounds to me as though you had lost him already. You can be sure that he would have looked you up if he had really been anxious to see you.

I think you'll just have to be sensible enough to assume that his remark about being still interested in you was just a bit of polite conversation. In any event you'd be foolish to make any move at all with so little encouragement from him.

Look around the new neighborhood where you live and make new friends there. Show this boy you don't have to depend on him for companionship.

Delicate Tracery

By PRUNELLA WOOD

NO ONE but an expert could tell that this frock was not custom made, and that, after a professional examination, it represents the tops in our great American readymade fashion talent, and saving the fact that it truly is completely American, it is as "French" as any snob phraser could find.

The crepe and lace are both dead-leaf brown color, so flattering, so exclusive; wherever the lace inserts come, the crepe is tailored to it with an embroidered ribbon this which looks hand needled. The diagonal line is accurately and skilfully proportioned from shoulder to skirt flounce so that individual alterations cannot upset the carving design. And if you are best-dress shopping, let us tell you that the model although not cheap, is far from prohibitive in price. Designed for after-five wear, the dress looks its handsomest with a cocktail hat.

Carmel Comrade Club Holds Successful Bazaar

On Friday evening last, the Carmel Comrade Club held a successful bazaar in the Carmel school. A small charge was made at the door and was collected by Mr. Glen Ross.

The evening got off to a pleasant start with a program prepared by the following committee: Mrs. Clayton Riltz, Ivs Horton, Mrs. Merle Robinson and Mrs. Clare Horton. It consisted of two delightful solos by little Richard Garrison of Bethany; piano duet by Mrs. C. Horton and Ivs Horton; a men's quartet of Merle Robinson, Carman Dafoe, Alex Allison and Clayton Riltz; guitar music by Garry Chambers. The National Anthem closed this part of the evening, after which the club president, Mrs. Clarence Chambers invited all present to come and inspect the many attractive articles on display.

Pretty Aprons

The first prettily decorated booth was the two tables of aprons and fancy goods. There were big aprons, little aprons and half aprons, all pretty and serviceable.

The fancy goods booth held a bountiful selection of crocheted baby articles, pot holders and doilies. The conveners in charge of this booth were Mrs. Clayton Sullivan and Mrs. Raymond Lawrenson.

Thriving Business

The homemade candy booth did a thriving business with its many well-filled bags of fudge, maple cream, and divinity, in charge of selling candy were Miss Marguerite Hicks and Mrs. Ken Clarke.

In the same booth, on another table, bags of popcorn, prepared by Mrs. Russell Riltz and Mrs. Carman Dafoe, were for sale.

The fish pond, with its two fishing poles, was a drawing card for the children. One fish entitled the holder to the wrapped parcel his fish hook touched first. The conveners, Mrs. Alex. Allison and Mrs. Percy Reynolds did a fine business in the booth.

To conclude the evening, delicious refreshments were served in charge of the coffee making, was Mrs. Carl Thompson.

The great success of this bazaar was due to the hard work of the president and her conveners.

Agrees Women, Err Just as Men Will

Copenhagen, Denmark (Reuters)—Justice Minister Helga Pedersen, Denmark's first woman Minister of Justice, says she does not believe "the world would be the slightest bit better off if it were governed by women".

She says that "women in government would make exactly as many mistakes as men do.

"Person's qualifications should be the guide, not that person's sex."

An attractive, slim woman of 39, Miss Pedersen says she was "as surprised as anybody else" when she was asked to become justice minister.

She preferred not to comment on her new job "until I have settled down", but she did make these general remarks.

The lash: "I do not like it at all."

The death sentence: "I would like to see it abolished throughout the world."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Good questions about name-forms—signatures

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. How should our name be listed in the telephone directory of this large metropolitan city. My husband's name is (let's say) John J. Clark, and in his family there are, counting me, six (birth) there are several men of the same name, all already listed in the telephone book, though of course, at different addresses. So my husband wants our listing put in my name, Clark, Mary L. Would this really be correct?

2. I sign my child's report card Mrs. John J. Clark. Is this correct?

3. How should we sign our Christmas cards? We have two children. I have been signing greeting cards like this: John and Mary Clark; Ruth and Richard.

My husband says he thinks this does not look right. Is it right?

Mrs. John J. Clark.

1. No, your proper listing should be in your husband's name (unless you are in business or a profession and wish your name listed separately.) John J. Clark is correct. The address is the identification.

2. Yes.

3. Yes, this is a correct form for the family-signature on your Christmas cards, and excellent form, I think. Since you are including the names of the children, your husband's name should be first, as it is in the form you have been using.

There is also another good form your husband might prefer:

The Clarks—John and Mary, Ruth and Richard.

And one I prefer still, while we are discussing correct signature-forms, that the correct form for your signature to a letter to someone who is to be told your formal name is:

Sincerely yours,

Mary Lane Clark

(Mrs. John J. Clark)

In other words, the direct signature is your formal name; when necessary, add your formal name in parentheses, under and to the left of your direct signature.

The rule of courtesy when Christmas cards are hand-signed

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion, will you please answer this question: When one person is signing the Christmas cards for the family (the wife for the husband and herself, for example, or a daughter for her widower-father and herself, or one sister for two or three sisters, and so forth) whose name should be written first?

Helen L.

The rule of courtesy is that the person signing the cards puts her or his name last. That is, the wife signs John and Mary, the daughter signs for example, Richard Wilson and Grace, or the cards to people who call them both by their first names, Richard and Grace Wilson, the sister (Helen) signing the cards for all sisters, writes Katherine, Florence, and Helen.

BEAUTY

Reducing the waistline

When grandma was a girl she got her waist down to eighteen inches by lashing her mid-section into a steel-riveted, double-turreted corset. She could not eat a woman-sized meal. When she took off the horrible saddle at bedtime she heaved a tremendous sigh of relief. When her daughter got into the teen age, Grannie had her fitted to a corset. But daughter had some sense in her head. After a brief period of torture she flung her corset into the furnace. Since then feminine forms have had freedom of movement.

Nature provided a corset in the form of resilient muscles. If these muscles were kept in condition, there would be no need for girdles or foundation garments. But exercise does not appeal, so fibres extending from the ribs to the hip bones go slack. The waist measurement increases, hips assume the contour of the spreading chestnut tree and slenderness is but a memory.

Take a deep breath and inflate your chest. Draw in the abdominal muscles, not only in but up. A hollow will appear below your breasts; the lower portion of your torso will be flat; waist measure will be 2" less. If that happens, you can be pretty sure that you have lost slimness of waist because of incorrect posture.

Twice a day, devote ten minutes to this exercise. Lie flat on your back on bed, hands under the buttocks for support. Lift your legs slowly until you are fairly standing on the back of your neck. Lower them slowly. These movements will not succeed in the state of action, and activity will strengthen them. The strong thigh muscles fat cells will not reside; they will go off and die.

Do not exercise to a point of fatigue. When you feel tired, relax, take half a dozen deep breaths, then sit it again.

It is shameful to tolerate figure defects. A bulge shaft the waistline will ruin the appearance of the smart frock, will suggest advancing years. Away with it!

Make 200-Mile Trek For Deanery Meeting

Prince Albert, Sask. (CP) — Mrs. Frith Hicks, Cutes and Mrs. H. McKenzie might well have been excused if they had been late for the first day of the deanery meetings here of the Anglican Women's Auxiliary.

The church workers covered 200 miles of storm-swept hinterland to come from the remote trading settlement of Stanley.

For three days they paddled down northern Saskatchewan rivers, fighting rough river currents through driving snow and drenching rain. The route was studded with portages where canoes had to be carried through the bush.

On the fourth day, wet and weary, they reached Lac La Ronge where the Anglican missionary, Rev. H. Fournier, gave them a lift in his automobile. But the car got stuck and the women had to push.

Despite their difficulties the two intrepid delegates — from the Amos-Charlton Band of Cree Indians — reached Prince Albert in time for registering at the opening of their diocese's annual convention.

Sit with legs until you are almost standing on the back of your neck

Young girls, regardless of posture and what it means to them let the chest become deflated, and the tummy muscles protrude. In the middle age they will be distressed by being placed in the heavyweight bracket. The young, slender figure should be kept that way. It is a priceless beauty asset.

If you would nip off a few pounds in your equator, it can be done. Suppose you try this and see what happens.

Stand tall, hands on your hips.

Servicemen Must Pay Income Tax If Eligible

Ottawa, Nov. 15 — (CP)—One comforting aspect of life at home will follow Canadian troops to Korea, according to present indications — namely income taxes.

Army headquarters said Tuesday there is no intention as yet to revive the wartime system of granting income tax exemptions for officers serving overseas.

The post-war system of applying civilian standards to all servicemen — that is, they pay income tax simply if they make enough money — will continue in Korea unless some change is made by the future.

Such a change has apparently not yet been considered or, if considered, has been rejected. A Finance Department tax official said it has not been raised for consideration.

Under the war system, only officers serving at home paid income taxes. Other ranks were exempt. Overseas exemption for officers extended over the first six months at home as well.

But, it was said Tuesday, the 11,000 men in the Special Force Brigade going there are at least moving in style in the transportation field.

Special Trains Rolling

Special troop trains are rolling across the country, some of the 22 trains it takes the force of 10,000 from civilian life and 1,000 regulars in Fort Lewis, Wash. At least 1,000 of them will go on from there to Korea late this month.

The officers and warrant officers are sleeping in first - class berths, the other ranks in tourist-class berths. They eat in the regular Canadian National and Canadian Pacific dining cars with the usual menus and waiters before them — two dining cars to a train.

All arrangements have been made in Washington to take the trains across the border without customs or immigration fuss or fanfare. To handle the rush, reinforcements have been sent to C.N.R. and C. P. R. have drained sleeping cars from western routes and brought them east to take care of soldiers moving out of various camps.

Many veterans of the two World Wars would entertain nostalgic thoughts of vertical sights aboard troop trains when they heard of the army's assurance that if there weren't enough berths for them to go around the other ranks will sleep in first-class berths. Furthermore, they'll have "regular porter service available" to shine their boots and get them up.

UK Will More Than Double Tank Output

London, Nov. 14—AP—War Minister John Strachey said today defence tank production will be "more than doubled" as quickly as possible.

He told the House of Commons this include the output of the new 90-ton Centurion, claimed by British authorities to be the superior of any known Russian tank. Strachey declined to furnish figures or other details but said production already was rising "pretty rapidly."

MAINTAIN AIR LIFT

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 14—(CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said last night, that the R.C.A.F.'s Korean airlift "will be maintained as long as it is required." He declined to estimate any time.

The defence minister, at a press conference, declined to make any definite statement on the strength of reserve forces in Canada.

He said all units below strength have been asked to build up to "required numbers" as quickly as possible.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

THE CANADA SHOW

Browsing around yesterday with a column on various things, I impressions I stumbled on an idea that might stand up under some further investigation. It is this: a coast-to-coast radio show in these United States devoted to selling Canada.

Made the suggestion because it seems to us all too apparent that the average American has no more than a myopic view of Canada and of Canadians. We are considered, if at all, as a large, lonely wilderness up thataway. Or worse, as a kind of indentured appendage, sort of like Alaska.

There are a number of obvious reasons why this is a poor state of affairs. A more subtle one appeals to me at the moment. I find it hard on the ego to get outside the borders of my own country and discover so few people aware of what we're doing or of the tremendous progress Canada is making.

Of course, we need to rap the Americans affectionately over the knuckles with a little propaganda for more than mere egotistical reasons. This is our biggest market. It's only smart merchandising to let the customer know of the people behind the product so that a "Made in Canada" label will have a personal meaning.

In a global or continental sense there seems to be plenty of evidence that Washington is aware of our role. But Joe Doakes of Newark, New Jersey or Atlanta, Georgia or Phoenix, Arizona (where we happen to be at the moment) thinks of us only as a complacent seconder of motions or not at all.

Finally, we need to get across a picture of Canada and its people in a more effective way to further that great, sleeping giant of revenue, the tourist industry. About all that the average American now knows of Canada as a holiday destination is that he's heard the roads are bad.

Talent Galore

Idea of radio program appeals to me because it seems obvious that the way to reach the American public is through entertainment, through talent. Mountains of literature on Canada, "good will speakers" addressing US. service clubs, the occasional sequence that finds its way into the American newsreels — these things, while important, are a puny plink in the bucket in reaching the masses.

I would suggest a weekly hour-long show on one of the four major networks, originating in Toronto, but with pickups from various Canadian cities that can offer talent. This could be jointly produced by a committee of the Canadian Broadcasters, representing the independent stations.

Should be no difficulty in getting this time. All of the American networks now feed shows into Canadian cities. While we send some "exchange" programs southward the reciprocal aspect is pretty one-sided. I'd think all of the major chains in the States would be open to this kind of suggestion.

What's more important, Canada could put together a weekly hour that would be a gem of radio entertainment, a prestige show for any U.S. network. An American producer, looking over an available list of Canadian performers would have trouble suppressing a drool.

Giselle, Oscar Peterson, music by Howard Cable, comedy by Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, the magnificent acting talent gathered under the direction of Andrew Allan, Ed McGarry, Cliff Mackay, Juliette (who can't be topped by any American chanteuse)—well, these just happen to be some of my personal favorites. We have them by the dozen on a national basis and on a regional basis, giving all the rich color of our country.

So! Are we merely deliberating to America that we have some clever ministers? Not at all. We want to demonstrate to America that we're a country of vigor and with a certain sophistication and maturity not ordinarily associated with the word "Canada". We want to sell our product in a way that Americans appreciate.

A Promise

The "commercials" on this program would be left to given by expatriate Canadians in the entertainment world, the Allan Youngs, Jack Carsons, Raymond Massey and the rest; not because these people have any particular qualifications for spreading the word, but because they are listened to.

In this way we can tell the average citizen of the United States what kind of people we are, what we think about, what the individual Canadian really is.

We ought to tell the American that it's true, a lot of the roads are bad, but a great many of them are excellent. And we should start right now propagandizing on the thrill of a lifetime for any tourist; a drive from coast to coast across the Dominion over the world's most scenic highway. Sell that trans-Canada highway as we would a world-beating product because when it's completed we'll see a tourist industry beyond our greediest dreams.

Wolf Cub, Scouts Get Silver Cross

Ottawa, Nov. 14 (CP)—A 10-year-old Wolf Cub, Wayne Bailey of Island Falls, Sask., today received the Silver Cross, scouting's second highest award for gallantry, at an investiture at Government House.

Viscount Alexander, Chief Scout for Canada, also decorated four Scouts with the same medal. There were no winners this year of the Bronze Cross, highest possible award for gallantry.

Young Bailey, a member of the Island Falls pack, won the decoration for his attempt to rescue a girl from drowning in a creek near Island Falls.

A 12-year-old Scout, Walter Oliver of Silver Creek, Alta., also won the blue-ribbed award for rescuing another boy in danger of drowning in the lesser Slave River.

John Alex Coubrough, 12, of Brantford, Ont., was another Silver Cross winner, for rescuing a small boy and girl who had fallen through the ice of the Grand River.

Two Scouts from Nova Scotia, Gordon Dwyer Smith, 15, of New Glasgow, and John Gilbert MacDonald of Canning, also were decorated with Silver Crosses for similar acts of gallantry.

The Gill Cross, for gallantry with moderate risk, went to 12-year-old Peter Grant of Montreal and to 14-year-old Andrew Avison of Silverton, B.C.

Silver Wolf, for service to the Boy Scout Association, went to Archbishop Phil Carrington, Quebec City; G. Robley Mackay, Montreal; Canon H. J. Cody, Toronto; and M. L. Douglas, Brockville, Ont.

Ten persons received the Silver Acorn for distinguished service: S. Allan Hopper, Moncton, N.B.; Cyril J. Dendy and Allan T. Corner, Montreal; Clarence G. Blake, Sherbrooke, Que.; Walter H. Gibson, Tillsonburg, Ont.; G. King Shells, Toronto; Harold C. Taylor, Delhi, Ont.; C. H. P. Killick, Winnipeg; David J. Stenson and R. K. Jordan, Vancouver.

Junior Farmer Wins World Wheat Crown

Toronto, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Ricky Sharpe of Munson, Alta., a member of the Drumheller Junior Grain Club, today won the World Wheat Championship at the Royal Winter Fair. It was the first time in the history of the Fair that a member of a Junior Grain Club has won this championship.

John Eliuk of Haley Hill, Alta., won the World Oat Championship for the second successive year.

The Reserve Grand Championship for wheat also was won by a member of a Junior Grain Club in Alberta. Howard Roppel of Rockford won the runner-up award for his sample of Marquis wheat. The winning exhibit was of Thatcher.

Mrs. Amy Kelsey of Ericson, B.C., who won the wheat championship last year, placed sixth.

Mr. Eliuk duplicated his last year's triumph in the oats division with an exhibit of victory oats. Matt B. Schnerr of Sangudo, Alta., also showed victory in win the reserve championship.

Young Mr. Sharpe was not at the fair which got under way officially today. His exact age could not be learned immediately but Junior Grain Clubs call for a senior age limit of 21.

Sharpe won the Junior Wheat Championship at the fair last year.

Today's wheat and oats victories completed the six world championships awarded at the Fair. Yesterday world titlists were announced in barley, corn, rye and potatoes. The grand champion flax—not a world title—also was awarded.

The wraps are off today on the 32nd Fair with its 18 acres of everything a Canadian farmer grows or raises.

THROW UP ROADBLOCKS

Oshawa, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Police threw up roadblocks last night to trap thieves who took a small amount of cash, two rifles, ammunition, guns and 200 packages of cigarets from a garage at nearby Greenbank. However, the thieves abandoned an automobile near Greenbank and escaped. None of the loot was recovered.

Police Link Find Of Powder, Can To Work of Crank

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 14 —CP—City police disclosed today they are investigating a possible attempt to blow up the new armories under construction here. Defence Minister Claxton laid the cornerstone of the new building Sunday.

Police said that more than a week ago workmen found a canister containing inflammable powder and hooked up to a 20-foot length of fuse which was half burned. Early Sunday, they added, two sticks of dynamite were found near the powder storage warehouse, about 100 yards from the new building.

Police linked the finds to "a savage scheme likely perpetrated by a crank."

Royal Canadian Mounted Police joined the investigation today.

Police chief I. L. Robertson said today that on Sunday during the cornerstone ceremony all available members of the city police department were posted to duty in the area as a special precaution.

"We took special care to cover the movements of Defence Minister Claxton," he said.

Officers said the canister of inflammable powder had been sent to Toronto for analyses.

The armory is on Pine Street in the east end of the city, a considerable distance from industrial plants and the ship canal.

The finding of the canister was reported at the powder storage warehouse and the whole construction was checked after the dynamite was found.

Police said their investigations will include the incidents were not the work of "either kids or amateurs". They declined to say whether there was any indication of sabotage. Both city officers and R. C. M. P. were reluctant to supply details.

OLD LANDMARK SOLD

Hamilton, Nov. 14 (CP) — A famous Hamilton landmark called the "castle" has been sold and a new apartment building—to cost nearly $2,000,000—may replace it, a Hamilton real estate agent said today.

Alex P. Brown said the castle may be razed in about a year. It is built along the lines of Abbotsford, in Scotland, home of the late Sir Walter Scott.

LIKELY IN TORONTO

Kingston, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Provincial police said today they believed Allan Francis, 25, who escaped from Kingston penitentiary Saturday is in the Toronto district. Francis escaped from a farm detail under cover of darkness and rain.

He was sentenced in Toronto last January to four years for theft.

SALARY INCREASES GIVEN

Kingston, Nov. 14 (CP) — Salary increases of $200 per annum to full time administrative and clerical personnel and $150 yearly to firemen were approved by city council last night. Fire Chief V. C. Brightman, and Deputy Fire Chief Charles Saunders were granted increases of $200 each by a special resolution.

200 Canadians in Special Audience Moved to Tears As Pope Voices Great Sorrow

Vatican City, Nov. 15—(Reuters)—Nearly 200 Canadian wept today when Pope Pius, receiving them in special audience in the Vatican Palace, spoke with deep emotion of Monday's plane disaster which took the lives of 58 persons.

The Pope spoke of the terrible blow to Canada and particularly to Quebec, adding:

"The victims had just completed their Holy Year pilgrimage, gaining all the grace of the plenary indulgences, and opening the way for themselves to paradise."

Rev. Conrad Morin, leader of the group received in audience, said: "The words to be moved by the Pope's words and by the impression the accident has had on us that I noticed practically every one around me."

At the same time in the splendor of St. Peter's Basilica, adjoining the Vatican Palace, Msgr. Emile Leger, Archbishop of Quebec, assisted by some 20 bishops, celebrated a pontifical requiem mass for the 58 victims of the crash in the French Alps.

1,000 Worshippers

Nearly 1,000 worshippers, including three cardinals, attended the mass, celebrated in the big Chapel of Saints Processus and Martinian where the Pope has his private apartments.

Above the altar hung a fourth-century crufixix, one of the most precious possessions of the Church, with a purple curtain of mourning screening the picture of the martyrdom of the two Roman saints.

Before the altar sat a catafalque in black and gold, surrounded by tall candles.

James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, and Giuseppe Cardinal Pizzardo and Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, two of the Roman curia—headed the large number of prelates, priests and nuns present at the mass.

Onesime Gagnon, Quebec provincial treasurer, and Jean Drapeau, Montreal Ambassador to Rome, led the Canadian pilgrims and the Canadian community in Rome.

Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini, acting Secretary of State, and members of the Secretariat of State, representatives of the Vatican's Holy Year organizing committee and the staff of the Canadian College in Rome were also present.

The Vatican's Julian choir sang the Gregorian mass composed by Maestro Vincenzo Perosi, master of the Sistine chapel choir.

While the mass was in progress, the Pope was speaking to a group of 200 Canadians, mostly from Quebec, who had come from Montreal, who had come to Rome in the Marguerite Bourgeoys pilgrimage.

In one of the most beautiful halls of the Vatican, where the Pope holds the consistories of his cardinals, the pilgrims flocked around the pontiff.

Each kissed his ring and received the apostolic blessing.

As the Pope entered the hall and mounted his golden throne at one end, he spoke privately to Rev. Omer Tanguay, procurator of the Canadian College in Rome.

Father Tanguay later announced the Pope had authorized each parish priest of Canada to give one apostolic blessing to his congregation.

After imparting the papal benediction from the throne, the Pope descended to walk among the pilgrims.

Gerard Girard, deputy chief of Quebec City police, told the Pope he had come on the pilgrimage as the representative of 1,100 Quebec employees.

Sent Special Blessing

The Pope sent his special blessing to the police department and to all the city employees, as well as to their family," Girard said.

Girard added that nearly 40 of the 56 Canadians who perished in the crash had been sent to Rome as the representatives of their parishes by public subscription.

To some of the other pilgrims the Pope gave his good wishes for their return by air to Quebec and Montreal tomorrow.

The Rome agents for the owners of the lost Skymaster said the company was chartering another craft to take home the remaining 100 pilgrims, who were due to leave on the ill-fated DC-4's next two trips. No time has yet been set for the departures.

Republicans Call For Recount in Vote for Governor

Detroit, Nov. 15 (AP) With the official canvass showing Democrat G. Mennen Williams re-elected as Michigan's governor Republicans last night called for recount.

The official canvass of the state's 83 counties showed that Williams won the hotly-contested battle with former Governor Harry F. Kelly by a margin of 1,152 votes—narrowest margin in the state's history.

The final figure:

Williams (D) 935,152

Kelly (R) 934,000

Republican headquarters said the party would file suit for the state-wide recount, estimated to cost an estimated $20,000.

At the same time, Williams issued a "victory" statement in Lansing, pointing out the people of Michigan have "for the first time in 36 years re-elected a Democratic governor."

But not another Democrat was elected to a major state office in the Nov. 7 election.

At first it appeared that even the governor's race fell into Republican hands, with Kelly the winner by nearly a 4,000 vote margin in the complete unofficial newspaper returns.

But that was before a flood of mail-ups submerged county canvassing boards throughout the state with a rush job of straightening out the hairline contest. Approximately half the state's 83 counties subsequently came up with corrections in the official score for their precincts.

Teachers to Have Say In Shaping Changes For Curriculum

Toronto, Nov. 15. (CP)—Teachers are to have a say in shaping curriculum changes to go into effect in many Ontario schools next fall.

Changes in the school system announced a year ago provide that Board of Education in the province's communities will have authority to make curriculum changes, a right held in the past only by the Education Department. In Toronto—and, department officials think, in most other cities—teachers will help in the revision.

The department suggested that the curriculum for Grades 7 to 10 be revised first. This revision will tie in with the proposed linking of these grades in an intermediate division.

It was announced here Tuesday night that new curriculum changes in three basic subjects in Grades 7 to 10 are being worked out in Toronto and may be put into operation in the city's public, secondary and separate schools next September. The subjects are Social Studies, English and Mathematics.

The teachers already have started meetings to discuss the new curriculum.

Hunting Cow Moose Costs Him $230

Thumins, Nov. 15. (CP)— For hunting a cow moose, Louis Gauthier, Tuesday, was fined $230 or three months.

Robert Riehl, deputy game warden, said Gauthier jumped off a lumber camp snow tractor and fired three shots, at two moose. Gauthier, previously convicted on a similar charge, said he fired the shots to frighten the animals.

Intruder Convinced He is Wounded

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 15— (AP) —Leslie Green and his son, Gilbert, armed themselves with a shotgun and a clothes pole to wait outside a window for the intruder who had broken into their tavern.

As the man dropped to the ground to escape, Gilbert fired into the air and his father rushed the man with a blow of the clothes pole.

The man surrendered, convinced he was wounded.

Labor Council Asks Resignation Liberal Leader

Oshawa, Nov. 15 (CP)—The Oshawa District Labor Council last night demanded the resignation of their federal member of parliament, Walter Thomson, the newly-elected Ontario Liberal party leader.

Mr. Thomson, who was chosen at a Liberal convention in Toronto last week, still represents the federal constituency of Ontario.

"He has badly neglected the interests of Ontario riding, particularly that of its working people," said a resolution passed by the council. "His election as Liberal Party leader will mean a further neglect of the constituency's interests in the House of Commons."

The council accused Mr. Thomson of "devoting all his time to advancement of his personal political position."

It said he should resign as soon as possible to pave the way for a by-election which would select another representative for Ontario riding, a constituency which includes this highly-industrial city.

Liberal Leader Predicts Victory Next Election

Toronto, Nov. 15. (CP)—Walter Thomson, new Liberal leader in Ontario, said Tuesday night he has heard a provincial general election will be called next June.

"I can mold the province into a solid Liberal chain in the knowledge of certain victory in the coming election," he told the Eglinton Liberal Association.

He called for appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate alleged vice conditions in Windsor.

"The present government does not want the probe by the Police Commission there to go any further. Why? Is the Windsor situation to be hushed up?"

Oslo Train Wreck Kills, Injures Twenty

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 15—(AP)—Twenty persons were believed killed or injured in a train accident at Hjukseboe, on the Oslo-Kristiafisand railway today.

The Oslo-bound train from Kristiansand collided with a freight car which had broken loose on the main line.

Hjukseboe is 82 miles north of Oslo. Emergency squads including doctors and nurses were sent to the accident scene from Kristiansand and Drammen.

The accident occurred about 10:45 a.m. the express was going at full speed when it crashed.

The first coach of the express was demolished.

Editor Sketches Notable Events of Last 50 Years

Toronto, Nov. 15—(CP)— Intimate pictures of people and events of Canada's last 50 years—and of the newspaper men who wrote about them—are in a new book by Arthur R. Ford, editor-in-chief of The London Free Press.

"As the world wags on" (Ryerson) is the title of Mr. Ford's volume. Its 228 pages are filled with stories of famous people and the experiences they shared during his 47 years as a reporter, editor and world traveller.

Mr. Ford was there when Canada's parliament buildings were destroyed by fire Feb. 3, 1916, and he writes graphically of that tragic event.

He was there for the navy debate in 1913 and describes it as "the most boisterous, the noisiest and most disgraceful session of any Canadian parliament."

The book is the work of one who never ceased to be a reporter although for 30 years he has held an editorial chair. Writing as a reporter writes, it is a book of love to Mr. Ford and he describes, whimsically, how that love was born.

Leaving college in 1903 he thought of a career in the law or church but he got a summer reporting job on The Stratford Herald.

"I had no idea of being a newspaper man but that summer settled it. The idea of paying a person money—even if it was only $6 a week—to do something which a person liked and was actually fun, was a novelty, and I decided then and there my career was in the newspaper game."

Student of Events

On the old Winnipeg Telegram, in the press gallery at Ottawa, and from his editorial chair in London, Mr. Ford studied closely the people and events of his day and was intimately associated with many of them.

He was a familiar of all the prime ministers of the half century and with many of the fiery party men who enlivened public life when politics was a lustier and more combative occupation than now.

He tells intimately of the antics and drollerus that made the late Bob Edwards of the Calgary Eye-Opener the beloved writing man of the west's earlier days.

Many of Canada's great reporters and editors stroll through the pages of Mr. Ford's book. He describes the birth of Canada's cooperative news gathering organization—The Canadian Press—of which he later became president.

He gives his own versions of such controversial events as the formation of the union government, the selection of party leaders at the major political conventions of his time, the rise and decline of General Sam Hughes, the constitutional dispute between former Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the Governor-General, Lord Byng, in 1926, and the Mackenzie King - Ralston split over conscription in 1944.

Mr. Ford travels widely and always with the eyes and ears of a reporter. He has made many trips to Europe and to the United States, and visited Australia and the South Pacific theatre in the Second World War. Something from most of these trips is in his book.

There is a forward to the book by his old friend Vincent Landon, vice-president of the University of Western Ontario, of which Mr. Ford has been chancellor since 1947.

Defence Closes Case in Second Murder Trial

Picton, Nov. 15. (CP)—The defence yesterday closed its case in the second murder trial of James Foshrey, R.A.F. veteran, charged with the fatal stabbing of his wife in a snowbank at Napanee in November, 1945.

The crown immediately started rebuttal of defence evidence that "brain wave" measurement tests taken of the accused showed his reactions could be "abnormal".

Dr. Denis White, who conducted tests with an electro-encephalograph at Kingston, Ont., admitted he had not "adequately examined" Foshrare due to lack of time.

Dr. Charles Pratt, assistant superintendent of the Ontario hospital at Woodstock, declined to say Foshrey had a diseased mind in spite of abnormalities shown on the brain wave. He requested a further test be made.

Earlier, Dr. George Scott testified for the defence that at the time of the stabbing Foshrey "did not know what he was doing".

The court sat Tuesday night and the case was expected to go to the jury some time today.

Foshrey was acquitted of the slaying at his first trial in Napanee last June. But he won an appeal for a new trial and also a change of venue from Napanee to Picton.

Gov.-General Presides at Two Investitures

Ottawa, Nov. 15 (CP) —Viscount Alexander, Governor-General, presided at two investitures in Rideau Hall yesterday, decorating Boy Scouts, airmen, and prominent Canadians alike for gallantry and service to their country.

The investitures were the first at Government House in more than a year.

At the afternoon session the Governor-General, as Grand Prior in Canada of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, donned the voluminous black cape of the order with its starkly-white eight-pointed crest. In a half-hour ceremony he invested some 50 persons with the insignia of their office in the order.

Earlier, in his Field Marshal's uniform, Viscount Alexander shook the hand of 17 airmen or their next-of-kin. Then he presented decorations ranging from the Air Force Cross to the Distinguished Flying Cross, all bearing citations which retold the story of Canadian valor in the last war.

Many prominent Canadian men and women Tuesday received recognition on their active support in the St. John Ambulance work.

Among these was Lady Eaton of Toronto, who was promoted to a Dame of Grace in the order. Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Ray Lawson, recognized as a Knight of Grace within the order. To the latter went the gleaming eight-pointed enamelled medal of the order.

3000 Japanese Canadians In Japan Nearly All Trying To Find Way Back to Canada

By DAVE MCINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tokyo, Nov. 15—(CP)— The Canadian government may soon have a Nisei problem on its hands. There are about 3,000 Japanese-Canadians in Japan, nearly all trying to get back to Canada.

Getting back is not an easy matter. For the first thing, the yen is not convertible into Canadian currency so that a Nisei over here must first find a relative or friends in Canada who will put up the money for his passage.

If the money appears, the Canadian legation here starts an exhaustive investigation. Any former member of the Japanese army, navy or air force is automatically barred from entering Canada.

Many Are Interpreters

The Nisei here came to Japan just before the famous Pearl Harbor or sooon after it ended. When they go back, they go to eastern and not western Canada. They were moved out of British Columbia during the war.

Most of them work as interpreters here, some with the United Nations. About 10 or 15 make the grade each month and return to Canada.

Once the United States and Japan sign a peace treaty, however, former members of the Japanese army will be able to get back to Canada and this could mean trouble.

The Nisei have dual nationality. After the peace treaty—still nowhere in sight because of the Korean situation — former army members will be able to go to the United States and get a visa to visit the United States.

A U.S visa entitles a person to leave and re-enter the U.S. within the visa's time limit.

Canadians here say the Canadian government will have to enact, sooner or later, a law to prevent former Japanese army men from getting around present regulations by using the U.S. visa.

Dalkeith Still Most Talked-of Royal Suitors

London (AP)—Gossip persists in making the red-headed Earl of Dalkeith the most likely suitor for the hand of Princess Margaret.

Margaret shares her acquaintance among a platoon of youthful peers but the red letter dates go to Dalkeith. He is still her most constant escort at theatres, restaurants, night clubs and dances.

The 20-year-old princess has repeatedly been a weekend guest at one or another of the three county estates kept by the Earl's father, the Duke of Buccleuch. An engagement has been flatly forecast by the London Evening Star. The 21-year-old Earl in turn has certainly had Royal inspection. The King and Queen invited him to Windsor Castle last summer for the top event of the social season, the Royal house party for the Ascot races.

On that occasion the Earl rode in the same carriage with Margaret on the Royal drive to Ascot, an official public appearance of considerable significance.

Eventually the Earl of Dalkeith will be one of Britain's wealthiest men, as the heir to the eighth Duke of Buccleuch, now 58 years of age. The family owns rich property in London and many acres of farm and forest throughout eight counties.

Manages Estates

The family castles are rich in art treasures, especially paintings, china and antique furnishings. Some of these have been lent to the government to decorate British embassies.

Dalkeith is confining his business career to the management of the estates which will some day be his. Just now he's busy supervising the investment of about $900,000 in the estates to build new buildings and replant the big fir forests cut down during the war to manufacture Mosquito bombers, torpedo boats and other weapons.

He attended Eton and Oxford, worked briefly in an airplane factory, then went into the navy where he became a destroyer lieutenant.

After the war he studied forestry abroad and came home to tune in estate management under his duke's experts.

Now his sunny six-foot figure can frequently be seen among the Scottish hills, touring his estates. Sometimes he goes afoot, sometimes on horseback. He drives a small, gas-thrifty car on occasional shopping trips to Selkirk.

When he wants to nip cross-country in a hurry, he trots out a speedy sports roadster.

Toronto, Nov. 15 (CP) — Toronto Balmy Beach, powerhouse club of the Ontario Rugby Football Union this season, provide the backbone for the league's 1950 all-star team.

The Beaches, OHFU champions who meet either Hamilton Tiger-Cats or Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Union in the eastern final this Saturday, placed eight players on the mythical team announced last night.

Three players from the second-place Sarnia Imperials and one from the last-place Windsor Rockets were named to the team, selected annually for The Canadian Press by football writers and coaches in the league's three cities. Votes were weighted to give equal voting strength to each city.

The Beaches' comeback reflected the brilliant playing of their five Americans, all of whom won all star rating. In the over-all selections, however, the league's Canadian players didn't take a back seat to the imports, placing the same number—six—on the team.

Winding with the choice of playing-coach Jim Caine for the secondary half defence position, provided for the lone import on the squad besides the five from the Beaches. Three of the eight Toronto all-stars and the three Sarnia choices are Canadians. The Sarnia team is the sole remaining all-Canadian squad in senior football apart from those in the intercollegiate unions.

Two Unanimous Choices

Two imports, quarterback Gerry Tuttle and Negro halfback Carl Galbreath of the Beaches, were unanimous choices of the selectors along with one Canadian, halfback Johnny Thornecki of the Imperials. All received the maximum 18 votes.

The other imports chosen besides Tuttle, Galbreath and Caine were snap Dwight Fellin of the Beaches and their two big middle wings, Otten Fisher and George Gilchrist.

Besides Thorosteckl the only other Canadian named to the half line was the Billy Haddleton. He got the flying wing berth for his outstanding running and plunging with the Beaches.

Veteran Bruce Mattingley of Sarnia, who this season alternated at the snap and inside positions, got the nod for one of the inside spots with the other going to young Ross Taylor of the Beaches.

Keith Fisher of Sarnia, the only repeater from last year's all-star team, was picked for one outside wing position, Art Scullion, like Fisher an outstanding pass receiver and kicker, was picked as the other outside.

Thorosteckl, native of the Sudbury area, earned the vote of all the experts by winning the league's scoring championship in a breeze. He scored 85 points on 16 touchdowns, five field goals, 16 converts and four singles.

The all-stars:

Flying wing, Billy Haddleton, Balmy Beach.

Half, Johnny Thorosteckl, Sarnia.

Half, Carl Galbreath, Balmy Beach.

Half (secondary defence), Jim Caine, Windsor.

Quarter, Gerry Tuttle, Balmy Beach.

Snap, Dwight Follin, Balmy Beach.

Inside, Bruce Mattingley, Sarnia.

Inside, Ross Taylor, Balmy Beach.

Middle, Otten Fisher, Balmy Beach.

Middle, George Gilchrist, Balmy Beach.

Outside, Keith Fisher, Sarnia.

Outside, Art Scullion, Balmy Beach.

Threat of Rain For Big Game In Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 15—CP—Mild weather with temperatures in the 50's and a threat of rain was the setting at Varsity Stadium today for the final game of the total-point Big Four football final between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Toronto Argonauts.

If the rain holds off, Argos will probably trot out on the field (at 1:15 p.m. EST) about 7-5 favorites despite the Tiger-Cats' 14-11 margin from last Saturday's game at Hamilton.

The game will be played to a finish. If the two game series is tied at the end of regulation time, one or more overtime periods of 20 minutes each will be played.

Rain and a soggy field likely would give the heavier line of the Tiger-Cats an edge over the lighter Argos.

Hamilton fans were pepped up over news that Bill Gregus, hard-hitting backfield import, would be in the game. Due to the report in Toledo yesterday for his army call, he received a last minute deferment, oddly enough with the help of an Argo fan, H. O. Moran, Canadian Assistant Undersecretary of State for External Affairs at Ottawa.

Moran, who says he has $10 riding on the Argos, acted in an unofficial capacity to speed up the Gregus deferment on grounds that he is a college student, attending McMaster University. Gregus will be able to play for Hamilton today and also in the Grey Cup final if the Tiger-Cats go that far, before he must report to the U. S. draft board Dec. 1.

Argos also found good news in the return of Billy Bass, star defensive and offensive backfielder who has been out with cracked vertebrae.

Bruce Woodcock Hangs Up Gloves For Last Time

London, Nov. 15 (AP) — Bruce Woodcock's handlers have tossed in their last towel.

The one-time British heavyweight ruler, who at times bled so often he began to look like a leaky blood bank, hung up his gloves for good last night.

With British and British Empire titles on the line, a tired Woodcock was beaten into submission in 11 rounds by Jack Gardner, a 34-year-old chicken farmer.

The 29-year-old Woodcock lay on his dressing room table afterwards and muttered:

"I'm giving it up. I've had enough."

His left eyebrow was swollen the size of a goose egg. Blood poured from his eye and nose and mouth.

Gardner, a relative novice with only 25 professional fights, takes over as ruler of the British big men. His immediate plans are indefinite.

"We are in no hurry to match Jack with Americans," said manager John Simpson.

Promoter Jack Solomons had said last night's winner might be put up against Joey Maxim, world light heavyweight champion. After the fight, however, he said nothing had been arranged.

Woodcock came to the end of his trail after nine years and 39 professional fights. He lost only four times but never became an international threat because of his inability to do anything against American boxers.

In his only New York appearance, he got his head cut open in five rounds by Tami Mauriello.

People who know him say Woodcock has saved his money. He collected about $25,000 for his efforts last night.

BARONS BACK ON TOP

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15. (CP)—Cleveland's Barons moved back into first place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League by trimming Springfield's Indians 6-3 before 6,-117 here last night.

The Indians twice took the lead in the first period on goals by Bronco Horvath and Ken Hayden, but the Barons were in front at the first intermission 3-2, and in the last two periods dominated the game.

Leaders Lose In Major "B" Bowling Loop

The "underdogs" came up with wins in the Major "B" (Tuesday) Bowling League at Recreation Alleys last night but the league standing remained unchanged with Sacos adding two points to their one-point lead over the Inkspots.

The printers went down to a 5-3 defeat before the maple-toppling onslaught of the Just Us team by a 5-3 count while Sacos bowed by a 4-3 score to the Opticals.

In the other game the Hibberd Electrics set back the Mead Johnson quintet by a 5-3 score.

M. Moreau of Inkspots rolled the best triple of the night with a 672 while teammate B. Rawson got the high single of 262, other good scores were Rawson 668; B. Hardwick 603 (265); J. Wardle 633; A. Whalen 625; Yerex 655; J. Legault 626; E. Cooney 658; A. Browning 603; S. Cole 646 (262).

R.C.A.F. Flyers Still on Top

Ottawa, Nov. 15 (CP)—Ottawa's R.C.A.F. Flyers held on to their first-place position in the Eastern Canada Hockey League last night with a 5-2 victory over Ottawa Army.

Against consistently good play by the Flyers, the Army was unable to put up a good offensive, and never got into the lead. Defensive play by Flyers' Don Thomson and Bob Quilty kept the Army rushes away from netminder Jack McLeod.

George Steele opened the scoring for the R.C.A.F. in the opening period, and although Clare Gratton erened it for Army about two minutes later, the soldiers were shortly swamped by goals from Bob Dennison and Gordie Scott.

After a scoreless second frame in which Army carried the play, Orville Gravelle made it 4-1. Playing coach Connie Brown's Army goal was then matched by an addition from George Robinson.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tonight the Bellerville hockey squads trek to the faraway places on safaris in both senior and junior "B" groups. The Rockets "D's" trek to Peterborough where they meet the IOOF's of that village in the opening game of the junior brackets while senior coach Walter Eest takes his senior Intos to Kingston where they tangle with the Queen's University Combines. Coach Best sent his squad through a stiff practice session Monday and Tuesday nights and with a shuffling of the lines hopes to emerge with a winning combination tonight.

* * *

Looks from this distance as though there isn't much to choose between these flying Peterborough senior "B" squads. The other night the Petes and the Eagles dipsy - doodled through a tough regular session and ten minutes of overtime with neither getting the nod. The tussle ended in a 2-all tie and from all reports the honors were evenly divided. Both squads are unbeaten and Monday night's over-stephen affair was the first decision-less battle of the season. The Petes have five scalps to their belt with one game a draw while Eagles have grabbed three decisions and a tie. Looks like Pyer pays the money and takes yer choice' up around the Liftlock City way.

* * *

Coach Bent will use big Vern Geyer with Doug Pree as one of the Redmen rearguards in tonight's tussle with Queens. Tommy Schermerhorn will pair with Lou Schmidt as the other defence pair. Up front Jackie Wardhaugh will centre Johnny Green and Brian Malvihill on the first line of shock troops. George Gerrard will be used with centre Peter Jones and right winger Tim Williams while the other line will consist of Dougie Day and Keith MacDonald flanking Ross Sawyer. Sawyer is an ex-RCAF player recently posted to Trenton. He played his 1948 hockey with the Chicoutimi Volants of the Quebec Senior League and last year was with the Marge Redmen of the same loop. Jack Keays will take care of the netminding chores.

President Ken McNaught of the BHA took over the coaching duties of Smiley Meronek with the Rockets Juniors. Meronek is out of town on business.

McNaught sent the juveniors through a stiff workout, preparatory to tonight's opening Junior "B" tilt in Peterborough.

No definite selections as to tonight's lineup were made last night due to the absence of the regular coach.

The following players however were ordered to report at the Arena at six o'clock when the team will embus for Peterborough: Bobby Green, Don Barclay, Ron Mantle, Gord Graham, Chief Henhawks, Bill Turland, Ernie Trumble, Peter Green, Don Neals, Riffy Strahan, Pat Gilmour, Duke Dornan, Ray Carey, Paul Delaney, Harry Brown, Bobby Hunter and Gerry Desjardins. Ross Mason and Jack Murphy are unable to make the trip.

DOTS 'N' FLASHES

Joe Nolan has left for Troy, N. Y., where he will do some puckchasing . . . Mayor Jack Allin will draw the lucky ticket at the Senior Hockey Club Dance tonight . . . Looks like a swell affair, so better not miss it . . . Rumor Row has it that Ken Murphy, a better-than-average defenceman has been cut loose by Kingston Nylons . . . Redmen could do worse than grab this fine player . . . Attention Minors: The BHA juveniles will hold their first practice in Memorial Arena tomorrow (Thursday) night from 9 till 10 . . . The Midgets will take the ice from 7 till 8 . . . All players desirous of trying out with these squads are asked to report at the Arena at these times . . . By the way, the first prize at that hockey dance is a radio . . . Other prizes include: purses, cosmetics, etc. etc. . . . Lots of 'em will be distributed.

Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks were the hottest clubs in the National Hockey League last week as both aggregations extended their unbeaten streaks. In their last seven games the Red Wings have won five and tied two and as a result are in second place in the standings with 12 points, three back of the league - leading Toronto Maple Leafs. Detroit brought the Leafs unbeaten skein to a close on November 11 when they downed the Princes 3-1. Toronto have only dropped one game in their last 13 starts, and possess the remarkable record in 14 games of nine wins, three ties and two losses, for a total of 21 points.

Chicago Black Hawks, most improved team in the NHL this season have played six straight games without a setback. The Hawks won five and tied one in their delightful streak. The Windy City six is in third place in the standings with 16 points. Montreal Canadiens are fourth with 12 points and are followed by New York Rangers with eight and Boston Bruins with six.

* * *

The three Toronto centres, Bentley, Gardner and Kennedy are presently holding down the top three scoring positions. Max Bentley picked up one goal and four assists during the week to bring his point total to 19. This is five more than Gardner and Kennedy. Bentley's 19 points are made up of five goals and 14 assists; Gardner has six goals and eight assists while Kennedy, the Toronto skipper, has four tallies, and 10 assists. Maurice Richard of Canadiens, top goal scorer with nine, Ted Sloan, Toronto and Gordie Howe, Detroit, are all grouped together with 13 points apiece. Bentley's 14 assists is the most assists of any player.

* * *

Terry Sawchuk only allowed four goals to be scored against him in three games and as a result his record is the best of any goaltender in the loop. In 13 games the Detroit rookie has had 30 pucks get past him for an average of 1.87. He chalked up his second shutout of the season on November 12, while Toronto's Turk Broda, the shutout leader, was racking up his fourth, on the same night.

* * *

Toronto Maple Leafs are the most penalized team with 157 minutes in the "hoosegow". Detroit are the least penalized team with a mere 90 minutes. Tony Leswick of Rangers is the most penalized player with 29 minutes.

Ezzard Charles Warming Up For Title Defence

Busy is the word for Ezzard Charles, now warming up for a fifth defence of his world heavyweight boxing championship.

At the rate he's going, Ezzy will better Joe Louis' mark of 25 defences. Already he is ahead of Louis' pace by some two months.

When Charles meets Nick Barone of Syracuse at the Cincinnati garden, Nov. 28, it will be only 17 months and six days after he won the crown by whipping Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago. Louis made his fifth defence after 19 months and three days.

Of course, Charles wasn't recognized in all states until he beat Louis Sept. 27 at the Yankee Stadium. Still he was the N.B.A. champion as soon as he outpointed Walcott, June 22, 1949.

Charles' first foe after the Walcott match was Gus Lesnevich, a light heavyweight. Gus retired after seven rounds.

Pat Valentino was knocked out in the eighth round at San Francisco after that bout and a few exhibition flashes Charles was forced into temporary retirement by a rib injury.

Ezzard returned to the ring at Buffalo, Aug. 15 to stop Freddie Beshore in 1 rounds. Then he took a 15-round decision from Louis.

Britain still does not recognize Charles as champion, giving the nod to Lee Savold of Englewood, N.J. Savold has not defended the crown he won by beating Bruce Woodcock June 6.

New York Yankees lost two of their better young pitchers to the army yesterday.

Ed (Whitey) Ford, 22-year-old southpaw pitching star, said he had been ordered to report for army induction, Nov. 20. Whitey won nine games and lost one in a half-season with the Yankees. That sensational pitching splurge played a big part in the Yankees' pennant triumph. He also won the fourth and final world series game.

Dave Madison, a rookie righthander, another Yankees he had been called back to service. The 26-year-old athlete was a reserve in the infantry. He came up from the Kansas City farm club to make a few appearances in September.

The light but speedy Vancouver Blue Bombers last night won the Western Canada Western football final with a 19-12 victory over the Winnipeg Rifle Infantry in Winnipeg. Bombers meet Hamilton Junior Tiger-Cats Saturday at Hamilton for the Dominion crown now held by the Ti-Cats.

Mayor Lloyd Jackson thinks highly of Hamilton Tiger-Cats' chances of victory against Toronto and Toronto Balmy Beach in the Eastern Canada football playoffs.

"I have already made arrangements for a joint kick-off on Nov. 25 with Mayor Garnet Coulter of Winnipeg," he said last night.

All-Sports Record Book Answers Many Questions

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—Want to know who won the King's Cup race for sloops and schooner in 1906? or maybe you just can't remember who holds the world record for the left hand clean and jerk, or the name of the Birling champion in 1898.

The answers, and thousands of answers to other questions, are in Frank Menke's new 328-page all-sports record book, just off the press and published by A. S. Barnes and Company.

All the so-called major sports are covered comprehensively, but not a little of the fascination is due to the oddities sprinkled through its pages.

We didn't know, for instance, that George Allen, a Briton, walked 910 miles in less than 17 days for an average of 63 miles a day. Or that a hollow-legged gent consumed 96 clams, a hot dog and two bottles of pop as just a snack while idling away the time at Atlantic City.

Or that a 19-year-old Chicago girl walked 408 feet on her hands (some, no doubt); or that in Wales there is a sport called purring, in which two contestants don heavy boots, stand face to face, and kick each other in the shins until one says the heck with it.

The book says it costs a duck hunter $9.72 for each duck he bags in the havoc all expenses of an expedition.

Cornhusking is a tedious job which requires strong, tough hands, but it must be fascinating for those just watching the huskies. The 1940 National cornhusking competition drew 150,000 spectators. Sadly enough, there was no gate.

An Australian named Tom Morris skipped rope for 590 miles in 28 days. Basketball attendance in the United States is estimated at 105,000,000 annually, or about one-third of total sports attendance.

Baseball alone takes 33 pages, and the data will settle many an argument, from how much Ty Cobb took out of the game to a chart on New York Yankee hospitality of 1949, complete with names, dates and ailments.

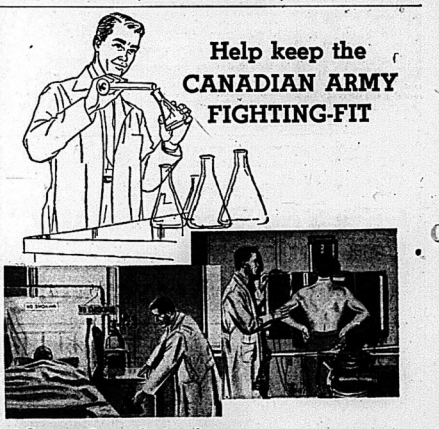
Thirty-seven pages are devoted to horse racing, exclusive of the harness horses, which have a section of their own.

Gregus Given Deferment Until December 1st

Hamilton, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Halfback Bill Gregus of Hamilton Tiger – Cats, ordered to report to a draft board in Toledo, O., for army duty, has been granted another deferment until Dec. 1, club officials announced Tuesday.

This word was received just 30 minutes before the plunging star was to leave here and with club officials resigned to the fact that he would not be available for the second game of the Big Four Union playoffs against Toronto Argonauts today.

Club officials said word of the deferment was confirmed from United States Army headquarters in Toledo.



Earlier this season Gregus was ordered to Toledo for an army medical examination and it was later revealed he had been granted a deferment at that time because he was enrolled at McMaster University here as a student.

Psychologist-Hypnotist Hired to Needle N.Y. Rangers Into Win Streak in N.H.L.

(By The Canadian Press)

Some of their best friends claim New York Rangers have been in a trance ever since the National Hockey League season opened. Tonight they may be right.

Coach Neil Colville, whose pleas, pep-talks and line-up shuffles have produced one win and six ties for the Rangers in 14 starts, will give hypnosis and psychoanalysis a whirl tonight when the fifth-place Rangers face Boston Bruins in Madison Square Garden.

Colville has an experienced man and a suspicious occasion for the job.

The man is Dr. David F. Tracy, who tried to hypnotize St. Louis Browns into winning the American baseball league race last summer. (They finished seventh.) The occasion is a do-or-die battle with the Bruins—the only team in the N.H.L. with a worse record than the Rangers' win, eight losses and four ties.

Manager Frank Boucher talked Colville into the experiment after lunching with Dr. Tracy, who is convinced that the Rangers lack confidence.

The same could be said of the Bruins. Both clubs are over a little more than one goal a game—the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs average better than three—and their netminders are the most porous in the league.

May Be Passing Up Bet

At that, Dr. Tracy may be passing up more promising material in Lynn Patrick's Boston crew. They took a 7-0 shellacking from the Leafs last Sunday night while the Rangers were losing by a comparatively respectable 4-1 score to Chicago Black Hawks.

Scoring statistics fall to show a Ranger or Bruin in the first two dozen point-makers.

If Dr. Tracy is successful in breathing life into the Rangers, his services might be in demand in Montreal before the fourth-place Canadiens have a problem on their hands.

They have a date with the Maple Leafs Thursday night. And their regular goalie, Gerry McNeil, is in hospital with an ankle injury.

Coach Dick Irvin may recall farband Goedie (Ding Dong) Bell from Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League or string along with amateur Jacques Plante of Montreal Royals of the Quebec Major League. Obviously, either of these inexperienced young men could do with psychological aid.

Detroit Red Wings, a second-place club in apparently-robust mental health, face Chicago in another Thursday tilt.

Foolish Penalty Beats St. Kitts By 3-2 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

Penalties, particularly the unnecessary variety, have proved to be the undoing of many a good hockey club.

The Twas .. demonstrated graphically last night when Stratford Kroehlers made their first visit of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season to St. Catharines and proceeded to defeat the league-leading Teepees 3-2 with the aid of a foolish penalty.

The score was 2-2 in the final minutes of the game when Ed Calhoun drew a major for deliberately charging Guy Henri and smashing him against the boards.

While he sat out the final five minutes in the penalty box, Gord Myles scored the winning tally at the 18:50 mark. Myles had also scored the tying goal early in the third period as the Teepees faded after dominating play in the middle frame.

Ken Unlac got the only goal of the first period to give the Kroehlers a 1-0 lead, in the first period but the Teepees came back with a pair by Gord Lonner and Wayne Brown in the second.

The night's work for the officials added only eight penalties to players, but a spectator was also handed. The fan grabbed referee Pearcy Allen's arm at the boards, protesting when no penalty was called on a Stratford defenceman who hit Frank Toyota. Allen called the police and the fan was quickly ejected.

The loss didn't affect St. Catharines' hold on first place but it did move Stratford from eighth position to a tie with Galt for fourth, an indication of how tight the race is in the league.

It was the only game scheduled for last night. Tonight Galt plays at Oshawa, Guelph visits Windsor and St. Catharines goes to Barrie.

In the OHA major series tonight, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are at Hamilton in a game which could give either team a tie for first place with Marlboros and St. Michael's.

Bombers Will Have Plenty Of Support

Winnipeg, Nov. 15—CP—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 1950 western football champions, won't lack supporters at the Grey Cup final in Toronto Nov. 25. But no plans have been made yet for a display to match Calgary's in the last two years.

"If Toronto is expecting a sideshow similar to that put on by Calgary followers in 1948 and '49, then I'm afraid they'll be disappointed," one Bomber official said. "We can't afford it."

He said, however, the city or the Junior Chamber of Commerce may want to drum up something on their own. Mayor Garnet Coulter said nothing had been planned yet.

Maurice Carter, president of the Winnipeg Gardens Hockey Club, said his group thought about trying some stunt but dropped it when "the good idea" turned up.

"We can't expect the club to pay for it," he added. "There isn't enough getting a good ball club. I think it's up to the city, but then again, we could we have which is representative of our city or province."

Mrs. Gordon Shoemaker came up with the idea of playing up Winnipeg's floods. He suggested borrowing a couple of army ducks, a pile of sandbags, shovels, picks, water pumps, and other equipment used during the fight of last spring's flood.

He proposed a slogan: Winnipeg is still winning its battles."

Ald. Jean Black was in favor of staging a suitable demonstration. He suggested Winnipeg fans carry banners reading: "We were wet, but now we're winning."

Carter said he would bring these ideas up at the next quarterback meeting this week.

He added: "Maybe it would be better if we just sneaked up on the Grey Cup; then sneaked out. That would give the boys along Main Street as much to talk about as putting on a bunch of entertainment."

No matter what is decided, there will be plenty of yelling, and many of the voices will be rooting for Bombers.

Heading the thousands of Winnipeggers planning to make the jaunt to Toronto are Mayor and Mrs. Coulter, 24 aldermen are expected to join the special train load.

City council asked the finance committee to arrange travelling expenses for the mayor as the city's official representative. The aldermen will have to pay their own way—and obtain their own quests.

CHIEF VISITS KINGSTON

Kingston, Nov. 15 (CP)—General Stilo Marras, chief of the Italian Army Staff, inspected Canadian army establishments in the Kingston area yesterday. He was accompanied by Col. U. Dimastrion, Italian military attache in Washington, Col. E. Musco of the Italian General Staff and Col. J. E. Pangman of the area commandant's staff.

Baseball Moguls to Shovel Plenty of Coal in 'Hot Stove' League During Next Two Days

Cincinnati, Nov. 15 (AP) — They'll be shoveling on coal in baseball's "hot stove league" here for the next two days.

Club owners, farm system heads, scouts, managers and a scattering of players began rolling in today for a series of meetings that will cover both major leagues and the American Association.

The top affairs will be held tomorrow.

First will be the annual draft by the major leagues of players from the minor loops. Then will come separate meetings for directors of the American and National Leagues and a joint session of both organizations to decide what to do with $75,000 turned this year from the sale of world series radio and television rights.

The draft and the joint meetings will be held with baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and secretary of baseball Walter Mulbry.

Even before that, however, the American Association directors will be in huddles.

President Bruce Dudley called a meeting of the eight-team mid-Class AAA minor loop for today. He said it was for the purpose of figuring out the 1951 schedule.

There was immediate speculation, however, as to whether the association might do some official talking about the Pacific Coast League's request to be exempt from the Major League draft. One proposal has been made to put the coast league in a new Class AAAA.

It isn't expected to find much favor, however, with either the association or the International League. The Pacific Coast, the Association and the International now are Class AAA.

The disposal of the radio-TV world series money is a knotty problem.

Some of the players have been asking that part of the money be divided up among the first four finishers in each league. Originally, it was intended that the money go into the Player Pension Fund.

MAKES FORCED LANDING

Brantford, Nov. 15 (CP) — An R.C.A.F. Harvard training plane made a forced landing on a farm near Onondaga, nine miles east of here late last night, but occupants escaped injury. Engine failure was given as the cause. The plane, based at Aylmer, Ont., was piloted by Fg. Off. E. B. Chase, and Sqdn. Ldr. L. Yelloweiss was a passenger.

Otto J. Hardwick Retiring as Loop President

Bolton, Nov. 15 (CP) — Otto J. Hardwick, reeve of this Toronto district village, announced today he is retiring as president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

Hardwick, on the executive of the OMHA for the last 12 years, said in a statement the retirement will come at the league's annual meeting in Toronto next Saturday, when he will be succeeded by Herb Parker of Stratford.

Hardwick says he wants to be free to coach a "kid's team" if the occasion arises.

Parker's promotion will cause a general move-up in the executive, said Hardwick. O. Mike Weichel of Elmira will become first vice-president; R. Kinchelar of Whitby, second vice-president, and Fred Norman of Simcoe third vice-president.

IN USE AGAIN

Thamesville, Nov. 15 (CP) — Canadian Pacific's main line through this town was in use again last night after replacement of 47 ties. The roadbed was torn up by a derailment yesterday morning.

O.H.A. Orders Replay of Game Won by Guelph

Toronto, Nov. 15. (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association last night ordered a replay of a Junior A game won 4-3 by Guelph Biltmores from Galt Black Hawks at Guelph Nov. 3.

A sub-committee, hearing a protest by the Galt Club, ruled that Guelph had ignored O.H.A. instructions not to play Willie Marshall pending an executive decision on a Biltmores-Toronto St. Michael's College player deal.

The replay is to be in Guelph on a date suitable to both clubs, with Galt to be awarded $60 expense money and an even split of the net gate.

The Marshall deal was declared off when Ken Laufman, one of two players Biltmores were to send St. Mike's and $500 in cash, refused to report. Johnny Negladiuk, the other player, reported.

Manager Roy Mason, secretary Arnold Somerville and Treasurer Bruce McMillan appeared for Guelph and Art Parsons for Galt.

All three Guelph representatives insisted that the deal had been made in good faith and Mason recalled he had brought Laufman to Toronto himself.

"He reported but refused to play hockey; that does not constitute reporting," said George Dudley.

RUNS IN PATH OF TRUCK

Ajax, Ont., Nov. 14 (CP) — Gene Puckrin, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Puckrin, suffered fatal injuries yesterday when he ran into the path of a truck driven by his father.

McMillan said that had it not been for Toronto Marlboros there would have been no trouble. He claimed that Laufman understood he eventually would be transferred from St. Mike's to Marlboros.

McMillan said Laufman was told by Marlboros manager staff Smythe that he would play the season out with Marlboros.

Somerville and Mason refused to withdraw charges that there had been collusion between the O.H.A. and the Toronto Maple Leafs organization. The committee withheld decision until the case is heard by the entire executive later.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There is danger of repeating myself about two bid responses. But each day adds another pointer on the subject. So, here again is the rule and a step further.

In answer to an opening bid of two in a suit, responder says two no-trump if he has no sure trick. Then he follows T-A-N until game is reached. T-A-N means takeout, assist, no-trump. If responder has a sure trick, he follows T-A-N at once. And he continues to follow T-A-N until game is reached. Thus does he admit or deny, a sure trick before showing other values.

Suppose responder first replies with two no-trump and then has no takeout or assist. What does he do next? There is nothing left but no-trump. So, he bids three no-trump.

Suppose responder has a sure trick but no takeout or assist. He must not bid two no-trump because it would deny a sure trick. So his first reply is three no-trump.

Typical of this is the north hand shown here:

♥ 10 6 4 2
♦ A 4 3 2
♣ 5 4 3 2

South opened with a bid of two spades. North has a sure trick. But he has no biddable suit for a takeout. Nor has he adequate aid for spade assist. And he must not bid two no-trump.

So, what does he do? He must bid no-trump or lie about some suit. And he should not lie. So, he bids three no-trump. This is how his partner learns of the sure trick with no T or A.

South does not yet know whether north has a balanced or an unbalanced hand. But he does know that he has a sure trick. And he also knows that north has no biddable suit or spade support.

The bidding may not stop there. South may bid again. If so, what will north, do next? Depends on what south bids. I'll show the pair of hands sent me. It may look better.

ANCIENT ART

Mummy clothes from ancient Egypt show the earliest extant samples of embroidery.

AT THE BELLE — Sneering Lyle Bettger is closely watched by Barbara Stanwyck and John Lund in this scene from Paramount's "No Man of Her Own," the story of a woman engaged in a desperate masquerade. The film is continuing today, Thursday and Friday at the Belle Theatre.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 15—(AP) — While human actors are moaning about unemployment, horses are enjoying a boom.

The vast increase in the production of western pictures for theatres and television has brought a shortage of horse actors. I learned this from Bill Jones, head wrangler at Republic which makes the more horse operas than any other studio.

"Sometimes it's tough to get enough horses," said Jones. "All of the studios get their horses from three big outfits, which have about 175 apiece. Sometimes we have to go to smaller outfits to fill our needs.

"Not just any horse will do. We pick our horses with perhaps even more care than the studio picks its cast of humans."

Lens Louse

He has his own favorites. One of them is the elder Trigger, now 16 years old and "smart as a whip." Another is the horse John Wayne rides in "Rio Grande Command." He's a regular lens louse.

"He'll stand in before the scene starts, acting half asleep," said Jones. "But when he hears the sound of the camera, he perks up and really acts."

The life of a movie horse is long, comparatively speaking. Some of them are still active at the advanced age of 17. They are given extensive training and usually get started in the business until they are three or four.

"I prefer them about eight," said Jones. "By that time, they've about the sense as a man of 25 or 30. They're no longer unpredictable; they've settled down to be what they'll be for the rest of their lives."

AT THE CAPITOL — Pat Goldin witnesses an altercation between Joe Yule and Renie Riano in Monogram's "Jiggs and Maggie in Jackpot Jitters," opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. George McManus co-stars with Yule and Miss Riano. On the same big family program "Trigger, Jr.", starring Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars:

For Thursday, November 16 —

Mars at 8 p.m. in Aries (Aries)— Though the "breaks may not be just what you expected, results can be achieved by stronger effort. Be receptive to friendly suggestions, constructive criticism.

April 21 to May 21—(Taurus)— You may have to put up with some things that go against your inclinations. Be smart, study what's asked of you, you may then be better pleased with the prospects.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)— Mixed vibrations call for astute, clever management of problems. Justice, honesty, always lead though it may take longer than you think it should. Time, patience help to right wrongs.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)— Early care in plans will show improvement in final results. News also should please. Day much easier in personal affairs and business ventures than it first appears.

July 23 to August 22—(Leo)— You won't have to wait long for good returns if you start things promptly and keep that end goal throughout effort, to achieve. Don't brush by minor advantages. Read, then think first.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)— Especially good vibrations to advance your plans, ideas, investments, talents. Don't count on outside help, work things out yourself, but heed good advice.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)— Stellar aspects augur well for financial and vocational success, possibly some new friendship. Stars favor literary, business, investment activities. Avoid needless differences.

(Scorpio) — Sort of divided-against-itself day. Stimulus for the young, caution for elders; tact urged for all in domestic matters. Be sympathetic to new ideas, examine with modern methods.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius)— The morning may have some irritating conditions, but they shouldn't last long. Work on them. P.M. excellent for planning, conferences, making new contacts. Keep trying.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)— You may experience some unexpected setbacks, so do we all at times. Be calm, take life in stride and day will come out okay. Take sane precautions in long trips, secret matters.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius)— Guard health, home, friend ones wisely. Mind investments. Pay thoughtful attention to details. Albeit some hindrances may show up projects, things grow promising with sincere effort.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces)— Configurations indicate hard work ahead. Concentrate on immediate tasks, think before taking on new undertakings. Finish what you have started. Slightly off-beat day tomorrow.

You born today: Business deals and personal affairs will play equally important parts next few months. Scorpio folks enjoy variety, like to be doing things—are insanely energetic. Can generally handle yourselves very well. But don't take on more than health or time permit. Let some things go for others to do and you devote time to things that mean most to you. Can achieve in almost any endeavor. Go ahead well, then push confidently through to success. Get sufficient sleep, worry less. Birth date: John Bright, British Statesman.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

Funny what a glow the possible future had left in Myles heart.

Was the sneeze Fran had heard died up with the disappearance of the sheets of blotting paper? Could be that a person watching the oil had been soaked to the skin and chilled to the bone enough that wasn't the modern explanation of the reason for a cold.

If the sneezer had seen him shut the blotters from the wood box to his roadster, there was something to Fran's suggestion that a search through the village for a wet suit of clothing might bring results. Why not try it out?

He opened the door in response to the "Mew" of the white Persian on the sill outside the window. He laughed as he carefully spread dish towels on the rack to dry as he had been taught by Mrs. Betsy. He slipped on his coat.

"Oh, you've done them," Fran exclaimed from the doorway. She had left from the plaid wool in which she had arrived at the gallery to a cool-looking green shade of the large peridot in the ring on the little finger of her right hand. Pat Sargent, by law and love and possession, plus suit, beside her, hailed him.

"Hi, Myles!" Tweed, the fox terrier set on his haunches, wary, ready any moment to bound after white Persian who was emitting threatening warnings.

"What are you doing out so early in the morning, Miss Sargent?" Myles inquired.

"I'm Mrs. Pat to Miss Phillips. She said I might stay." Patricia clutched Pat's shirt as if she feared forcible separation from her.

"She's my number one helper," Fran answered the question in his eyes. "I give a few moments of leisure time and darned well do clear up—with Pat's assistance —and I find the dishes done."

"And well done, if you ask me. I'm good. While on the subject I will observe that I am a proponent of pronial prize; expert dishwasher, as a cook I have a few specialties, and as a maid I have acquired the newspaper-at-breakfast habit. How's that?"

"Sensational. An A-1 reference Modest about your attainments, aren't you?"

"Jeepers, aren't you two having fun." Patricia's eyes and voice were wistful. "I didn't know anyone laughed or was pleasant in the morning. All the people in our house are cross as two sticks—gee, you should hear Gene—and it's—"

"Tuck this into your thought-box Pat" Fran caught the child's hand in hers. "I love life, but when I get up in the morning feeling as sour that I take the sunshine out of the day for everyone I meet I hope the good Lord will remove me from His earthly scene." Vivid color surged to the soft line of her hair as she met Myles's eyes.

"I'm sorry I let myself go. It is a subject upon which I have definite views."

"I'll say they are definite. They burned the wires. Just for the record if that was aimed at me, I fairly radiate good nature in the morning. Add that to my A-1 reference."

"It was aimed at anyone. It was a long repressed conviction blowing its top."

"If you won't tell her now that he understood why, that Ken had confided that until about 11 a.m. Rebecca Hardin's head made a hill for each person with whom she came in contact. He drew a pipe from his pocket.

"Boy, no matches. Find some for me, will you, Miss Sargent!"

"Look on the desk in my office, Patricia."

"Okay, boss."

Myles waited until the little girl with the dog at her heels was out of sight.

"What did Henry Sargent have on his mind that he couldn't report with your office door open, Fran?"

"Nothing of importance."

"Then why be afraid to look at me when you answer!"

"Who is afraid—deeply afraid now? Afraid of you? Don't be absurd."

"Uh, huh, you're not afraid. We'll leave it there for the present." With the recently realized knowledge of his love for her setting his pulses quick-stepping he was tempted to catch her in his arms and hold her close as she told him. That would wreck the comradely response she was giving him about to know, and in the last night he had broken off the conversation, "being more friendly toward me?" To have asked it would have been crowding his luck.

"Any new developments of the late unpleasantness?" he inquired.

"Did you get the impression during the aforementioned closed door interview that your boss had cooked up another one clue?"

"Y-yes. But I have been ordered not to—"

"Miss Phillips!"

"There he is again. He said he would call me when the fingerprint expert arrives. I must go. Why don't you ask him what he discovered?"

"I don't want to upset him. I'm off by way of the kitchen door. If you discover anything, remember—we are in this mess together. Keep me posted. I'll be waiting for you again. Beat it. I'll be seeing you."

Where start the quest for the wet clothing, he ruminated when he reached the highway. A plane from the nearby airport roared overhead. Cars of every description hummed up and down the main street of the village. A low truck with the Theatre in large letters on the side was filled with a heterogeneous collection of furniture. Borrowing stage settings? Nat had loaned some from Shore Acres.

"Myles!"

From the curb of the sidewalk hatless Tassie Trent in a purple and white striped cotton morning frock hailed him and waved a stout stick.

"Give me a lift!"

"How come you are caught in this crowd, Miss Tassie?" he inquired when the car was once more in motion and the red-headed lady's protesting horns had cooled. "You shouldn't have ventured out alone. Some fool you might have been knocked down. Where do you want to go?"

"Somewhere. We don't have to bawl me out, Myles, I've learned my lesson, I'll never do this again."

"Are you tired?"

"Tired! My eye, I'm sight-sick. But it's give me an idea. I'll introduce a bill in our legislature compelling all hotels to instal a full-length mirror in each room he rents."

"What's the big idea?"

"See that woman on the sidewalk outside? A barrel headed lady in bright blue halter and shorts?" She pointed with her cane. "She has had a full-length view of those fat, bare legs, that spare tire of flesh and heard her comments.

"For the love of Pete, Miss Tassie, soft pedal. She heard you. She's gone."

He took advantage of an opening in traffic to shout after the woman lit blue had stepped into the street with every indication that she was

THIS AGREEMENT made the 8th day of November, A.D., 1950.
BETWEEN
EASTERN GAS SYNDICATE
Hereinafter called the "Syndicate"
OF THE FIRST PART
— and —
THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE
Hereinafter called the "Corporation"
OF THE SECOND PART

WHEREAS the Syndicate desires to produce, distribute and sell gas, manufactured or natural, in the City of Belleville and in the Township of Sidney on the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth;

AND WHEREAS by By-Law duly passed by the Council of the Corporation, which By-law has received the assent of the electors of the said City, the Mayor and Clerk of the Corporation have been authorized to execute, and to affix the Corporate Seal on behalf of the Corporation, this agreement;

NOW THEREFORE THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH that for valuable consideration, the parties hereto mutually covenant and agree as follows:

1. The consent, permission and authority of the Corporation of the City of Belleville and the Township of Sidney granted to the Syndicate by this agreement shall include the right to enter upon the highways, streets, roads, sidewalks, lanes, highways, bridges and other public places now or at any time hereafter within the City of Belleville and the Township of Sidney and to construct, operate, maintain, renew, remove and repair such pipes as the Syndicate may require for the purpose of conveying, supplying and selling gas, and for the purpose of erecting, lighting, power and for any other purpose for which gas may be used or hereafter be used, together with all such poles, wires, fittings, appliances and plants and equipment as are necessary for the transportation and supply of gas.

2. The Syndicate shall have sufficient gas pressure forthwith to enable the Syndicate to supply gas to the satisfaction of the City Engineer of Belleville and the Township Engineer of Sidney, as the Syndicate may require gas for the purposes of the Corporation, and shall not unnecessarily break up or interfere with in the course of construction, repair, alteration, removal or operation of its mains, pipes, plant or equipment any highway, street, road, sidewalk, lane, highway, bridge or other public place, but only such as is necessary for the transportation, supply and sale of gas, and shall make good any settling or subsidence caused by the Syndicate's construction or removal.

3. The Syndicate shall well and sufficiently maintain and save harmless the Corporation from and against all costs, damages, charges and expenses to which the City may be made liable for by reason of or through the construction, repair, alteration, removal or operation of the Syndicate's mains, pipes, plant or equipment, or any of its works, in the course of the exercise of the rights granted to the Syndicate, failing at any time to do so, after reasonable notice in writing by the Corporation may forthwith have such repairs done as it may deem necessary and charge the cost thereof to the Syndicate, certified by the Corporation Engineer.

4. The Syndicate before beginning any new work in the said City under the powers granted by this Act shall lay before the City Engineer a plan drawn to a scale approved by him showing the streets, lanes, highways, bridges and other public places in which it proposes to lay mains and pipes and construct works, and the Syndicate shall not construct it proposes to occupy for any purpose connected with the said undertaking, and shall not lay down any mains and pipes and construct works, except such as are shown on the plans approved of as aforesaid, and any mains and pipes proposed to be laid down by the Syndicate for distributing the materials and discontinue the use of any of the mains, pipes or works of the Syndicate which the Corporation engineer shall certify to be unnecessary for the purposes of the undertaking.

5. Subject as after mentioned, the Syndicate shall use at all times in the City of Belleville and Township of Sidney within thirty sixty (60) days after the completion of the work of construction natural gas to the vicinity of the Syndicate's gas plant in Belleville, and shall supply natural gas through the Natural Gas Conservation Act, or any other Act, rule or regulation or officers, than such rates as may be approved by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, or any other person or body having jurisdiction to fix the rates to be charged therefor, subject to rate hereunder may be made between the Syndicate and any of the other.

6. If the Syndicate fails to commence, in good faith, the work of construction of the said gas works within one year from the date hereof, or within sixty (60) days after the completion of the work of construction natural gas to the vicinity of the Syndicate's gas plant in Belleville, whichever event should first occur, the consent and rights hereby granted in connection therewith shall cease and determine, unless otherwise agreed by the Syndicate, at the option of the Corporation, and the provisions of this agreement shall thereupon be of no further force or effect, save as to the customer's service line.

7. In the event of any disagreement or dispute shall at any time or from time to time arise between the parties to this agreement, the same shall be referred to the arbitration of a person appointed under the Natural Gas Conservation Act, or any other Act, rule or regulation or officers, having jurisdiction in the premises, subject to appeal as provided by law, and the decision of such arbitrator shall be binding by any statute, rule or practice in that behalf.

8. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of any Statute, except section 9 (a) and (b) after sixty to the Municipal Board, the Board of Commissioners of Police of the City of Belleville and the County of Hastings any question relating to the Syndicate or any matters over which the Minister of Municipal Affairs or the Board has been given jurisdiction under the Natural Gas Conservation Act, or any Act or the amendments thereof, arising out of this agreement, or the rights and powers of the Syndicate and such Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter in dispute and the parties hereto shall have the right of appeal from such decision to such Court or the Judge thereof.

(b) In the event of the Syndicate being prevented from carrying out any of its obligations under this Act by reason of any cause beyond its control, the Syndicate shall be relieved from the performance of such obligation during the period of such inability continues, and in the event of the Syndicate being prevented from such disability, such dispute shall be determined in a manner hereinbefore provided. However, that nothing herein contained shall relieve the Syndicate of its duty under Paragraph 2 hereof to well and sufficiently maintain the gas works so that there be any excention or interruption in the supply of gas to the customers of the Syndicate, all streets, sidewalks, lanes, highways and other public places, nor shall anything herein relieve the Syndicate of its duty under Paragraph 3 hereof to indemnify and save harmless the Corporation from all costs expensed or to pay on demand any damages to which the Corporation and certainly by the Corporation by reason of any such default.

9. (a) The rights hereby granted shall be for a term of ten (10) years from the 1st day of May of the By-law, provided that the Corporation may at any time after the expiration of said term for a further term of ten (10) years, and thereafter for successive terms of ten (10) years each, upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed.

(b) The Corporation may not buy franchise for the distribution and City of Belleville and Township of Sidney or any other person, firm or company to lay mains in any highway, street, road, lane, bridge, sidewalk or other public places and may not provide for the sale of gas by any company shall be upon the same terms and conditions as are herein contained.

10. Nothing contained in this agreement shall in any way affect the right of the said Corporation to permit any individual, firm or corporation to supply gas to any person, firm or corporation, but the rights and benefits contained affect the right of any individual, firm or corporation to manufacture, produced distribute and supply gas, electricity, coal gas, methane or any other bodied or natural gas to any person, firm or gaseous form within the limits of the said City and Township of Sidney, except for the purpose of this agreement, and in any matters connected therewith, the Syndicate shall act by the Municipal Solicitor.

11. This agreement and the said By-law shall be subject to the statutes, orders and rules made or to be made by the Board of Commissioners of Police having jurisdiction in the premises.

12. This agreement shall not be binding upon the parties hereto until after the final passing of the said By-law by the Municipal Council and of this agreement by the Syndicate and the Corporation after the final passing thereof.

13. In this agreement the word "engineer" is used in this agreement means the Engineer for the time being and refers to the Engineer in charge of public works and water works of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, or such other engineer or engineers as may be appointed by resolution of the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville.

14. In this agreement the word "Syndicate" means the Syndicate and the said By-law. It shall mean and bind the heirs, executors, successors or assigns.

15. Upon the expiration of this franchise or any renewal thereof the Corporation shall have the right to remove its mains, pipes, plant and equipment from the streets, highways, lanes, bridges, sidewalks, roads and other public places but shall not unnecessarily break up the streets, highways, lanes, bridges, sidewalks, roads and other public places but shall give a reasonable notice thereof to the Syndicate.

16. If Canada becomes engaged in hostilities with which Empire the Municipality may at its option postpone the commencement of the work of removing the gas pipe system referred to in the preceding clause for such period as the Minister after the termination of the hostilities may direct, and the Syndicate shall be entitled to the benefit of the rights granted in connection therewith during such period of time as a good standing.

17. All matters in connection herewith not specifically covered by this agreement or the statutes shall be settled by mutual agreement between the Corporation and the said Syndicate, and in the event that the parties hereto cannot agree upon the matter in dispute, the same shall be settled by reference of Paragraph 9 shall apply.

18. The Syndicate shall not assign the rights granted in connection therewith without the consent of the Corporation, and the parties hereto may at any time amend this agreement by mutual consent.

19. This agreement shall extend to and be binding upon the parties hereto. This agreement and all rights granted hereunder shall be subject to the provisions of the Act.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the said Eastern Gas Syndicate has hereunto presents to be signed by its proper officers and its Corporate Seal of the Corporation has hereunto caused its Corporate Seal to be affixed and these presents signed by the Mayor and Clerk.

Permission Given Phone Company To Increase Rates

New Rates Will Apply Chiefly to Local Services

Ottawa, Nov. 16 — (CP) — The Bell Telephone Company of Canada today was given authority for new rate increases which will jump domestic and residential local charges in Ontario and Quebec for the second time this year.

The Board of Transport Commissioners granted the long series of increases of varying amounts effective next Jan. 1 — aimed at giving the company an additional $25,700,000 a year in gross revenues.

Most of this amount, slightly more than 30 per cent of the company's total revenues, had been provided for in "interim" increases awarded by the board July 9. That judgment sent up long distance, private line and other miscellaneous rates.

Final Judgment

Today's final judgment — dealing with an application filed by the company a year ago — applies chiefly to local charges for domestic and residential services, which in the July 9 decision had been boosted by 50 per cent of the amount sought by the company. Now Bell has authority to increase them by the other 50 per cent it sought.

This means that domestic and business charges for local calls will go up by half the same amount they rose last summer.

Immediately after the decision came down, Bell officials announced they were ready to put the increases into effect from Jan. 1, giving 30 days' statutory notice.

While the over-all effect of the two board decisions means a gross increase of about 21 per cent in company revenue, the increases vary widely from a matter of pennies to dollars a month.

Generally, they are heavier in the big cities than in small towns and usually through the towns and villages.

Bell's one-party residential rate in Toronto and Montreal now will be $4.75 a month, up $1.50 over the rate before July. The increases in this type of service are ranging from as low as 50 cents a month for phones in the smaller exchanges.

For communities such as Peterborough, Ont., the rates now will be $3.75 to $3.75.

Communities of the size of Chatham, Ont., get an increase from $2.50 to $3.50.

The decision also removes distinctions in certain rural party-line and hand sets, whereby the older-type phones cost less than the hand sets. All will now be charged the same rate per month.

Special Brigade To be Inspected On November 23

Fort Lewis, Wash., Nov. 16—(CP)—Brig. J. Y. (Rocky) Rockingham says Canada's 10,000-man Korean Brigade likely will be on parade for its first inspection as a major formation on Nov. 23.

The kilted commander of the Dominion's United Nations force gave this progress report yesterday in an interview after inspecting an honor guard of 500 U.S. army combat engineers.

This was Brig. Rockingham's official welcome to Fort Lewis, where his force will be stationed for "thorough training."

Force members, abandoning camps from Ontario to British Columbia, began pouring into Fort Lewis today by troop train.

After taking the salute yesterday, the brigadier was received by Brig.-Gen. Leroy H. Watson, fort commander.

The advance guard, meanwhile, has made the GI's Canada-conscious.

Troops in the many service clubs the camp has been entertained by touring French songs from members of the staging company of 40 soldiers that arrived here some time ago.

Expect Light Vote In Olds, Alberta

Olds, Alta., Nov. 16 (CP) — A dull campaign, marked by the fact that are expected to produce a light vote in today's provincial by-election in the Olds constituency of central Alberta.

The 7,500 eligible voters must brave cold, snowy weather to reach the 40 polling stations. Temperatures will range from 10 to 15 above.

The pre-election campaign has been free issuing by the two farmer candidates—Fred J. Nidaris of Mound, Social Credit, and Martin Wishlow of Olds, Liberal.

The seat was left vacant b, the death last summer of Norman Cook, Social Credit member since 1940. He died almost at the same times the combined vote of his Liberal and CCF opposition on re-election in 1948.

Present standing in the Alberta legislature is: Social Credit 51, Liberal 3, CCF 2, Independent 1, Social Credit 1, Independent 1, vacant 1. Total 57.

VALUABLE DEPOSIT

Ottawa, Nov. 16 — (CP) — A valuable deposit of vermiculite has been discovered at Stanleyville, Ont., about 60 miles southwest of Ottawa, the Mines Department announced today.

Vermiculite, a hydrated form of mica, is used as thermal insulating and sound-proofing material and has many other applications.

Canada now imports the mineral from South Africa and United States.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 16 (CP) —Synopsis: The warm air from the gulf has nearly completed its stay. A disturbance moving northeastward through Lake Superior this morning will bring cooler air to from Western Canada. Ahead of this disturbance northern Ontario will have light rain and mild weather which will turn sharply this afternoon. South and central areas will have a few showers this morning, many intervals and above average temperatures this afternoon.

REV. J. FOOTE V.C., IS APPOINTED TO ONTARIO CABINET

Succeeds W. Hamilton As Reforms Minister

Toronto, Nov. 16 (CP)—Premier Frost today announced the appointment of Rev. J. F. Hamilton as Ontario Minister of Reform of Rev. John Foote as his successor.

Maj. Foote, 46, member of the legislature for Durham and winner of the Victoria Cross as a Canadian army chaplain at Dieppe, was scheduled to be sworn in at 3 p.m.

Mr. Hamilton, 48, will become vice-president and general manager for Canada of the Paul Revere Life Insurance Company of Toronto. Premier Frost said Mr. Hamilton will resign his seat in the Ontario House without portfolio and will continue to represent the riding of Wellington South.

He will be a member of the Ontario delegation to the federal-provincial conference which resumes in Ottawa Dec. 4.

Leaving L. C. Bosch

Maj. Foote is resigning as deputy chief commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Control Board.

Mr. Frost said Mr. Foote, although retiring as deputy liquor commissioner, "will continue to do the important work in which he is presently engaged relating to the cure and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

Maj. Foote, Presbyterian clergyman, is believed the first VC. winner to enter Ontario's cabinet. He was born May 5, 1904, at Madoc, Ont., and was educated at the University of Ontario Institute, London; Queen's University, Kingston, and Emmanuel College, Montreal. He was married in 1929 to the former Edith Sheridan of Belleville. He was elected to the legislature in the 1948 general election.

WINTER EMPLOYMENT

Cleveland, O., Nov. 16 — (AP) — The U.S. Employment Service Office announced a program aimed at getting winter employment for 15,000 Great Lakes sailors and keeping them available for lake work next spring. Shippers, under the scheme, will give sailors cards directing them to the employment offices near their homes. The offices would assign them to jobs temporarily in defence and ship repair firms.

Child Undergoes Successful Surgery Main Heart Artery Was Blocked

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The case of a youngster child ever to undergo successful surgery for a usually-fatal heart condition in which a main artery is blocked today.

Dr. Chester P. Lynxwiler of St. Louis University School of Medicine said a 41-year-old girl, operated on last week, now is ready to go home from St. Mary's Hospital here.

The primary condition involved was coarctation, or virtual blockage of the main heart artery, complicated by a growing failure of blood-pumping vessels within the child's tiny heart. The blockage is a congenital condition in which the heart at birth they develop. It while still in the mother's womb, the cause is unknown.

Dr. Lynxwiler said the majority of infants having such a blockage die within a few days the combination of heart failure, and reach early childhood without ill effect.

But or those who develop the complication in the first half year of life, he said, about 90 per cent die within the year.

Attempts at surgical operation in such cases have failed because vent death in all instances except the youngest child ever to

Investiture of Dalai Lama In State Ceremony Planned To Unify Resistance to Reds

New Delhi, Nov. 16. (AP)—The 15-year-old Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal head of communist-invaded but still-unconquered Tibet, will be invested with full powers at a state ceremony in Lhasa tomorrow, a reliable Indian source reported today.

This source said the rites were advanced by more than a year to enable the Dalai Lama to try and unify resistance against the communist Chinese invaders. Normally a regent is in control until the Dalai Lama is 18.

Simultaneously, it was learned that Tibet has named a delegation to carry the Himalayan country's appeal for United Nations intercession before that organization.

India is unofficially reported to have agreed to support her imperilled neighbor's case, but government sources today merely said the matter is "still under consideration."

Today's ceremony will resound to the clamor of hundreds of great Tibetan gongs throughout the 12,000-foot-high capital of Lhasa. Yellow-and-purple-robed Lamas will play leading parts.

Pravda Claims MacArthur Drawing Up Pact With Japan

Moscow, Nov. 16—AP—Pravda says today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur is drawing up a secret pact with the Japanese government providing for a 30-year American occupation of Japan on a large scale rearmament of Japan.

The communist party newspaper says the United States will grant a $1,000,000,000 loan for militarization under terms of the secret pact—and in addition all the weapons required to equip Japanese forces.

Pravda says in a dispatch from Shanghai by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, that word of the negotiations became known through reports from Tokyo.

The newspaper says the long-term agreement provides for:

U. S. occupation troops comprising five divisions to remain in Japan for more than 30 years and "stipulating the retention under the flag of United Nations troops;

An anti-communist pact between the South Korean and Japanese governments;

Japanese participation in an aggressive Pacific pact forced by the United States.

Burial of Pilgrim Victims Of Alpine Crash is Proposed At Church in Nearby Hamlet

Corbe de la Pigne, France, Nov. 16 (CP) — Maj.-Gen. George Vanier, Canadian Ambassador to France, today said permission will be sought to bury the victims of the Canadian pilgrim air disaster in the nearby church of Notre Dame de La Salette.

"We shall consult the relatives of the victims in order to find out in agreement with this decision," he said.

There were 14 Roman Catholic priests among the 58 persons killed when their chartered four-engine airliner crashed into high peak of the French Alps Monday. They were also 60 Holy Year pilgrims from Quebec province, a Canadian crew of seven and one American aboard the ill-fated craft.

All the three bodies have been recovered from the wreckage, strewn over a 500-yard area high on the Corbe, a jagged peak in the mountainous area of southwestern France. The 55 bodies recovered were brought down 3,000 feet to this hamlet yesterday in a cable way normally used for logging.

Rabbi Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, who arrived yesterday from Rome, was attending identification today.

Village women, shawls over their heads, stood in slush and sleet as the remains were carried to the schoolhouse, where Msgr. Roy bent over them. They were then taken to the candle-lit church, where a special service was held this afternoon.

French aviation officials have opened an inquiry into the crash. One said the pilot aircraft was flying at 9,000 feet "and only a navigation error can account for the crash."

He added: "A page from the log book said the weather was bad. Snow and another note carrying the pilot's last entry said 'it is raining.'"

The three bodies not recovered yesterday are thought to have fallen into an ice crevasse from which they possibly may never be recovered.

Grateful to West, Won't be Wooed From Communists

—Tito

London, Nov. 16 — (AP)—Marshal Tito says Yugoslavia is grateful for help received from western countries but has no intention of being wooed away from communism.

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, said Tito set forth this view in an address in Belgrade yesterday.

Both Britain and the United States recently have made large loans to Yugoslavia over a threatened winter famine, following a severe drought. Tito, who is the Kremlin's dogbone because of his refusal to toe the line laid down by the Kremlin, told the veterans:

"We remain loyal to our principles. We have not given any concessions and not deviated in any way from the line of marxism by requesting assistance from those who we believe would give it to us."

West Brings Tanks, Troops To Berlin

Berlin, Nov. 16—(AP)— The western powers brought British, American and French troop reinforcements to Berlin and announced they will arm German police here with sub-machine-guns and automatic rifles.

As German school children waved welcome, eight 33-ton comet tanks rolled from a freight train to the British armored force garrison. Shortly afterward the American soldiers also arrived by rail.

The allied Kommandaturs (the three western commandants) announced it would equip and train the 13,800 police force in west Berlin with sub-machine-guns, automatic rifles and rifles.

This is "in the interests of Berlin security", the Kommandatura said. It described the weapons as "types normal to a modern police force."

AUSTRALIA WANTS DISARMED JAPAN AND PACIFIC PACT

Demands Pact Include The United States

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 16. (AP)—Australia wants two things in the Pacific—a disarmed Japan and a Pacific pact that includes the United States.

Will she get both? Many people here believe Japan looks an easy conquest for Communist expansion poses a new threat.

There is a feeling in Canberra that Australia may use the promised talk of a Japanese peace treaty as the basis for "horse trading" with the United States.

The Australian people have a deep-rooted fear of the Japanese. They believe Japan has a well-trained big country of only 8,000,000 people as an ideal place to settle millions of Japanese from their overcrowded Islands. And Australia is determined to keep this country "white".

Australian leaders have been slow to forgive Japan for its misdeeds in the Second World War, but the government does want an early peace treaty.

Just months ago Australia's Minister for External Affairs, Percy C. Spender, went on record as saying the attitude of the United States towards Japan "does not quite accord with the wishes of the Australian government."

Spender's misgivings were directed at the U.S. policy of giving of gradually increasing measure of responsibility to the conduct of internal and even some external affairs to the Japanese government.

Sounds Out Possibilities

Spender recently has been sounding out treaty possibilities in personal interviews in Britain and the United States.

As far as can be seen here he has been plugging the Australian line—that there should be an orderly lifting of the Japanese problem at a formal peace conference, rather than a general relaxation of control.

He has already expressed a fear that gradual easing of restrictions might lead to Australia being presented with a fait accompli.

This Australian view is opposed to the United States view that a peace treaty should be the basis of defence in the Pacific. Some observers feel that a peace treaty, therefore, will be determined primarily by what safeguards it provides against the resurgence of Japanese militarism.

EXPRESSES REGRET

Toronto, Nov. 16 — (CP)—The Canadian Council of Churches has sent a wire to Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec, expressing regret at the death of 25 Canadian pilgrims to Rome in the crash of an airliner in Southern France last Monday.

Tokyo Becomes Paradise For Those Seeking to Beat Cost of Living

Tokyo, Nov. 16. (CP)—Tired of the cost of living? Come to Japan and get away from it all.

It is one continuous Christmas for Canadians here. Every day you see them staggering back to their hotels and homes under a load of parcels, bragging of what they got for what they paid for this and that.

Although the shopping street for foreigners here is the Ginza,

On this teeming thoroughfare are the big department stores and select shops that deal usually in the finer lines each. Occasionally if you want good china, you select a store that deals only in that. A good dinner set cost about $45. You'd pay at least $200 for it in Canada.

Cultured pearls that would cost $800 at home can be picked up here for $200. Cameras are comparatively cheap. Silk kimonos, several ties, a pair of shoes, three towels, stockings and winter underwear. Total outlay: $45.

The Ginza is a fascinating street. There are not only the stores, but hundreds of persons set up booths on the sidewalk to hawk their wares. Their stuff is not nearly as good as one can buy in the stores. They occasionally use lights on a bargain.

At one time the sidewalk traders got run in the big stores out of business. Now they are not allowed to occupy their booths until 5 p.m. they close around 9 p.m. Sunday is a work day here and the Japanese take Monday off.

The main sport of shopping on the Ginza is haggling in sign languages with the boothmen. Usually, you can get an article for two-thirds of the price originally asked.

All this, of course, is not for the man-in-the-street Japanese. He makes about 200 yen a day—about $20 Canadian.

The stores are filled with travellers and shameless boys. Most of the newsboys, incidentally, are women. Newsprint is hard to come by and the newspapers are tabloid size and thin.

There are four means of transportation—subway, bus el and streetcar. Allied forces are not allowed in the subway, mainly because they are not too clean.

The subways are much the same as Canadian trains, but the engines are smaller and freight cars are more like the small "goats" of Europe.

Americans Drive To Within 20 Miles Manchuria Border

Some Advance Four Miles Without Firing a Shot

Seoul, Nov. 16 (AP) —United Nations forces drove forward all along the cold North Korean war front today.

Breaking advances of as much as five miles in the northeast carried Americans to within 20 air miles of the Manchurian border.

On the northwest front, troops of three countries comprising the entire U.S. 1st Corps moved through a silent storm. They met no foe as much as four miles without firing a shot.

The Republic of Korea (Rok) 1st Corps established the left centre of the front with short fighting.

In Thursday's biggest push the U.S. 7th Division fought five miles forward in the frozen Pungsan Hills in the northeast corner. Tanks and artillery supported infantry.

The drive placed the 17th infantry regiment in force along the 41st parallel, only 20 air miles south of the Manchurian border.

In the extreme northeast, the Rok Capital Division broke up a North Korean counter attack at noon. The Roks then drove two miles forward to the left flank.

U.S. Marines clashed with a sizable communist force on the west coast. The 1st Marines pushed back the North Koreans, but stopped short of pushing behind the South Korean lines, had stripped back in the North Korean front and shoved the right flank back.

Wipe Out Half Battalion

Warships and planes of the U.S. cruiser Rochester and rockets of marine and naval planes wiped out a North Korean half battalion which made the amphibious landing.

The red battalion, made up of North Korean Marine officer candidates, was destroyed at Chonghin, landed from small boats to bulwark a heavy land attack along the 15-mile, snow-covered northeastern front. Communists punched holes in the South Korean line before they were checked.

Temperatures on the western front rose from near zero to above freezing. This was the day the Reds launched their spring thawing sleet.

On the extreme left flank, the South Korean 1st Division moved up nearly four miles along a four-mile front to within easy gunshot of Pakchon.

A native of Vancouver, Mr. Sunley was educated in Winnipeg, received an arts degree from the University of Manitoba. He holds a master of arts degree from the University of Toronto. He makes his headquarters at Hamilton with the Canadian Division offices of the can manufacturing firm.

Fishing Nets Valued at $350 Are Confiscated

Seven fishing nets valued at approximately $350 which have been confiscated by district game wardens following their being found in the Bay of Quinte waters. The fishing nets were discovered in the bay extending west from Deseronto and off the Mohawk Indian reservation.

Detachment officers of the RCMP and from local headquarters of the Ontario Provincial Police, assisted by five game wardens made the investigation which resulted in the nets being confiscated. Game Warden Fred MacDonald of Point Anne stated that charges would be laid against the owners of the nets which apparently had been set to catch white fish.

One Happy Family Here Self-Educated, Peaceful, Lets Rest of World Go by

There is, at least, one happy family in this city. Its members, swelled numerically from time to time by unexpected visits of relatives, have no worries.

They come and go as they please. They "tell not, neither do they spin." They're exempt from income tax.

Housing problems do not bother the even tenor of their way. The cost of living is the least of their worries.

Food is cheap, in fact it goes past their domicile every day and all they have to do is reach for it. Occasionally when the weather is bad they go on food-hunting forays, but none of them has died of starvation.

No Clothing Worry

The clothing question does not bother them. They wear the same garb the year round, Sunday and week-day.

Non-believers in higher education, they nurture their offspring until they are bold enough to fend for themselves, and leave them to their own devices.

Health and life insurance are unknown to them. They have no need for doctors, as sickness does not affect their lives. When the time comes for them to pass on, they leave quietly for mine secluded spot and pass away. Accidents sometimes shorten their life expectancy.

They wouldn't give a plugged nickel to see the World Series, the Grey Cup final or the Stanley Cup playoffs. Their only sport is fishing and flying.

They are intensely loyal to their own. Daily lookouts are posted at strategic spots. If danger approaches, warning is given and the family leaves en masse until it is past.

None Can Drive

Automobiles? Phooey. They could not be coaxed to enter one. In fact none of them can drive a car. They're modernistic as far as transportation is concerned. They fly or stay at home.

They are self-educated. They have no need for "schools and teachers."

They are not quarrelsome by "spat" occurs when one member "spat" occurs when one member of the family refuses to share a food tidbit. Generally speaking, they are quiet, reserved and the fuse to be drawn into argument.

The sky is their roof and the horizon their walls. Firm believers in the life of the great outdoors, they would probably plan away should they be confined in a building. They are definitely claustrophic.

But they are happy living their own lives and letting the rest of the world go by with its worries and ills.

Yep, the small stony island in the centre of the Motra River in the north of the Canadian Pacific Railway Bridge is a Utopia for its family of gulls.

Marriage Proposal Is Among Replies To Greeting Balloons

The Hague, Nov. 16—(Reuters)—A proposal of marriage and a bill for treating a horse that ate a balloon are among replies received here to more than 70,000 greeting balloons sent out by the organization for European Economic Co-operation.

The proposal came from a 20-year-old girl somewhere in Europe" who said she would like to become acquainted with the sender "as perhaps we can arrive at a happy marriage."

The bill came from France. A horse-owner demanded 3,500 francs (about $10) to pay a veterinary who treated his horse. The horse, he wrote, became ill after eating the balloon.

The balloons were released during a tour by a mobile exhibition of the O.E.E.C. from the southern Netherlands. Many hundreds of replies were received.
